

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2007 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

Cambridge under Queen Anne

CAMBRIDGE UNDER QUEEN ANNE

ILLUSTRATED BY MEMOIR OF AMBROSE
BONWICKE AND DIARIES OF FRANCIS BURMAN AND ZACHARIAS CONRAD VON UFFENBACH

EDITED WITH NOTES

BY

J. E. B. MAYOR, M.A.

LATE FELLOW OF ST JOHN'S COLLEGE, AND PROFESSOR OF LATIN IN THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

WITH A PREFACE

BY

MONTAGUE RHODES JAMES, LITT.D

PROVOST OF KING'S COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge

Published for the Cambridge Antiquarian Society by DEIGHTON, BELL & CO. AND BOWES & BOWES
LONDON: G. BELL & SONS, LTD.

1911

CAMBRIDGE
PRINTED BY JONATHAN PALMER
ALEXANDRA STREET

PREFACE

The book which is here given to the world, begun many years ago, but still in an unfinished state, is one for which Cambridge antiquarians have often longed. Dr H. P. Stokes and the Rev. F. G. Walker—to whom the best thanks of all of us are due—have been responsible for the arrangement by which the printed sheets have been transferred to the Cambridge Antiquarian Society; and I have gladly complied with the suggestion of Mr Bowes that I should write a short prefatory note for the volume.

Originally the work was intended by Professor Mayor to be a collection of three tracts—the memoir of Ambrose Bonwicke, and the visits to Cambridge of F. Burman and Uffenbach—and it was to have borne the general title of Cambridge under Queen Anne. As time went on, however, Professor Mayor found himself unable to complete the notes to Uffenbach's narrative, and eventually published the Life of Bonwicke by itself in 1870. The first paragraph of his introduction thereto explains his intentions with regard to the remainder :—

“This volume is extracted from Cambridge under Queen Anne, which will also comprise visits to London, to Oxford, and particularly to Cambridge, by Francis Burman in 1702, and by Zacharias Conrad von Uffenbach in 1710. The complete work is printed mainly for such of my private friends as are interested in the history of the Universities, and in the advancement of learning and science.”—S. John's, 30 Sept. 1870.

Of the portion which was then held back some few friends obtained copies through Professor Mayor's kindness, and these fortunate persons recognised at once to what a mine of information about the scholars of Cambridge—nay, of Europe—of two hundred years ago they had gained admittance. I do not know whether it continued to be Professor Mayor's intention to write the last part of his commentary on Uffenbach, or whether he had definitely laid it aside. At any rate it seems certain that he sent no copy to the press later than 1871. Mr. Palmer, the printer, has discovered part of another sheet that had been in type for some years and then taken down, and this is now reprinted, and forms pp. 517—530 of the present volume; but beyond that it is believed that no continuation is to be found among Professor Mayor's papers. What remained to be written was the commentary on about 40 pages of Uffenbach ; 37 had been treated, and the notes on these occupy about 120 pages, so that at least as much again might have been expected. A great deal of the space would probably have been occupied by collections about Whiston and Sike, who are both mentioned in the text.

The narratives of Burman and Uffenbach, around which Professor Mayor has heaped up the riches of his learning, have long been accessible in print. That of Burman is inconsiderable ; Uffenbach's teems with interesting detail. He was an enthusiastic explorer of libraries and, in particular, of collections of manuscripts. I have had frequent occasion to compare the lists which he gives of manuscripts in our college libraries with the existing collections, and have had pleasure in finding that not more than half-a-dozen volumes which he saw have disappeared. Uffenbach is not always just in his account of the condition of the libraries he visited, as Dr. Venn has shewn in the case of Caius College ; and his diary is full of girdings and sniffings at the people and things he sees. But though I suspect he was tiresome, I take him not to have been a disagreeable man on the whole. I may add that the manuscripts which he himself collected are now at Hamburg ; it would be interesting to know whether the leaf of a Latin Josephus (Dd. 1. 28 in the University Library) which the "beadle or library-keeper" gave him (see p. 157) is still among them.

The commentary, however, and particularly the biographical part of it, immensely outweighs the text both in bulk and importance. Burman furnishes Professor Mayor with material for interesting notes on University ceremonies (p. 325), on Henry James, President of Queens' (332), and on Thomas Smoult (334). Uffenbach of course gives him more scope. I may be forgiven for calling attention to some of the most important of the persons dealt with: Ferrari (p. 411), Fr. Redi (417), Bentley and Le Clerc (421, 26), W. Bedwell (438), Th. Gale (448), Jo. Davies (450), Richard Laughton (456), Covell (470), Augustine Lindsell (478), Meric Casaubon (482), Erpenius (484), and, lastly, Edmund Castell, the collections concerning whom occupy pp. 487—530. The industry which has brought together from the most diverse quarters the materials which throw light on the career of all these persons is astounding, or would be astounding if we did not already know what Professor Mayor was capable of achieving—how wide a net he cast into the sea of literature, and how little he was disposed to reject as useless whatever that net brought in.

This work well merits its place beside the other wonderful accumulations of learning which we owe to the same hand ; and it sharpens our regret for the great gatherer of knowledge whom we have lost.

M. R. J.

September, 1911.

John Eyton Bickersteth Mayor.

Born 28th January, 1825.

Died 1st December, 1910.

CONTENTS

	PAGE
PREFACE by Dr. MONTAGUE R. JAMES ...	vii—xi
AMBROSE BONWICKE :
LIFE BY HIS FATHER, 1729      ...      ...	1—112
NOTES ...      ...      ...      ...      ...      ...	199—308
(Published separately in 1870.)
FRANCIS BURMAN :
DIARY OF VISIT TO CAMBRIDGE IN 1702	113—120
NOTES ON THE CAMBRIDGE VISIT      ...	324—338
Cambridge Coaches, Audley End, Commencement, Creation of Doctors, J. Laughton, Kuster, John Mill, Thomas Smith, Henry James, Thomas Smoult, Oxenham, Chr. Greene, Jas. Talbot, &c.
LIFE AND EXTRACTS FROM THE DIARY OF VISIT TO LONDON ...      ...      ...	309—324
Lambeth, Gresham College, Newton, Dr. Thomas Smith, Abp. Tenison, Bentley, &c.
VISIT TO OXFORD ...      ...      ...      ...	319—321
Dr. John Wallis, Halley, Burnet, Convocation, &c.

ZACHARIAS CONRAD VON UFFENBACH :

	PAGE
DIARY OF VISIT TO CAMBRIDGE IN 1710	121—198
Trinity, Clare, St. John's, King's, Caius, University Library, Queens', Sidney, Trinity Hall, Emmanuel, Peterhouse, Pembroke, St. Catharine's, Christ's, Corpus Christi, Jesus, Bentley, Baker, Covel, Whiston, &c.
NOTES ON THE CAMBRIDGE VISIT	... 410—530
Nimtsch, Cambridge, Trinity Library, St. John's Library, Coffee Houses, Caius, Bentley, Beza, Public Library, Hickes, St. Mary's, Baker, R. Laughton, Covel, Castell, &c.
LIFE	... 341—347
TRAVELS IN ENGLAND	... 348—410
St. James's Park, Chelsea, Haymarket, Paternoster Row, Flamsteed, Busch- mann, Nimtsch, Karger, Burg, St. Paul's, English Sundays, The Tower, Cock- fighting, Winstanley, Little Britain, Temple, Bull-baiting, Edzardi, George Holmes, Benedetti, Westminster Hall and Abbey, Hauksbee, St. Evremont, C. Du Puy, Bear-garden, Gresham College, Quakers, Epsom, Tenison's Library. Queen Anne, Cotton Library, Old Bailey, Petiver, London's Diversion, Bp. Moore, Marlborough, Geo. Hickes, Buddle, Asgill, Rochester, Grabe, Book- sales, Dandridge, Woodward, Dancing Ape, Pitt Diamond, Concert, Beverland, Sloane, Harwich, &c.

Contents

XV

UFFENBACH—continued.

PAGE

VISIT TO OXFORD ... 374—395

The Bodleian, Exeter, Jesus, Thomas
Hearne, Ashmolean, Parry, Wadham,
C. C. C., Christ Church, Lavater, Prof.
Frewin, Magdalen, Sacheverell, Woodstock, Merton, Hudson, Races, Lincoln, Physic Garden, Bobart, St. John's, All
Souls', Col. Codrington, Rushworth MS., Brasenose, Pembroke, Carswell, Thomas
Creech, &c.

ETON COLLEGE ... 395

INDEX by G. J. GRAY ... 531—545

---

A PATTERN
FOR

Young Students, &c.

---

A PATTERN

FOR

Young Students

IN THE UNIVERSITY,

Set forth in the Life of

Mr. AMBROSE BONWICKE,

Sometime Scholar of

St. JOHN'S COLLEGE,

IN

CAMBRIDGE.

---

Ἀγωνίζεσθε εἰσελθεῖν διὰ τῆς στενῆς πόλης.—Luke xiii. 24.

---

L O N D O N :

Printed for J. and J. BONWICKE, and STEPHEN AUSTEN, in St. Paul's Church-yard, and F. COGAN, at the Blue Ball without Temple-Bar. 1729.

TO THE READER.

I NEED not apologize, I hope, for communicating to the publick the life of a person so little known to it. The virtues of a private life, tho' they appear not to the world, with all the advantage that those of a publick one do, yet are of more use for its imitation, and perhaps not less difficult to be attained to in a remarkable degree.

*An appearance in the heavens contrary to the usual course of nature, may strike us with surprize, and convince us of a power more than human: but such a power is not less shewn in the constant motion of the planets, and the silent regularity* of the world. Our reason may be affected as much by the one, as our imagination is by the other.*

Every one from a view of such a character as Cicero describes and is here exemplified, will draw the same conclusion.

Ego, si quis, iudices, hoc robore animi atque hac indole virtutis ac continentiae fuit, ut respueret omnes voluptates omnemque vitae suae cursum in labore corporis atque in animi contentione conficeret; quem non quies, non remissio, non aequalium studia, non ludi, non convivia delectarent; nihil in vita expetendum putaret, nisi quod esset cum laude et cum dignitate coniunctum: hunc mea sententia divinis quibusdam bonis instructum atque ornatum puto.

CIC. pro M. Caelio [§ 39].

A PATTERN FOR YOUNG STUDENTS
IN THE UNIVERSITY, ETC.

SUCH examples as this which I am now 1 communicating to posterity being very rare, or, through a faulty neglect, sometimes buried in silence ; I think it my duty to prevent 2 5 the loss of one, and to endeavour to perpetuate the memory of a young man, who in this degenerate age is scarce to be parallel'd. The works of God ought always to be remembered, especially those of his grace ; and a victory ob-10 tained by his favour over the world, the flesh and the devil, is more worthy to be recorded and celebrated than a victory over an enemy in the field, where the carnage of bodies, and the worse havock of souls, must needs create horror 15 to the mind of a good man when he seriously contemplates them.

Ambrose Bonwicke, whose short life I endeavour thus to lengthen as far as I can, was the first-born child of Ambrose Bonwicke, and 20 Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Philip Stubbs, citizen of London, and several years inhabitant of the parish of St. Peter Cornhill, where she had the happiness of improving her piety by her 3 constant attendance on the service, sermons and sacraments, under the most regular administra- 5

 tion of the pious and learned Doctor Beveridge; which piety she early instill'd into this her son, and had the comfort to see it increase to a very great degree. He was born at the master's house adjoining to Merchant-Taylors' school in 10
London, on Wednesday September 30, 1691. and being weakly and in danger of death, he was baptized privately that day sevensnight, October 7. Afterwards when he grew stronger, and able to bear it, he was carried to the parish church 15 on St. Luke's day, October 18. being Sunday; and there received into the congregation of Christ's flock, by the reverend Doctor Whincup then rector. His father being obliged within a quarter of a year after his birth to leave that 20 house, he was carried from thence to Headley in Surrey, where he continued till he was eleven 4 years of age, and laid the rudiments of learning under his father.

Jan. 11, 1702-3. he was admitted into Mer- 25
chant-Taylors' school, and boarded with his uncle Mr. Henry Bonwicke, a bookseller in St. Paul's Churchyard, a man of great piety and probity; by which he had the advantages of being the more acquainted with books, and in- 30 fluenc'd by a very good example. Here he followed his studies regularly, and gained the affection of his master, and all he conversed with : and being pretty well established in piety and virtue, was the better able to proceed in 5 both, even after he had lost his dear uncle's example, which it pleased God to deprive him of, by taking him to himself, after he had enjoyed it somewhat more than three years. He was constant to his morning and evening private 10 prayers, and to the public also, as far as the necessary attendance on his studies would permit. And having been confirmed in due time, and now arrived to the age of seventeen years, tho' he was yet a schoolboy, he would no longer

15 defer his reception of the holy sacrament ; but thus address'd himself to his father in his letter of February 25, 1708-9. " You have told me, " sir, I should not want any helps for my learning (and I do not know that I do want any)
20 " and I doubt not but you will assist me in my " devotions also, and therefore desire you would " lend me a book or two to employ my spare " time in the ensuing Lent ; for I think I cannot " employ too much time in the preparing my 25 " self for the most holy sacrament you intend " I shall, and I desire to receive. If you cannot well spare me a book or two, I shall be " very glad to buy my self one, if you would " but please to send (when you have an opportunity, and can spare time) a line or two of 30 " your advice about the properest books and

“means, for I have no books that are particularly relating to that great affair.”

In this part of a long letter (such as his generally were, as knowing that upon that account they were the more grateful) are evident marks of great piety, modesty and respect for his father. He carefully kept what letters he received, and in one of them I find this answer from his father: “I approve of your whole conduct in the school-affair you mention, as you imagined I would; and would have you comply with every body, especially your master, in all things you can with a safe conscience. If Mr. H. had gone, as he had some thoughts, you should have had Doctor Patrick’s Christian Sacrifice to assist you in your preparation, according to your pious design; but I must wait for some other convenience of sending it. In the mean time the The Whole Duty of Man (which I think you have) and your Winchester Manual, will very well supply that defect.”

I suppose shortly after this he received that excellent book of Doctor Patrick’s, for I find him in a letter March 11, returning many thanks to his father for a book he had just received, and he hopes he shall make a good use of.

According as his custom was at all breakings up, he went to his father’s this Easter, 1709. and there spent the holy week in attending the daily service, and completing his preparation for the holy eucharist. An especial part of which according to the apostle, 1 Cor. xi. 28, is examination, in which he was extraordinary exact from the very first to the day of his death. Having thus begun to communicate at 5 this great festival, he resolved to omit no opportunity of repeating it; and upon his return 8 to London, waited on Doctor Mandevil, the rector of the parish he then lived in, for his approbation, which he readily obtained. He had Doctor

 10 Lake's Officium Eucharisticum handsomely bound up, (which he paid for out of his own little stock) with spare leaves at each end, into which he transcribed prayers and meditations out of Doctor Beveridge, Mr. Nelson, and The Whole
 15 Duty of Man, chiefly for his use at the time of receiving. There was in this, as in all his other devotional books, this distich :*

O Jesu, mea sola fames, mea sola voluptas !

Quam sapis ipse, tui si sapit ipsa fames !

20 To which in this was subjoyn'd the following hexastich :

Fide Deo, dic saepe preces, peccare caveto,

Sis humilis, pacem dilige, magna fuge.

Multa audi, dic pauca, tace abdita, scito minori 9

25 Parcere, maiori cedere, ferre parem.

Propria fac, persolve fidem, sis aequus egenis,

Parta tuere, pati disce, memento mori.

At the latter end of July this year 1709. he removed nearer to the school, and became a parishioner of Doctor Whincup's, who first received him into the congregation of Christ's flock ; and having obtained his approbation, as before he had Doctor Mandevil's, he was for near a twelvemonth, that is to say, all the time 5 he continued at Merchant-Taylors' school, a constant communicant, binding himself by repeated sacraments to the Captain of his salvation, in the same church where he was first listed under his banner. He made the Saturday 10 his ordinary day of preparation, as having then most time at his own disposal, and was concerned 10 when necessary business robb'd him of any part of it. Thus March 4, 1709-10. while Doctor Sacheverel's trial was depending, he concludes 15 a letter to his father, "I have heard "some few particulars, but must beg pardon for "any more at this time, having already, I am "afraid, intruded too far upon a time I had set "apart for a better purpose." Tho' afterwards 20 when he had more leisure, he gave his father a very large account of that trial in two long letters. So upon another preparation day, June 3, 1710. he writes thus: "Going to so many "places I have but little time to spare, and 25 "therefore can't be longer ; hoping at the same "time, that having been about necessary business, and so lately at the communion, (that "is to say, the Sunday before being Whitsunday) "a shorter preparation for tomorrow will be 30 "accepted." He never was concerned for the loss of those sports and diversions which those 11 of his years generally set their hearts so much upon, but his delight was in devotion, and doing his duty ; and he very rarely miss'd the seven o' 5 th' clock evening prayers, and was as constant on holy days at those of eleven in the morning, at a church in the neighbourhood.

* Matth. Casimir. Sarbievii Epigr. CIV.

One of his strongest natural inclinations was to his dear relations, and he was always forward 10 and earnest to visit them upon all vacations :
yet he made even this submit to religion, and moved, in a letter to his mother, that he might stay in town beyond the usual time, for the sake of a sacrament the first Sunday in April this 15 year, though the very next was Easter day.

He had been left captain of the school at the last election 1709. and in October following was congratulated from St. John's with the news of a vacancy there, it being presumed he would 12 20 reap the benefit of it. However, not long after he began to be somewhat dubious of success, his not reading prayers being taken notice of by the master of the company, alderman Ward, who, it was supposed, came to the knowledge 25 of it by the means of some one of the head-scholars, that hoped by putting by Bonwicke to succeed himself. 'Tis the custom of that school for the head-scholars in their turns to read the prayers there ; and among other prayers for the 30 morning, the first collect for the king at the communion service of our liturgy is appointed to be read. This our conscientious lad stuck at, it being indeed one of the most improper prayers in the whole liturgy to be used for a governor whom he thought was not so de iure, as well as de facto. On this account he was frequently attack'd by most of his friends in London, who endeavoured not only to convince him with arguments, but to affright him with the consequences of his not complying. But the heroic youth stood firm against all their assaults, resolving to sacrifice everything rather than his conscience. In a letter to his father, dated February 22, 1709-10. wherein he gave him a large account of what two of his uncles had said to him on this point, he thus expresses himself: "Now tho' I am very well convinced "in my own breast that these arguments are "very false, yet I cannot so well answer to "them, because I do not know whether you "would have me open my self so much as I "must of necessity do, if I go to refute these "arguments; therefore I hear all and say little: "but if you would have me do otherwise, pray "let me know it." And in another place thus: "I am stedfastly resolved to keep to your "opinion, which I take to be the right and my "duty; and I hope God will give me grace and "courage to suffer for the same, whenever it "shall please him to call me to it." To support and comfort him in this trial, he received two days after the following letter from his mother.

“ Dear Ambrose, we are afraid by your letter “ that came by your uncle, that you trouble your “ self too much ; and had that come time enough “ for us to send you orders to come down on 5 “ Tuesday, I believe it had been done, though “ your father thought it would be too great a “ fatigue to return so soon, now the ways are so “ bad. I pity you, supposing you have not one “ friend at London to encourage you, but that 10 “ all blame us and you : I hope notwithstanding,
“ you will take courage and bear up, when you “ consider you had the same fate which you “ now fear, before you were a month old, and “ it has pleased God you have wanted for 15
15 “ nothing since that time ; and therefore you “ have great reason to hope, if you do your “ duty, God will still provide for you some way
“ or other ; we don’t in the least doubt of it.
“ And if you are put by going to Oxford, and 20 “ don’t like Cambridge so well, you may assure “ your self we shall not desire you to go thither, “ nor think you a burthen to us here, where “ you have a good friend to direct you in your “ studies : in the mean time God may raise us
25 “ and you up friends, as he has done to a “ worthy person, which he never knew nor heard “ of before his troubles. So praying God in all “ things to direct and rule your heart, I leave
“ you to his protection, who am,

30 Your Loving Mother,
E. B.

At length the election for this year 1710. came on, and St. Barnabas being on a Sunday, the orations, examinations, and other exercises were performed the day before: in all which our youth came off with a reputation answerable to his post and standing. Particularly his extempore translation of Livy (which was truly so, for he declared he had never read that part of the history before) was so much admired, that Doctor Delaune, the president of St. John's in Oxford, told the master of the school 'twas fit to be printed. On Sunday in the evening they proceeded to the election, and the captain being called in, the master of the company spoke to him in these, or words to this effect: "Mr. Bonwicke, the president and gentlemen who have examined you as a candidate for this election, declare that you have performed your duty very well, and are every way capable of being elected. But the company who are the electors have received information that you have not read the prayers of the school, whether enjoin'd by the statutes or your master I can't tell. The company therefore desire to know of you the reason why you did not read them. You may make what excuse you please, I do not put any thing to you to say, but only the reason why you did not read them." To which he in short answered: "Sir, I could not do it." Upon which the master and several other persons there present, said, It was very honestly said, a very honest answer, the best answer he could give ; and one, that he was very sorry for him. Within a little while after, the second and 5 fourth boys were elected, the third being set aside for having been absent some considerable time from the school since the last election.

Our young confessor bore this defeat serenely and chearfully, and after he had served a long
 10 apprenticeship at the school, having been near 18 seven years and a half there, and above six of them in the head-form, he laid down all his hopes of going to the same university and college of which his father had been, and of
 15 which he had heard so much, (and once had viewed from an adjacent hill) with an evenness of mind becoming the title here given him ; and retired to his father's in the country, where he patiently and industriously assisted him in his 20 business, till the Bartholomew vacation afforded them leisure for a journey to Cambridge; where he was admitted into St. John's college Aug. 25, and had another mortification in seeing several that had been below him at school, superior to 25 him in the university. But this and some others he scarce regarded, being on many accounts so well pleased with his condition. It pleased God to raise him up many friends, and among them one especially, over whom his chamber was, 19 30 who was all along like a father to him in care and kindness, and whose favours were so many,

that there was scarce any letter of the many he wrote home, but mention'd some of them. He had an agreeable chamber-fellow, a very good scholar, a sober and innocent yet chearful companion. But the greatest happiness of all, and what he valued above the honours and profits he lost with his election to the other St. John's, was the frequent returns of the holy sacrament, which he would have miss'd of there, and could not, I think, have enjoyed at any other house in either of the universities, except Christ-Church in Oxford, which being a cathedral as well as a college, is under a double obligation of conforming it self to the fourth rubric after the communion service. Accordingly the second Sunday after his admission, as soon as he was tolerably settled, he address'd himself again to this holy duty, having had no opportunity of communicating since he left London; and 'tis certain from that time he miss'd but four sacraments all the while he was there, two of which happened on state-festivals, and the other two when he was confined to his chamber for the sake of his health.

Just before he left Headley, he had by his dear mother's direction, transcribed into one of the spare leaves in his Officium Eucharisticum, a short prayer for a student, out of Dr. Patrick's book of Devotions for Families, &c. And as soon as his books were arrived, he betook himself heartily to his studies, and pursued them in spite of Sturbridge fair, which made most of the other students idle, and by that means deprived him (for want of auditors) of those lectures and instructions of his tutor, which 5 would have been more grateful to him than any of the diversions of that season. And 21 from that time he followed his studies so close, that in the space of eleven months he had read over all Dionysius's Periegesis, the Oxford edi-10 tion; Virgil to the ninth book of the Aeneis; all Aelian's Varia Historia, as it is printed for the use of Eton school; all Terence, fifty Hebrew Psalms, a great part of Seneca the philosopher, all Burgersdicius's Logic, all the Fasciculus

15 praeceptorum logicorum, Oxon., and half another logic book; all Bussiere's Flosculi historici, all Pindar's Olympic odes, and the four first of the Pythian, the lives of the first three emperors in Suetonius, five books of Pliny's epistles, the 20 dialogue De Oratoribus, by some ascribed to Quintilian, by others to Tacitus; the first book of Ascham's epistles, the first volume of Plutarch's lives, the first volume of my lord Clarendon's history, and some other books;
25 and this not hastily or perfunctorily, but he 22
made his observations as he read them, and transcribed excerpta out of several of them into his adversaria. Besides these, on holy-days he read books of piety, and on Sundays no other, 30 having in the forementioned space of eleven months read all Thomas à Kempis de imitatione

Christi, The Whole Duty of Man, some pieces of Kettlewell, Brome of Fasting, almost all Nelson's Festivals and Fasts, a book that he had a great value for, and which he quickly purchased after his arrival at St. John's; besides several 5 chapters in the Greek Testament, and other parts of the Holy Bible. He had moreover in this time translated into English a Latin sermon of Doctor Henry Byam's, preached before the clergy at Exeter, at the triennial visitation of 10 Doctor Joseph Hall, Bishop of Exon.; and Erpenius's Epistle to the reader before his edition of Ringelbergius, and Erasmus de ratione studii;

23 had made four and twenty Greek or Latin themes, eighteen copies of Latin verses, with some 15 Greek, three Latin epistles, and three epitomes, one of which was of the first part of Eustachius's Ethics, and transcribed into a paper book among his other exercises, but the other two do not appear. Besides all this, his practice was for 20 his improvement in the Greek tongue, to take the Latin translation of an author, either prose or verse, and turn it himself into Greek, either prose or verse; and dividing his paper book into two columns, in one of them he writ his 25 own version, and in the other the author, that so he might see wherein he fell short of the original. And thus had he in the aforesaid space of eleven months imitated a hundred verses of Theognis, four epigrams of Theocritus, 30 and eleven dialogues of Mr. Leedes's Lucian, from the beginning in order, omitting only the eighth and the tenth, (which he had done before he 24 came to the university) and concluding with the thirteenth. And all this, notwithstanding

5 his constant attendance on all the exercise of the house, and his tutor's private lectures. But he was an excellent husband of his time, rising often at four o' th' clock, and sometimes earlier, very rarely exceeding six, and that only when

10 the college prayers were later than ordinary; and never, if he was well, going to bed till near ten. Quickly after his settlement at St. John's he fixed to himself a weekly course of study, as appears from a letter he writ to his father

15 Sept. 14, of that year 1710. "My tutor (says he) "did not talk to me about a method, &c. as "I hear is customary; but I have (thinking it "convenient) proposed to my self one, viz. on "Tuesdays and Thursdays all day, and Saturday

20 "mornings, which are our logic-lecture days, to "read logic only, as being what I most need; 25 "Mondaymornings Greek prose, chiefly Hierocles, "as being read at lecture after dinner: when "that's done, the rest of the afternoon I intend

25 "to turn the translation of a Greek author, prose "and verse, by turns into Greek; Wednesday "morning Latin prose, afternoon Latin verse; "Friday morning Greek verse, afternoon Hebrew; "Saturday afternoon Hebrew, and holy duties.

30 "If you think fit to make any additions or "alterations, pray send 'em. I think also to “make what he calls a commonplace-book, in “which to write observations.”

Within less than a quarter of a year after his coming he was chosen scholar of the house, and the very worthy master, Doctor Gower, told 5 him, 'twas his regular and good behaviour that got him that preferment, and was the likeliest 26 means to get him more. On this occasion a very worthy member of that house wrote thus to his father. 10

Nov. 16, 1710.

“REV. SIR,

“I wish I had been in St. John's to have “received you when you brought your son,
 “who I am glad gives us so very good hopes of 15
 “his being a credit to the society. He brought “me your kind letter the day after the election “was over, and found me very ready to give “him joy of his success, which was better than “his tutor and I first expected. He is chosen 20 “into a scholarship, the value of which will be,
 “while corn holds a good price, pretty consider“able, and was this last year to his predecessor
 “more than double the value of the exhibition
 “he was to have had, which I presume Mr. 25 “Anstey told you was five pounds. Himself or “his tutor may have given you some account 27 “of it already, but might not be able to give “you so exactly the value of it. His exhibition “would have lasted no longer than till he is 30

“batchelor of arts, but his scholarship till master ;
 “and I pray God preserve him to enjoy this “favour of the college till he both deserves “and receives greater. I gave Mr. Roper your 5 “service, who joins in the return of his to you “with,

Rev. Sir,

Your most faithful

Humble Servant,

10 THO. BROWNE.”

Upon this good success our pious youth did not sacrifice to his net, or burn incense to his drag, but gave the glory of it to God alone. For thus 15 he prefaces the account he gave his father of it :
 “I have told you how God has delivered me
 “from trouble : I am now to let you know with “what great mercies he has bless’d me.” And concludes all thus : “I doubt not but you’ll 28 20 “join with me in praying to God to enable me
 “to keep the favour of the master, which by “his blessing I have thus signally gain’d.”

His first and greatest concern after this, was to keep the oath (of observing the statutes of 25 the college) which he had taken when he was admitted scholar. And understanding that some of these were grown into disuse, “so that “it would be ridiculous in him, nay perhaps to “the disturbance of the peace of the college, to 30 “pretend to observe them ; I begun (says he)
 “to doubt whether I could perform my oath,

“and at the same time comply with the customs
“of the college ; and whether, to keep a good “conscience, though with the loss of all my “preferment here, I was not immediately to “quit my scholarship at least, if not the college. 5
“On the other hand I could not think that, if 29 “the governing part and whole college should “annul a law by their practice, one single “scholar was obliged to observe it. However “I could not be free (considering the dreadful 10 “guilt of the most heinous sin of perjury) from “some doubts and scruples, and therefore made “haste to wait on my good friend Mr. R. that “I might know his sentiments. He, I thank “God, has settled my mind, and freed me pretty 15
“well from my scruples. But it being a matter “of the greatest importance to have one’s con“science quiet and at ease, I would, when you “have leisure and opportunity, beg your opinion
“of the case, whether being ready, whenever 20
“my superiors shall require it, to perform every “article of the statutes that concerns me, or “suffer the punishment they shall think fit to “inflict ; and performing to the best of my 30 “power, whatever I can presume they would 25 “have me do, or punish me for not doing ; and “avoiding whatever they would have me not “do, or would punish me if they knew I did,
“and observing whatever else I conveniently
“can ; and being also sorry that all required 30
“by the statutes is not to be performed, I faith“fully perform my oath, and can with a good “conscience acquit my self of perjury. And “whether by the words (faciam ab aliis ob- “servari) which are part of the oath, I am 5 “obliged to tell lads continually their duty as “far as I know it, and also to inform against “transgressors.” To which I find this answer returned by his father: “I know not how to “express my great obligations to Mr. R., par-10 “ticularly from his freeing you from your scru“ples about the statutes, which thing, no doubt,

 “he has well consider’d, and therefore is best “able to give you satisfaction. I herewith “send you our university statutes, in the 195 31
 15 “page whereof you have this matter resolved.
 “The resolution indeed has not the same au“thority in respect of your statutes that it has
 “of ours, but I think the reason is the same “for both. ’Tis the governing part of the 20 “college that must answer for the neglect or “disuse of any statute, the main business of the “juniors, and what I suppose is often enjoyn’d “’em in those very statutes; being obedience:
 “and what you resolve upon in discharge of 25 “your oath, is I believe as much as the found“ress her self, if she were alive, would require “of you. It is out of your province to attempt “a reformation, and would be an affront to “your governors: and the [faciam ab aliis ob- 30 “servari] can never be meant to oblige you to “oppose them. I bless God for his extra“ordinary grace to you in giving you so con-

 32 “scientious a regard to oaths, which I doubt “are generally too much disregarded in both “universities; of which the sad effects are too “visible all over the nation.” In his next to 5 his father he thus expresses himself: “I return “you many thanks, and praise God that I am by “yours, and good Mr. R.’s assistance, now so “well satisfied in a matter of such importance.”

His temperance was always very great, and 10 his fasting and abstinence rather more than his weak constitution could well bear. Yet we shall find him still increasing those rigours, and tho’ at first he contented himself with missing his breakfast, and eating his bare commons on 15
 the church fasts, and his days of preparation for the blessed sacrament; afterwards on the approach of Lent his rules were more severe, which being written in his Officium Eucharisti- 33 cum without any date, might be made about this 20 time, and are as follow. “Remember to ob“serve all Lent with abstinence and retirement,
 “and interruption of visits; and the Wednesdays
 “and Fridays therein, together with the holy “passion-week, with strict fasting. Observe all 25 “vigils with abstinence and prayer, as also “Embers and Rogations; and all Fridays in the “year with strict fasting: but have always re“gard to thy health, and necessary occasions,
 “as travelling and the like. Be not over-scru- 30
 “pulous as to the accidents of place, friends,

“civility, &c. which may sometimes put by thy “stated rules. Be always prepared for charit“able offices ; and let not thy fasts make thee “peevish, affected in them, or self-conceited for 5 “them. Sanctifie all thy actions, especially on “these times, by a holy intention ; and doubt “not but God will bless and accept thee. But “be sure at Lent, and all other fasts, beg his 34 “assistance even to outdo thy self. Obey the 10 “precepts of the gospel, and follow it’s counsels
 “as thou canst. Obey the church.” The abstinence here mentioned respected both the quantity and quality of the food ; and the strict fasting was eating but one spare meal on those 15 days, which was most commonly a dinner in the hall.

Before he had fully spent this Lent according to the foregoing rules, there was an additional sorrow to the solemn one of the season, from 20 the death of Doctor Humfrey Gower, the worthy master of the college, of which he gave his father an account in the following letter.

St. John’s Cambr.

March 28, 1711.

25 “HON<sup>d</sup>. SIR,

“Yours of the 26th I received this even“ing, and agree with you in your opinion of “our late excellent master, for alas our good “friend and benefactor, and the honour of this 35 30 “college and university, died yesterday about

“two in the afternoon. He was last week “thought to be in a fair way of recovery from “the illness I mentioned in my last ; but being “on Monday in the afternoon taken with an “aguish shivering, he thought (they said) him- 5
“self that he should die. He lay speechless,
“and I think senseless too, from four the next “morning : and upon his death you might see “in all faces, deep sorrow for the loss of so “good a governor, except in those loose youths, 10 “who thought he held the reins too tight, and “hope now to be no more punish’d for their “irregularities. The president went the Friday “before to his living at Lynn, to administer the “sacrament there at Easter, but is sent for back 15
“to college ; and a schedule is this day affixed
36 “to the chapel-door to give notice of the va“cancy, and that according to statute 13 days
“hence, viz. on the ninth of April a new master
“will be chosen, and Doctor Jenkin (they say) 20 “will, without opposition, be the man. Thus “has it pleased God to take to himself from us
“a man indeed too good for us, as he had a “little before a better. For to night being in “Mr. R.’s chamber, Before we begin to read, 25
“says he, you shall hear a letter, in which I “have an account of the death of Bishop Ken.
“Here, says he, have I lost another good friend “and acquaintance ; he dyed as he lived, a “plain humble man. And then upon my ask- 30
“ing (that I might give you an account) where

“and when, &c. he took up the letter again,
 “and read the particulars to me thus : he came “hither (to my Lord Weymouth's) on the 9th in “Mrs. Thynne's coach, at whose seat he had 5 “been all the winter, designing for the Bath on 37
 “the 12th, but was hinder'd by the return of his “illness. He had two physicians from the “Bath and the Devizes, and desired to know “their opinion of his condition, for he was not,
 10 “he said, at all afraid to die, and therefore “desired they'd tell him the truth. Upon their “saying there was but small hopes, he replied,
 “God's will be done, and so died the 19th, “leaving order in his will to be buried in the 15 “church-yard of the nearest parish in his diocese “soon after sun-rising very privately; to be “carried by the six poorest men in the parish, “and to have laid over him a plain stone, with “an inscription on it of his own composing, 20 “which the writer did not yet know. He was,
 “according to his order, buried on Wednesday “morning the 21st, at Froome, I think. These “particulars I dare say you have not heard of,
 “if you have of the death of this excellent
 25 “prelate; and therefore that I might the more 38 “exactly remember them, I take this night to “write my answer, and partly because we are “order'd to make verses upon the melancholy “occasion against Saturday, with which I must 30 “necessarily be busied tomorrow, tho' against my “inclination. For tho' such sorrowful subjects

“may be proper, yet I could have wish’d the “puzzling our heads with verses might have “been let alone ’till another time, because they “will be apt to discompose our minds, and “keep out of them better thoughts, and fitter 5
 “for this holy week, especially this latter part “of it. To direct us in the observance of “which, Mr. Anstey sent to all or most of his “pupils on Monday (as Mr. Edmondson had “done to his the week before) a book entitled, 10
 “The Use, Measures, and Manner of Christian “Fasting; especially with regard to the most 39 “holy passion-week; by Mr. Brome one of our “senior fellows, a particular friend to the master,
 “and who always lived in the lodge with him. 15
 “Tho’ I have most of it that’s useful in short
 “in Mr. Nelson, and should have liked Mr.
 “Seller’s book much better to employ my time
 “on this great week, yet I thought it very im“proper to refuse it, and that it were better to 20 “be at a small, tho’ unnecessary charge, than “seem to put an affront on Mr. Anstey and the “author, if not the master also to whom the “book’s dedicated.— I must hastily conclude
 “(it being pretty late) with desiring you to accept 25
 “the duty of,

Your most obedient Son,

A. B.”

To which I shall add what I meet with in his next to his father, of April the 5th, relating 30 to the same subject. "The body of our late

 "excellent master was interr'd on Thursday 40
 "night; but the funeral is not to be performed
 "till next Saturday. He has been a noble 5 "benefactor, having left by his will two ex"hibitions of 10*l.* each; all his books to the "library; his country-seat at Thriploe, valued at "120*l. per annum*, to the master, after the "death of Mr. West his nephew and heir, and 10 "500*l.* to buy a living for the college. Besides "private legacies, as 100*l.* to Mr. Brome, who is "also to have the use of his books as long as "he stays here; to his sizer, and to another
 "who had been his sizer, whom (being a re-15 "lation of Bishop Gunning) he had just made "fellow tho' but middle bachelor, 10*l.* each for "mourning; and five pounds to him who is to "make his funeral oration."

Doctor Robert Jenkin was at the foremen-20 tioned time, viz. Monday April 9. chosen master of the college; whose favour our young student, 41 partly by his own merit, and partly by the recommendation of his good friend and patron
 Mr. Roper, quickly gain'd; yet when he gives 25 his father an account of it, according to his wonted piety, referring all to the first cause, he attributes it to God alone.

He was (as I have already observed) so early a riser, and so constant at chapel, (unless 30 on those few state holy-days that intervened) that he was easily prevailed on by the chapel-

clerk who was indisposed to officiate for him, which he did for almost two months to the satisfaction of the master and deans: but the aforementioned eleven months being now expired, and having kept freshman's-term (as it is 5 there call'd) purely for the sake of the exercise he was to perform in it; he was willing to visit his friends in Surrey, and having obtained his father's leave, went for Headley at the beginning 42 of August: where he with great diligence as- 10 sisted in the instruction of the scholars, and thereby made himself more perfect in the Greek and Latin, especially the grammar of both, and improved in his arithmetick to qualify him for an auditor of the algebraic lecture in their college. 15 During his stay at Headley, it pleased God to take away his youngest sister, whose sickness and death would have been much more afflict- ing, had he been at college at the time: but being near her, he had the satisfaction of know- 20 ing continually how she did, and of contributing his assistance for her recovery, by going himself to consult the doctor (who lived at some distance) as often as it was thought necessary.

At the latter end of October he left Headley, 25 in order to return to St. John's, there to prosecute his studies with the same vigour as formerly, or rather greater. Quickly after his arrival, he 43 gave his father a large account of his journey, and of the kind reception Mr. R. gave him 30 when he waited on him at his chamber. And then after a little college news, goes on thus :

“ Tho’ I could not but be perfectly satisfied
“ with, and very happy in the many kindnesses
“ I received from my mother and you in the 5 “ country, for which I return many and hearty “ thanks ; yet methinks I receive more than “ ordinary satisfaction in being returned to this “ pleasant seat of the muses, where I find my “ books and all things in a very good condition,
10 “ and my self happy at the ethic-table at morn“ ing lectures in the hall. And I think my self “ in duty bound on this day (Nov. 6.) on which “ I was elected scholar, to give annual thanks “ to the Almighty for having most graciously 15 “ afforded me so comfortable a subsistence, and “ such powerful patronage to enable me so “ happily to promote, not only my temporal but 44 “ eternal welfare, in this learned and religious “ foundation. The hopes of being someways
20 “ assisting to the preservation of your health, “ (added to the great satisfaction I always re“ ceive in seeing my dear relations) for the con“ tinuing of which, I earnestly beg of you to “ listen to the frequent good motions of my dear
25 “ mother, will be the only allurements to draw “ me hence.” At length he concludes thus :
“ Now that God of his infinite mercy would “ preserve you and my mother in health and “ happiness, and all your children in their duty 30 “ to you both, and love to one another, and “ bring us all to eternal happiness, with all our “good friends hereafter, is the earnest prayer

“of, &c.”

Tho’ almost every hour of his time was already taken up with the public prayers and exercise of the house, with his tutor’s lectures, 5
45 his private studies and devotions, and the necessary care of his health ; yet considering how useful the understanding the French tongue would be to him for the reading those many excellent books which are daily published in that language 10 concerning all sorts of learning, he betook himself to the study of it after the Christmas holidays were over, under the direction of a French master : and was so good a proficient, that in a short time he could read a French author ; 15 and having purchased the bishop of Cambray’s Telemachus, and Boileau’s works, he had read more than five books of the former before his second journey into Surrey.

He had a younger brother, who, if he had 20 succeeded at Merchant-Taylors’, was to have followed him that way to St. John’s in Oxford, but now was design’d by his father to be sent to him to Cambridge, so soon as there should 46 be a vacancy for him in the chamber he was in. 25 Having about this time a prospect of it by his chamber-fellow’s taking his degree, with a design of leaving the college quickly after, he immediately gave his father notice, but withal desired leave for the admission of a third, (the chamber 30 being capable) a very sober studious lad, who was become also a constant communicant, and being troubled with a bad chamber-fellow, was very desirous to be with him, that so they might both avoid worse company. To this proposal

5 of his, his father made the following objections, in a letter dated February 4, 1711. “I thank “you and your tutor for the promise of the “chamber for Phil. and think there may be “some conveniencies in admitting a third, but 10 “there may also be some inconveniencies which “I shall lay before you. By the grace of God
“this lad may continue very good, and your “society may contribute towards it; but should 47
“it be otherwise, you will not know how to 15 “get clear of him again. Besides, if he be not “exactly of your principles, tho’ he be other“wise very good, ’twill be very inconvenient;
“and you cannot at all times converse so freely
“with your brother, as ’twill be necessary you 20 “should. I had hopes that your brother might “share with you in Mr. Roper’s favour, and fear
“this third chum may be an obstacle to that.
“Another thing is, if Phil. should have the “small-pox, there will be no room for you to 25 “set up a bed for that time; and you know
“I do not care you should lye with any other “but your brother. If this lad has never had “that distemper, he may unhappily bring the “infection into your chamber. Besides, I should 30 “not like him for a chum for you, if his dialect “be ungenteel, for fear that infection should 48 “ reach you, as well as your brother. Yet after “ all I have a great concern for so hopeful a “ lad as you describe him, and wish you might “ enjoy each other’s society in the day time, tho’

“ you sleep not together ; neither am I against 5
“ that, if you can make me easy as to the fore“ going particulars.” To which in his next he gave the following answer : “ As to your first “ objection, I hope there is no fear of his falling “ back, since the admitting him will, I am pretty 10
“ well assured, be the best precaution against it.
“ Ill company (I know by sad experience) is the “ most enticing snare in this place, and will “ never fail to be a great trouble, even to those “ who are no worse sufferers by it. Now as for 15
“ my brother and self, I hope we shall be so far “ from being a snare to him, that we shall be “ a means to prevent his being taken by others ;
“ and so will he, I doubt not, be to us, which 49 “ for my own part, I’m sure, will not be un- 20 “ necessary for me. But supposing the worst,
“ I doubt not but when it is so, we shall easily “ get rid of him ; seeing he himself will certainly “ in that condition be willing to leave us : for “ I find by much experience, that to be (almost 25 “ without exception) true, which you acquainted “ me with, in relation to my self, in your third “ letter to me hither, viz. that the lewder sort,
“ when they know me, will care as little for my “ company as I do for theirs. But ’tis almost 30
“ a crime to fear this, since he acts upon no

- “sudden, but firm, well weigh’d and fix’d re“solutions. In the next place, by frequent “conversation for some time, I find a great “likeness of tempers and studies betwixt us :
 5 “and should he not exactly agree as to the “principle I suppose you mean, it could not “any way hinder my freedom of conversation “with my brother ; for tho’ we shall be often, 50
 “we shall not be always all three together.
 10 “But I believe there is but very little disagree“ment between us in that point, for — You “need not doubt of my brother’s sharing with “me in Mr. R.’s favour, nor fear the other’s “being any obstacle to it ; because I shall ac-15 “quaint Mr. R. with it, and if he thinks it incon“venient, to be sure he’ll tell me so. Besides, “if a chum will be a hindrance to the gaining “his favour, how should I have got it and kept “it so long, having (you know) had always a 20 “chum and a neighbour too, both far more de“serving than my self? If my brother should “have the small-pox, we must both remove, “lest by staying with him, and then coming at “meals, &c. into the company of others, we 25 “spread the infection : so that we shall not “need to lie together at all, but go into different 51
 “chambers, or some one together that happens “to be empty. He has had the small-pox, and “I think is genteel enough in his dialect, being 30 “neither a northern nor western lad, out of “which two quarters bad dialects usually come.

“ I am very glad you have the same concern “ with me for so hopeful a lad, and therefore “ must again beg of you (hoping you’ll be “ satisfied with what I’ve now offered) to admit “ him; for to my sorrow I’ve too often found, that 5
“ by means of a bad chum or his acquaintance,
“ one is not safe in the best chosen company,
“ which therefore hinders our enjoying each “ other’s society, as we would otherwise do, in “ the day-time. The best way therefore, I think, 10 “ is to get as many sober lads together as we “ can, without being liable to an intermixture of 52 “ others, which he certainly is, who is troubled “ with a bad chum. ’Tis true, my brother and “ I should, I hope, be free from this by our 15
“ selves, but then three are better company
“ than two; and besides, I would not for all “ the world my friend should be spoiled for “ want of my bearing with a few inconveniencies “ (supposing there were any) whereby I might 20
“ prevent it.”

This was urged so handsomely, and with such affectionate concern for his friend, that his father immediately gave his consent; and about the latter end of this month they were settled 25 together to their mutual satisfaction.

This pious youth had upon his very first preparation for the holy sacrament on Good-Friday, April 22, 1709. according to the method prescribed in the Officium Eucharisticum, page 30 23. made and writ down resolutions for the avoiding those sins he then upon examination found himself most inclined to, to which he 53 continually added more as he found them necessary. And on Good-Friday this year April 18, 5 1712. he summed them all up with this preface :

 “In the following rules I have comprised the “sense of many former resolutions, and have “laid down directions, which I pray God may “enable me in the remaining part of my life to 10 “avoid all sin, and the occasions of it, to per“form his holy will and commandments, and “which may by his grace free me from many “scruples, doubts, fears and superstition. Grant
 “this, O Jesu, Amen.” Such of these as I think 15 may be of benefit to the young reader, I shall here transcribe. 3. “Continuing still to be “very much given to indevotion, distraction of “mind, and tediousness in my prayers public “and private, to which I have been induced 20 “by indulging my self too eagerly in worldly 54 “matters just before ; by letting my eyes wander
 “from my book, and bring in matter for wand-“ring thoughts ; by staying too late in an even“ing before I say my prayers, till I grow sleepy ;
 25 “and entering on ’em too carelessly in a morn“ing : I ’ll endeavour for the future at all times
 “to allow my self a little space for recollection, “composing my thoughts, and fixing in ’em an “awe of the tremendous majesty I am going to 30 “address to ; to say my prayers every night, if “possible, between eight and nine ; to keep my “eyes shut, covered or fix’d on my book in the “chapel, or look upwards, that they rove not “during any part of divine service. I’ll also “endeavour to bridle my tongue in chapel or “church, not talking loudly and undecently, nor 5 “making sport and jests as I come out, yet not “scrupling to answer a necessary question to 55 “hinder more noise if I should be silent. I’ll “take care not to omit my noon-prayers in the “country. I’ll take care too to banish all idle 10 “thoughts and imaginations which may hinder

“my attention to sermons, which I’ll take care
“to write down on holy-days, yet not scrupling “sometimes to omit it upon the account of some “greater good, or some other lawful hindrance. 15
“And I’ll endeavour to keep my mind from “distraction, and inflame it with fervent thanks“giving at singing psalms, not being foolishly “shamefaced : and I’ll pray constantly for de“votion and zeal. 20

4. “In order to avoid rash execrations,
“evil-speaking and lying, I’ll always set a “watch before my mouth, endeavour to speak “little, and avoid loose laughter and much jest“ing. I’ll not hearken after ill stories of my 25
56 “neighbour, that so I may have no evil to say
“of him, and what evil I know to be true I’ll “conceal. I’ll avoid uncharitableness and hard “suspicions and censures, self-conceit and mean “thoughts of others, that I may offend neither 30
“in word nor thought. I’ll be so far from “helping out discourse with scandal my self,

 “that I’ll endeavour to discountenance it in “others, and vindicate, if I can, my neigh-“bour’s injured character, and pray constantly
 5 “for charity.

5. “Having been too often partaker in the “profaneness of others by staying too long in “their company, not shewing my dislike of, or “reproving their actions as I’ve had oppor-
 10 “tunity, and by suffering my self too easily on “specious pretences to be persuaded to venture
 “amongst common swearers ; I’ll seriously en“deavour hereafter to be very uneasy at once “hearing God’s holy name profaned, and upon 57 15 “the second or third repetition of great and “dreadful oaths, depart the company boldly “(tho’ Mr. R. thinks upon this account I need “not abridge my self of wholesome exercise) and “make what convenient haste I can from those 20 “who use less execrations, as my affairs will “permit, and when reproofs are vain. But be“cause I have too often been betrayed by “venturing at first, I’ll be very careful not to “be seduced into company that may be a snare
 25 “to me, especially of those whom I have tried “and reprov’d in vain. I’ll avoid getting “much acquaintance. I’ll never venture the “displeasing God for fear of men ; nor wound
 “my conscience by an ill-timed complaisance.
 30 “I’ll endeavour to live peaceably and brotherly
 “with all, but will not value any indignity I

“may receive on this account ; and pray daily “for courage and constancy.

- 58 9. “To avoid sinning against my conscience, “I’ll do nothing rashly, but considerately weigh
“all my actions and the inward motions of my 5
“mind, inclining always to obey the whispers
“of God’s holy Spirit. I’ll not indulge my own “infirmities or corrupt inclinations contrary to “scripture and reason ; but considering that for “every evil word God will judge me, I’ll be 10 “very watchful over all my ways ; and when “I have once formed a well-weighed resolution,
“not suffer any specious pretences and false
“glosses, but solid argument only to beat me
“from it. I’ll often deny my self lawful pleas- 15 “ures, that I may the better reject unlawful.
“I’ll use only such recreations as are necessary
“for my health on fast-days ; and take care not “to let curious dressing on any day make me
“be late at church. In all doubts of conscience 20
59 “I’ll incline to the safer side ; but little un“necessary scruples and fears I’ll endeavour to “reject.

10. “To avoid rash anger, I’ll endeavour
“to gain a contempt of worldly trifles ; not be 25 “eager about my meat, bear wrong, and re“member that the greatest affronts I can suffer
“are less than my deserts. I’ll check diligently
“the first motions of anger, and not revolve in “my mind aggravations of injuries ; but pray 30
“daily for patience, meekness and humility.

11. "To avoid all intemperance, upon the "first true sense of having enough (tho' perhaps
 "I could bear more) I'll leave off, and not by "being persuaded to take a little more, be in-5 "sensibly drawn into sin; nor disorder my self
 "to please my own appetite, or another's strong
 "head, and will pray constantly for temperance
 "and sobriety.

12. "To avoid idleness, I'll not lavish away 60 10 "broken hours, much less whole ones. I'll "consider my business here, the value of my "precious time, and not lazily please my body
 "to ruin my mind and soul. But I'll not be "scrupulous to recreate a little at fit seasons, 15 "so I loiter not away the minutes I ought to "spend in devotion. I'll avoid Sunday-visitants
 "as much as I can, without rudeness and breach "of charity, and pray daily for diligence, &c.
 "These contain all that was intended in my 20 "former resolutions, whereby I firmly bind my "self to obey all God's laws, and avoid all sin.
 "And I'll endeavour to avoid all occasions
 "thereof which I think are here contained,
 "with respect to the sins I am most prone to.
 25 "And as I beg pardon for all former rash vows,
 "so I humbly pray for God's grace to enable "me sincerely, faithfully and without scruple, 61
 "to perform these resolutions as by that grace,
 "and the advice of my good father, I shall see 30 "'em useful and fit; that I may perfect holiness
 "in the fear of the Lord, thro' Jesus Christ our
 "Saviour. Amen."

To these he made the following additions
December 4, 1712. "To prevent indevotion,
"I'll endeavour at home to strike such an awe
"upon my mind of the divine presence at
"prayers, as if the room were a chapel, and 5
"not be vain about prayer-time. I'll take care
"to allow my self half a day at least for sacra"mental preparation, unless hinder'd by un"avoidable accidents."

In the Easter week his brother arrived, being 10 sent very young, that he might grow up under his care, and the influence of his good example, which was lately strengthened by the conjunction of a suitable chamber-fellow. He was 62 happy also in Mr. Roper's favour and protection, 15 who upon his arrival told him he should follow his brother's example, and he should do well enough; and the master upon his admission gave him the same advice. In the letter he writ the next day after his brother came, he 20
thus expresses himself: "I shall use my utmost "endeavours, and all that little discretion I am
"master of, to render my dear brother innocent
"and good in his morals and conversation,
"diligent in his studies, and decent and hand- 25
"some in his carriage and behaviour. But,
"alas! knowing my many defects in all, I "cannot depend upon my own endeavours, but "rather on your and my dear mother's united
"prayers, which therefore as I thank you for, 30
"so I heartily desire the continuance of them;

“and hope your commands (as also a desire of “not falling short of that good opinion the “master and Mr. Roper have conceived of me) 63
 “to set my brother a good example in all par-5 “ticulars, will perfect me in some degree at “least in each of them.” And concludes thus :
 “I pray God of his infinite mercy long to pre“serve you and my dear mother in health and “happiness, as the greatest blessing on earth to 10 “all your children ; and that he would give us
 “all grace to see our happiness in being comforts
 “to you both, which you are pleased to reckon
 “as a very great blessing to you. Be pleased, “sir, to accept also the humble duty and thanks 15 “of

Your most obedient

And dutiful Son,

A. BONWICKE.”

He had, I believe, for a good while used 20 himself to daily examination ; one of the first things written in the spare leaves of his Officium 64
Eucharisticum being this :

“Questions proper to put to our selves every “evening, out of Mr. Nelson.

25 “How we have spent the whole day? What “sin we have committed? What duty we have “omitted? Whether we performed our morn“ing devotions, and how? Where other oppor“tunities of serving God have offered them“selves, how we have behaved our selves in “relation to them? If we have conversed, “whether with candour and affability? Whether “we have kept at a distance from slander and “evil-speaking, the bane of society? If we 5

 “have had leisure from business, how we have “improved our time? If we have been engaged “in affairs, with what honesty and fidelity we 65 “have discharged them? If we have diverted
 “our selves, whether innocently, and within the 10 “bounds of Christian moderation? What mer“cies we have received, and how thankful we “have been for them? What temptations we “have resisted? What ground we have got of “the sin which doth most easily beset us? 15
 “How we have govern’d our passions in the “little accidents that daily happen to provoke “us? What opportunities we have had of doing “good? and how we have used them? What “opportunities we have had of discouraging 20
 “evil? and how we have opposed it?

“Consider that thou art in God’s presence
 “before whose tribunal thou must shortly ap“pear.”

Nay, in his private book of sacramental ex- 25 aminations, I found a paper with the same heads of examination out of Nelson, of a much older date, which doubtless he made use of 66 from his first addressing himself to the holy sacrament, if not sooner. And this in con- 30 formity to that excellent advice of the author of The Whole Duty of Man, Sund. 6. § 25. of which he had been often a reader or auditor. "The oftner therefore we use this consideration (says that incomparable author) the better, 5 "for the less likely it is that any of our sins "shall escape our knowledge. It is much to "be wished, that every man should thus every "night try the actions of the day, that so if he "hath done any thing amiss, he may soon check 10 "himself for it, and settle his resolutions against "it, and not let it grow on to a habit and course. "And that he may also beg God's pardon, which "will the easier be had the sooner it is asked, "every delay of that being a great increase of 15 "the sin. And surely whoever means to take "an account of himself at all, will find this the "easier course, it being much easier to do it so 67 "a little at a time, and while passages are fresh "in his memory, than to take the account of 20 "a long time together. Now if it be considered "that every wilful sin must have a particular "repentance before it can be pardoned, methinks we should tremble to sleep without "that repentance; for what assurance hath any 25 "man that lies down in his bed, that he shall "ever rise again? And then how dangerous "is the condition of that man that sleeps in an "unrepented sin!"

Now that this daily examination might be 30 the more exact and useful, he about this time began to write down in Latin a short account of the day, and what in the whole he observed amiss in himself. And for this purpose he always retired before bed-time, wherever he was ; the retiring was observed, but the purpose unknown till after his death, when it was discovered by the papers that remained. This daily examination made the weekly one preparatory to the holy sacrament very exact and very easy, which was (as I have before observed) usually performed on Saturdays, for the work was already done, and he had nothing to do, but to add the examination of that day to the foregoing ones of that week. However, his custom was on such days of preparation, besides this to note in a book he kept for that purpose (which I just now mentioned) his breaches of the several commandments, according to the method prescribed in his Officium Eucharisticum, which was very easy to him that had taken a daily account of himself. This examination, as well as the other, was writ in Latin with many abbreviations, designed to be understood by none but himself. It begins April 22, 1709. and is continued to the very day of his death.

The other papers begin May the 25th of this year, being Rogation-Sunday, and are of the same continuance. In these he observes how every hour was spent from his rising to his going to bed ; and if any one, or any part of one was mispent, he notes it in the conclusion among his other faults, to be repented of and amended. By these we learn what time was allowed for walking, and the necessary care of his health ; what was taken up by his attendance on the chapel, on the hall, and on his tutor, and what remained for study, which never excluded his private prayers ; and yet it appears he commonly studied eight or nine hours a day, and sometimes eleven or twelve. Nay once we find him sitting up all night at study, but out of order with it the next day, and blaming himself in his examination at night for his folly in watching beyond his strength.

Among other necessary affairs which took up part of his time, was that of writing letters, of which he writ near sevenscore while he was at Cambridge, in which it appears he had still at heart the glory of God, and the good of mankind, and as occasion offered promoted both. Particularly in those which he writ to his brothers and school-fellows in the country, he encouraged them to diligence in their studies ; and one especially which he wrote to one of them after he was bound apprentice, deserves a place here, wherein he supposes himself to need the good advice he gives his friend, and so artfully applies it to both. 'Tis as follows.

St. John's, Cambr.

Sept. 14, 1712.

DEAR COUSIN,

“The great acquaintance we had at school, and all the while I lived with your “mother, emboldens me to write first to you,

“who have not been so kind as to let me hear 71 “from you all the time I have been here. And “to encourage you to correspond with me, I “shall endeavour to make the nature of this 5
“my first letter to you such as may really be “for your advantage. At this season of the “year you cannot expect news, nor ought you
“at any time to expect idle tales from a philo“sopher : let us mount higher than such frothy 10 “trifles, and encourage one another in such “things as may bring us in substantial pleasure.
“All persons that hope to live creditably here,
“or happily hereafter, must apply themselves “diligently to some sort of business, art, or 15 “science : you have, I presume, to one ; I to “another. But this must be laid down as a “self-evident axiom for both of us (if we design “to make any proficiency in one or the other)
“that the first step to be wise, is to obey wise 20 “counsel, to practise the advice of our best 72 “friends ; without this we shall never do any “good, for by experience I know (as, if ever
“you have the misfortune to try, you will too)
“that young heads are neither fit nor able to 25
“chuse for themselves. This being premised,
“it necessarily follows, that above all we are “obliged to respect our parents, and obey their “counsels ; because 'tis morally impossible, 'tis “contrary to the dictates of nature, that they 30 “should do or chuse what is opposite to our “interest. But all young persons (as for my “own part I too often have) are apt to think “quite otherwise, forgetting all the while the “sanction of the fifth commandment, which 5 “only of all others denounces shortness of life,

“and therein all temporal calamities to those “who disobey it by despising their parents.
“’Twere needless to reckon up the many dread“ful examples of grievous punishments inflicted 10 “miraculously on such offenders; all histories 73 “ (which in your business you have the oppor“tunity of often reading) are full of them. But “were there not this command, our interest, as “you may perceive by what I have said before,
15 “would naturally oblige us to respect and obey
“our parents, since without following their ad“vice and directions we must almost inevitably “be rakes and beggars in this life, and eternally “miserable in that which is to come. Next 20 “after our parents, if we would be masters of “our trades, if we would prosper and be happy,
“which is the end all rational creatures propose “to themselves: I must love and obey my “tutor, you your master, being those who are 25 “to teach us those arts, which we hope by “God’s blessing will afford us a comfortable “maintenance. This we must do chiefly, be“cause ’tis a duty included in the fifth com- 74 “mandment, and also because by our civil and 30 “meek deportment we may reasonably hope
“they, out of love and affection will be more “careful and hearty in instructing us, than they “otherwise would, or, in justice, were bound.

 “As I have thus laid before you, dear cousin,
 “what I at this time think seasonable, I desire
 “you, as you see fitting, to take the same liberty 5
 “with me; and don’t take ill what I have here “said, which flows from a sincere desire of your “welfare, and from gratitude to your good “mother, from whom I acknowledge my self
 “to have received so many favours. Let me 10 “beg of you not to condemn these lines at the “first reading, but give them a second: I have “endeavoured to make ’em plain to you, and “’twill be your own fault afterwards if you do “not profit by ’em. However, if all my poor 15
 75 “endeavours fail, whether you think well or ill
 “of me for this real kindness, I shall continue “always to beg of God, that both you and I,
 “and all who bear any relation to us, may in“crease in all goodness, but especially in loving, 20 “honouring and obeying all who are set over “us, particularly our dear parents, that so, after “a long and happy life here on earth, we may “be made partakers of a blessed immortality
 “in heaven. I think I need say no more at 25 “present, since the freedom I have used with “you will sufficiently assure you, that I am “your true and hearty friend, as well as,

Your affectionate cousin,

And humble servant,

AMBROSE BONWICKE.”

In about a year's time from his return from Headley to the college, he had read over Whitbey's Ethics, Thirlby against Whiston, Burgers- 78
dicius's Ethics, Curcellæus's Ethics, Puffendorf
5 de Officio Hominis & Civis, Sanderson de Ob- ligatione Jur. & Consc., the four last books of the Æneis, Eustachius's Ethics, and a second time as far as the Passions, the greatest part of Collier's Essays; the eight last Pythian Odes of 10 Pindar, and the six first Nemean; half Vossius's
Partitiones Oratoriæ, Grotius de jure Belli & Pacis, Ray's Wisdom of God in the Works of the Creation, Allingham's Use of Maps, Euripi- des's Medea, and 357 verses of his Phænissæ, 15 Milton's Paradise lost, 122 epigrams of Martial, a chapter out of the Greek Testament every day for eighteen weeks, 39 Hebrew Psalms, all Sallust, Thomas à Kempis, Brome of Fasting,
Whole Duty of Man, and Nelson, all a second 20 time on Sundays and other holy-days; Suetonius, Caligula and Claudius; five books of Pliny's epistles a second time, and three more added to them; more than five books of the adven- 77
tures of Telemachus in French, which I mentioned 25 before; about a third part of Hierocles's comment on Pythagoras's Golden Verses, the prologue and first satire of Persius, the two first Catilinarian Orations, that for Milo, and the two first Philippics; the first volume of Echard's 30 Roman History, Howell's Epistles, Tyrrell of the Law of Nature, and against Hobbs; part of Clerk's Physics and Cheyne's Philosophical Principles of Religion; with other books. During which time he also made six and twenty Greek or Latin themes, eleven copies of verses, six theses, six Latin epistles, two declamations, six 5 epitomes, a great many arguments in ethics and physics for disputations; and added to the former Excerpta in his Adversaria, many observations and phrases out of the aforementioned authors. He had likewise, according to his 10

78 former method, turned part of the version of Musæus into Greek verse. And for Demosthenes's Oration de Rep. Ordinandâ he did something more, first translating above half of it into Latin; and dividing his paper-book into three 15 columns, he wrote that version in the middle, and then turning it again into Greek, writ that on one side of his Latin version, and Demosthenes's Greek on the other. After the same manner he translated part of Quintilian's first 20 oration de Pariete Palmato, and part of Tully's Offices into English, in which sort of translations he was generally very happy, and then returned 'em into Latin, opposing 'em to the authors in his paper-book. The same method 25 he made use of for mastering the French, turning part of Telemachus into English, and back again into French, and then comparing his version with the author. Besides all this he had, at the motion of his best friend, undertaken the 30

79 translating a small tract of Bishop Henshaw's

into Latin. The title of it is, Spare-Hours of Meditations. The good man giving him the book, took occasion from hence of advising him not to suffer even such parts of his time as 5 came under that denomination to pass away useless, and he who paid the greatest deference to all the counsels of so prudent and so kind a patron, gratefully accepted the book and the advice, and immediately applied that little spare
10 time he had left to this translation, and by this time had gone through forty-five pages, for the most part very well, tho' some places were difficult.

And now having obtained leave from his 15 father, he made him a second visit, taking his brother along with him. And having for almost a quarter of a year, in the severest time of it, been very serviceable, not only in instructing the boys as formerly, (in which he was some-20 times relieved by his brother) but in calling 'em 80 up early, and condescending to any other assistance he was capable of giving the family: he return'd before Lent, with his brother, to the college; and by a letter dated February 17, 25 1712-13. gave his father an account of their safe arrival, and of the extraordinary care and concern of Mr. R. for them. After which he thus goes on: "I'm returned very luckily for "lectures, for on Saturday our sub-tutor, Mr.
30 "Newcome, begun Taquet's Euclid to us, and "yesterday he began to read us Rohault's

“Physics. I’m very glad I brought the De “Chales, ’twill help me, I hope, in mathematicks, “which I find somewhat difficult. Besides our “best friends, that little acquaintance I have “made among my equals, I find, to my comfort, 5 “more and more civil to me; and can never “enough adore the goodness of God, for the 81 “manifold supports, comforts and favours he “hath showered down on me in this place.”
After this, tho’ he had honestly earned the 10 best entertainment could be given him at his father’s, yet he thus expresseth himself: “And “now, sir, should I begin to return ordinary “thanks to my dear mother and you, for those “many and great favours I received in the 15 “country, I might seem to intimate, either that “these were the first I had received from you,
“or else that I had made some competent re“compence for what kindnesses I had before “been obliged by. Both which I so well know 20
“to be utterly false, that I am, on the contrary, “deeply sensible of my being too too ungrateful,
“or rather (I hope) too incapable of making “any recompence for those numberless obliga“tions you have laid on me ever since I had 25
“being. For from you, my dear parents, I 82 “gratefully acknowledge, I have received all “that could be expected either from the most “indulgent parents, best friends or kindest “benefactors, to whom next under God, I owe 30
“all that little virtue, learning and fortune that “I’m master of. In gratitude therefore, and “out of a due sense of my own, and all our “future interest, I think my self bound humbly

 “to advise and press you, not to let slip Lady-5 “day before you have fixed your removal. If “nothing else, let the interest your children “have in your life, quicken your search; and “be assured I (and I doubt not all my brothers “and sisters will agree with me) shall be very 10 “glad to abate much of that plenty you have,
 “by God’s blessing, always maintained us in, if “we could but thereby add one day to either “of your lives, or any little augmentation to “either of your healths. Some small decrease
 15 “of your school therefore, may be doubly use- 83 “ful; help you sooner to a house, and enable “you to live longer in it. I know you’ll so far “remember my constant readiness to make “good my words by my obedience, as not to 20 “think these mere compliments, &c.” For the better understanding the foregoing, it must be known, that Headley was a very good air for young persons, but too sharp for his father, which made him often think of removing into 25 some warmer place; and this son of his had so tender and affectionate a concern for him, that he was often pressing him to it. I suppose one objection against it might be, the loss of some of his scholars upon a removal, which he here 30 handsomely turns to an argument for it.

The very next day after the date of this, in a spare leaf in his Nelson, he set himself the 84 following rules for his observation of the Lent that began that day: "February 18, 1712-3.

 " A. W. ordinary days only com. and once A.
 " viz. G. C. add L. P. to Noon Pr. Not vis. nor 5
 " go to C. H. W. and F. only one Me. S. only
 " 2. and add to longest Pr. L. P. F ap. A. W. P.
 " to Noon Pr. Emb. D. only com. and add 2
 " Emb. Pr. to all the rest. Allow  $\frac{1}{2}$  an hour " on W's for med. and read. go B. H. P. W. 10
 " all strict F. not vow but endeavours. On W's " add Me. de H. C. J. and on S's add Me. and
 " P. on the H. S. and P. of Int. On Sun. to " accust. add L. P. Be stricter next Lent.

These will need some explanation: A. W. 15 therefore stands for Ash-Wednesday, the day on which he made these rules. He confines himself to his commons on the ordinary days in Lent, and allows himself one draught of ale out of the grace cup; he adds the Lenten prayers 20 out of Nelson, to his prayers at noon every day; 85 not visit nor go to coffee-house; Wednesdays and Fridays only one meal; Saturdays only two, and add to longest prayers the Lenten prayers on Fridays, (the meaning of ap here 25 after the F. I cannot make out) and the Ash- Wednesday's prayers out of the same book, to the noon-prayers on those days, Ember-days only commons, and add two Ember-prayers to all the rest. Allow half an hour on Wednesdays 30 for meditation and reading going to bed. Holy Passion-week all strict fasting; not vow, but endeavour. On Wednesdays add the meditation on the Holy Child Jesus, out of bishop Ken's

Winchester-Manual (a book that he had made 5 constant use of from the beginning of the year 1707. and in the spare leaves of which, he had writ prayers collected out of other books) and on Saturdays add meditations and prayers on the holy sacrament, and prayers of intercession, 10 all out of the same manual: on Sundays to 86 accustomed, add Lenten prayers. The words,
Be stricter next Lent, were writ in a smaller character, and added, I suppose, when that Lent was finished. His strict fasting now was 15 more rigorous than formerly, for he eat nothing all the holy week till supper time, only on Monday and Tuesday he eat a little about four o' th' clock in the afternoon. On Good-Friday, when he was contemplating his Saviour's suffer-20 ings for him and all mankind, he denied himself at night the usual refreshment of his bed. This I gather from his diary, wherein the account of that day and the following are joined together.
 I find him there reading, meditating and praying
 25 till half an hour after one, and then sleeping
 (I suppose in his studying chair) till about six, when he betakes himself again to reading and praying till chapel time, without mentioning, as usual, his rising from bed. On the account of 87 30 this week were endorsed these words: Ἡ ἀγία
καὶ μεγάλη ἐβδομάς.

His conscience was very tender, and he preserved that tenderness by the daily examination of himself; so that the sins of omission which generally are so little regarded notwithstanding that procedure of the last day, which our blessed Lord gives us in the xxvth of St. Matthew, goes wholly upon them, could not be endured by him, but were as duly repented of as those of commission; and upon any difficulty, he had recourse to his good friend and neighbour, Mr. Roper, who was able and willing to give him satisfaction. His father was at a greater distance, and therefore he could not so readily consult him; but as we find him once before advising with him about the observation of the college-statutes, so in a letter about this time he proposes a case to him, which shews his great concern to do the utmost of his duty, and not to be guilty of any sinful omission. The letter bears date May 29, 1713. Wherein after some other matters he thus proceeds: "I wish you
 "all the good success you can desire in finding "a fit place to remove to, and must again beg
 "you not to be too solicitous about a great "deal of room for lads, the trouble of which "may, perhaps, hinder the good effects of a "warmer region; or if (as you know best) we "cannot well subsist without such a maintenance, let me prevail with you to take either
 "me, (who shall soon have kept all my terms)
 "or some other to your assistance. Let not “any fears of hindring my preferment here,

“make you backward in being helped by me,
“for I shall willingly sacrifice my present satis“faction, (which I own is not little in a college
5 “life) and future hopes to your welfare ; and,
“doubt not, but I shall be better rewarded for 89 “dutifulness to my parents herein by God, than “I can be by any other, for any endowments “which by his blessing I may acquire. I thank 10 “God we are both in good health, and can “never hear too often that you are so. —— I “desire your advice in this particular case : at “St. Mary's there is a sacrament every month,
“and their time for receiving is after the uni-15 “versity sermon is over, between eleven and “twelve o’ th’ clock. I have of late, upon see“ing the holy table prepared, had some doubts
“whether I am not obliged to communicate
“there, tho’ I have done it but three hours
20 “before in our own chapel. My main argument “with which I think I have pretty well satisfied “my self, that there is no such obligation in“cumbent on me, is the practice of the apostles “and primitive church, whom I never read to 25 “have communicated twice a day, unless with 90
“a sick person, or on some such extraordinary “occasion, and whom I take to be the best “judges of the extent of our Saviour’s command, “and best to understand his institution of the 30 “holy sacrament, and therefore hope that in “me who have received but just before, ’tis no

“criminal turning my back on the altar. Be“sides, I do not take St. Mary's to be the “proper place for scholars to receive at, who “must be supposed to have sufficient oppor“tunities in their own chapels. Be pleased to 5
 “let me know if you think these arguments “sufficiently grounded; and if you have any “others to add, pray let me have 'em; or if on “the contrary I'm in an error, and am obliged “to receive the second time, pray let me know 10
 “it.” In his father's answer I find no more than this: “As to the other point, I think you 91 “have determined it very well, and have nothing “to add.”

His brother being on the 10th of July elected 15 scholar of the house, on the 14th he writ thus to his father.

“HON<sup>D</sup>. SIR,

“As you on the occasion of my being “elected scholar began to me, so now do I to 20
 “you on account of my brother's being upon the “same level with me: Te Deum laudamus, &c.
 “I shall never any more doubt the power of “Mr. R. especially when united to that of Mr.
 “B. by which, under the blessing of God, he 25 “has not only got us the scholarship, but also “the firm promise of another exhibition, a full “account of which you will have from my “brother. These exhibitions too I find now
 “(which is a greater enhancement of their value, 30

“and our friend’s kindness) are kept till we are 92
“complete M.A. This good news will, I hope, “make some amends for the tardiness of our “letters to acquaint you with the receipt of the 5 “parcel which came safe hither on Saturday
“last. Pray return mine and my brother’s
“many thanks to our dear mother and all her “maidens for our linen ; and, I hope, by God’s “blessing, we may one time or other be able 10 “to make the junior part some amends, tho’
“my mother I am persuaded we never shall.
“All our endeavours, all our successes, be they “never so great or surprizing, will be too weak, “too insufficient, to make her any returns for 15 “this, or any other of her troubles endured for,
“or kindnesses shewn to us. — Having found
“the Almighty so wondrously gracious in his “singular care of and providing for us, I cannot “in the least doubt but that he has ordered 20 “your stay at Headley for the best, at least 93
“at present, taking it for granted that you “have used all the means you could at this “time for removing. Tho’ I was formerly so “much against your stay, yet now I find some 25 “satisfaction in it, because it will give me an “opportunity of shewing how desirous I am to “make you what returns I possibly can for all “your great favours, by taking part of your “trouble upon me. And therefore earnestly 30 “desire you, (or rather my dear mother, who,
“I believe, will be a more equitable judge of “your case than your self) as soon as ever you “find your self indisposed by the weather and “cold, added to the too great fatigue of your “business already, to send for me. I’ve kept

“so many terms that I’m perfectly at liberty in 5
“that respect, and therefore beg of you and her
“to consider your own ease wholly. — Last 94 “week Mr. B. whose character you must needs “have heard, brought a young gentleman hither,
“who being put in a chamber without a chum, 10
“my tutor on Saturday morning sent to me (at “Mr. B.’s request) to be acquainted with him,
“and accompany him a little at first. Accord“ingly I went, and as I was going, met Mr. B.
“He told me, tho’ he was not personally ac- 15
“quainted with you, he had a very great respect “for you, and appearing to be informed of our “character, asked how my brother did, and de“sired the favour of us to be acquainted with “the little gentleman, to whom he was too 20 “favourable in his commendations of us. He “recommended him, a very pretty, modest “genteel young man, to mine and my brother’s “acquaintance, and that of my friends, and to “my care in Mr. R.’s name, his very good friend. 25 95 “Had not Mr. B.’s character, and a desire of “preserving any young gentleman from ill com“pany, obliged me sufficiently to him, Mr. R.’s “name, you may be sure, would have that in“fluence upon me, as to make me lose some 30 “little time in his company till he were a little

“settled, and this occasioned my not writing “before. He acquainted the master also in “what hands he had put his friend, who, he “said, was pleased with it.”

- 5 He had for about eight months from his return out of the country, kept very close to his studies, tho' I cannot give so full an account of 'em as I have given for the two former years.
 I find extracts out of Suicer's Compendium Phi- 10 losophiæ, Rohault's Physics, Derham's Boyle's
 Lecture Sermons, Mr. Hughes's edition of St.
Chrysostom de Sacerdotio, and Doctor Hammond on the New-Testament, in which last he read very often. The extracts out of him relate 98 15 chiefly to the use of the Greek words, and are entred in an alphabetical order, among those out of other Greek authors, Hammond's English being turned into Latin. He read also at the same time Sir Norton Knatchbull. He had 20 likewise for his improvement in the French, translated the beginning of Monsieur Boileau's Lutrin into English, which remains in one of his paper-books; and in those others in which he kept the first draughts of his exercises, I find 25 sixteen Greek or Latin themes, two theses, four copies of Latin verses, two Latin epistles, and one declamation within the aforesaid space of eight months.

And now being desirous of seeing his friends 30 in Surrey again, and of assisting his father, in that time of the year when he apprehended he would most need his assistance, he made them the third and last visit. It was in the beginning of October, while the coaches continued to go 5 through in a day. On which account he got up by three o' th' clock, and was not in London till past seven, and by that means caught some cold, which turned afterwards to an ague, a distemper to which he was too subject. Yet notwithstanding the fatigue and disorder of his journey, he went to God's house that night and 10 joined in the public service : and according to his constant practice, was twice a day at church while he continued in town, except only one evening when he was sick in bed. Being got to his father's, he betook himself heartily to the 15 business of the school, notwithstanding his illness, which it pleased God in a short time to deliver him from. But tho' he recovered of his ague, he was often indisposed, which yet hindered him not in his duty either to God or 20 man. Nay, he seemed always more concerned for his father's indisposition, than for his own ; 98 and tho' he too much neglected himself, yet would look upon him at such times with the greatest tenderness, and put him upon taking 25 something, or using some diversion that might make him better. The same unfeigned love and respect for him he shewed upon another occasion, which offered it self during this time of his being at Headley: one of the boys de- 30 serving punishment, was called out to it, which he not complying with, his father took him by the hand, and he making shew of resistance, this most dutiful son, immediately uncalled, ran with the greatest zeal and eagerness to his 5 father's assistance, as not being able to bear any thing that looked like an insult on his person or authority.

I find by his papers about this time he took up the custom on Sundays, and other holy days,
10 of singing bishop Ken's Morning Hymn as soon as he awaked, after which he got up to his devotions. And this, no doubt, he did in the 99 same devout manner he was always observed to join in that seraphic prelate's Evening Hymn,
15 which used to be sung at his father's on Sunday nights. He was always very strict in keeping that day holy, and would not allow himself so much as to write a letter on it, without necessity, but prepared on the Saturday what was to go
20 by that day's post. He was generally first of the whole family ready for church, whither he delighted to go, and was troubled when the badness of the weather obliged his father to perform the service at home. Besides his 25 constant attendance on the public service either at church or in the family, he often retired to his private prayers, usually four times in the day, and sometimes more, to which he joyn'd reading the Holy Bible, or some other good 30 book. Part of the business of that day likewise was writing into a paper-book he kept for 100 the purpose, what he remembered of the sermon, either preached at church, or read to him at home. This exercise he had been a good while used to while at school, and continued it at the university on holy days, not having leisure for it on Sundays, as he had in the countrey, concerning which we have before met with a resolution of his, page 40. And he left behind him four volumes of such abstracts of sermons, beginning July 1, 1705. and ending with two resurrection sermons on Easter Monday and Tuesday 1714. as preparatory to his own dissolution. In this he was arrived to a wonderful perfection, being able to write down the main of the sermon, not only as to the matter, but even the very words of it, with which on Sunday evenings he entertained the family, and set a noble example for the young gentlemen to imitate, by which some of 'em improved to a very great degree, tho' they were never able to equal it. While he was preparing himself for the holy sacrament on Christmas-Eve, he wrote in a loose paper the examination of his whole life, beginning it thus: "When I consider my life, I find a continual wonderful providence and care of God over me in every stage of it, and therefore the greater ingratitude in me, in that &c." And this memorandum in his Officium Eucharisticum, December 24, 1713. "Twill be useful at all times to avoid doing what I've once condemned, till I am fully “satisfied to the contrary; and to be constant “in Friday's examinations, especially in the “country, unless great necessity hinder; not

“to put off noon devotions, nor lazily mispend
5 “spare times, and not trust too much to my “present thoughts.”

A little before his return to Cambridge on January 21, in the parish of Great Bookham, 102 not far from his father's, there was a great 10 quantity of Roman coins found. As the countrymen were ploughing, the plough struck against a large urn and broke it, and discovered the coins: there were about half a peck of them, all copper. As soon as his father and he heard 15 of it, they went to view the place, and get what they could of them. There were none among those that they saw older than Gallienus, or later than Dioclesian. The little while he staid after this, when the toil of the day was over, 20 he assisted his father in cleansing those coins
they had procured, discovering the impresses, and in reading and transcribing the inscriptions.
On February 8, being Shrove-Monday, he walked to Epsom, in order to go from thence by coach 25 to London; his father accompanied him part of the way, acknowledging the good service he had done him, and thanking him for it, and at 103 parting, with his blessing, gave him two kisses, little thinking they were the last he should give 30 him in this world. He went to church that evening at London, and so morning and evening constantly as formerly, till he left the town. He gave his father an account of his safe arrival at Cambridge in a letter by his brother, who hastened to supply his place at Headley: and acquaints him that the lads of his year being 5 apprized of his return, quickly took care that he might not lose his turn of disputing and de-claiming; and what he knew would be very grateful, that his brother brings along with him a coin of Constantine's, with a fair reverse, SOLI 10 INVICTO COMITI. Quickly after this I find the following entry made in his Officium Eucharistici- cum, which seems to be taken out of one of the sermons he heard that day at St. Mary's, where he was a constant attendant, and of which I 15 104 find no abstract in his sermon-book: "Sunday,

"February 28, 1713-4. Psalm v. 1, 2. Ponder
"my words, O Lord: consider my meditation. O
"hearken thou unto the voice of my calling, my
"King, and my God: for unto thee will I make 20
"my prayer. The study of prayer, recollection
"and composure of mind. Mischievous prayers,
"when we ask for things that appear good, de-
"signed to ill purposes, or to be got by ill
"means. Frivolous, when we ask for worldly 25
"things, rather than, or before heavenly. Fan-
"tastical, when we strive not to gain the virtues
"we pray for. The inward intention of the "heart, and what that is set upon, is the prayer,
"not the words. Complacency arising from a 30
"good performance of this duty, inquietude
"from the contrary."

He had received no letter from Headley in above a month's time after he had left it, which 105 gave him great uneasiness, of which he complained thus to his father March 15, 1713-4.

5 "HON. SIR,

"After a very tedious expectation, and
 "many disappointing negative answers from
 "the buttery-men, I received my brother's last "Friday. Tho' I was in great hopes my brother 10 "would have given me an account how he "performed his journeys, what success you had
 "in getting more coins &c. before the month
 "was out; yet I bore being balk'd pretty well
 "till Sunday was sevensnight. I had then been 15 "within a day of a month from Headley without "any letter, and could not help being uneasy
 "from that time till Friday; because you were "pleased to promise me at parting, that I "should never wait longer than a month for a 20 "letter. Mr. R. asked very frequently after 106
 "you all, and wondered my brother sent no "account, &c. When I reflect on what I have "writ, I almost fear you'll think me too bold,
 "in taking notice of that which I'm sure your 25 "forgetfulness only of the exact time, or your "depending upon my brother to observe it, "was the cause of. Only this I know, you'll "put the best interpretation on my words and
 "judge, (which is really the truth) that my 30 "desire of often hearing how you do, especially

“ at my first being separated from your company,
 “ after so long an enjoyment of it, makes me “ watch the times so exactly, and consequently “ so soon observe any failure in that respect.”

For the reason (I suppose) mentioned in this 5 letter, that his father left the correspondence wholly to his brother, I find no more of his 107 father's letters among his papers, tho', as I before observed, he carefully preserved them.

The time now drew near that the Lord 10 would take him to himself, and as the philosophers have discovered an acceleration of the motion of heavy bodies in their descent towards the earth, the same may we suppose in the ascent of a pious soul towards heaven; the 15 nearer it approaches to it, the more powerful is the attraction, and the more vigorous the motion. The Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the holy week he eat nothing till supper time, only once a few figs in the afternoon; 20
Thursday being the feast of the Annunciation, he dined as well as supped, and then watched with his Saviour the night that he was betrayed, in part of which he wrote the following articles, and the resolutions that day and the next. 25

108

In the name of God. Amen.

Good Friday, March 26, 1714.

‘ Being moved (I hope) by the Spirit of God,
 ‘ and excited by reading bishop Beveridge's
 ‘ Private Thoughts, &c. after some days' fasting, 30

‘abstinence, watching and praying for the par‘ticular assistance and direction of the Holy ‘Ghost, I formed these articles of belief, from ‘the Apostles’ Creed, Bishop Beveridge, Mr.
 5 ‘Nelson, &c. and the following resolutions ‘grounded thereupon, intending after to examine ‘my evil ways, bewail and repent me of my ‘sins, that so I might worthily partake of the ‘holy eucharist at Easter, and also be enabled
 10 ‘to lead the remainder of my life in true faith
 ‘and obedience, without superstition, scruple
 ‘and doubtfulness.

I.

‘I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker
 15 ‘of heaven and earth, i. e. I believe there is one ‘God the being of all beings, and that whatso- 109 ‘ever he would have me to believe or do, in ‘order to his glory or my happiness, he hath ‘revealed to me in his holy scriptures: whence 20 ‘I learn to believe, that as there is one God,
 ‘so this one God is three Persons, Father, Son,
 ‘and Holy Ghost. Consequently I believe the ‘divine inspiration of the holy scriptures, the ‘canon received in the church, and that the 25 ‘Christian religion which they teach is the only ‘true religion in the world.

II.

‘And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord;

III.

‘ Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born
 ‘ of the Virgin Mary; i. e. I believe that the ‘ Son which is the Word of the Father, begotten
 ‘ from everlasting of the Father, the very and 5
 ‘ eternal God, of one substance with the Father,
 110 ‘ took man’s nature in the womb of the blessed ‘ Virgin, of her substance; so that two whole
 ‘ and perfect natures, that is to say, the godhead
 ‘ and manhood, were joined together in one 10
 ‘ Person never to be divided, whereof is one ‘ Christ, very God and very Man. And I be‘ lieve that Christ was conceived without sin, ‘ but that I was conceived in original sin, and ‘ brought forth in iniquity, and being by nature 15
 ‘ a child of wrath have been ever since working ‘ vanity, for my righteousness is as filthy rags,
 ‘ but am by Christ’s merits made a child of ‘ grace; for I believe that the Son of God was ‘ made the Son of Man, that I the son of man 20
 ‘ might be made the son of God.

IV.

‘ Suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified,
 ‘ dead and buried, he descended into hell; i. e. I ‘ believe that Christ lived to God, and died for 25
 111 ‘ sin, that I might die to sin, and live with ‘ God; and this not in his divine, but humane ‘ nature, (for the divine nature cannot be born,
 ‘ and suffer, and die, and be buried, and rise ‘ again from the grave) but as it was one and 30

‘the same Person which subsisted in both ‘natures, we may properly be said to be re‘deemed by the blood* of God, and that the ‘Lord of glory was crucified† for us. I believe
 5 ‘also, that he being dead, his soul continued ‘in a state of separation for a time, that he ‘suffered not any torments of the damned, but ‘triumphed over the devil and led him captive.

V.

10 ‘The third day he rose again from the dead:
 ‘I believe too that Christ thus rose from the ‘grave, that I might rise from sin; reuniting ‘by his infinite power the same soul to the ‘same body which was buried, and so rose the 15 ‘same man.

VI.

‘He ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the 112
 ‘right hand of God the Father Almighty: i. e.
 ‘I believe that the only begotten and eternal
 20 ‘Son of God, after he rose from the dead, did ‘with the same soul and body with which he ‘rose, by a true and local translation, convey ‘himself from the earth on which he lived, ‘thro’ all the regions of the air, thro’ all the 25 ‘celestial orbs, until he came into the heaven ‘of heavens, to the most glorious presence of ‘the majesty of God, and that he is ascended ‘into heaven that I may come to him; and * Acts xx. 28.

† 1 Cor. ii. 8.

‘that being exalted to the highest dignity in ‘his Father’s kingdom, he there makes per‘petual intercession for us.

VII.

‘From thence he shall come to judge the quick 5
 ‘and the dead: i. e. I believe that our Lord ‘Jesus Christ shall at the end of the world
 113 ‘descend from heaven in his human nature, ‘and summon all mankind to appear before his ‘dreadful tribunal ; where they shall come upon 10
 ‘their trial, have all their actions strictly ex‘amined, and according to the nature and quality
 ‘of them be adjudged, the righteous to eternal ‘happiness, the wicked to eternal misery.

VIII.

15

‘I believe in the Holy Ghost; that he is very ‘God, the third Person in the undivided Trinity, ‘proceeding from the Father and the Son, and ‘coequal and coeternal with them.

IX.

20

‘I believe the holy Catholick Church; the com- ‘munion of saints.

X.

‘The forgiveness of sins: I believe that God
 ‘in his unspeakable mercy gave his Son Jesus, 25
 ‘and the Son gave himself, to become a surety
 114 ‘for the debt we by our sins had contracted,
 ‘and did offer himself up a sacrifice by his ‘death to God’s justice, and a satisfaction for 'us; thereby reconciling us to God. I believe 'that I have no merit at all of my own, and

 'trust in Christ's merits only for justification,
 'who by his grace also, I believe, delivers us 5 'from the dominion of sin, enabling us to 'repent of it and mortifie it: For we are not 'sufficient of our selves, but our sufficiency is of
 'God, who worketh in us to will and to do of 'his own good pleasure. But I believe that his 10 'merits will stand me in no stead, unless I
 'endeavour after sincere obedience in my own 'person; his merits being imputed to none, but 'only such as apply them to themselves by 'faith; which faith in Christ will certainly put 15 'such as are possessed of it upon obedience to 'God. So that I must endeavour after obedi'ence as much as if that alone were to gain me 115
 'salvation; and I must rely as much upon the 'merits of Christ, as if I were bound to no 20 'endeavours after obedience. As to the active 'obedience of Christ making part of our justifi'cation, I conceive it not a point of faith ab'solutely necessary to salvation, tho' this text
 '1 Cor. i. 30. seems to imply it. I trust in the 25 'merits of Christ as revealed, to be the satis'faction for my sins, and the justification of my
 'person; and think I need not be solicitous
 'about the predestinarian and Calvinistical
 'opinions of bishop Beveridge concerning free-30 'will, reprobation, and election; at least not 'yet a while.

XI.

‘ The resurrection of the body: i. e. I believe ‘ that after a short separation, my soul and body ‘ shall be united together again, in order to 116 ‘ appear before the judgment seat of Christ, 5
 ‘ and be finally sentenced according to my ‘ deserts.

XII.

‘ And the life everlasting: i. e. I believe firmly
 ‘ the immortality of the soul, for God hath said 10
 ‘ that, Eccles. xii. 7. My spirit shall return to God
 ‘ who gave it; and that according to the actions
 ‘ done in the body, it shall either be admitted ‘ to the eternal fruition of the glorious Godhead,
 ‘ or be sent into everlasting fire prepared for the 15
 ‘ devil and his angels.

‘ In these articles of my belief, I learn to ‘ believe, 1, In God the Father, who hath made ‘ me and all the world; 2, In God the Son who ‘ hath redeemed me and all mankind by his 20 ‘ death, and who has satisfied God’s justice for ‘ my sins, upon my faith and my repentance,
 ‘ my future love and obedience, which are the ‘ terms of the new covenant of grace, which I
 117 ‘ believe God hath made with man in the second 25
 ‘ Adam; he promising me on his part, pardon
 ‘ of sins, eternal life and strength to do my duty,
 ‘ by the assistance of God the Holy Ghost; in ‘ whom, 3dly, I learn to believe, and that he ‘ sanctifieth me and all the elect people of God. 30

‘ Which covenant I believe it hath pleased God
‘ to seal to us by a double seal, baptism and the ‘ Lord’s supper. The first being that rite whereby ‘ we are admitted into covenant with God, wherein 5 ‘ the guilt of original sin is washed off, and we ‘ receive strength and power to live righteously, ‘ (not by our own, but by God’s strength) if we ‘ will but diligently and sincerely make use of ‘ it to perform our part of the covenant, and 10 ‘ humbly beg for more; we are restored and ‘ admitted to God’s favour, and have a title ‘ given us to glory in heaven. The second is
‘ the Christian sacrifice, a solemn and lively re- 118
‘ presentation of the death of Christ, and offer-
15 ‘ ing it again to God, as an atonement for sin,
‘ and reconciliation to his favour, wherein we ‘ renew our baptismal covenant with God, who,
‘ I believe, will make good to us the benefits ‘ of it upon our due reception of this holy 20 ‘ eucharist, furnishing us with free grace and ‘ comfort; wherein we verily and indeed receive
‘ the body and blood of Christ to all intents ‘ and purposes, to which he did speak them to ‘ be, and as he meant and designed them to us.
25 ‘ Provided we examine, confess and bewail our ‘ sins before God, with a true sense of, and ‘ sorrow for them, and, taking firm resolutions
‘ for the time to come utterly to relinquish
‘ and forsake them, solemnly engage our selves
30 ‘ in a new and truly Christian course of life;
‘ having a lively faith in God’s mercy thro’

'Christ, with a devout, humble, thankful re-119 'membrance of his death, and being in charity 'with all men, heartily forgiving those who 'have offended us, and making restitution and 'satisfaction to those we have injured. This 5
 'I take to be the sum of what I promised in
 'the second article of my baptismal vow, viz.
 'To believe all the articles of the Christian faith,
 'contained in the Apostles' Creed, and in the 'writings and explanations of pious and learned 10
 'men; all the necessary parts of which I can,
 'I trust in God, confirm by express scripture,
 'or lawful inference from it. And as to some
 'controversial points intermixed, I find them
 'not laid down in scripture as necessary articles 15
 'of faith, and think I need not as yet be over-
 'solicitous about them.

'Tho' I cannot fully comprehend all the 'mysteries in my faith, yet I fully believe 'em,
 'because God has revealed them. 20

120 'The best preparation for the holy sacra'ment, is to endeavour to live constantly ac'cording to the precepts of the gospel, which 'will fit a man to receive at any time.

'Having endeavoured to lay a firm found- 25
 'ation of faith, by God's grace, I proceed now,
 'relying upon the same grace, to form such
 'resolutions as may make my practice suitable
 'thereto, and conformable to God's holy will.
 'In the first place I solemnly renew my bap- 30
 'tismal vow, (begging pardon humbly for any 'rash ones that I have since made) my part of 'which, viz. all that is to be performed by me,

 'I find summed up by the apostle* in these 'words: That denying ungodliness and worldly 5 'lusts, we live godly, righteously and soberly in this 'present world; which is excellently paraphrased
 'in our Church Catechism, summing up all at 'the end of the Ten Commandments, the whole 121
 'of our duty to God, our neighbour and our selves.

10 I. 'I resolve therefore, as 'tis my duty, to be'lieve in God; i. e. to believe the holy scriptures
 'which are his word, taking all the laws therein
 'recited for his laws, and the promises of pardon
 'and happiness to the penitent, and the threat-15 'nings of death to the impenitent, for his pro'mises and threatnings; and to make this 'effectual, I'll endeavour to walk by faith, not
 'by sight, that so I may not be deceived by
 'the false baits of sin, nor prefer momentary to 20 'eternal pleasures. This will encourage me in 'self-denial, and comfort me under all calamities.

II. 'I resolve to fear God, and to love him
 'with all my heart, with all my mind, with all
 'my soul, and with all my strength: I'll en-25 'deavour therefore not to do any thing that 'may offend him, and for his sake will do all 122
 'that he bids me. I'll endeavour always to be 'looking upon God, as always looking upon 'me, which shall make me not dare to do any 30 'ill action in his sight, that I would not do

* Tit. ii. 12.

'before men. And since God sees my inward
 'thoughts, I'll endeavour as much to watch
 'over the motions of my heart as my outward
 'actions, that they may not be wicked nor vain,
 'proud, lustful, &c. or hindring my studies. 5
 'To which end 'twill be useful to keep my 'mind fixed on good or innocent objects, and
 'to examine all thoughts of moment as they 'come into my mind, that by letting an unex-
 'amined thought harbour in my breast, I be 10
 'not drawn into sin : Not as if I could examine 'every one, but such only as have the face of 'sin. I'm resolved to love God as the greatest 'of goods, and hate sin as the worst of evils, 123 'which love I must shew, by endeavouring 15
 'always to please him in avoiding that ; and
 'in all my expressions of love to my fellow 'creatures, so to love the person, as yet to 'hate his sins ; and so to hate his sins, as to 'love the person. I'll endeavour habitually to 20
 'desire spiritual mercies more than temporal,
 'and these only in reference to them ; and there'fore to subject my affections to my reason,
 'and this to the word of God.

III. 'I resolve to worship God, to give him 25
 'thanks, to put my whole trust in him : i. e. in 'his providence for outward supplies as I need
 'em, in his mercy for pardon of sins when I 'repent of them, and in his Spirit for grace and 'inward aid when I endeavour together with 30
 'him. And thus trusting in God, I'll endeavour

'to arm my self with that spiritual courage and 'magnanimity, as to press thro' all duties and 'difficulties whatsoever, for the advancement 124
 'of God's glory and my own happiness. I'll 5 'endeavour to conquer those childish fears I've 'formerly been troubled with; the surest remedy
 'against which is always to keep a good con'science. I will call upon God devoutly in my 'religious addresses to him. I'll be devout at 10 'publick prayers, and at home I must take care
 'to strike as great an awe of the divine presence
 'into my mind, as if I were at church. To 'prevent indevotion, I'll take care to meditate 'before hand seriously, and fix in my mind an 15 'awe of the tremendous majesty I am going to 'address, take fitting opportunities when I am
 'best inclined to, and prepared for prayer. To 'which end 'twill be useful as often as I can to
 'say my evening prayers before nine, my noon, 20 'especially at home, before six o' th' clock. I 'must reject all wandring thoughts, and to pre'vent their intruding, 'twill be useful to keep 125
 'my eyes fixed on my book in chapel, or shut
 'or covered, or so fixed upwards, or some way, 25 'that they bring not in matter for wandring
 'thoughts. I'll endeavour to behave my self 'decently in chapel, bridling my tongue from 'loose talk and jesting, and not speaking with'out necessity during divine service; and not 30 'minding what others do to my own hindrance,
 'by unnecessary bowing, &c. in prayer time:

‘and be as devout as I can at singing of psalms, ‘anthems, &c. I’ll take care to allow my self
 ‘a fit time for sacramental preparation, and to ‘facilitate it, be careful over my nightly ex‘aminations; and besides, unless lawfully or 5
 ‘unavoidably hindered, allow half a day for ‘such preparation.

IV. ‘I resolve to honour his holy Name and ‘his Word: and therefore to make his holy 126 ‘Word the rule of all my actions, as that which 10
 ‘contains fully all my duty. And I will en‘deavour so seriously to hear and read it, as
 ‘that I may constantly be confirmed by it in ‘well-doing, and also perfected in my knowledge
 ‘of what I am to believe, and particularly 15 ‘practise in order to my eternal salvation. To ‘this end also I must be attentive to sermons, ‘which for my improvement ’twill be useful to ‘write down on holy-days as my circumstances
 ‘will permit, not scrupling sometimes to omit 20
 ‘it for a greater good, or other lawful hindrance.

V. ‘I resolve to serve God truly all the days
 ‘of my life. I will therefore endeavour to do ‘every thing in obedience to the will of God
 ‘with a right intention of mind; especially my 25
 ‘acts of charity: and make his glory the aim ‘of all my designs ultimately, tho’ I’m not 127 ‘obliged particularly and immediately to design
 ‘it in every single action. To make these en‘deavours the more effectual, I set my self 30
 ‘these rules, and must take care not to venture

'on any action of moment, where I can de'liberate, 'till I know 'tis lawful, lest by doubt'ing I make all my actions sinful; and as for 'sudden acts, 'tis the safest way not to venture
 5 'on what I have condemned already, till I am 'convinced fully of my mistake. The best way
 'to serve God is to make Christ my pattern,
 'where I doubt, asking my self, what he would 'do; always judging, that what he had com-10 'manded in scripture he would do, or what is 'not expressly or implicitly forbidden there.
 'In all my behaviour I'll endeavour to be con'siderate, and never do any thing that in my 'conscience I am persuaded is unlawful, nor 15 'obstinately oppose the motions of God's holy 'Spirit exciting me to do my duty, nor wholly 128
 'disregard the inward whisperings of my con'science, but incline to them as far as they are 'necessary, and my affairs will permit; but take 20 'care too not to be led into unnecessary scruples
 'and superstition thereby. I must not indulge
 'my own corrupt inclinations contrary to scrip'ture and reason, nor break rashly a well
 'weighed resolution; and take care not to be 25 'imposed on by specious suggestions and false
 'reasoning. 'Twill be proper for me to follow
 'my father's advice and good example, especially 'in relation to swearers, and using gaming or
 'vain recreations on fast-days; and in all real 30 'momentous doubts to incline to the safest 'side.

VI. 'I resolve, as 'tis my duty, to love my 'neighbour as myself, and to do unto all men as 'I would they should do unto me. To love and 129 'honour, and, when need is, to succour my 'father and mother. I'll endeavour to practise 5
 'the great duty of charity in all its branches,
 'being the true love of God and our neighbour,
 'and to do good to all in the best way that 'I can with prudence and discretion.

VII. 'I resolve to honour and obey the king, 10
 'and all that are put in authority, actively or
 'passively: and in the circumstances I am at 'present, to direct my self according to a good
 'rule of my father's.

VIII. 'I resolve to submit my self to all my 10
 'spiritual pastors, and all my governours, and to
 'shew reverence to all my betters: I'll endeavour
 'therefore to carry my self with due respect to 'my superiors, with condescension to my in-
 'feriors, and civilly to all; guarding my self 20
 'against all proud, surly, insolent behaviour
 130 'even to the meanest; and giving my betters
 'all the respect they justly require, and their 'titles in opposition to the mad notions of 'quakers, &c. To this purpose I ought often 25
 'to consider that the meanest of my fellow'creatures in some measure excel me, and
 'therefore be willing to undergo little injuries,
 'deficiencies in their service, and small affronts.

IX. 'I resolve to bear no malice nor hatred 30
 'in my heart, to hurt no body by word or deed,

'but to be true and just in all my dealing. To 'this purpose I'll particularly guard against 'anger and hasty speeches; and that I may 'not sin by anger, take care it be placed on 5 'a due object, and do not exceed its proper 'bounds. I must not be hasty in my spirit,*
 'but defer my anger according to discretion.†
 'I'll take care never to speak evil of any, unless 'justice or charity, or some good reason oblige 131 10 'me to it, so as to do him no harm, and to 'keep from the greater fault. I'll not indulge
 'my self in idle tales, and censurings of others,
 'lest I wound my neighbour's credit, and his
 'charity to whom I speak: and to take away 15 'all occasion of this, not hear with pleasure
 'evil of others, and when I do, conceal it,
 'unless good reason call it forth. To avoid
 'anger, it will be useful to be prepared to bear
 'little affronts, and not to revolve in my mind 20 'aggravations of injuries, and avoid peevishness
 'about meats, &c.

X. 'I resolve to keep my hands from picking
 'and stealing, and my tongue from evil speaking,
 'lying and slandering. To govern my tongue
 25 'I will endeavour always to set a watch before 'my mouth, avoid much speaking, consider as 'well as I can what I speak, and take care that 'no corrupt communication proceed out of my 132
 'mouth,‡ but what either is beneficial, or at * Eccles. vii. 9.

† Prov. xix. 11.

‡ Eph. iv. 29.

'least harmless. I'll avoid all vain swearing,
 'and endeavour to reprove it in others as I can,
 'and some way or other shew my dislike to
 'such company, endeavouring to be very un'easy at hearing God's holy name prophaned, 5
 'not rashly venturing amongst common swearers,
 'and if no other method will do, leaving such 'company as soon as I can. I'll take care too
 'to avoid all lying, making my intentions con-
 'ditionally, and not indulging jesting lyes. I'll 10
 'avoid carefully rash execrations and swearing
 'in thought, and not help out discourse with 'scandalous stories, but as prudently as I can 'discountenance such talk, and vindicate my
 'neighbour's injured credit as well as I can. 15
 'And that I may not be censorious or uncharit-133 'able, and have unjust suspicions and mean
 'opinions of others without reason, I'll take 'care not to be proud and self-conceited my 'self, but meek and humble, often calling to 20
 'mind my great and crying sins.

XI. 'I resolve to keep my body in temperance,
 'soberness and chastity, and not to covet other
 'men's goods. I'll endeavour to avoid all manner
 'of uncleanness, and all filthy company, never 25
 'by smiling, &c. countenancing any obscene
 'jests; but beating down all impure thoughts,
 'and irregular fancies, at their first beginning,
 'not consenting to the least approach towards
 'uncleanness, which my conscience shall check 30
 'me for. I'll endeavour upon the first true

'sense of having drunk enough to leave off;
 'and tho', perhaps, I could bear more, yet deny
 'my self, lest I be ensnared unawares by little 'springs and dissimulations. I must take care
 5 'that hunger or carelessness do not make me 134
 'omit saying grace devoutly to my meals; and
 'endeavour by my example, and other prudent
 'means, to bring others to this good practice.

XII. 'I resolve to be diligent in my own call- 10 ing, and to do my duty in that state of life, to 'which it hath, or shall, please God to call me.
 'To this end I'll take care to do all my actions
 'with prudence and discretion, endeavouring to 'bestow my charity with a due proportion to 15 'what God has given, or rather lent me to 'be accounted for. I'll be wary in the choice 'of my company and friends, and faithful and 'constant to those I shall enter into a state of 'friendship with, as I desire my friend should 20 'be to me. I'll endeavour by a double diligence
 'in my studies, especially, if possible, to redeem
 'my past time, employing all the gifts and en'dowments both of body and soul, to the glory 135
 'and service of my great Creator, improving 25 'the talents he hath given me, to his honour,
 'and my neighbour's benefit; endeavouring to 'improve good thoughts into holy actions, and
 'to take afflictions as tokens of his mercy to 'me, and to amend under them. I'll take care 30 'that my recreations be innocent, and take not 'up too much of my time, suiting them to the 'particular circumstances I may be in ; and not 'be overscrupulous about them, nor childish in 'my behaviour, chiefly regarding my health and 'reputation, and watching that I be not drawn 'to covetousness, anger, cheating or tamely 5

 'hearing swearing in them, so as to seem to 'comply with it ; and therefore 'twill be best
 'to avoid much play, or, with others, than 'known acquaintance. To avoid idleness I 136 'must take care not to loiter away my precious 10
 'time, especially such as is designed for de'votion, and not let my friends rashly persuade
 'me to mispend my time, and must find em'ployment for broken hours.

'Thus have I endeavoured to fence my self 15
 'against sin, by these rules, laying no obligation
 'on my self so as to be guilty of perjury if I
 'break them, binding my self only to my RESO-'LUTIONS, which I think chiefly contain my 'duty, and only so far as they are matter of 20
 'duty. The ENDEAVOURS which are subjoined
 'to the RESOLUTIONS, I take to be useful ; and
 'those which I think most to my present cir'cumstances, which yet I fear will be most 'difficult, I have marked with red lines [the 25
 'original was so marked] and purpose to be 'most careful in observing them. Yet not ty'ing my self up strictly to 'em, but so far as 137 'they are not matter of duty, leaving my self
 'at liberty to alter, omit, or neglect them, as 30
 'I shall see just occasion upon reasonable

'grounds and good advice. I am not for 'making too many resolves, because I have 'found the sad inconvenience, and been in'snared thereby. And I take some of the 5 'bishop's about our thoughts to be unnecessary,
 'impracticable and pernicious to health, as wit'ness — In short, I intend not to be enslaved
 'to any odd expression I may have used, my in'tention is sincere to perform my duty to God, 10 'my neighbour and self, and therefore must ob'serve these ENDEAVOURS only as they are 'useful to it in each particular. Taking care
 'in general to be considerate, to keep out of 'temptation by diligent employment in a lawful 15 'calling, or harmless exercise and devotion :
 'endeavouring to secure my duty in the first 'place, and these rules only as they are sub-
 'servient to it, lest I lose that which alone is 138
 'necessary, and insnare my self in superstition 20 'and sin by those means which I choose to 'keep out of it. Circumstances will alter. **Be*
 'ye wise as serpents, and harmless as doves.
 '†Give not that which is holy unto the dogs,
 'neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they 25 'trample them under their feet, and turn again
 'and rend you. Offer not the sacrifice of fools.
 '‡He that will come after me let him deny him- 'self.

'And now, O my God, I am not able of my 30 'self to do any thing that is good ; 'tis thy self,

* Matt. x. 16.

† vii. 6.

‡ xvi. 24.

'my God and my guide, that I solely and 'wholly depend upon. O for thine own sake,
 'for thy Son's sake, and for thy promise sake,
 'do thou both make me to know what thou
 'wouldst have me to do, and then help me to 5 139 'do it. Teach me first what to resolve upon,
 'and then enable me to perform my resolutions.
 'Keep me, if it seem good to thee, from scru'pulousness and superstition, carelessness and
 'profaneness; that I may chearfully walk with 10
 'thee in the ways of holiness here, and rest
 'with thee in the joys of happiness hereafter,
 'thro' Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.'

Both Good-Friday and Easter-Eve he fasted till the evening, and on the latter of these days 15 he rose about half an hour after five, tho', as we have observed, he had not slept the preceding night. He again examined his whole life past, and that he might do it the more exactly, he made use of the catalogue of sins at the end of 20 his Nelson, as well as that in his Officium Eu- charisticum. And from this time, to the day of his death inclusive, I find the accounts of 140 his sacramental examinations much larger, and more exact than formerly. 25

Understanding his mother was to be in London in the Easter week, he writ to her thither on Easter-Monday; and this being his last letter to her, I shall give you part of it, that you may see how he took his leave of her. In the first place 30

he hopes, before she leaves the city, she will trouble her self so far as to let him know how all dear relations do, particularly how his father has born up against the remaining part of the 5 winter since he left him. And then after a pretty deal of business, in which he was always very exact, towards the conclusion he proceeds thus: "My business generally leading me to "write to my father, but having now an oppor-10 "tunity to do it to your self, I should seem "unmindful of those particular and affectionate
"kindnesses you have been all along pleased to
"shew me, more especially when I was last with 141
"you; did I not return you my hearty thanks 15 "for them. Tho' at present I have no great "prospect of it, yet I trust God will some time
"or other so bless with success my earnest en"deavours of making my self fit for the support
"and comfort of my dear parents, that I may 20 "make returns of gratitude in my actions, rather "than my words. But however he pleases to "order that, be assured, madam, I shall never "want the will to do it so long as any sense
"of duty remains in me, which, as it has had 25 "so many additional helps of kindnesses from "you to fix it in my breast, will (I have great "reason to hope) never be rooted out thence."

The last letter he writ to his father was the following one.

HON. SIR,

“ Upon seeing the date of this you’ll
“ be apt to think something more than ordinary 5 “ has happened, I having not used to write on “ a Sunday. The occasion of it is this. On “ Friday was sevensnight, just as I was lain “ down in bed, before I had put out my candle,
“ a tickling cough seized me, which causing me 10
“ to spit, I was surprized to find it blood ; so “ taking up my pot, I continued spitting in that “ manner and coughing, by reason of the sharp“ ness of the taste of the blood, for a little “ time ; designing to ask Mr. Roper’s advice the 15 “ first opportunity, which happened not to be “ till Tuesday last, when I was taken with my “ coughing and spitting blood again, much more “ than the first time, occasioned, I believe, by 143 “ winding up the clock a little eagerly. Giving 20
“ Mr. R. an account of what happened, (and “ that tho’ some overstraining my self might “ cause this, yet no such could be the occasion “ of my first seizure, I being then perfectly “ easy, and having been sitting an hour or two 25
“ in my study, and going to bed too in good “ time) he advised me if I was taken thus again
“ to be let blood, and to take some styptic “ electuary, because he could not easily tell “ whether it proceeded from my lungs, or fell 30 “ down from my head thither, which is the “apothecary’s opinion, and to avoid straining “my self on any account. Accordingly I have “since got a boy to wind up the clock for me.

 “But on Wednesday night, with only laughing
 5 “heartily and suddenly, my cough and spitting “came on me again, but not so much as the “night before. The next day was not thought “proper to be blooded in, because of my ex- 144 “ercise in the schools, nor Friday last, because 10 “’twas very wet and cold. That night foolishly “going to help the boy in the easiest part of “winding up the clock, I was, in doing it, “again taken with my cough, &c. tho’ but a “little. But the same night, as soon as ever 15 “I had laid my self down in bed, which was “in good time, and without any emotion or “hurry, having been quietly half an hour in my “study, I was seized worse than ever before, “coughing and bringing up for near half an 20 “hour, a great quantity of thick fresh blood.
 “Upon which I resolved next day to keep up
 “and be blooded, as I accordingly was by Mr.
 “Roper’s advice ; tho’ the day was not so good
 “as might have been wished, but I kept a fire
 25 “in my chamber, and have stayed within ever “since ; tho’ I thank God I’m now so well,
 “that I believe I shall, with Mr. R’s leave, go 145
 “to chapel this evening. I did not faint in the “least at bleeding, tho’ I was somewhat afraid 30 “of it before I felt it. Mr. R. tells me my “blood is too good, yet bids me have a care of “eating salt meats, or drinking strong drinks ;

“and by my being subject to bleed at the “nose, as my brother also is, he is apt to “believe we have too much blood in our “vessels, which he thinks has occasioned my 5 “illness. I beg you and my mother not to be “concerned, for my good friend takes as much “care of me as possibly can be : he was twice “with me yesterday; he tells me I should take “ground-ivy-tea, and plantane, and other styptic 10 “herbs he mentioned, of which I shall have an “electuary from the apothecary to take two or “three times a day, and to go abroad with, 146 “which shall stanch the blood, and heal any “thing that may be out of order. I hope I shall 15
“have no more returns of my spitting blood ;
“if I have in any considerable degree, you shall “be sure to hear. Mr. Roper says I must then “be blooded again, and take the advice of a “doctor. 20

“P.S. About 4. I’ve been at church, and “am come down now into public again by Mr.
“Roper’s advice, who was with me after dinner.
“He bid me be sure not to fright you, because “he hoped all was very well : but he said I 25 “must avoid all straining my self, and taking “cold, which Doctor Wagstaff had told him
“after bleeding was of ill consequence, tho’
“little regarded. Our letters are not yet come
“in from London, but if I receive any this post, 30

“you may expect to have it answered, and a “farther account of my health the latter end of 147
 “this, or the beginning of next week.”

Upon the receipt of this, his father concluded
 5 him in a very dangerous condition, and hastened away his brother to him, with orders, that, if he were able to bear the journey, he should come home, where during a lingering sickness (as he thought it would prove) he might find that 10 tender care and attendance which his constant duty and affection had so well deserved. His brother accordingly began his journey on As- cension-Day, presuming the charity of it would excuse his travelling on so great a festival. He 15 had promised to write from Cambridge the very next post; but his father was very much sur-prized to receive a letter, which, by the super-scription, appeared to be neither his, nor his brother's, and upon opening found it thus.

20 REV. SIR,

148

“I am extremely concerned that I am “obliged to acquaint you with the most afflict“ing news of a very great loss. It has pleased “God to take to himself one of the best youths 25 “that I ever knew in this college, and for whom “every body here had the greatest value. Mr.
 “Roper will write to you next post, and give “you the particulars of the manner of his “death: in the mean time I know I need not “pray you to bear this loss with a suitable “resignation; nor after the character I have “mentioned, is it necessary to say it is your “son that we have lost. Your younger son is “very well recover’d of the great surprize he 5

 “was in on his first hearing the sad news.
 “Every thing in relation to a decent funeral “shall be taken care of by, Sir,

Your most afflicted

Friend and Servant, 10

CHR. ANSTEY.

MAY 9, 1714.

140 The very next post came the following letter from his brother.

St. John's, May 11. 15
A Ground-Chamber.

HON. SIR,

“I must intreat you to cease your “grief for my dear brother’s untimely, yet happy “departure out of this world; for he is now 20
 “(in the judgment of all that knew him) much “happier than we; and when you hear the “circumstances which preceded it, you’ll, I’m “confident, agree with me in that phrase I used “just now of happy departure. This therefore 25
 “that follows, you may depend upon as certain,
 “for indeed I cannot affirm any thing of my “self, who did but set out from home the “morning next to that fatal night. He was “in company with Sir Newton that night, till 30

“about eight o’ th’ clock, and then retired, tell“ing him he had business at home, (which was “to prepare himself for the blessed sacrament 150
 “next morning, this being Ascension-Eve) ac-5 “cordingly having examined himself (as was “found by a paper of his own writing) and “pray’d for devotion in celebrating those mys“teries (as may be seen by the books that were “found open on his desk) it pleased Almighty
 10 “God then and there to take him to himself, “and that he should die such a death, as he “had (I doubt not) often desired, in that prayer
 “of Doctor Wichcot, which I wrote for him “into his Nelson; when he was neither un-15 “prepared, nor his accounts unready, when he “was in a perfect renunciation of the guise of this “mad and sinful world, and not being tormented
 “by a lingering sickness; for in all probability “he was taken away in an instant, having not 20 “made the least noise, not even so much as to “be heard by his good neighbour Mr. Roper.
 “The time he died, happy for him, unhappy 151
 “for all that knew him, is supposed to be about “nine or ten a clock on Wednesday night. His 25 “body was interred in the chancel of Allhallows “church on Friday night, and his funeral very “decently performed the Sunday night follow“ing. There was within the college walls a “very great attendance of fellows and scholars, 30 “yea, and fellow-commoners too, (who are “generally negligent at these times) but a much “greater multitude expected the bier at the “gates. For having the week before performed “public exercise in the schools with great ap“plause, his death was more universally taken “notice of, and sadly lamented too, as may be 5 “seen by the ingenious elegies which people so “freely made on this occasion ; some of which,

“I hope, will e’er long be sent you. The 152 “master, when I was with him yesterday to “write my rediiit, told me, he hoped I should 10 “continue in health, tho’ he could not but own
“the great loss befallen both my self and the “college ; so enquiring after your health, dis“missed me. After which I went to Mr. Baker,
“who desired me to give his service to you, 15
“and tell you that he joined in bewailing the “loss of such an ornament to the college.
“Whither (tho’ I was in the town on Friday
“in the afternoon) I came not before Saturday,
“but no nearer the chamber than Mr. Roper’s 20 “door, and can’t find in my heart to go any “higher. I have, indeed, no relish for the “college, and should not abide it, were it not “for some good friends, whom I am very much “obliged to. But after six weeks I shall have 25 “kept my term, and then, I hope, to see you “again, and take a little school-burden off from 153 “you, which, I am sure, must lie heavy, when “such a sad addition comes to it ; and what“ever alterations I find in my self, I am pretty 30 “sure they are in no less degree at home on “such an occasion. Pray, sir, give my duty to “my mother.

Your obedient Son,

PHILIP BONWICKE.”

5 P.S. “Mr. Roper desired me to give his “service to you, and beg your pardon for not “writing according to promise, for he is in no “condition to do it. On Wednesday night he “received an account of the death of Doctor 10 “Turner, president of Corpus Christi Oxon. his “best friend in the world; and on Thursday
“had the shock of finding my dear brother’s “dead body in his study. He desired me also “to tell you, that he thinks his death proceeded 15 “from an extravasation of blood upon his lungs, “occasioned from winding up the clock that day, 154
“which he had not done for a week before.”

There can little be added to this pathetic account of his death. It must only be observed, 20 that next day being St. John Port. Lat. one of their foundation days, (as they call it) as well as Holy Thursday, his death was not so soon discovered as otherwise it might have been.
He was then alone, his brother and his other 25 chamber-fellow being in the country; and tho’ he was asked after by several, because miss’d at the public communion that day, where all were obliged to be present; yet it passed off without further enquiry till after evening prayer,

when his dear friend (with whom he had last conversed, and very chearfully, as he said, tho' he complained his head was out of order) ask'd the bedmaker whether he lay at home that 155 night, and she answering no, he, knowing his 5 constant regularity in that and all other particulars, bid her go and tell Mr. Roper, whose mind immediately misgave him; and going up and forcing open the study door, he found him sitting in his chair cold and stiff, and so leaning 10 back that the chair lay against the door, his candle by him unlighted (as was supposed) that he might be the more retired and undisturbed; his Officium Eucharisticum open before him, with a paper in it, containing the abstract of 15 that week, from Sunday morning to the end of that day, Wednesday; his Nelson, Common-Prayer-book, and others lying by it. Thus he, whose lamp was always burning, had by the good providence of God now trimmed it, ready 20 for the approach of the Bridegroom; and gave up his soul to his blessed Redeemer in that very place, where he had often before offered it up in prayer. This was an εὐθυνασία, far 156 beyond what the poor heathen emperor could 25 wish for himself and his friends, being heightened by a hope full of immortality.

By his constant regular reading of Nelson, he was at this time more especially prepared for his dissolution. For after he had finished 30 his resolutions on Easter-Eve, the discourses and prayers for that day are all preparatory for death ; and one of them is that very prayer of Doctor Wichcot's his brother mentions. On Easter-Day, and its two attendant festivals, he 5 was directed by that good book to meditate on Christ's resurrection and his own, and the immortality of the soul ; to set his affections on things above ; to prefer the interest of his soul before all the advantages of this life ; to prepare 10 his body by purity and sobriety for that honour and happiness it is designed for at the resurrection ; and was furnished with suitable prayers. On St. Philip and St. James he was instructed in 157

the duty of self-denial, and encouraged to part 15 with life and all earthly comforts, and rather die and suffer the greatest hardships, than out of a fondness to this world and the enjoyments of it to do any thing unbecoming the religion of Jesus Christ. The discourse on the Rogation
20 days is wholly upon prayer, teaching us what we ought to pray for ; upon what conditions God has promised to hear our prayers ; in what manner we ought to pray ; what prayers are most acceptable to God, and most necessary
25 for us ; what are the great advantages of the frequent and devout exercise of this duty ; as that it is the best method to get the mastery of our evil inclinations, and to overcome our vicious habits : it preserves a lively sense of 30 our duty upon our minds, and fortifies us against those temptations that continually assault us :

158 it raises our souls above this world by making spiritual objects familiar to them, and supports us under the calamities and crosses of this life, by sanctifying such afflictions : it leads us gradually to the perfection of Christian piety, and preserves that union between our souls and God, in which our spiritual life consists. Immediately after reading this and the meditation for the day in his Officium Eucharisticum, he betook himself to this devout exercise, and the examination of himself preparatory to the holy communion. After which he went to evening-prayer in the chapel, where he was called upon in the voice of the church, to ascend in heart and mind after his blessed Lord. In obedience to which call about eight o' th' clock, according to his brother's letter, and his own minutes, he betook himself again to examination and penitence ; and being acted by a nobler principle than the fear of death, prepared himself, in the best manner it was possible, for death, and the actual ascent to the blessed Jesus, which immediately followed.

He had left papers in three several places of his Nelson, which shewed what parts he had last made use of ; the first was at the prayers for Trinity-Sunday, the second in the preparation for death on Easter-Eve, and the third in the examination of himself on all Fridays in the year. That he had finished his sacramental preparation according to the method of the

Officium Eucharisticum, may be gathered from his having consecrated, (as it appeared he had) and set apart what he designed for the offertory the next day; which is one of the last things
5 to be done according to that book, that charity may crown the devotions of the day. And in such charities, out of his little stock, he had expended in three years and about eight months, the whole time from his admission at St. John's
10 to his death, above four pounds. Nor did his 160 charity exert it self only in almsgiving, but in all the other branches of it, particularly in that of hoping the best, and judging the best of others. Of which, among other instances that 15 might be given, take this of July 7, 1713. which being a state holy-day, he absented himself from the public prayers, but his brother was present at 'em. However, for this he condemned him 20 not, but thus charitably express'd himself in a letter to his father that day: "I dare say my "brother would not have gone, had he thought
"he could not lawfully." He shewed his great charity for souls, in the care he took to instruct 25 some of the meanest college servants in the principles of religion and piety, and helping them to good books for that purpose; a charity which exceeds all corporal ones, as much as the soul is superior to the body.

I am not able to give you any better account 161
30 of his studies for the three months of this year

that he was in college, than I gave you for the eight months of the former year ; but this I am sure of, that he continued the same early riser, that he had been all along, to the last day of his life ; and the Sunday before his death, when 5 he was obliged to keep in on account of his illness, and having been let blood the day before, I find him rising at half an hour after six, tho' sick at that very time, and immediately betaking himself to his prayers. And indeed it 10 is wonderful to consider, that he who had such an infirm body, so often ailing, would not indulge it that ease, which any one but himself would have judged necessary.

He went on in this time in reading Echard's 15 Roman History ; Doctor Hammond on the New Testament, whom by this time he had gone 162 almost quite through ; Terence, Tully, and Hebrew Psalms. He read also Fontenell's Plurality of Worlds, Appian's Roman History in Greek, 20 Hooker's Ecclesiastical Polity, (as appears by the abstract he made out of each) and Whiston's Astronomy. He made one Greek theme, one copy of Latin verses, two theses, one Latin and one Greek declamation ; besides the public ex- 25 ercises at the school, which his brother in his letter took notice of.

And now if any one shall compare the rules given by Doctor Barecroft, in his advice to a son in the university, with the practice of this 30 pious youth, he will find it to come up to 'em in almost all the particulars ; tho' it is a question whether he had ever read that advice, it being not among his books, nor any where taken notice of in his minutes. His brother sent his 5 father several of those copies of verses which were made on his death, one of which I shall transcribe.

On the Death of my pious Friend and 163
Schoolfellow, AMBROSE BONWICKE.

10 WITH honest tears to praise the virtuous dead,
 Is the best office men to men have paid.
 So the great patterns of past ages slept,
 And so our great forefathers nobly wept.
 The good, the young, the lovely and the great,
 15 Have always by the muse been laid in state,
 And in immortal verse surviv'd their fate. }
 The list'ning crowds with glorious heat were fir'd,
 And strove to be what they so much admir'd.
 Wing'd by the muse, whene'er the hero dies,
 20 He takes possession of his native skies.
 The pious monarch who adorn'd his throne, 164
 And made the cares of all mankind his own,
 The purple he deserv'd must ever have ;
 His fame, his worth, his honour know no grave.
 25 If but a swain, a sighing Daphnis dies,
 The murm'ring rivers to new sorrows rise :
 The mourning spreads thro' all the echoing hills,
 And Rhodope complains in weeping rills ;
 The frozen Hebrus bursts with heaving sighs,
 30 And pours new streams of pity from his eyes ;
 The morning lowers and the sun looks pale,
 The flowers hang their heads, and birds bewail.

- And shall no tears, no tributary verse,
 In lonely strains attend our present hearse?
 Must all be swallow'd in the gulf of death,
 And shall his fame fly from us with his breath?
- 165 Will no kind muse revive the sinking youth, 5
 Adorn'd with letters, constancy and truth;
 Dress'd in the piety of silver hairs,
 Finish'd in virtue, tho' a youth in years;
 Who dy'd in life's gay prime and spring of joy,
 Who in the prime of life was fit to die? 10
 Ah no—my friend, a thousand ties invite,
 Worth, education, friendship all unite,
 And say it is my duty now to write. }
 Condemn my verses, but applaud my love,
 Virtue like yours 'tis virtue to approve. 15
 Fain to thy merit would my sorrow raise
 A strong, a well built monument of praise:
 Such soft complainings as sweet Cowley sung,
 When his sad harp to Harvey's name he strung;
- 166 Harvey, whom all the fields of Cambridge knew, 20
 On ev'ry tree the sacred friendship grew,
 Till the dull morn drave on th' unwilling light,
 As conscious what was done that dismal night.
 Pangs sharp as his, fair youth, for thee I feel,
 More beautiful his verse, not more his zeal. 25
 Forgive my want of power to commend,
 Unlike the poet, tho' alike the friend.
- Ah! hapless youth! by what mistake of fate,
 The sun which rose so bright, so soon should set?
 Why wast thou torn from nature's happiest bloom, 30
 From life's fair dawning hurry'd to the tomb?
- 167 Thy rising virtues were with pleasure seen,
 And nature shew'd us what thou might'st have been:
 But while we gaz'd, and lov'd the heav'nly boy,
 The grasp of death chill'd thee and all our joy. 35
 So the fair product of the flow'ry bed,
 Which rais'd above the rest its painted head,

The garden's glory, and its master's pride,
 Bedeck'd with beauteous lights on ev'ry side;
 Struck by a sudden blast dissever'd lies,
 And all its colour, all its beauty dies.

5 But ah! we think amiss, and wrong his fame,
 His race was shorter, but his prize the same.
 We talk of deaths and dark untimely graves,
 And blame the happy providence which saves.
 We dress the pious youth in our own fears,

168

10 And count the age of saints by common years.
 While he serenely happy sits above,
 Smiles at our sorrows, and forgives our love.
 What is long life? What all the shine of courts?
 What is the world, its business or its sports?

15 The seat of danger, error and mistake,
 Where we adore and fear the things we make.
 He view'd the gilded toys with other eyes,
 Who while on earth convers'd above the skies.
 He reach'd the goal, e'er others had begun,

20 And rested sooner, who had faster run.
 Tell not his days, his age of virtues tell;
 He liv'd a length of time, who liv'd so well.

Hail! happy youth! discharg'd from flesh and blood, 169
 And from the power of not being good.

25 Hereafter when we wash with tears thy urn,
 'Tis not for thee, but for our selves we mourn.

LAUR. JACKSON, A.B.

There was a monument erected for him in the chancel of Allhallows, near the place of his 30 burial, with the following inscription made by the author of the foregoing verses.

170

Respice paululum,
 Si sincera fides, si candida veritas,
 Si flos iuventae redolens virtutem
 Ad quod respicias habet :
 Hic iacet quod post se reliquit 5
 Impatiens terrae AMBROSIUS BONWICKE,
 Egregius multi nominis iuvenis,
 Maioris multo postea futurus.
 Qui perbreve vitae emensus stadium,
 Magnum virtutis circulum feliciter complevit ; 10
 Et satis vixit.
 Recepit pia sancti Iohannis aedes,
 Nec magis piam alluit Camus aedem,
 Castumq; formavit iuvenem sinuq; fovit,
 Nec magis castum fovit unquam iuvenem, 15
 Educens bonam in frugem semina,
 Quae ludus olim iecerat literarius,
 Caelestis irrigaverat favor,
 Sincero ipse excoluerat pectore.
 Obiit Maii 5<sup>to</sup> 1714, aetatis suae 23. 20

PHILIPPUS BONWICKE

*Eiusdem Aedis Alumnus fratrem charissimum ut Pietate, ita et Morte quam proxime secutus est. Ob. enim 14. Mar.
 eiusdem Anni, Aetat. suae 18.*

171 This small addition was made to the in- 25 scription upon the death of his brother, who died of the small pox, and was buried close by him ; by whose death this account has lost much of its perfection and beauty. But such as it is it may be depended upon as faithful, 30 having been chiefly made up out of his letters which his father had preserved, and those other private papers, which were never designed to see the light, but by his sudden death had the good fortune to outlive him.

If now upon the reading of this it should please God to move the heart of any young
5 person to remember his Creator in the days of his youth, and to imitate the example here set before him ; let him immediately fall down on his knees, and give him thanks, that by his good providence he hath put this little book
10 into his hand, and his grace into his heart, to make a right use of it ; and beg the continuance of that grace, that his good intentions prove not abortive. To which purpose it may be 172 useful to take this caution along with him, viz.
15 that he aim not the equalling it in every particular at first, but content himself with a firm resolution of abandoning all known sin, and then proceed to those degrees of piety, mortification and self-denial, he here meets with, as 20 he finds he is able, and that he try the strength of his shoulders before he too much increases the burthen. So shall there be joy in the presence of the angels of God, and of the spirit of this young man, among those of other just 25 men made perfect, and some addition even to the happiness of heaven. Which God of his infinite mercy grant for the merits of Christ Jesus our Saviour, the only perfect example, to whom with the Holy Spirit, three Persons, and one

glorious Lord God, be given all honour, praise and thanksgiving, by all angels, all men, all creatures, for ever and for ever. Amen. Amen.

FINIS.

---

VISIT TO CAMBRIDGE

BY

FRANCIS BURMAN,

A.D. 1702.

---

VISIT TO CAMBRIDGE BY FRANCIS BURMAN, A.D. 1702.

July 17. I set out for Cambridge in a coach 21 and four. We started from London at 5 a.m., and arrived safe at Cambridge about 8 p.m.
Our road passed for the most part over hills 5 and dales, and we were often much charmed by most pleasant views, opening to a great distance across the plains. Near Cambridge is a regal palace called Audley house, equalled by few in grandeur of structure and of the apartments, 10 though now little frequented owing to the remoteness of its position. It was built by the noble lord Audley; and from him Charles II.
had bought it. It is said to contain a porch so spacious, that a man of powerful voice can 15 scarcely be heard from the further end. It will soon be demolished, because its owner cannot afford to keep it up.

July 18. a.m. I witnessed the celebration of the university solemnities. The vicechancellor 20 sat on an elevated seat: the proctor presented 22 to him those who were to receive doctors' degrees. Next the professors of theology, law and medicine, inaugurated by an introductory speech the doctors in their several faculties, setting a cap on their heads and handing them a book and ring. The new doctors knelt before 5 the vicechancellor, who confirmed their degree. They themselves took an oath, touching the gospel, and then kissing the book. Afterwards letters were read from many, who, being hindered by grave cause from appearing in person, en- 10 treated, as the manner is, that doctors' degrees might be conferred on them by proxy.

p.m. I saw St. John's college with its fine library: the very learned public librarian, Laugh- 15 ton, escorted me. Towards evening a most sumptuous dinner was set out in all the colleges, chiefly in honour of the doctors, who from the several colleges attained the coveted degree. I dined in the hall of Trinity college, on the invitation of the master, the most learned Bentley. 20 We dined at 8 or 9 tables; the dishes, with few exceptions, were square wooden platters. Before dinner I had a conversation with Dr. Kuster or Neocorus, respecting his Suidas &c.

July 19. a.m. I saw King's college, whose 25 chapel is the finest and most elegant of all; the pavement of marble, the stalls of cunning work- 23 manship. On the right side it has a very well stored library: from the roof we looked down upon the whole city and neighbourhood. 30 p.m. Dr. Laughton took me to Trinity college library, arranged in a very spacious room, and furnished with many excellent books ; and, as it appears, lately restored. Afterwards I saw Dr. Laughton's own very curious library

 5 and coins. He is a fellow of Trinity college, and a man of great erudition ; he has very lately edited Virgil. I also saw the library of Corpus Christi college, rich in MSS.

July 20. 6 a.m. I was present at morning
 10 prayers in the chapel of Trinity college, which is also very noble, and will bear a comparison with King's college chapel.

In St. Michael's church I saw the bishop of Ely administer the confirmation of baptism, by 15 laying hands on many sons of Christians. The sponsors are thus set free from the promise made in baptism. The form, which is to be found in the Anglican liturgy, was employed.

p.m. Saw Corpus Christi library. The MSS., 20 of great number and value, are arranged in a room separately. Then in the public library I examined the Codex Bezae. It contains on one side the greek text written in round, uncial letters, without any distinction of verses, marks
 25 or accents : on the opposite side a latin version, rendered word for word, in letters of exactly the same form as the greek. The latin Version begins Matt. i 12 ; the greek text c. i 20, παραλαβεῖν Μαριάμ. After Matthew follows
 30 John, then Luke, then Mark to c. xvi 15 κηρύξατε τὸ εὐαγγέλιον. At Oxford 28 July

Dr. Mills informed me that this change of the usual order must be regarded as a mark of novelty: for the monks or other scribes of this copy had arranged the apostles first, then apostolic men. The following page does indeed 5 contain a latin version, corresponding to the greek text, down to the words already mentioned, but in a later hand. On the back of the same page is the remainder of St. Mark's gospel, written in the same later hand: but the 10 greek and latin are placed here side by side on the same page, a thing which you can find nowhere else in the whole codex. The following leaf contains on the first page the latin version of St. John's third epistle, from the words ver. 11 15 qui male facit, non videt Deum &c. to the end, where the colophon runs thus:

EPISTULÆ IOHĀNIS III

EXPLICIT

INCIPIT

20

ACTUS APOSTOLORUM.

- 25 On the reverse of the same leaf begin the Acts, written again in the same hand and style, gr. and lat., and continued to c. XXII 29 ἀπέστησαν ἀπ' αὐτοῦ. Hence I conjecture that this codex 25 formerly, when entire, comprised, beside the gospels and Acts, all the epistles; if the remainder still lurk in France, it ought to be defective at the end of 3 Jo. and to contain those few verses of Mark.

30

There is a great gap Matth. VI 20—IX 2.
In the margin we often read

ΑΝΑΓΝΟC ΜΑ ΠΕΡΙ ΤΟΥ CΑΒΒΑΤΟΥ.
————— ——— ——— ΚΥΡΙΑΚΗ.

5 Matth. XXI. The three magi; Caspar,
Malchus, Patisaria.

The robbers crucified with Christ; Gemas, to the right,
Demas, to the left.

10 — XXV 30. ἀνάγνωσμα εἰς τὴν μεγάλην πέμπτην.

— XXVII 1. ————— εἰς τὸν παρασκευτον παρασκύγην.

15 Observe that in the colophon of John's gospel, and in the heading of each page of Luke's gospel, we read SECUNDUM LUCAN; in one page only of Luke, and in the colophon to his gospel, SECUNDUM LUCAM. Does not this agree with 20 Dr. Thomas Smith's conjecture, who supposes that the name Lucas is contracted from Lucanus, because in an ancient latin version in the Cottonian library we read exactly secundum Lu- canum?

25 I also saw a MS. of several epistles in a 26 small character.

I then paid my respects to Dr. Covell, the very courteous master of Christ's college. He possesses two fine copies of the New Testament, 30 but, as I was not at the time aware of the fact,
I did not see them.

Professors of Cambridge university.

Henry James, D.D., regius professor of divinity.

Humfr. Gower, D.D., lady Margaret's prof. of divinity.

Thomas Smoult, D.D., prof. of casuistry. 5

George Oxenden, dean of the arches, prof. of law.

Chr. Greene, reg. prof. med.

William Whiston, M.A., prof. of mathematics.

James Talbot, M.A., prof. of hebrew. 10

Joshua Barnes, B.D., prof. of greek.

John Luke, D.D., prof. of arabic.

July 21. I returned to London.

---

VISIT TO CAMBRIDGE

BY

ZACHARIAS CONRAD VON UFFENBACH,

JULY AND AUGUST, 1710.

---

VISIT TO CAMBRIDGE BY ZACHARIAS CONRAD VON UFFENBACH
JULY AND AUGUST, 1710.

III

ON Sunday 27 July 1710 we set out at 1 8 a.m. from Littlebury, and reached Cam- bridge before 12, a distance of 10 English miles.
Before the town we observed the old Saxon
5 graves, which are described at length in the Délices d'Angleterre, Tom. I. p. 29. I need therefore say no more about them.

On Monday morning, 28 July, it rained very hard till noon, when we took a little stroll to 10 view the town, which however, excepting the colleges, is no better than a village, or if I must compare it to a town, is like Höchst. So too the inns, of which there are two, are very ill appointed and expensive. We had a re-15 commendation from baron Nimtsch to a widow, 2
Mistress Lemons, who gave us indeed a friendly entertainment, though the board and lodging were none of the best.

In the afternoon our hostess sent for an 20 Italian, Ferrari, to speak to us, as he spoke some french, and to serve as our guide. He was very polite and offered to shew us everything. He changed his religion in Geneva, and on the recommendation of some ministers of that city was received into the university here 5 and created Doctor iuris; he also receives a pension from the queen. He led us from one college to another, and told us the state of this university, which is certainly very bad. We were amazed that no courses of lectures [collegia] 10 at all are delivered, and only in winter 3 or 4 lectures are given by the professors to the bare walls, for no one comes in. On the other hand the scholars or students have some of them a professor or old socium collegii, whom they call 15 tutorem, who instructs them, the noblemen and other men of fortune, called fellow-commoners, admitting the poor, who serve them as famuli, to attend with them. In summer, however, scarcely anything is done, both students and 20 professors being either in the country or in London. Further information respecting the university may be seen at length, both in the 3 printed Notitia acad. Cantabr. and in Chamberlayne, and more particularly in Bentham's En- 25 geländischer Kirch-und Schulen-Staat.

On the 29th of July we visited with Dr. Ferrari first Trinity college, the finest of all the colleges here. It is a double and right royal structure, with two square courts. We saw first 30 the chapel, in the first court to the right, very handsome, well-lighted, long, but somewhat narrow. The altar is of wood, very massive and well made. Behind it we noticed four very fine pictures, painted on the wall with water colours, representing Christ, St. John, Mary the Mother, and Mary Magdalene. There is nothing else there worthy of notice. Dr. Ferrari next shewed us the hall, or room in which the fellows and scholars dine. This is very large, but ugly, smoky, and smelling so strong of bread and meat, that it would be impossible for me to eat a morsel in it. On both sides there are placed long, narrow tables, and wooden benches. Afterwards we went into the second court, to the library, which is a large building, exceedingly handsome, and set apart for the purpose. It could not be handsomer or more convenient for a library. It is very light, long and well-lighted, and also highly decorated. For not only is the floor inlaid with white and black marble, but also the cases are all of oak, with excellent and very artistic carvings. It is very neat, made like little closets;—an excellent device, because in the first place you can stow away many more books, on both sides and on the walls; and in the next place it is good for those who study there, as they are not put out by seeing others facing them. At the top and bottom of the room there are locked closets, four that is in all, with doors of open work. Here the mss. are kept; the other closets have no doors. The arrangement of the printed books is not at all good, as it is not according to subjects, or as it is also called, according to faculties, but according to benefactors, as they have been bequeathed. This is probably done 5 in order to allure others by such good examples. So too the donor's arms are suspended over each. The following likenesses are also hung up, 1) the duke of Somerset, cut in stone. 2) lord Halifax. 3) Hacket Episcopus Lichfieldiensis, 10 as one of the principal benefactors. 4) Isaac Barrow, who was master or praefectus, or praeses collegii, and 5) Henricus Puckering, alias Newton baronettus, who bequeathed his library, consisting mainly of French and Italian books. At 15 the end of the room is a little gallery, which you enter by folding-doors, and which commands a fine view over the handsome walks of this 5 college and into the country. Of books we saw none this time, except such as the librarian 20 shewed us of his own accord. For it is my general custom in the first instance to confine my attention to what the librarian regards as most remarkable, and to his observations upon it: but afterwards I search for myself, having 25 often found far better things for myself, owing to the ignorance of many librarians, which one cannot but wonder at and deplore. Yet here too the proverb holds good: saepe etiam est olitor verba opportuna locutus. This time we 30 saw first of all the apographum of the cod. N. Test.

Bezae. For it is not the codex itself, as Bentham in his Engel. Kirch-und Schulen-Staat, p. 354 very wrongly asserts; but the codex itself is in the public library of this university, beside which 5 each college has its private library. That this is only a copy, is plain at first sight; but it is further proved by the evidence, which we find at the beginning of the book, in these words: Hic liber exscriptus est ex antiquissimo libro manu-
10 scripto quem Dn. Beza misit ad Academiam Cantabrigiensem pro monumento servando. However, it is very neatly written and on vellum, but only the Greek text. The opposite page is left empty all throughout, to receive the Latin
15 version. I am surprised that any one should have incurred such cost and pains, to transcribe the entire codex, as it would have been enough 6 to note the various readings in the margin of a good edition. We were also shewn some 20 oriental manuscripts, of which there is a tolerable store here, as is stated in the Ritterplatz Tom. 2, in the 'library opened,' p. 242. Also a Missale on vellum, adorned with gold and all sorts of pictures, tolerably well drawn. Also 25 a folio volume containing about 60 very fine sketches taken in Italy, in pencil and red chalk, of all kinds of monuments. Lastly, the librarian shewed us some few coins in two drawers; 50 or 60 in brass and silver in the first, but none 30 remarkable. In the other were about the same number of modern coins. Among them was one of Luther, which however seemed cast, somewhat larger than a dollar. On one side is his effigy with the words: tertius Elias, on the other the angel from the Apocalypse, flying in the air with the trumpet and the words: 5 Cecidit Babylon magna; below stands Apoc. xiv.; this coin Juncker will no doubt have in Lutheri gold-und-silbernen Ehrengedächtniss. I also observed a great copper medal, as large as a dollar, having on the one side Redi's effigy with the 10 legend: Franciscus Redus Patricius Aretinus; on the other side was a representation of Bacchanalia, and below, the word canebam. This, 7 as Mr. Ferrari assured me, was an allusion to one of his learned poems or dithyrambs, called 15 Bacco in Toscana. Afterwards we saw two other colleges from the outside, and Clare hall pleased us especially on account of the fine new buildings behind, though it is not nearly so large as the two colleges above named. It has also the 20 finest walks or alleys.

In the afternoon we went first to S. John's college. We saw first of all the library, in a tolerably large room. The books are more tidy than we have found them elsewhere in England, 25 but mostly theologica, among which however many noble opera occur. At the further end of the library was a portrait Margaretæ de Richemont, fundatricis huius collegii, large as life. On the table by the end window were set out 1) Thomas a 30
Kempis de imitatione Christi, an english translation, printed at London in 1505, 8vo., in which the abovenamed Margaret of Richmond had written her name. Again, a prayer-book, which queen Elizabeth is said to have used as her 5 manual. A folio volume, in vellum, with this title: μνημόσυνον s. liber donationum, in which may be seen the names and arms of all benefactors to the library; a happy thought, and likely to encourage others to bequeath a book

10 or two, if not whole libraries. At the beginning of the book were painted portraits of the aforesaid Marg. of Richmond, of king Charles the 8 first, and of bishop Williams (of whom see Chamberlayne present state of England, p. 303)
15 as the principal founders of the library. Next came many arms of those who had enlarged the library, with a latin inscription, stating the books given or bequeathed by each. By the adjoining windows hung some mosaics, one of 20 which, representing a building in excellent perspective, was incomparably fine. We were shewn also in a box all kinds of florentine marble, a fine fossil fungus marinus, and an english cheese petrified. There was also a 25 cabinet of medals, but as the key to it and also that to the manuscripts were not at hand, we only looked over the printed books.

Afterwards we went behind the college over the new bridge across the little river Cam, from 30 which Cambridge may derive its name. This bridge is well and handsomely built, with stone

balustres. It is said, as Dr. Ferrari assured us, to have cost £2000, which is an enormous sum for so small a bridge. On the other side of the bridge is a garden belonging to the college, in which are fine alleys and a bowling green. We 5 did not however stay long in the garden, but as we heard the bell ring for sermon, went to 9 King's chapel, the finest here. It is certainly an incomparably elegant building of stone, especially as regards the quantity of carved work 10 about it. But it is no such great miracle, as it is made out to be in the Délices d'Angleterre, Tom. I., that it is without pillars, for, though long and lofty, it is not at all broad. We heard the sermon, and admired exceedingly the good- 15 ness of the organ; for it is small, and yet of a deep and extremely pleasant tone.

As the library of this college is kept in this church in divers little vaults on the right hand, we requested that it might be shewn to us after 20 the sermon was over. In the first of these vaults we saw the monument of the son of the duke of Marlborough, who was at this college, and died in his 17th year, when just about to join his father for the purpose of seeing a cam- 25 paign. Though this monument has no special decorations, it is nevertheless fine. There were long inscriptions on both sides; I would not however employ my time in copying them, but rather in examining the books, especially as the 30 English have no patience. The books are in tolerable order and number; no manuscript however was shewn me, and I was assured that none existed; which seemed to me incredible, and therefore I should have been glad to consult 5 the Catalogus Mss. Angl.

On the 30th of July in the afternoon we 10 wished to look through the manuscripts in Trinity college by the aid of the Catalogus MSS. Angliae Tom. I. Part. VI., which work I had acquired in the meantime. But when I consulted 10 the catalogue of this library, I found that since the printing of this catalogue [i. e. the Catalogus, as before] various mss. had been added to the library, the titles of which were inserted in 15 writing in the margin.

Namely ad pag. 94. col. 1. in fine n. 42. 1) Formulae quaedam precum inter Romanenses. 2) Gratiarum actionum preces S. Brigittae. 3) Magister Hugo de compunctione cordis. 4) de Incarnatione secundum testimonia S. scripturarum. 5) Vita St. Hildegardis. 6) Eiusdem Epistolae. 7) Prophetia Merlini. Ad pag. 95. col. 2. init. 1) Ledger book. 2) Augustinus de Trinitate. 3) Super Exodum Origenes. Ad pag. 100. col. 1. n. 30. 1) The prerogative of the king of England. ib.
 25 col. 2. n. 26. in med. 1) D. Brook de praedestinatione. 26) Bp. Pearson's notes on Hesychius, vol. I. 27) Eiusd. vol. 2. 28) Eiusd. vol. 3. 29) Fabulae duae Scyros et Pastor fidus. 30) Commentaria in dies festos totius anni. 31) Guil. Woodford in Trialogum Wicklesi. 32) Collection of papers relating to the quinquarticular contro- 30 versies. Ad pag. 101. col. 1. in fine erant notat. 1) Rob. Soane de fide iustificante contra P. Baro. 2) Pars florum B. Augustini. 3) Tractatus B. Anselmi. 4) Speculum peccatoris. 5) Monita B. Isidori. 6) Liber 11

S. Ephrem de die iudicii. 7) Scrinia reserata, or a memorial offered to the great deservings of ab. Williams by John Hacket bishop of Litchfield.

So much was inserted in the catalogue with the pen. When I had copied it, I diligently 5 looked through the codices by the help of the *Catalogus MSS. Angl.**

From thence we went to the Greek's Coffee house, so called because the host is a born Greek. There we read all the journals, and 10 other news, which may be seen there. I was specially pleased with the British Apollo, a sheet of which is published weekly by some scholars; all manner of quaestiones curiosae in every faculty are there discussed. I found it 15 more solid and better than the Athenian Oracles, which otherwise is of the same kind, and some volumes of which I bought printed in London as a collection. In this coffeehouse, particularly in the morning and after 3 o'clock in the after- 20 noon, you meet the chief professors and doctors, who read the papers over a cup of coffee and 12 a pipe of tobacco, and converse on all subjects; and thus you can make their acquaintance. For here they are universally far more polite than 25 scholars in London and elsewhere, and are also delighted to see strangers, fewer of whom come hither than to Oxford. When we had spent an hour here, Dr. Ferrari came for us, and took us to the Music club, in Christ's college. This music meeting is held generally every week.

* What codices these were, appears from the Selecta commercii epist. Uffenbachiani Part. I. p. 187 sqq. where is given a Specimen animadversionum B. Uffenbachii in catalogos MSS. torum Angliae et Hiberniae.

5 There are no professional musicians there, but simply bachelors, masters and doctors of music, who perform. It is surprising, as they make such ado about music, and even create professors and doctors of music, that still this nation

10 achieves scarcely anything in it. I think however that their ingenia are not the least musica, as those of all frivolous men; hence too all their compositions are very harsh, and cannot equal either the pretty manner of the French,

15 or the tender manner of the Italians. And so too this music, both vocal and instrumental, was very poor. It lasted till 11 p.m., there was besides smoking and drinking of wine, though we did not do much of either. At 11 the 20 reckoning was called for, and each person paid two shillings.

In the morning of 31 July we saw Caius and Gonevill college.* It is a passable building. An amusing incident occurred to us. As we

25 wished to go to this college, our servant was obliged to ask the landlady, whereabouts it was. As she told him, he must ask for Kies college (for so they commonly pronounce it), he tried to do it quite right, and asked where Tschies

* See les Délices d'Angleterre, Tom. I. p. 112.

college (for that word was more familiar to him) might be. This threw our hostess into fits of laughter, and she told it to us. For, so pronounced, it means 'cheese college.' So one may easily fall into a scrape, if one has no interpreter with one, and we had just sent ours out to enquire in some bookshops for Bentley's Folly of atheism. But to return to Caius college; we could not see, what we most wished to see, the library, because the keeper of the keys, or librarian, was out of town. We were shewn the room, which is not at all large, and also assured, that there was no great number. But as I boasted of the MSS., the list of which I had read in the Catal. MSS. Angl., a master of arts, one of those present, said that he happened to have the key for them, for they were deposited in another place. I was overjoyed at it, but still more confounded, when he brought us into a miserable garret under the roof, which could have been very little or not at all visited, for the top step was buried in pigeons' dung, and the MSS. lay thick with dust on the floor and elsewhere about the room in such disorder, that, although there was a written catalogue of them there, I could find nothing at all, and was even doubtful, whether I could handle any for the dust, especially in our black clothes, though I should very gladly have searched for one or two. However I plucked up courage, drew off my ruffles, and, with great difficulty and much soiling of hands and clothes, began my quest: and so among other scholastic and worthless things I finally caught sight of the following:

- Apuleii opuscula varia. MS. membr. for which see
 5 Catal. MSS. Angl. Part. 2, p. 118. col. 1. n. 1. 1009. It is very neat, but not old, and defective at the end. Besides there was a codex membr. in 4to., as thick as one's finger, containing Alcuin de vita Caroli Magni. It., a codex membr. in 4to. namely, Vita S. Edwardi Regis
 10 per Aluredum Rivallensem, in tolerable rhyming verse [Knittel-Versen]. Item, a paper volume in 4to., as thick as one's finger, with this title: Archaismus graphicus ab Henrico Spelmanno conscriptus in usum filiorum suorum, An. Dn. 1606. It is a collectio alphabetica serie and ex-
 15 planation of the notes and abbreviations found in ancient MSS., very fairly and neatly written. I greatly coveted a copy of it for myself.

With all my pains I could discover nothing else that was remarkable, and was surprised that 20 the magistellus, who was with us, had patience enough to stay with me: it is true, my brother 15 was obliged to entertain him with conversation.

In the afternoon we visited Dr. Bentley, who is master of Trinity college, and has built him-25 self an excellent house, or wing, to live in, so that he is as well lodged as the queen at St. James's, or better. The rooms are very large, and of extraordinary height, the floors curiously inlaid with all kinds of wood, the panels in 30 every room very fine (as now in England tapestry is no longer in fashion, but all is panelled at great cost), the window-panes of extraordinary size, and the windows themselves very large and high. He has been greatly reproached for this building, since he endeavoured arbitrarily and without consent of the other fellows to eject a fellow, who as D. Juris occupied the rooms of a Doctor Medicinæ. Many controversial pamphlets have appeared upon the subject, filled with personalities, which do no honour to the otherwise famous and very learned Dr. Bentley, but rather serve to degrade him and to scandalise many honest folk. And so indeed I heard many complain of his extreme arrogance ; though he tries to be very polite towards strangers, and for an Englishman speaks good and tolerably intelligible latin. He is a man somewhat more than 40 years old, rather tall and spare, and red in the face. When, among other compliments, I regretted that we had not met him in London, so that he might as king's librarian have shewn us the royal library, especially the codex Alexandrinus, he made light of that library, and, as to the codex Alexandrinus, said that it had been already a considerable time in the hands of Dr. Græbe, who would very gladly shew it to us at Oxford. Besides he asked us about one or two scholars in Germany and Holland. As we came to speak, amongst other topics, of the edition of Horace which he had in hand, he assured me it would soon be ready. He talked very big of it, scorning all other editions. When I next mentioned my own very old edition and my general collection of other ancient authors, he contemned it, thinking that such old editions served no purpose, except to shew how the errores accumulated gradually in successive editions; he 5 believed also that in the 15th* century, when printing was invented and learning revived, the authors were printed from the newest codicibus, because they were most legible, whereas the old codices could scarcely be read. He desired

 10 however to except the Aldine editions of greek authors, and those writers of whom only one copy had been found, as Velleius Paterculus, first edited by Beatus Rhenanus, and the old lexicographer Hesychius also, first published by 15 Aldus Manutius; for of such the first editions 17 were to be regarded as MSS. But the first editions of Horace, Virgil, Ovid, Cicero and the like were of no use at all, and, where they varied from the codicibus MSS., were to be re-
 20 jected, but where they agreed with them, unnecessary. But Mr. Dr. Bentley must excuse me. For in the first place it is not so certain that all first editions are taken from codicibus recentioribus; indeed at that time there were 25 persons who could read the old writing and abbreviations employed before the invention of printing, better than we can now, and by means of the art of printing these compendia have for the most part gradually fallen out of use.
 30 Again, supposing they were all printed from new codicibus, are then all new codices to be rejected? If the scribe were capable, he may surely have made a good apographum from an old codice.

* In orig. vierzehenden.

After this Mr. Bentley asked many questions 5 with a scornful air about Mr. Clericus in Holland, he (Bentley) being not without reason regarded as the author of the last pasquil, which Burman published in 1710 against Clericus, under the name Phileleutheri Lipsiensis. Clericus 10 first of all endeavoured cunningly to sound him by help of Masson, and afterwards himself wrote him a letter, stating, that "it was reported in Holland that he (Bentley) was the author; he desired therefore in the first place, to ask him, 15 before replying to the libel, whether the fact 18 were so, that he might shape his answer accordingly; he demanded a plain answer, and should regard silence as a confession." On this he rejoined: "he was surprised that he had at 20 first attempted him with craft, and afterwards ventured to write such a letter full of threats;
he found the book so well written, that though he did not care to acknowledge it as his own work, yet he would not disown it; Clericus must 25 spare him his usual impudentia Gallica, else he would take occasion to point out to him other matters, beyond what were contained in this mocking piece. He had done very wrong in writing de arte critica, before he had given the 30 least specimen of a critici, and where as his ars

critica contained nothing but a few general rules, he had afterwards, when he had a mind to play the criticum himself, offended in many points against the fundamental laws of criticism," and 5 so forth.

After spending a couple of hours with Mr. Dr. Bentley, we took leave, and went to see Magdalene college. It is one of the meanest here, of which king James used to say in jest, 10 that he would go to stool there. It is a very old, and, as I said, mean building; the library, which stands at the top under the roof, is also very small, and may perhaps consist of 600 volumes. All the books, with hardly one single 15 exception, are entirely overgrown with mould. By the door in a little cupboard were some poor mss., yet the following were to be found among 19 them :

Innocentii Papae III. de contemptu mundi liber (de 20 quo, ut in margine voluminis notatum erat, videndus Bellarminus de script. Eccl. p. 332). Item Cassiodori Scrutillarium scripturarum et alii tractatus scholastici. It. some bibles ex versione vulgata. It. codex membr. fol. Apocalypsis cum expositione et figuris. simile extare 25 in margine dicitur, in bibliotheca publ. acad. sed absque exordio (sc. Anglico) quod hic est. It. Psalterium Bedae with many golden initial letters. It. a 4to. vol. two fingers thick, namely: ludus philosophorum, qui appellatur summa astronomiae (this treats, as it appears, of astro-30 logia and the ars geomantica) cum aliis tractatibus ex arabico translatis. Some one had written at the beginning: Si dignus iudicetur hic liber, valeat ut ille Ephesiorum, Actor. 19, 19. It. a codex in 4. membr.

recentior, namely: Meditationes Bernhardi. It. Edmundi de Portuniaco speculum mundi. It. Legendae S. Catharinae et aliae legendae.

1 Aug. In the morning we went into the collegium publicum, commonly called the school, 5 in which are the auditoria publica and the library.
It is an old, mean building. We saw below too a small room in which the academic council meets: there is nothing however remarkable in it, except the representation of the senate, copied 10 from an ancient picture, as the inscription upon 20 it states, amongst other matters. Above is the library in two mean rooms of moderate size.
In the first, on the left hand side, are the printed books, but very ill arranged, in utter 15 confusion. The catalogue is only alphabetical, and lately compiled on the basis of the Bodleian catalogue. It is also local, indicating where the books are to be sought. In the second room, which is half empty, there were some more 20 printed books, and then the MSS., of which however we could see nothing well, because the librarian, Dr. Laughton (or as they pronounce it, Laffton) was absent; which vexed me not a little, as Dr. Ferrari highly extolled his great 25 learning and courtesy. Rara avis in his terris.

We met here however by accident the librarian of St. John's library, Mr. Baker, a very friendly and learned man, by whose help we saw several other things: for otherwise the 30 maid, who had opened the door and was with us, would have been able to shew us but little. I asked first for the cod. evangeliorum Bezae, which is the Palladium huius academiae.* Beza somewhere complained that he did not even 5 receive an answer, which would have been great rudeness and ingratitude for so great a present; but Mr. Baker declared that he himself had the copy of the letter which was written to him in the name of the university,

 10 and which must consequently have been lost at the time. For the rest my examination of the codex confirmed the truth of Beza's own confession respecting it; esse mutilum neque satis emendate ab initio descriptum, neque ita ut
 15 oportuit habitum (sicut ex paginis quibusdam diverso caractere insertis, indocti cuiusdam graeci Calogeri barbaris adscriptis alicubi notis apparet). I had not time to collate the loca discrepantia, which occur principally in Luke's gospel; Mr.
 20 Baker also assured me that Mills in the edition of the new testament had noted them with all diligence and exactness. The latin version is so rendered word for word, that it could not be more precise. The characters or letters of this latin version so greatly resemble in outline the greek, which face them, that, on a hasty view, you would take the two for one language. For the rest I consider the lectionarium Chrysostomi, which we saw at Helmstädt, and the Genesis in bibliotheca Cottoniana to be as old, if not older. 5

* Of which Tentzel treats at length in the Monatlichen Unterredungen tom. 5. an. 1693. p. 880 seq. See also Ritterplatz tom. 2, in the 'library opened,' p. 242; Chamberlayne, Present state of England, p. 302; and Bentham l. c. p. 354. The last has inserted Beza's letter, 21 sent with this present, which is pasted in the codex at the beginning.

22 After this I enquired with great eagerness for the ancient monuments of the church of Waldenses or Vaudois brought by Sir Samuel Moreland from Piedmont and given here, as Chamberlayne, l. c. p. 302 says. I had imagined that they would be of the earliest times and state of the Waldenses, but found that they consisted of 5 or 6 folio volumes, of the thickness of the small finger, in which are to be found all kind 15 of letters, manuscript and printed, petitions and the like, in french and italian, written during the last persecution set on foot by the present king in France; of all which a good account may be found in Mr. Leger's Histoire Vaudoise. 20 Besides Chamberlayne is not a little mistaken, when he boasts of 14,000 volumes in this library, as there seem to be at most barely 6 to 8000, as far as I can judge by my own collection. 25

Afterwards we saw many oriental books, all brought from the library Th. Erpenii.* But whether all his mss. came here, Mr. Baker could not tell me; much less, what is said of Cromwell in the passage cited: on this point then the 30

* See Ritterplatz tom. 2. 'library opened,' p. 242.

historia acad. Cantabrigiensis should be consulted. Hard by were also many turkish mss. On the opposite side stood the 7 folios lexici arabici MS., by Bedwell, of which Arnold speaks.* They 23 5 are all as thick as your hand, except the fifth, which is only two fingers thick, and very neatly written; it is to be regretted that they have not been published. We saw also some very fine
codices anglo-saxonicos, of which Hicest† gives an 10 account. Mr. Baker shewed us also a little 12mo with this title: Edward sixième (roy d' Anglet.), petit traité à l'encontre de la primauté du pape, written in french very neatly in the king's own hand. Lastly we saw also a good
 15 number of ancient and modern coins, lying all covered with dust, without any order, in a deep, poor drawer, unlocked and left open. There were 20 and odd gold coins, with various silver and copper; among the last I noticed an 20 Ottonem aeneum magni moduli deauratum, sed spurium, on the reverse of which was an adlocutio populi cum inscriptione: Securitas publica. In order not to detain Mr. Baker too long, we contented ourselves for the time with what we 25 had seen, and went besides into the main church,

* Epist. Richterian. p. 405.

† In the catalogo veterum librorum septentrionalium, appended to his institutionibus grammaticis anglo-saxonicis et moeso-gothicis. Tentzel has embodied this important catalogue in his Monatlichen Unterredungen for 1691, p. 631 seq., with learned notes.

24 St. Mary's.* We expected to find some epitaphs of learned men there, as it is the university church; but there were none, and the verger said, it was not the fashion to make them.

In the afternoon we visited first the afore- 5 said Mr. Baker in his museum in St. John's college. He has a tolerably large and good room, and if all socii have the like, they may very well make shift to live there. He received 10 us with great politeness, and spoke of all manner 10 of scholars in Germany and Holland, and of their works, with which he has a considerable acquaintance; a very rare acquirement in an 15
Englishman, as they are very seldom at home in any part of the world except England. He 15 told us that he was preparing Athenas Cantabrigienses, on the plan of the Oxonienes of A. Wood. He is also the reputed author of the 20
Reflexions upon learning, a book which lately appeared in 8vo, but without his name, and is 20 highlyesteemed. He is a very gentle, modest and wellbred man, who might have held high offices, if he were not a Jacobite and non-juror. In his room he had the portrait Jo. Fischeri, episcopi Roffensis, ascribed to Holbein and certainly in- 25 comparably well executed. Thence we went on to Queens' college, an old, mean building, not 25 25 much better than Magdalene college. The library of this college, though small, has yet many * See Délices d' Anglet. tom. I. p. 128. But it is not so fine, as it is figured there, and very poor too inside.

good books. Of MSS. however I only found the following worthy of note :

- First, a cod. membr. recentior in fol. four fingers thick, containing 1) Dionys. Halicarnass. τέχνη. 2) 5 Demetrii Phalerei περί ἐρμηνείας. 3) Alexandri Numenii filii περί σχημάτων. 4) Menandri rhetoris quaedam. 5) Aristides περί τεχνῶν ῥητορικῶν. Thomas Gale had availed himself of this codex in the edition of these works which he published at Oxford. It. a 10 codex in fol. membr. Augustinus de civitate Dei. It. codex in fol. membr. Ambrosius de officiis. It. vol. in fol. membr., namely, Bedae commentarius in evangelium Marci. It. volumen in fol. membr. missale in usum ecclesiae Sarisburiensis. It. 2 vol. membr. in fol. a 15 commentarius in Psalmos, donum Francisci Tyndal armigeri, who was donor of most of the MSS. in this library. It. codex membr. in 4to. Haymo super Pentateuchum. Item some Turkish codices and with them also a small volumen in duod. chart. vocabularium 20 Persicum.

When I could find nothing further, we went home through King's college, an ordinary building.*

- On Saturday morning, 2 Aug. we wished to 25 see the library of Bennets college, or collegio corporis Christi, which consists chiefly of manuscripts. But as it is a legacy, and, if the least article is lost, passes to another college, the 26 librarian must always have three keys to it ; 30 accordingly he excused himself, and begged us to wait till the next week. So we visited at Queens' college Mr. John Davis, who is socius

* See Délices d'Angleterre, tom. I.

there, and has made himself famous by the editing of some autorum classicorum. He is a young man, thirty and odd years old, and is working at an edition Ciceronis de natura deorum. As he was on the point of setting out on a 5 journey, we went from him to Clare hall, a somewhat low, but yet fine building.* Mr. Laughton, protector† academiae and socius of this college, an agreeable man, who spöke french well. He shewed us the library, which is indeed 10 not large, but yet has many good books, especially italian and spanish. Among others I found a fine work with this title :

Varias antigüedades de España, Africa y otras provincias, por el doctor Bernardo Aldrete canonigo en la 15 sancta iglesia de Cordoua. En Amberes 1614. pp. 640. There is here also a good number of libris vulgo prohibitis, which fetch a very high price in England, as I perceived by the prices noted at the beginning. Smalcii tractatus were almost all here, and also Bern. Ochini 20 dialogi, Basileae per Petrum Pernam, 1563. 8vo. pp. 478. It. the examination of Tilenus in Utopia, 1658. 27 12mo. pp. 283, an Arian book, which I also bought here ; besides a number of rabbinical books, but mostly printed. Of manuscripts, which lay in ugly confusion in 25 a press, I noted the following. Vol. in fol. membr. B. Turpini archiepiscopi historia ad Leoprandum de Carolo M. with which was also an anonymous histor. angl.

* See Délices d'Angleterre, tom. I.

† [Sic, perhaps by a blunder of the author. A fortnight later, when at Oxford, Uffenbach learnt the true name (p. 98): 'the proctor, as they say, or strictly procurator academiae.']

scriptor a temp. Romanorum usque ad regem Joh. et Henricum* filium eius; the beginning is: cum mecum multa et de multis saepius animo revolvens. There also came into my hand: vol. in fol. membr. Quintilianus 5 cod. recentior, initio mutilus. It. vol. in 4. chart. recentius ἐπιμεριστάι Lecapeni.† It. cod. in 4. membr. Augustinus de bono coniugali. It. cod. in fol. membr. Iustinus, cuius initium deerat [cent 12].

In the afternoon we visited Mr. Dr. John 10 Covel, master of Christ's college, whose manuscripts and coins are justly extolled in Chamberlayne.‡ He is over eighty years of age, but from his briskness one would scarce set him down at sixty. He understands all sorts of 15 languages, and is singularly courteous, which he owes no doubt to his many travels. For he has not only resided long in Holland, Germany, and Italy, but also as chaplain with an english ambassador at Constantinople, where he procured 20 incomparable greek codices and coins. He shewed us first of all in his museo two very fine 28 and large sketches of Constantinople, the one a view, the other a ground-plan. Both were made by a Frenchman with the pen with great labour 25 and not without great risk. For the Turks do not permit anything of the kind to be done; indeed he was detected, persecuted, and was obliged long to seek shelter from Dr. Covel. He (Dr. Covel) valued these sketches greatly for their accuracy. They may be seen on a reduced scale in copperplate in the narrative subsequently published by the above-named 5 Frenchman,* under the title: relation nouvelle d'un voyage de Constantinople. Paris 1680. 4to.† Dr. Covel gave him a testimonium, which he has printed before his work. The above-mentioned sketches are on p. 74, where Dr. Covel is men- 10 tioned.

* [Edericum by mistake].

† ['ἐπιμεριστάι Lecapeni.' On Georgius Lecapenus, a Thessalian monk of the 14th century, grammarian and historian, see Fabricius-Harles XII 59—61 and index].

‡ Present state of England, p. 303.

After this Mr. Dr. Covel shewed us an admirable codicem membr. in fol., namely: Pericopae evangeliorum anno Christi 995. script. litteris maiusculis lingua graeca hodierna. It. cod. membr. graec. in 12. qui complectitur 15 acta apostolorum, epistolas et apocalypsim tempore Alexii Comneni script.; it. codex evangeliorum, both of which Mills used in editing the new testament and highly commended. Dr. Covel also shewed us many very fine codices hebraicos, and among them in three voluminibus 20 membr. in 4. biblia hebr. ante 300 annos scripta. It had indeed the vowel-points, but by a later hand. Such 29 codices we find here and there. It. cod. in 4. bombycinus, in quo historia a Constantino M. ad captam urbem, hactenus ineditus, and also in fine codicis Malaxus, for 25 which see Crusius‡ and Vossius.§ It. a codex in 4. namely historia Constantipolitana ad Selimum secundum, etiam inedita. It. codex in 4. membr. Sgyropuli historia * [Guill. Jos. Grelot].

† [Also 8vo. Paris 1681. Engl. by J. Phillips, Lond. 1683. 8vo. Grelot accompanied Chardin in his travels].

‡ [Turco-Graeciae lib. II. p. 106 seq.]

§ [de hist. lat. II. c. 30 p. 373 ed. Westermann. Cf. Fabricius-Harles, ind. s. v. Emanuel].

concilii Florentini, which, as Mr. Dr. Covel asserted, is much more complete, especially in the second part, than that which has been published. * It. codex in 4. in quo Simeonis Thessalonicensis caeremoniale ecclesiae graecae, mentioned by Leo Allatius de Simeonum scriptis. This codex was published two† years ago in Moldavia. This edition has been sent to Mr. Dr. Covel, who still keeps up good correspondence in those quarters; he has collated it, and found it very faulty and incomplete. Dr. Covel further shewed us a codic. membr. in 8. liber amorum ex arabico in graecum vulgare translatus.

After this Dr. Covel shewed us an uncommon curiosity, which, as he asserted, had never before come into Europe. He had had a pupil John Mareschall,‡ who travelled in India and spent many years in that country; where, by Dr. Covel's encouragement, he acquired great knowledge of the old indian language, and especially studied the history and doctrinas veterum Brachmanorum Indiae philosophorum, and even translated into English the codices sacros Brachmanorum, called Poran,§ which he sent to Dr. Covel in seven small voluminibus in fol. Dr. Covel

* [ed. with a lat. transl. by R. Creyghton, Hag. 1660. fol.]

† [Published at Jassy fol. 1683. Fabricius-Harles xi 329].

‡ [No doubt the J. Marshall, M.A. 'comitiis regiis 1705', and probably the B.A. of Christ's 1663-4. He communicated to the Philos. Trans. abridg. iv 534 (1700) an 'account of the religion, rites, notions, customs and manners of the indian priests called Bramins.'] could not enough commend the profundam sapientiam and curious things which he had found in them. He greatly preferred them to Confucius, and complained that he had lost two parts, which he had lent to a certain bishop. 5 He had also a volume containing a translation of *Bedae* libro*, in which is found explicatio omnium sacrorum rituum Brachmanorum. He further shewed us a small lexicon linguae malaicae in fol., compiled by the same Mareschall. 10

§ [The Puranas].

Next we saw different MSta. recentiora, specially italian, and among them one in folio, as thick as one's thumb, with this title: relatione dell' imperio Turchese fatta dal illustr. et excell. Sig. Cristoforo Valerio Bailo per la serenissima republ. di Venetia 1615. Afterwards Dr. Covel shewed us a fine vas aeneum with a hebrew inscription, found under ground in Norfolk. No one has yet been able to decypher the inscription owing to the numerous contractions. Mr. 20 Dr. Covel believes that much money must have been found in it, as the man who dug it up, suddenly became rich. The vessel may contain two measures. Dr. Covel has also many fine funeral urns, and among them one to which 25 folia amaranthae herbae still adhered, a plain 31 proof that the ancients added herbs to the ashes of the dead. There were also many little urnulae among them, which Mr. Dr. Covel had received as a present from Bellori in Italy, who assured 30 him that they served for the interment of animals. For the Romans burnt favorite animals also, as birds and the like, and buried their ashes in such pots; hence we find in Gruter and elsewhere many inscriptions on animals.

* [The Vedas.]

Hereupon Dr. Covel shewed us many drawers full of nummis ex omni metallo, which I should have liked to examine more closely, but Dr. Covel excused himself, because they were in no sort of order. I must however make mention of one nummi magni moduli of Gordiano iuniore, of which Dr. Covel made much ado as unico, and as having in ipsa marginis acie litteras. On the one side was the likeness Gordiani with this inscription: ΑΥΤ. Κ. Μ. ΑΝΤΩΝΙΟΥ ΓΟΡΔΙΑΝΟΥ ΕΠΙ Μ. ΔΗΜΗΤΡΙΟΥ ΟΥΛΑ. (Valerii) ΑΡΧ. ΚΑΔΥ.* In the centre was :

HN
AN

in aversa† there was figura stolata stans ad altare, sacrificans, dextra stateram, sinistra hastam tenens. On the edge were some strokes, which Mr. Dr. Covel took for the letters ETI, which seemed to designate the epocham 315. To me however it did not seem so distinct, though the nummus in itself was still in tolerably good preservation. Mr. Dr. Covel also shewed us a great number

* [In Rasche III. 1513 Cadi in Phrygia is named as occurring on the coins of the third Gordian].

† [aversa orig.].

32 of petrefactis and lapidibus figuratis, some very fine, which he had brought with him from Turkey.

After this Mr. Dr. Covel led us through a room, in which he had some fine pictures; as 5 the evangelist Mark by Albrecht Dürer, of which my brother has an engraving. Mr. Dr. Covel thought that it was Dürer's original, but it seemed much too modern for that, but still a very good copy. Further Mary with Christ 10 and John the Baptist, as two naked children, a fine copy of Raphael; and also an incomparable night-scene by Salvator Rosa.* In a room below was a fine picture of Christ, said to have been painted in Moscow: also Christ 15 on the cross by Mercati,† an admirable painting. As we went home, we observed in the street Battecure‡ on a druggist's shop this apt inscription: principiis obsta.

3 Aug. Sunday we dined with Dr. Bentley, 20 who sent the invitation the day before, and were very sumptuously entertained. As his wife dined with us, we did not converse upon serious matters, but of Germany and Holland. At four o'clock we heard the sermon in Trinity-chapel, 25 and also very good music, especially on the organ, which, though not of so fine a tone as * [Rossi orig.].

† [Marcatti orig.].

‡ [Petty cury, 'the little cookery'].

that in King's-chapel, was however uncommonly well played.

4 Aug. On Monday morning we were again in Trinity-library, wherein by the help of the 5 Catalogus MS. Angl. I saw other mss., which 33
 I could not see the first time.* We also turned over the printed books a little, but found much poor old stuff amongst them. The noble building is inside (i.e. not reckoning the walls) 214 ft.
 10 long and 45 broad. The carvings and foliage on the panels and book-cases is so slender, that it quivers when you touch the panelling below. It is the work of an artist named Master Gibbons.

15 5 Aug. We wished to see the manuscripts in the bibliotheca publica acad. Dr. Laughton, the librarian, was however not in, nor is the catalogue of these mss. yet complete; but that, which may be found in catalog. MS. Angl. part 2, 20 was of no use to me, as the codices are not classed or numbered by it. This was very annoying to me, as I took out perhaps twenty volumina one after another, and found nothing but scholastic things. At last I came by accident upon a row
 25 where the following codices stood together:

Codex in fol. chart. recentior, one finger thick, namely: 1) Symeon protobestarchus (antiochenus) de alimentorum viribus [Ff III 30 = 1238 (1)]. 2) Galenii synopsis de simplicibus [ibid. (2)]. Again cod. chart.
 30 Chrysostomi commentarius in psalmos Davidis a 77 34

* Conf. Selecta commerc. epist. Uffenb. p. I. p. 192 seqq.

usque ad 119 inclusive. [Ff III 2 = 1210. The homilies are on Ps. 77—107 and 118; those on Ps. 77—99 are printed in Chrysostom's works, but the real author is Hesychius. See the printed catal. II 410]. At the beginning was noted : Fuit doctoris Lindsel, deinde Merici Casauboni; redemit nummis Hacketianis T. G. (forte Thomas Gale) et bibliothecae Cantabrigiensi intulit cum aliis manuscriptis eiusdem Casauboni. 3) Homilia Chrysostomi, codex membr. in fol., three fingers thick, was better and older than the last [Ii III 25]. 4) 'Ἡσυχίου πρεσβυτέρου Ἱεροσολύμων ἐπισκόπου ἐπίγραμμα ἱστορίας εἰς ψαλτήριον, a codex chart. recenti manu ex cod. Oxoniensi descriptus [Ff III 6 = 1214, catal. II. 412]. At the end is mentioned the comment. Chrysostomi in Psalmos, and the following note may be seen at the beginning : "out of a paper written with Dr. Lindsell (afterwards bp. etc.) his hand : 'In the Savilian edition another commentary of Chrysostome is found upon some of the psalmes commented of in this : as the 118. yet it is not Euthymius, nor Theodoret, nor Basile, but far surpassing them all who comment upon the same; Basil doth not. Soe as I cannot see whose, unless Chrysostome (as the subscription hath) went over twice the psalmes, and these his notions infinitely more refined then the other. Yet is not the whole book of psalmes commented of between them both, a 77 ad 107 inclusive, et tum ps. 118, et sic finis commentationum harum.' Hactenus ille. Sed verus auctor huius ἐρμηνείας est Hesychius, vel, ut alii scribunt, Isychius, si Euthymio Zigab. fides; qui non pauca ex illo passim profert, et eum in psalm. 88 v. 13 (satis prolixum ex illo locum adducens) diserte nominat. Quis autem Hesychius, presbyter hierosolymitanus (de quo non uno loco Photius) an alius (quos plures et diversae aetatis Miraeus in auctario, Sixtus Senensis in bibliotheca, alique commemorant) non plane liquet. Mericus Casaubonus" (an autograph note). I also saw cod. MS. chart. fol., three fingers thick, namely : Matthaei

- Blastaris syntagma alphabeticum* [Ff III 4 = 1212]. 2) Eiusdem (ut videtur) libri canonici Io. Ieiunatoris epitome a fol. 153 usque ad finem [only to f. 161. ibid. (2). See catal. II 411]. It. vol. ms. membr. in fol., three fingers thick : epistolae aliquot N. T. cum commentario Photii subiecto [Ff I 30 = 1163], tolerably old but defective, for the codex only begins with the epistle to the Corinthians [the commentary begins 2 Cor. i. 13; catal. II 331]. It. codex ms. chart. in fol. [Ff I 26 = 1159],
- 10 in which an old hand has noted at the beginning : 'Hoc commentarium in psalterium graecum quondam fuit codex Theodori archiepiscopi Cantuariensis inter eos libros quos secum detulit e Roma circa annum Domini 668, anno quinto Egberti regis, qui Theodorus fuit sextus ab Augustino.' Whether this evidence is to be trusted, I know
- 15 not, for the codex does not appear so very old [cent. 15, catal. II 318]. This commentary is that of Euthymius in Greek. On the first fly-leaf is a note : 'liber hic ms. si conferatur cum Euthymio impresso, ipsius esse Euthymii
- 20 videbitur, teste RR. Armachano die Iulii 1640.' Further 36 I saw cod. membr. in 4. very neat, containing : Theodori isagogen grammaticam† [Ii iv 16 = 1813, catal. III 453]. It had the note : Tho. Gale pecuniis Hacketianis redemit ex reliquiis Merici Casauboni. It. cod. graec. in 4to.
- 25 more than a hand-breadth thick [Ff I 24 = 1157, catal. II 313] containing 1) paralipomenon lib. I. p. 1—78. lib. II p. 78—207. 2) ὑπομνηστικὸν βιβλίον ᾧ Ἰωσήπου. p. 307—391. 3) στίχοι Λέοντος τοῦ βασιλέως εἰς ἀντίγραμμα Χριστὸν καὶ κρίνον δεδειγμένοι pp. 391—395. 4) Testa-
- 30 mentum duodecim patriarcharum.‡ Besides I saw a

* See B. Virius T. 2 p. 1 [an abbreviation, misunderstood by the editor, for Beveregii pand. II 1—272].

[† An irrelevant note, relating to Theodorus of Samos, is here omitted].

‡ [Printed from this ms., with a collation of the Oxford ms. by Rob. Sinker, M.A. Cambr. 1869, 8vo., who is engaged on a translation of the book for the Edinburgh Ante-Nicene library].

- codicem membr. in 4. very neatly and closely written, but still tolerably old [Dd XI 90 = 716, catal. I 482], containing the acta apostolorum from cap. 12 vers. 2 and epistolae, with some gaps here and there. Afterwards I again took up the codicem Bezae, and found this further note at the beginning: a. 1669 servatur in bibliotheca Leicestrensi codex ms. N. T. qui cum hoc in multis consentit. I also saw codic. membr. in 4., more than a hand-breadth thick [Gg. v. 35 = 1567, catal. III 201], in quo varia, nempe 1) Iuveni historia IV. evangelistarum. 2) Sedulii paschale carmen.* It. codex membr. in 4., namely Isidori etymol. [Gg I 19 = 1414, catal. III 25].
- 37 The codex is recentior, but has however at the end a good indicem vocabulorum et rerum. It. vol. in 4. membr. nitidissime scriptum [Gg I 18 = 1413, catal. ibid.]. At the end was the note: expliciunt XV. libr. geometriae Euclidis cum commento magistri Campani. It. vol. in 4. chart. [Ii IV 30 = 1827, catal. III 466] geographia Edwardi Higgons angli, in latin, and apparently very well written. It. vol. in fol. membr. [Dd I 28 = 28, catal. I 36], two fingers thick, Iosephi antiquitatum iudaicarum lib. 10.

This codex of Josepho is remarkable on one account, because the letters (Buchstaben) have fallen off here and there, and can in some places be raised and removed by the nail, owing to the excessive thickness of the ink; one observes the same thing often in old letters (Briefen). Yet the vestigia of the writing had eaten so deeply by reason of the sharpness of the ink, that it can still be read, though the blackness is lost. We find old parchment letters, in which the sharpness of the ink has eaten into the parchment; if one holds them up to the light, one can then easily read them by the daylight streaming through the holes. At the beginning

* See Catal. MS. Angl. [which does not notice this ms.].

 5 of the volume the vestigia are impressed so deep, that I was almost inclined to take it for a printed book. As the codex was torn at the end, the beadle or library-keeper, who was present, gave me a leaf, which I took with me 10 as a curiosity.

After this I further found in the press Bedwelli lexicon [Hh 6 1—2 4to. Hh 5 1—7 fol.] and another little work of his, namely the epistola ad Colossens. 38 arabice cum versione eius latina [Dd 15 4]. I found 15 a very learned dissertation at the beginning, which I ordered to be copied. Afterwards I found here and there the following: vol. in fol. Codex membr. recentior, Cicero de oratore, paradoxa, de amicitia et senectute [Mm 11 4 = 2299, catal. IV 125]. It. vol. in 4. membr.
 20 in quo 1) Eutropius de gestis Romanorum. 2) Sexti Iulii Frontini strategemata. 3) Eutropii breviarium. Codex est recentior. [This MS. has long been lost. It is catalogued by James n. 217, and thence in Catal. MSS. Angl. II 171 n. 2397]. Lastly I saw a volumen in fol.
 25 membr. in quo Methodii, episcopi Paterensis, liber [Gg IV 15 = 1514, catal. III 160]. Eusebii historia alia; * cod. MS. recentior. After this, as I could find nothing more to my purpose in the latin codicibus, I viewed the press, in which the manuscripta orientalia Erpenii are preserved, 30 of which there are a goodly number, as may be seen from the catal. MS. Angl. [63 in all, n. 2440—2502]. In this press I found the following inscription on vellum, framed: 'Quod felix faustumque sit rei publicae litterariae. Codices

* See Catal. MS. Angl.

eleganter manu exaratos, nostro orbi hospites, universo vix parabiles, ad hastam locatos a Thomae Erpenii Leidensis vidua magno pretio coemptos a magno duce 39 Buringamae, tum temporis apud ordines Belgii legato, cancellario postea nostro, nobisque inter cetera quae 5
 divinus heros meditabatur ingentia donaria Cantabrigiensibus donatos, non nisi Cantabrigiae servari tandem voluit principis praecellentiss. fidissima coniux, maestissima (proh scelus et dolor !) vidua pientissimae Catharina, ducissa Buckinghamiae, mense Iunio MDCXXXII.' 10
 In a corner of this press lay some printed books, and amongst them Ochini dialogi printed at Basel 1563 in 8vo.* At the beginning was a manuscript dialogus in italian with this title : dialogo. favellatori Prudenza umana et Ochino ; of which dialogue, as I could not tell whether 15 it had ever been printed, I ordered a copy.

Lastly I examined also a little the incomparable collection of codicibus anglosaxonicis, which stood opposite, of which Hickesius gives the best account in his thesauro. It is strange, 20 that so many things of the kind survive in 40 England, and it were to be wished, that we had anything like as many monumenta of our lingua theotisca. As we were preparing to leave, we found also two little pieces of old painted 25 glass in monkish style, one red and one blue. We were the more interested, because we had lately read in Le Comte,† cabinet des singularités de peinture, of this glass-painting. He there

* [This copy has long been lost.]

† [Florent Le Comte, cabinets des singularités d'architecture, peinture, etc. Paris 1699, 1700. 3 vols. 12. Brux. 1702. 3 vols. 12].

denies that the glass was stained and colored through and through by the ancients. In order to ascertain this we broke off a bit of each piece, in a slanting direction ; and saw that the 5 red was stained only on the surface of one side, but the blue was colored throughout : probably because the blue colour is not so fast as the red, and therefore must be stained more. Accordingly Le Comte is greatly mistaken ; pro-
 10 bably he only examined the red, and drew a general conclusion from that ; a common fault with authors. I may fairly conjecture, that glass of a yellow colour, and of all other such light and bright colours, is stained throughout,
 15 but red, brown, and the like only on the surface of one side : but this requires more exact investigation.

In the afternoon we went to Sidney-Sussex college, an old but still tolerably fine building.*
 20 The library of this college is indeed high up, under the very roof of the chapel, but yet tolerably good and well-lighted ; the books too, though not numerous, are still in a good state. 41

I took the pains to go through the manuscripts of 25 this college.† The following were the best which I met with : Edm. Castelli notae in lexicon Schindleri.‡ The lexicon is in two voluminibus interleaved with paper, on which Castellus had made very many notes, and probably afterwards compiled his lexicon from them, * See Délices d' Anglet. tom. I.

† Following the Catal. MS. Angl. p. 103 seq.

‡ ibid. col. a. n. 695 seq.

though I had neither time nor ability to compare them. Galfridi angl. tract. de arte dictandi* is a cod. membr. in 4. recentior. Δήλωσις ἀκριβῆς ἐκ τῶν κανονικῶν διατάξεων† is cod. chart. in 12. recens, on which was noted ‘liber collegii dominae Franciscæ Sidney-Sussex, quem (una cum aliis MSS.) plurimum reverendus vir Samuel Ward S.T.D., professor pro domina Margareta, legavit anno Dom. 1643.’ Σοφωτάτου ἐν ἱερομοναχοῖς Κυροῦ Ματθαίου περὶ τῶν ἱερῶν καὶ θεῶν συνόδων σύνοψις.‡ Cod. est chart. in large 4. nitidissime scriptus. At the end is bound up with it a printed book, namely: Theodoreti ecclesiastica historia ex officina Frobeniana 1535. 4. Anonymi liber expositionum partium vet. et nov. testamenti,§ cod. est membr. in 4., fully a handbreadth thick. Epistolæ Hieronymi elegantissimi characterē.|| I must confess that I have scarcely seen a neater and fairer codicem, for not only was the writing uncommonly elegant, but also the vellum very fine and fair; yet it is somewhat modern, and about two hand-
42 breadths thick. Tabula beneficiorum in Anglia et Wallia, cum annuo singulorum valore.¶ This codex is in fol., two fingers thick, and very modern. It is astonishing what a large sum of money comes in yearly from the foundations maintained in England. 1) Petri Blesensis epistolæ. 2) R. Grosthead (episcopi quondam 25 Lincolniensis) epistolæ.** Codex chart. in fol. Au-

* ibid. p. 104, n. 719.

† ibid. n. 724. ‡ ibid. 728. [Gift of Dr. Ward.]

§ ibid. p. 105, n. 738. [Gift of Dr. Ward.]

|| ibid. n. 750. [The gift of Pet. Witham M.A., rect. of St Alban's, Wood-street, London, formerly a member of the college.]

¶ ibid. n. 751. [Drawn up for the college in 1627.]

** ibid. n. 754. There is here an error in the printed catalogo, for in the volumine the letters of Peter stand first. [Given by Dr. Ward.]

gustini libri 15 de Trinitate et reliqua.* Codex est membr. recent., three fingers thick. Ind. librorum MSS. graecorum an. 1602 emptorum in bibliothecam augustanam,† is a supplementum of the catalogi‡ bound up 5 with it: probably incorporated in the new edition Reiseri;§ but as that was not at hand, and time pressed, I could not compare them. The first codex catalogued in this supplemento MSto. is Iamblichus chalcidensis de secta pythagorica, lib. IV. Eiusdem Iamblichi expositio
 10 prolixa epistolae Porphyrii etc. One ought to search in catalogo Reiseri, whether these codices are entered.||

In loculo adversaria Sam. Ward.¶ These are volumina of all sorts, but yet in part mere collectanea, and in some still charta pura for the 15 most part. Yet the letters and things relating to the synod of Dort, noticed in the catalogue, are not to be despised, and the most valuable 43 of all. He who shewed us the library was, not in the proverbial sense,** but in truth a good
 20 socius of this collegii, already in years, whose name however we have forgotten.††

Lastly he shewed us in a cupboard curiosa

* ibid. n. 756. [Given by Dr. Ward.]

† ibid. p. 106, n. 766 [appears to be lost.]

‡ ed. 1595.

§ [M. Ant. Reiser. Index manuscriptorum bibliothecae Augustanae. Aug. 1675. 4to.]

|| [Yes, at p. 83 n. 20 and 29.]

¶ Catal. ibid. p. 106, col. 2.

** [Not 'a good fellow,' a bon vivant.]

†† [Probably Thomas Harrison, Strype's correspondent, several of whose letters are preserved in the Baumgartner papers, Cambr. univ. libr.].

of all sorts, as a cranium humanum, with a ticket: cranium cum capsula lignea dono dedit bibliothecae collegii Sidney Sussex Gulielmus Stevens de Rotherhithe capitaneus, e senioribus fratribus domus sanctae et individuae Trinitatis in Deptford, qui cranium illud ex Creta insula (Candia vulgo dicta) secum attulit in Angliam anno 1627, haud procul ab urbe Candia circiter passus decem subter terra repertum in fonte fodiendo, qui in urbem derivaretur. By it lay also a letter from the famous Guil. Harvaeo in the english language, in which he thanks the college† for kindly making known to him this cranium; he had shewn it to the king, who was pleased with it: for his own part he looked upon it as specially curious. It is a cranium petrefactum, or rather an incrustatum, and I may say that though I have seen here and there in cabinets many petrefacta and incrustata, I never met with anything so singular. It is a pity that this cranium is broken in two, and the under jaw is altogether wanting. The largest fragment, consisting of the front part, is very finely covered within and without by a yellow, hard, stony crust, about as thick as the back of a knife, yet so, that the teeth (doubtless propter structuram compactiorem) remained unchanged, as also the structure of the cranii itself, which may be well seen, with all its cavitatibus and poris, at the end where it was broken off; so that, as

* [Academie.]

I said above, it is no petrefactio, but a strong incrustatio. There was also in the same cupboard a narrow, but thick, roll of parchment, perhaps three fingers broad, containing the arms
5 of all families in comitatu Cantiae an. 1593, very neatly painted and colored. We were also shewn a cylinder, with six figures excellently painted, and among them king Charles II. on horseback, admirably drawn. We noticed here
10 also an old desk and book-stand, the only peculiarity of which was, that you could raise and lower it by a long screw, passing through the desk; within it was fitted with drawers. It rested on a cross, which wanted however a firm
15 stand, especially for writing.

Next we went to Trinity hall, which is one of the poorest buildings, as Trinity college is the finest. It is said to be founded for jurists only. The library of this hall is like the hall itself, 20 that is, very mean, consisting only of a few law books.

Although mention is made* of seven poor codicibus 45
MSS. I could scarcely find a single one of them; on the other hand I hunted up the following from some fifty 25 pieces of old rubbish.† The most pretentious and best codex was probably a membranaceus of imposing size, some four spans high or tall, written in large letters, and also tolerably old. It is a chronicon anglicanum, of which however I could find no autorem, nor, as may 30 well be imagined, any other title. On the cover was * Catal. MSS. Angl. p. 163, part 2.

† [Schunken].

written in pencil: Thomas Elmham.* But whether this be the author's name, or rather a former possessor's, must be ascertained from Nicolson's historical-library and other books of reference. From the codice itself I observed that it is properly a chronicon ecclesiae B. August. 5 cantuariensis. Beside this I found also the following codices, of which I thought it worth while to make a note: codex membr. in 4., two fingers thick, containing Ambrosium de virginitate et sermonem Isidori episcopi de corpore et sanguine Domini Iesu Christi.† It. in fol. 10 cod. chart. recentissimus, Joh. Cowelli‡ I. C. D. et in acad. cantab. profess. institutiones iuris anglicani ad methodum et seriem institutionum imperialium compositae. Below was written: hunc codicem post editionem impressam sic auctum et emendatum, secundae editioni (ut 15 videtur) destinatum et iam prelo paratum ipse author (huius collegii praefectus dignissimus) huic bibliothecae 46 nominatim commendavit. It. vol. in fol. membr. Hieronymus§ de iuribus Angliae;† codex erat recentior, of the thickness of your thumb. It. vol. in 4 membr., three 20 fingers thick, in quo 1) Stephani Langeton, archiepiscopi cantuariensis, moralis expositio in prophetas. 2) Tractatus de similitudinibus. 3) Liber proverbiorum interpretatus. [Also letters of Becket. The ms. has the name of Robert Hare 1562]. I further saw vol. in fol. chart. 25 Ymago mundi per Vincentium ordin. praedicat.‖ It. cod. membran. in fol. Radulphus Flaviensis super Leviti-

* [No such note now appears, but good reasons have been given for assigning the authorship to Thomas. See Historia monasterii S. Augustini Cantuariensis, by Thomas of Elmham. Edited by Charles Hardwick. Lond. 1858. 8vo.].

† [No mark of ownership is now to be found].

‡ [Corbelli, Uffenb.].

§ [Victorinus Uffenb.].

‖ [one of Rob. Hare's books].

- cum.* Vol. in 4. membr. in isto Sulpicii Severi vita S. Martini episcopi et confessoris; at the end of this codicis was written: expliciunt gesta beati Martini et vita B. Britii. After this follow only three† folia, beginning:
- 5 incipit praefatio de vita S. Nicholai; but it is defective, and as I said, consists of three‡ leaves only. It. cod. membr. in 4, two fingers thick, Liturgia D. Iacobi apostoli‡; caret initio: at the beginning is noted: Sancti Iacobi apostoli nomine apud graecos in usu liturgia est,
- 10 quam ut veram germanamque illius scripturam Proclus constantinopolitanus agnoscit, et synodus oecumenica sexta. Petrus Galesinius in suo martyrologio fol. 98 parte secunda. Below was a more correct note: non est haec divi Iacobi liturgia, cuius meminit Galesinius, sed collectio
- 15 lectionum quae in ecclesia orientali festis diebus etiamnum leguntur, e prophetis, proverbiiis et sapientia Salomonis sumpta. But this codex is ex dono Richardi§ Hare 1605, from whom also many other codices came. It. 47
- cod. in 4. membr. cuius initium: incipit prologus in librum
- 20 contra duodecim errores et haereses Lollardorum;|| but at the end: explicit liber contra duodecim errores et haereses Lollardorum. It. cod. in 4. chart. electa de epistolis Petri blesensis.¶ It. vol. in fol. membr. Iosephi historiarum antiquitates Iudaicae lib. xx. latine, doubtless
- 25 of Rufini version.** It. vol. in fol. membr. doctrinale * [bought by Robert Hare 1570 for 10s.].

† [two Uffenb.].

‡ [This MS. appears to be lost].

§ [Rather Roberti. I have not met with a MS. bearing the date 1605 or (as below) 1603].

|| [dedicated to king Richard by brother Roger Dymmock. See Fabricius, biblioth. lat. med. et infimae aetatis, under Dimmock; and Tanner, biblioth. p. 243. Another copy is in the university library li iv 3].

¶ [Robert Hare, 1565].

** [In the library, a handsome MS.].

ecclesiae contra blasfemias Wiclef. The author is magister Thomas Walden, as may be seen at the end, and it was written anno MCCCCXVI.* Lastly I found another vol. in fol. membr., wherein was contained: 1) Augustinus de civitate Dei libri XXII. 2) eiusdem super genesin XII. 3) eiusdem de natura boni. 4) sententiae Damasceni.† Thus much of good I could still discover among the manuscripts, which however lay in miserable disorder. I am surprised that I could light on nothing of the seven recorded in the catal. MSS. Angl., while on the other hand not one of those just described is to be found in the catalogo. And though one might be inclined to suspect that they came to this college when the catalogus had been already printed, yet, as I mentioned before, several codices appear ex dono Richardi Hare 1603, so that probably no one cared for these codices nor would be at the pains to make an indicem of them.

48 6 Aug. We inspected Emmanuel college. This collegium is tolerably large, and even the back court well built. In the first is the library on the ground floor in a tolerably large room. The books are respectable in number, it is true, but (as usual in England) stand in entire confusion, so that I could neither review them by the printed catal. MSS. Angl. nor yet by the written one, which lay upon the table, but only after laborious search could at last meet with the following.

* [This contains only the first part of the doctrinale. It was written 'per me fratrem Livinum de Preestere alias Presbyteri ordinis gloriose Dei genitricis Marie de monte Carmeli pro fratribus eiusdem ordinis conventus Gandensis, conventui prefato priorante venerabili patre Petro de Brune. A<sup>o</sup> M. CCCC. XVI die Septembris. Uffenbach has confused the date of the year and that of the day of the month]. † [Robert Hare, 1552].

- Cod. membr. in fol., thicker than a hand-breadth: it was the bible in english, 'John Wiclef's translation performed by him an. 83.' The good socius and librarian who escorted us, asserted that it was an autographum, but it did not seem so to me. It. cod. membr. in fol., three fingers thick, Gregorii M. commentarius in Ezechielem. It. cod. in 4. membr. Hieronymus contra Iovinianum haereticum de matrimonio et virginitate. It. cod. in fol. membr., three fingers thick, commentarius in prophetas minores, without the author's name; for the rest it is a modern codex, very neatly written. It. cod. in fol. Augustinus de Trinitate. In this as in many other codicibus I found the name Tho. Leigh written. Afterwards I saw 14 volumina in fol., mostly a hand-breadth thick, Matthaei Sutlivii opera, of which the first four volumina had this title: adversus praecipuas synagogae 49 romanae haereses et errores eorumque auctores patronos et sectatores disputationum tomi IV. quorum I. de fidei principiis. II. de Christo et ecclesia. III. de sacramentis. IV. de gratia et peccato. The last volumina comprise varia. There was noted on them: Nicolaus Bernard S.T.D. collegii Emanuelis olim alumnus eidem collegio 20 dono dedit. I also saw vol. in 4. graec. containing Theocriti idyllia etc. It. cod. in 4. chart.* Pindari [MS. vetus et pulchrum: incipit a] Pyth. oda I., it is neat, but not so old, utpote chartaceus. It. vol. in 4. chart. recentiss., and therein variae lectiones evangeliorum ex 30 quatuor codicibus, nempe 1. in collegio Caio-Gonvilli. 2. ex cod. Bezae in bibl. publ. 3. MS. Henr. Googet† S.T.D. et coll. S. Trin. apud Cantabr. nuper socii. 4

* De quo Catal. MSS. Angl. pt. II. p. 92, n. 131. [whence the words in crotchets are supplied].

† [Goetze, Uffenb.].

ex codice recent. manu descripto, qui tum fuit Thomae Montfortii theologiae doct. Below is cited biblia Waltoni vol. ult. ante var. lect. graec. N. T. In the beginning stands the name of Tho. Leigh, who presented these variantes lectiones, which he had either collected himself, 5 or employed another to collect; I rather suspect the latter, for the writing differs from that of the signature and is far neater.

Further I saw cod. in fol. chartac., three fingers thick, in which was noted: MS. authenticum a Roberto Cotton 10 milite ex archivis collectum, dein ex bibliotheca comitis Northamptoniae ad manus Dni. Mich. Bayne de colleg. Trinit. praepos. operi Dni. Compton et a praedicto Dno. Mich. Bayne dono mihi datum 16. Martii 1687-8. Josua Barnes e coll. Eman. On the cover were the arms of 15 Jos. Barnes with this lemmate on a flying scroll: haec mihi musa dedit. vix ea nostra voco. Josua Barnes S.T.P. graecae linguae Cantabr. prof. reg. Eman. coll. soc. 1700. bibliothecae eiusdem coll. dedit Eduardi regis Angliae historiae autor egregius 1701-2. Mr. Barnes 20 will no doubt have made great use of it in his 'history of Edward III.' which he has lately published in the English language.* Perhaps he has mentioned it therein; I must refer to the book to settle the question. Next I saw vol. in 4. membr. It was Palladius de re rustica. 25 Deficiunt in eo initio fol. 20 et in fine fol. 5. Otherwise the codex is bonae notae and neatly written. It. cod. in fol. membr., three fingers thick, namely: Vitellionis perspectivae libri x. elegantiss. script. cum fig. 5 schematibus in margine. It. cod. membr. in 4., a hand-breadth 30 thick. βιβλίον ἱπποϊατρικὸν sive τῶν ἱπποϊατρικῶν βιβλία δύο, medicinae veterinariae lib. II. There was a note: liber magni pretii, quoad partem priorem scriptus accuratius, plurima continet, quae in libro typis excuso (scil. Basileae apud Valderum graec. 1537) non comparent. 35 * [Cambr. 1688. fol.].

It. a bundle in fol. letters of holy martyrs.* I found 51 here also the Officia Ciceronis Moguntiae an. 1465 impress. in membr. Lastly I saw a cod. in 4. chart.
Joannis monachi πνευματορῆτορος disputatio inter corpus 5 et animam. Of this codice there was a long entry in the catal. ms. Angl. of which, by the permission of the librarian, I procured a transcript.

In one of these presses, which contained the manuscripts, we found also a tolerable magnet, 10 and in a bag some lenses for tubis astronomicis, in their cases, which however were of no great importance. When we had done with the library, we went into the second court of this college, to view the chapel, which is indeed 15 small, but neat. Before the church is a cloister, and above it a fine saloon, called the gallery, in which many portraits hang.

We dined with the worthy Dr. Covel, who treated us well, and entertained us the whole 20 afternoon with all sorts of narratives of his eastern travels, and gave us among other things some well-made verses, composed by him on the second edition of Spanheim's de praestantia et usu numismatum.

25 7 Aug. We were in Peterhouse, which, though the oldest college, is yet new and well built. The library is in a poor room of moderate size. The manuscripts stand partly over the door, and at the very top of the cases, 30 and were so buried in dust, that the librarian was 52

* They are said to form three volumina. See Catal.
MS. Angl. p. II. p. 91 n. 100.

forced to send for a towel, for me to wear as a pinafore, that I might not dirty myself too much. They were also in such disorder, that I could find nothing at all by the catal. MSS. Angl. part II. p. 147 seq. They are mostly scholastica, 5 and such 'sorry stuff, that after a painful search I could find nothing but the following :

Cod. in fol. membr. a hand-breadth thick : cod. Iustiniani a lib. I. usque ad IX. tit. de abolitionibus. It. 10
 cod. in fol. membr. Institutiones iuris civilis cum glossa. It. cod. membr. in fol. Cod. iuris civilis cum glossa. This codex was better than the first. Vol. in fol. membr., two fingers thick, Petri Comestoris historia scholastica. The rest was not worth noting.

Accordingly we went to view the chapel of 15 this college, which is small indeed, but elegant. In the glass was Christ's Crucifixion of the size of life, well drawn and colored. On either side of the altar hung two scenes of the Passion, well designed in black on blue cloth in golden 20 frames.

In the afternoon the librarian* Mr. Thomas Baker at last shewed us the manuscripts and coins mentioned above.† The manuscripts were in a small, dark, poor room, by the side of the 25 library in a press ; they were mostly presented 53 by the earl of Southampton, since the publication of the Catalogus MSS. Angl.; hence no mention is made of them in that book.

* [Of St. John's, see above p. 140 l. 28].

† [P. 129 l. 25].

- I saw the following codices,* one chart., a hand-breadth thick, arab. sed litteris syriacis script. In it were 1) historia ecclesiastica Georgii Elmacini [K 2], of which Erpenius has published only the second part. 2) Psalms Davidis [K 5]. 3) Descriptio Ismaelitismi sive sectae Mahumedanae [K 4]. 4) Preculae sive meditationes partim arabicae partim turcicae [K 3 and 6]. 5) Historia Hamtaræ filii Siddadae l'habassae 7. libris compaginatis distinctisque hac nota * [K 8—14]. As 10 Mr. Baker asserted, Lomeierus makes mention of this codicis.† He next shewed us the officia Ciceronis Monguntiae per Io. Fust MCCCCLXVI. printed, like the copy above mentioned,‡ upon vellum [L 20]. It. vol. in fol. epistolarum, which the famous Clarendon, (whose ex-15 cellent history of the rebellion was lately published), when in exile with king Charles II., wrote entirely in cipher to a certain Jo. Barwick, with deecyphered copies [H 10; printed in the appendix to Barwick's life]. It. Pet. Barwick M.D. vita Iohannis Barwick (just mentioned), 20 eccles. S. Pauli Lond. decani et collegii S. Joh. evang. apud Cantabrigiens. olim socii, in qua non pauca arcana studia pro regno Britannico, motibus intestinis collapsis, in pristinum statum restituendo, difficillimis temporibus impensa in lucem proferuntur [H 9. Printed by Hilckiah
 25 Bedford in 1721. 8vo.; a translation by the same 1724.

* [The present numbers of these MSS. are inserted in crotchets in the text. Fuller and more accurate descriptions of them may be seen in A descriptive catalogue of the manuscripts and scarce books in the library of St. John's college, Cambridge. By the Rev. Morgan Cowie, Cambr. 1842—3. 4to. 2 pts.].

† In his work de bibliothecis [ed. 2. Ultraj. 1680. 8vo. p. 317 'in collegio Iohannis, ubi prima pars historiae Elmacini, syriacis exarata litteris;'] citing Hotting. biblioth. quadrip. proleg. cap. 2].

‡ [P. 169 l. 2. The Johnian copy is on paper].

- 54 8vo.]. After this Mr. Baker shewed us two printed but remarkable books : 1) Ioh. Roffensis (whose portrait we had seen in Mr. Baker's museo) conciones, printed in London in 8vo. by Wynkyn de Worde,* a Dutchman, one of the first printers in England. 2) the bible, the first translation by authority finished in April an. M.CCCCXXXIX. a Domino factum est istud.† It is printed on parchment, and was originally so scarce, that it was valued at £40 sterling : now-a-days the word of God is cheaper.‡ At the beginning is a fine frontispiece, representing Henry VIII. to whom Cranmer and other bishops present this version. I also saw cod. in fol. membr. de concilio constantiensi [H 7], from which some transcripts were sent to Mr. von der Hardt. See his historiam concilii Constantiensis. It. vol. in small fol. a true relation of the treaty and ratification of the marriage between k. Charles I. and the lady Henrietta Maria [L 5, as noted by Uffenbach]. It. cod. chart. in 8vo. Catonis poemata s. disticha, cod. recentior.§ It. volum. in quo concilium Lateranense sub Alexandro III. [F 11]. It. vol. chart. in 8. ms. [M 7], which had originally this title, confessio Augustana ; but the word Augustana has been erased, and Saxonica substituted. It begins thus : necesse est interrogatos recitare doctrinam etc. ; and ends thus : nec deleri patiatur coetus ipsum vere invocantes. It is the saxon confession, composed by Melanchthon by order of the elector Moritz in Saxony A.D. 1551, in order to be presented to the council of Trent. It. cod. chart. in 8. in quo Confessio fidei graecorum [M 8], cuius initium * [1509. I 41. Bequeathed to the college by Baker].

† [This magnificent book is now (1870) exhibited in a case at the w. end of the library].

‡ [At the present time the volume would fetch more than twenty times £40].

§ [In Cowie's catalogue only one Cato, F 10 (3), a vellum 4to. appears].

- Ἐγὼ κραταίῃ πίστει πιστεύω τε καὶ ὁμολογῶ ἅπαντα
etc. paulo post : πιστεύω εἰς ἓνα Θεόν etc. finis οὕτως ἔστω μοι ὁ θεὸς βοηθὸς καὶ ταῦτα τὰ ἅγια τοῦ Θεοῦ εὐαγγέλια. I further saw vol. membr. in 4. in quo varia
5 historica, as 1) chronica Alexandri M. [G 16 (1)]. 2) historia Huntingtoni [Hen. Hunt. ib. (6)], which has indeed been printed, but in this copy is a special insertion, not printed, nor found elsewhere fol. 210 b. 'in-cipit lex que anglie danelage est.' In the margin* 10 stands this note : 'latine vero lex dacorum est interpre-tata ab invictissimo et glorioso rege anglorum, dacorum, Noragenorum, Suevorum Kannuto instituta et diligenter custodita.' The beginning is : 'haec est institutio quam cnut rex' etc. After this follows fol. 212 b. lex West-15 saxiae† and goes on to fol. 215. As Mr. Baker asserted, these laws have never been printed. At the beginning was noted : 'scriptus est hic codex circa annum 1250'; probably by Hickes,‡ as he had this codex long in his hands. Further we saw Constitutiones quorundam archi-20 episc. Cant. et Eborac. [D 13 and 18. E 3. N 5]. Constitutiones et statuta ecclesiae [ibid.]. Consuetudines monasterii B. Mariae Ebor. [D 28]. It. consuetudo 56 regni Westsaxiae;§ whether this be identical with the above, I forgot to ascertain by collation. Further I saw 25 a codicem entitled : Contentio inter abbatem S. Dogmaelis et homines de Cardigan [A 5 (5)]. It. S. Edmundi
Cant. speculum [E 24 (3). G 11 (4)].|| It. Mahumed
Effendi epistolica institutio persice [K 3 (2)]. It. Io.
Eremita de collationibus abbatum [D 10]. It. cod. in 4.

* [not in the margin, but following in the rubric].

† ['Hee sunt consuetudines regis quas habuit in Westsexe']. ‡ [No : in W. Crashaw's hand].

§ [No separate piece under this title is to be found in Cowie].

|| [Uffenbach says 'S. Edmundi Cant. vita. eiusdem speculum,' by mistake].

membr., a hand-breadth thick, recentior [D 22]., in quo
 1) Valerius Maximus. 2) Solinus de mirabilibus mundi.
 3) Sext. Iulii Frontini strategemata. 4) Flores Tullii et aliorum veterum autorum. Afterwards there came into my hand: Fr. Fulcardi de vita S. Botolphi abbatis 5
 [H 6 (3)]. It. Galfridi monumet. historia Britonum
 [G 16 (2). G 33 (2)]. It. Galfridi viterbiensis chronicon [G 16 (9)]. It. de gallorum pugna, 'cockfighting' [Seems to be lost]. It. Conr. Gleshinki elementa linguae sla-vonicae [The epistle to Philemon in slavonic, english and 10 german, with some particulars of the slavonic language; dedicated to Peter Gunning. L 8]. It. The complaint of Henry d. of Buckingham, a poem [Seems to be lost].
 Further cod. in 4. membr. [D 26] in which were 1) De spiritu superbiae. 2) Passio SS. Sergii et Bacchi. 3) 15 Hincmari remensis vita S. Remigii. 4) Vita Gregorii nazianzeni. 5) Vita S. Mauritii. 6) Liber versificatus de S. Felice martyre. It. Ivo carnotensis de sacramentis neophytorum, de excellentia sacrorum ordinum, et alia eius opuscula [D 19]. It. vol. in fol. [C 6] membr. In- 20 cipit prima pars libri qui vocatur musica ecclesiastica, de imitatione Christi et contemptu omnium vanitatum mundi.
 The old codices have the title musica ecclesiastica; this* 57 seems to be of the author's times. Initium codicis est cap. I. qui sequitur me, non ambulat in tenebris. After 25 the kalendario and the indice capitum, at the beginning of the codicis, stand these verses:

scriptori merita, mater pia, redde, Maria,

Rogero Pynchebek de Londoñ.

hunc finem feci, da michi quod merui. †

30

Moreover I saw vol. recens in 4. of about six sheets

* [In the original it is ambiguous whether 'dieser' refers to 'Titul' or to 'codex' supplied from 'codices';
 I suppose to the former].

† [A copy of Thomas a Kempis arranged in three books].

- [L 19]: Vita, riti e costumi degl' Hebrei in brevissimo compendio ma ampiamente raccolti e descritti da Leone Modena Hebreo da Venetia. Ex dono autoris 1628. Boswell. * It. S. Mauritii vita [D 26]. It. Methodii chronica [Seems to be lost, if there is not a mistake]. It. Nicodemi historia de passione Christi [E 24 ]11. cf. B 20 (4)]. It. Orosii historiarum libri 7 [D 23 (1)]. It. cod. in 4. membr., three fingers thick [C 12]. In this is 1) Anonymus de templo Dei mystico et morali etc.
- 10 but at the end Ovidius de mirabilibus, beginning thus :

hic serpens ventis perniciosior atque sagittas transfugit quaeque etc. (read sagittis)

and ends with the words :

- hanc quam permodicam sibi pervehit ungue rapinam.
15 explicit Ovidius de mirabilibus mundi.

- I further saw [I 11 (3)] de papis chronicon [Martini Poloni chronicon, containing the account of pope Joan]. It. XII patriarcharum testamenta [G 16 (18)]. It. de Pontii Pilati ortu [? acta Pilati B 20 (4)]. It. cod. in 4.
- 20 membr. Plutarchus de virtute Rom., de virtute Alexandri, et alia eius opuscula, latine [C 11 (2). (4). (11)]. It. 58 Theodori Prisciani gynaecia [D 4 (5)]. It. Probae Falconiae virgiliani centones [D 22 (5)]. It. Proclus in Platonem de re publica, lat. [in greek F 15]. It. Provinciale
- 25 romanum [G 9]. It. Provinciale s. constitutiones anglicae [D 13 and 18. E 3. N 5]. It. Quintilianus de causis [the declamations C 5]. Eiusdem institutiones orat. [D 16]. It. Remigii vita [D 26]. It. Salvatoris gesta a Theodosio inventa, ab Ambrosio conscripta [B 20 (4)].
- 30 It. Seneca de institutione morum [B 20 (7)] et alia eius opuscula [E 12 (8). (9). (10). E 17 (8). (9)]. It. Sim-* [Uffenbach's notice disposes of Mr. Cowie's conjecture (p. 110): 'I cannot conceive how this came to the possession of the college, unless it be one of Dr. Ferrari's books'].

plicii expositio Epicteti [C 11 8]. It. Statii Thebaidos lib. XII. [D 12 (1)]. It. Trotula de morbis mulierum [F 18 (10)]. It. M. Tullii rhetorica [D 25. Cf. I (12)]. Eiusdem de amicitia [E 17 (12). I (12)] et de senectute [E 17 (13)]. It. Valerii epistolae ad Ruffinum contra nuptias expositio [E 12 (1); Mr. Cowie could find no notice of this; it is printed in Jerome's works]. It. Maph. Vegii Aeneidos liber decimus tertius [H 2]. It. Virgilius, cod. recentior [H 2]. Mr. librarian Laughton, who published Virgil here in 4. anonymously in 1710, has made use of it. It. Annotatio librorum ecclesiae S. Iacobi de Wellbek ad divinum officium pertinentium [A 9 (2)]. If the time would have permitted, I would gladly have perused this old indicem, for one often finds in such catalogis intelligence of MSS. codicibus, which are otherwise unknown, or even lost. It. Xenophontis liber de tyrannide [C 11 (7)]. Thus much we could see only superficially for want of time.

We were also shewn the cabinet of coins, which scarcely deserves the name. For it is poor in itself, and contains but little, so that there is nothing specially to be reported of it. I must however make mention of one gold nummi of Arcadio, which is very fine. On the one side is his face: DN. ARCADIUS P. F. Aug. In aversa* figura he is stans, una manu vexillum cum monogrammate, altera Victoriolam globo insistentem tenens, pede vero hominem prostratum calcans, with this inscription: VICTORIA AUGG. Below CONOB. and in the centre on either side of the figurae stantis M.D. There were in all about eight gold coins.

8 Aug. We went first to Pembroke college, which is neither large nor fine.† In the very front is a not very large, but well-lighted and * [aversa, orig.].

† See Délices d'Anglet. tom. I.

neat building, containing the library, and probably built for that purpose. The librarian, a very courteous and still young man, shewed us first of all two fine globos of Bleau. They are 5 of the largest size which he made, about  $2\frac{1}{2}$  ft. in diameter. He calls himself upon them in latin Guilielmus Caesius.

Further he shewed us the album amicorum of the famous Abrah. Ortelii, in which very many learned persons have written. It. iv. volumina chart. in fol. recent. each two fingers thick, in which was contained Nicetas graece, very neatly written. It. cod. in fol., a handbreadth thick, membr. Aulus Gellius, an incomparably neat and fine codex; it is to be lamented that some rogue
 15 has cut out all the golden initials, and consequently 60 greatly disfigured and mutilated the codicem; for it was necessary to supply the context cut away on the other side. I remember to have read, but cannot tell where, that a librarian of the Vatican spoilt very many codices
 20 in this manner, and is said to have received gold for them to the value of several hundred scudi. A beat in malam crucem talis bibliothecarius! The codices just mentioned are not to be found in the catal. MSS. Angl. because they came here after the date of that list. But 25 amongst those that are there recorded is very much trash, much too, as the librarian assured us, has disappeared. Yet I found the following: Virgilii Aeneid. libri xi. * the last verse is:

vitaque cum gemitu fugit indignata sub umbras.

30 Immediately upon this follow the libri bucolicon. It is a cod. membr. in 8. recentior. It. Petrarchae Africae descriptio versibus.† Cod. est chart. recentior. Epis-tolae Hieronymi etc.* Codex membr. in 8. There is also in this codice a lapidarium, or french description gemmarum, about six leaves, the remainder is wanting 61 at the end. It. Tullius de officiis, † lost. It. Valerius Maximus, ‡ cod. in fol., as thick as one's thumb, membr. 5 recentior. It. Edictum Iustiniani imperatoris rectae fidei confessionem continens (as the title runs), et refutationem haeresium, quae adversantur catholicae Dei ecclesiae. § Cod. membr. in 8. recentior. The beginning of this codicis is: scientes quod nihil aliud sic potest misericor- 10 dem Dominum placare, quam ut omnes christiani unum idemque sapiant in recta et immaculata fide nec sint dissensiones etc. Lastly, Armachanus de quaestionibus Armenorum. || Cod. est membr. in fol. mutilatus, nam libri novem postremi desunt. 15

* Catal. MSS. Angl. p. 159, n. 2048.

† ibid. n. 2049.

As we could find no more, we went for a while into the already ¶ mentioned Coffee-house, of a Greek. In the morning you generally meet the learned there, who read the paper, and sometimes drink coffee and smoke tobacco. 20 Learned journals are also found here, known by the title of British Apollo and the Athenian oracle. Every one, learned or unlearned, may find some entertainment in them. It were well, if in Germany, and especially in universities, 25 learned men would found such a collegium.

This time we found in the Coffee-house, among other scholars, the famous Dr.** William Whiston, who by his many singular opinions, and 62 specially on account of the Arianismi, which 30

* ibid. p. 161, n. 2138.

† ibid. n. 2139.

‡ ibid. n. 2142.

§ ibid. n. 2149.

|| ibid. n. 2152.

¶ [p. 132, l. 8].

** [A mistake].

he boldly professes, has made himself only too notorious, particularly in his lately published opusculis, wherein he mocks at the Trinity very shamefully; for example, having concluded one
 5 of these little tracts in nomine Patris, Filii et Spiritus S. he adds at the end of the voluminis as an erratum: dele 'Filii.' I have bought all his things. Another thing that has caused much noise is, that though doct. theologiae,* he him-
 10 self baptised his child by a threefold immersion. He is, it seems, a man of very quick and ardent spirit, tall and spare, with a pointed chin, and wears his own hair. In look he greatly resembles Calvin. He is very fond of 15 speaking, and argues with great vehemence.

As there was little time to spare, we went on to Catharine hall, a large and fine building, as is represented in the copperplate.† The library, if indeed three or four hundred books
 20 deserve the name, is to the left, up stairs. They are mostly historical books and patres. We were shewn a single codicem MS., the only one they had, as we were assured.

It is membr. recentior, and contains 1) historiam 25 Alexandri M. defective at the beginning. 2) de philosophia per litteras facta collatio. Its initium: saepe ad aures meas fando pervenit etc. 3) Peregrinatio Anti- 63
ochiae per Urbanum papam facta; beginning: Cum iam appropinquasset ille terminus etc. 4) Descriptio 30 Angliae; beginning: Britannia igitur est latissima insularum etc. The last two capita are: de victoriis

* [M.A. only].

† Délices d'Anglet. tom. I.

Anglorum regis Henrici secundi; the last of all: de titulis et triumphis eiusdem variis recapitulatio brevis.

5) Tractatus de physiognomia. 6) and last: Incipit prologus magistri Gregorii de mirabilibus quae Romae quondam fuerunt vel adhuc sunt, et quorum vestigia ac praesens memoria hodie manet. This last treatise begins: Multo sociorum meorum rogatu. Something is lost at the end. 5

In the afternoon we were in Christ's college,* it is a tolerably large, but old and low building. 10

9 Aug. On Sunday afternoon we went again to Trinity college for the sermon, and also heard fine music, especially on the organ. The English excel specially herein, whereas on all other instruments they are mean performers; though they also make much ado of their chimes, and aim at an artistic and agreeable style of ringing; but we could not fancy the clatter, rather were much annoyed, to hear it so often: for the scholars or young students mount the towers and ring when they please, often for hours together. Accidents often happen in bell-ringing, some students being struck, or falling down and breaking leg and arm. 15 20 64

10 Aug. we were in Bennet or Corporis Christi college.† It is an old and poor building, indeed one of the ugliest colleges, lying entirely among the houses, so that one cannot see it, and must approach it by a mean entrance. But this collegium has the choicest manuscripts of all, which can only be seen with great difficulty. 25 30

* See Délices d'Angleterre, tom. I.

† ibid.

- For as it is a legacy, which, if a single codex is lost, passes to another collegium, there are three keys to it, kept by three different persons, whom it is very difficult to bring together.
- 5 However on the special recommendation of messieurs Bentley, Baker and Dr. Ferrari they were shewn to us, and that by a man of great courtesy and learning, especially in respect of the lives of scholars and bibliography, named
- 10 Waller, socius eiusdem collegii. Such men are rarely met with in England. The manuscripta are above the chapel, in a small, dark, very ugly room. Over the door of this building I found the following inscription: Honoratiss. Dn.
- 15 Nicolaus BACON, custos magni sigilli Angliae, extruxit Dominicae salutis 1578, regni Elisa- 65
bethae 21, anno aetatis suae 61, cancellariatus 21. There were also three coats of arms. When we expressed our surprise at the man's generosity
- 20 in erecting this building at his own cost, we must hear from Mr. Waller that he had supplied nothing but the door or the archway.

I now come to the manuscripts, of which I saw the principal, as time would allow, by help of the catal.

25 MSS. Angl.,* namely N. [81] Homerus, qui Theodori archiepiscopi fuisse creditur, so is reported in the catalogo;† but though the name Theodori is written also at the bottom of the first page, it is only a paper codex, and seems far more modern. N. [129 (1). cf. 276 (1)] Eutropius is a cod. membr. N. [290] Chronica Odonis; it contains a genealogiam regum Francorum, but consists only of five foliis membr. N. [91] L'histoire des seigneurs de Gaures.* The figures in this cod. membr. in fol., highly extolled in the catalogue, are nothing at all to speak of. N. [45] De origine gentis Francorum. This codex is membr. in fol. The genealogy in it begins a Turchoto sive Torgoto et Francione, it. Marchonuro et Genebaldo, ducibus Sicambriae. N. [76] Annales Stephani [Radulphi de Diceto annales]. There is nothing fine in the binding,† rather it is all worm-eaten, but inside the codex is neat, yet must be ranked as modern. N. [16 and 26] Matthaei Parisiensis etc. cod. in fol. membr. But the figures‡ in it are very poor. N. [318] Vita S. Eduardi regis; and Turpinus.§ Cod. membr. in 4. somewhat modern. N. [149] Egesippi historia etc. cod. membr. in fol. N. [23]. Prudentius etc. cod. membr. in fol. The figures|| are numerous it is true, but poor. The Orosius, which is bound with it, is not so neat, nor yet so old as the Prudentius. N. [181] Gulielmi Gemeticensis de ducibus Normannorum. cod. membr. in fol. beginning: quantae humilitatis Rollo fuit. N. [139] Historia omnimoda etc. It bore the note: de historia Symeonis dunelmensis liber impressus amplior est in nonnullis, quae hic desunt. N. [389] Vita S.

* [I have substituted Nasmith's numbers, by which the MSS. are now known, for the numbers retained from James by Bernard; Uffenbach's numbers are confused].

† [No: it says: 'fuit quondam Theodori archiep. sed fides sit penes lectorem'].

* [L'histoire des Gaules, Uffenbach].

† [Catal. MSS. Angl. p. 132, n. 1298, liber ob scripturam et ligaturam notabilis sine dubio].

‡ [ibid. n. 1306, illustrata coloribus et figuris artificiosissime pictis].

§ For which see Vossius de histor. lat. lib. 2. c. 23, p. 299.

|| [Catal. ibid. p. 133, n. 1332, liber ob characteres et picturas splendide antiquus].

- Pauli primi heremitae, cod. membr. in 8. mai. formae litteris Saxonis. N. [406] Senecae tragoediae etc. cod. in 4. membran. recentior. N. [400] Descriptio Hyberniae etc. cod. in 4. ab initio membranaceus, but the
- 5 itinerarium Cambriae and what follows is on paper. N. [197] quattuor evangelia. This cod. membr. in 4. is incomparable, and in form of the characters and antiquity very like the codici Bezae, of which I have already given an account;* at the beginning is a preface, litteris saxonicis. When I was admiring this old codicem, Mr. Waller
- 10 shewed me one yet far fairer and older [n. 286]. It is membr. and in fol. At the beginning [of 197] were 67 some folia of paper, containing some judicial matters; upon this follows the old codex, bearing the inscription
- 15 fragmentum evangeliorum. hic liber olim missus a Gregorio papa ad Augustinum monachum, sed nuper sic mutilatus. But it contains properly the evangelium sancti Iohannis lat. litteris uncialibus et antiquiss. One cannot but admire the beauty, uniformity and blackness
- 20 of the letters of this codice. At the beginning is an eagle, as the emblem of this evangelist, with five crosses very neatly painted, and these words one on each side IMAGO—AQUILAE. It is a pity that some leaves are wanting in this codice at the end, which however Mr.
- 25 Waller asserted were in the bibliotheca Cottoniana.† The last words are: et cum ducerent eum, adprehenderunt Simonem quendam Cyrunensem (al. Cyrenens.) venientem de villa. I found afterwards that these words are not in Johanne, but Luke xxiii. 26. Probably there-
- 30 fore it is a harmony of the gospels, or lastly of the history of the passion.‡ I may however safely say, that

* [p. 141, l. 2].

† [Otho C 5 burnt in Oct. 1731].

‡ [It contains 6 fragments of John between I 1 and x 29; and 9 of Luke, between IV 5 and XXIII 26. See Evangelia Augustini gregoriana. An historical and

I never saw so old and fair a codicem latinum, for I consider it much older than the codicem Bezae, and that of S. Bonifacio, of which they boast at Fulda, and of which I have given account in the diary of my journey to Saxony in 1709. N. [468] Psalterium latino-graecum etc. cod. 5 68 membr. in 12. not very old. What is very peculiar is, that the greek also is written in latin characters, owing to the ignorance of the greek language which prevailed in the middle age; just as in the first years after the invention of printing also, from want of greek type, the 10 greek words in the autoribus class. and patribus were either omitted or printed in latin characters. Mr. Waller shewed me another cod. membran. psalterium [n. 411, saec. ix], which was much older. N. [158] Rhetorica Tullii. It is said* to have been Theodori archiep., but 15 it cannot possibly be of that date, though it is tolerably old and fine. N. [414] Otia imperialia Gervasii tilburiensis. There follows also Turpinus. Cod. membr. in 4. varia manu descriptus. N. [403] Euripides gr. Again falsely ascribed Theodoro, for it is a not remarkably old 20 codex papyro nilotica. But there are only two tragodiae, namely Hecuba and Phoenissae cum scholiaste graeco. N. [173] Chronica Alfrici† etc. cod. in fol. membr. charact. saxonico. With it also Sedulius. N. [430] Liber Martini episcopi‡ etc. Some one has noted 25 on the margin of the codicis itself: Festus Senecae;

illustrative description of the MSS. nos. CCLXXXVI. and CXCVII. in the Parker library of Corpus Christi college, Cambridge. . . . By James Goodwin, B.D. Cambr. 1847. 4to. (Cambr. Ant. Soc.), where facsimiles and illustrations of no. 197 are given. J. O. Westwood, in his Palaeographia sacra pictoria, pt. 7, had done as much for no. 286].

* Catal. MSS. Angl. [p. 139, n. 1498].

† [Chronicon saxonicum, Nasmith].

‡ So called in catal. ibid. [p. 141, n. 1554].

which is also incorrect. cod. in 4. membr. It is only a poor scholastic treatise of morals. N. [401, apparently] Liber valde peregrina lingua.* But this is very ridiculous: for, if not Alcoran, it is however an arabic book; 5 another proof, how ill the catal. MSS. Angl. has been compiled. That I had made no mistake, but this was really the book in question, I was assured, not only by the number, but also by Mr. Waller, who was provoked, when I shewed him the blunder.† N. [478] Psalterium 10 lingua armeniaca etc. Mr. Waller could not find this. N. [101] Huntingdon et reliqua also did not appear. Next I enquired after the codicibus named by Chamberlayne,‡ but neither of us could find any of them except the Iuvenicum [n. 304]. It is certainly a fine cod. 15 membr. in 4. litteris uncialibus, beginning: immortale nihil mundi etc. But the end is wanting. Of the cod. Virgilii, said to have been written by a bishop,§ Mr. Waller professed to know nothing.||

Lastly I asked respecting the volumine 20 epistolarum, containing amongst others the letter Lutheri, with regard to which Burnet made so ugly a blunder.¶ There were more than six fine volumina variarum epistolarum. The epistola Lutheri ad Bucerum** is written in 4to.

* So in the catalogo [p. 145, n. 1651].

† [Nasmith: 'an arabic treatise on various subjects of theology, metaphysics and history, in the african character, and so ill written that it is scarce legible'].

‡ Present state of great Britain, ed. 23. p. 303.

§ As stated in the Ritterplatz, tom. 2. 'library opened,' p. 242. || [Not to be found in Nasmith].

¶ As related at great length by Tenzel in the monatlichen Unterredungen tom. x. an. 1698. p. 51.

** Volumen miscellaneorum C. dictum in fol. [= n. 102] p. 273. [Cf. Burnet, hist. ref. III. iv. records n. 1].

70 The writing is somewhat illegible, as Luther's hand always is, yet it is still easy to recognise that it is not said nihilo minus, but nihil minus. Most of all must we wonder that Burnet should commit this errorem, if not fraudem, seeing that 5 his very epistle is transcribed throughout only a leaf before, and that very legibly, in a hand in which the words nihil minus are to be read distinctly and without any difficulty. Mr. Waller assured me indeed, that Mr. Burnet had acknow- 10 ledged and recanted his error, but could not tell me, or could not remember, in what treatise.

12 Aug. We were again at the public library, expecting to meet still with one or another codicem, but I found nothing but the 15 following :

Vol. in fol. chart., a hand-breadth thick, entitled : Botanicum antiquum graecum, ebraeum, arabicum, turcicum, Smyrna Asiae portabatur anno MDCLXXXII. It consists simply of icones plantarum, florum etc. painted 20 in water-colours, not very elegantly and finely, but yet with great truth to nature, as I could infer particularly from some well-known plantis. Here and there was a description in arabic, but mostly only the names in the above-mentioned four* languages. It. cod. membr. in 25 8., one finger thick, recentior, namely : Sallustii Crispi bellum catilinarium [Ii VI 20 = 1899, catal. III 517]. It. cod. membr. in 8., one thumb thick [Ff VI 13 = 1351, 71 catal. II 517] beginning : incipiunt versus magistri Michaelis cornubiensis contra magistrum Henricum Abri- 30 censem coram domino abbate Westmonasterii et dn. decano Sti. Pauli Londoniarum, primis iudicibus, et postea coram * [three, orig.].

- domino Eliensi episcopo et cancellario Grantebrigie una cum universitate magistrorum. In the same codice is also 2) spere (sphaerae) tractatus magistri Roberti lincolniensis episcopi. 3) eiusdem de compositione quadrantis; and 4) de philosophia. 5) et ult.* liber de universis passionibus falconum, accipitrum, austurum, spervariorum, et qualiter eos curare poteris et qualiter eos nutrire et mundare poteris, partim latine, partim gallice. It. cod. membr. in 12 [Kk VI 16 = 2096, catal. 10 III 714], † in cuius fine legitur: explicit historia Bruti script. Wigorn. an. Dni. MCCC. vicesimo septimo. This leaves us none the wiser, as to what the book is; ‡ but it is a historia britannica a Bruto usque ad Cadwalladrum regem. Upon this follow various prophetiae, as propheta S. Thomae archiepiscopi; propheta Gildae abbatis glastonensis; propheta Hilpes philosophi; propheta abbatis Joachimi etc. cum pluribus rhythmis propheticis tam latinis quam anglicis. Further I saw a cod. in fol. membr. [Kk III 23 = 2009, catal. III 631], wherein was 20 indeed noted, that it contained Valerii Maximi de dictis etc. lib. IX; it. lib. Tullii de officiis complete; it. libellum paradoxorum etc.; but I found only that Valer. Max. was in this codice, perhaps the rest has formerly been cut 72 away, though I could not detect it in the volumine. It. 25 vol. in 4. membr. a hand-breadth thick, pretty fairly written, beginning: incipit liber de homousion et homoeusion. In it are collected variae tam graecorum quam latinorum patrum sententiae de Trinitate. The last chapter has this rubric: quod persona aliquando dicatur 30 essentia. On this follows in this same codice: incipit liber de ignorantia. Quid ignorantia sit, multi ignorant.

* [Uffenbach overlooked several other pieces in the volume].

† [Once the property of George Herbert's friend: 'Nicholas Ferrar ex dono Danielis Birkett'].

‡ [Geoffrey of Monmouth].

This last tract however consists of only eleven leaves. As I could find nothing further among the manuscripts of special importance, we again inspected the numismata, as they, though contained in a cabinet furnished with doors, nevertheless are not locked up; for although 5 nothing of extraordinary value is amongst them (as indeed I found no occasion this time to take any further notes) yet the intrinsic worth in gold and silver is sufficient to tempt a rogue.* Over this cabinet stands a desk, containing three books bound in velvet, namely: 10 Iacobi I. regis and then two volum. of Verulamii operibus. They are all presents from their authors to this university, as appears from the epistles prefixed, of which I ordered copies. They are very friendly, and that of the king very graciously and skilfully composed. They are as 15 follows :

I.

- 73 “Iacobus D. G. Maguae Britanniae, Franciae et Hiberniae rex, fidei defensor etc. postquam decrevisset publici iuris facere quae sibi erat commentatus, ne videretur vel 20 palam pudere literarum quas privatim amaverat, vel eorum seu opinioni seu invidiae cedere qui regis maiestatem literis dictitabant imminui, vel christiani orbis et in eo principum iudicia expavescere, quorum maxime intererat vera esse omnia quae scripsit; circumspicere etiam coepit 25 certum aliquod libro suo domicilium, locum (si fieri posset) semotum a fato, aeternitati et paci sacrum: ecce commodum sua se obtulit academia nulla paene orbi notior quam Cantabrigiae, ubi exulibus musis iam olim melius est quam in patria, ubi a codicibus famae nuncu- 30 patis tineae absterrentur legentium manibus, sycophantae scribentium ingeniis. In hoc immortalis literarum sacrario inter monumenta clarorum virorum, quos quantum dilexerit studiorum participatione satis indicavit, in bibliotheca publica lucubrationes has suas Deo Opt. Max., cui 35

* [‘einen losen Fellow’].

ab initio devotae erant, aeternum consecrat in venerando almae matris sinu, unde contra saeculorum rubiginem fidam illi custodiam promittit, et contra veritatis hostes stabile patrocinium.

5

II.

“Franciscus de Verulamio, Vice-comes Sti. Albani, almae 74
 matri incl. academiae cantabrigiensi etc.

Debita filii, qualia possum, persolvo. Quod vero facio, idem et vos hortor; ut augmentis scientiarum 10 strenue incumbatis, et in animi modestia libertatem ingenii retineatis, neque talentum a veteribus concreditum in sudario reponatis. Affuerit procul dubio et affulserit divini luminis gratia, si humiliata et submissa religioni philosophia clavibus sensus legitime et dextre utamini et 15 amoto omni contradictionis studio quisque cum alio ac si ipse secum disputet. Valete.

III.

“Cum vester filius sim et alumnus, voluptati mihi erit partum meum nuper editum vobis in gremium dare: aliter 20 enim velut pro exposito eum haberem. Nec vos moveat, quod via nova sit. Necesse est enim talia per aetatum et saeculorum circuitus evenire. Antiquis tamen suis constat honos, ingenii scilicet; nam fides verbo Dei et experientiae tantum debetur. Scientias autem ad ex-25 perientiam retrahere, non conceditur; at easdem ab experientia de integro excitare operosum certe, sed pervium.
 Deus vobis et studiis vestris faveat.”

Near these lay a book, the like of which for smallness 75
 I had never seen in all my life, for it is not above half an 30 inch square, and yet (what is surprising) is not only bound in black leather, but has also silver clasps and settings on the cover, at the edges and also in the middle. The book has thirty leaves, is in hebrew, and probably the decalogus.

After dinner we went first to Jesus college, which lies quite out of the town. It looks just like a monastery. In the great square or court of the college stands an exceedingly large walnut-tree, with very wide-spreading branches. Our 5 servant was ordered to measure the extent of ground covered by them, and found that it was 96 ft. across from side to side. The hall of this college is elegant, though not large. The library is small; still it comprises many good books, 10 particularly on history. Of manuscripts only seven are named in the Catal. MSS. Angl.,* but I found in a written catalogo, that there must be more than fifty here, of which however we could see nothing at all, as they are locked up, 15 and the librarian out of town. I selected however the following :

Excerpta de Paulo de cura aegrorum. Fragmentum morale anonymi. Priscianus de accentibus. Dioscorides 78 de natura herbarum. Tractatus de natura lapidum, gal- 20 lice, fol. Poggii et aliorum epistolae etc. Boethius de Trinitate. Anselmi monologion et proslogion; eiusdem tractatus de incarceratione Christi; eiusdem de veritate et libertate arbitrii; eiusdem de casu diaboli; liber cur Deus sit homo; liber de conceptu virginali et peccato 25 originis, 8vo.

As we had soon done our work here, we went again into Trinity library, where I took pains to find those manuscripts also, which Chamberlayne mentions p. 303. The first is: the codex holmiensis, containing a great 30 part of Origen's works etc. The librarian's substitutes knew nothing of it (as in general their knowledge of * Part 2. p. 162.

- books is very small). Hence, as also in the printed catal. MSS. Angl. there is no special notice of this codicis holmiensis, I was forced to look up all codices, which contained the least scrap of Origine, which gave me no
- 5 little trouble, as they were scattered up and down. First then I enquired for Origenis VIII homiliae de quibusdam gestis etc.* This is not what I sought, for it is only a cod. latinus et recentior in 4. yet membr., two fingers thick. It. Origenis tractatus in vetus testamentum.†
- 10 This also is a cod. lat. recentior in fol. membr., commentarius in genesin et exodum. Again‡ Origenes super exodum, leviticum et lib. numerorum, also a cod. 77 latin. recentior in 4. membran. It. aliquot Origenis homiliae,§ cod. in fol. membr. nitide scriptus, sed recentior et latinus; begins: incipit omelia nona Origenis de altari, quod edificavit IHC (i. e. Jesus) et scripsit in lapidibus eius deuteronomium etc. It. Gregorius de miraculis etc. et Origenes in cantica.|| Cod. etiam est membr. in 8. litteris maiusculis et satis antiquus sed
- 20 latinus; begins: epithalamium Origenis super cantica canticorum. I asked further for Origenes in Matthaeum,¶ and this was at last the codex graecus holmiensis of which I was in quest; as I found also initio voluminis this testimony: hic est ille codex holmiensis, quem toties
- 25 laudat Petrus Dan. Huetius in suis origenianis. Donavit Herberto Thorndicio Isaacus Vossius. On the following page stood: Trinit. col. Cantabrig. Ex dono reverendi clarissimique viri Herberti Thorndicke huius collegii quondam socii anno Domini 1670. The codex is cer-
- 30 tainly very neat and tolerably old, the character litterarum, the abbreviations, etc. greatly resemble my codici of Constantino VIII. Porphyrogenneto. It is a folio, * Catal. MSS. Angl. p. 94. n. 176.

† ibid. p. 97. n. 336.

‡ ibid. n. 341.

§ ibid. p. 100. n. 503.

|| ibid. n. 505.

¶ ibid. p. 107. n. 573.

a hand-breadth thick, written on glossy paper; one might be tempted to take it for chartam indicam or 78 niloticam; but here and there many leaves are found which are not glossy; so that one sees, that it is only common paper. But to what this codex holmiensis owes its name, and what we are to think of its intrinsic worth and goodness, may probably be ascertained from Huetio as above cited. The second codex extolled by Chamberlayne* is: the epistles of S. Paul supposed to be writ by venerable Bede. The sub-bibliothecarius brought a cod. 10 in 4. membr., two fingers thick, which was supposed to be the one in question. I could not refrain from astonishment on looking at it; for in the first place it was not the epistolae Pauli, but according to the title of the codicis itself: Beda super epistolas canonicas, beginning: incipit expositio Bede presbyteri in epistolam B. Iacobi apostoli etc. In the next place, the codex is so modern, that even a child can see that it is not so old nor could have been written by Beda. Notwithstanding all this, and though the sub-bibliothecarius himself must confess, that 20 the statement was worthless, still he assured me that no other codex existed, and that this was the one of which the story was told. The third manuscript spoken of by Chamberlayne* is: Eadwin's psalterium triplex, being the most valuable psalter in England. This codex is indeed 25 to be admired for its monstrous bulk. I never saw a larger 79 book either on vellum or paper. This book is about 2½ ft. long, but only 1½ broad, on vellum with letters of an altogether monstrous size. Nevertheless, the codex 30 is not for all that very old, nor can it possibly date from the temporibus Eadwini; for the letters, large as they are, are yet not square, but lombard, resembling those in the old missals. The spelling also is that of the last centuries before the invention of printing; for not only is a mere 35 e everywhere written for ae, but also michi for mihi.

These and other indications prove it is not so old, and cannot be ranked beyond the thirteenth, or at the utmost the twelfth, century.

13 Aug. We inspected the library of Christ's
 5 college. It is in a poor room, and itself of no great importance; as then no manuscripts are recorded of it in the catal. MSS. Angl., and he who shewed us the library, to our surprise, professed to know of none, we hastened from 10 thence and went once more to the public library in the expectation of finding something else of value, but I lit on nothing to speak of, and we resolved to take our departure the next day.

15 In the afternoon we paid a parting visit to St. John's library, to see amongst other matters some things mentioned by Arnold,* where he 80 justly commends magnam librorum sacrorum graeco-barbarorum copiam. They stand together
 20 in the repositorio which is marked Tt and bears the following rubric: libri liturgici; item hebr. arab. There is a more considerable number of them, than I ever saw together before of the same kind. Maimonidis Mishna thorah in iv.
 25 volum., which is specially extolled,† I found indeed in the catalogo, but not on the shelf therein assigned to it, which was empty; on which Mr. bibliothecarius Baker assured me that it was lent out. At the same time we 30 took leave of Mr. Baker, as also afterwards of

* In epistolis Richterianis, p. 415.

† ibid.

Dr. Bentley and Dr. Ferrari, and packed up in the evening. I must further mention that I also enquired of Mr. Baker respecting the wandering Jew, who is said to have been here.* But neither he, nor others whom I likewise 5 asked, as Dr. Covel etc., professed to know anything at all about it; which astonishes me the more, as Tenzel, if I remember right, reports that the professores of this university conferred with this wandering Jew, and were surprised at 10 the many languages spoken by him, and indeed amazed at his wonderful stories of things which he professed to have experienced and seen.

81 Before I relate my departure I must, according to my wont, go through my notamina, 15 and report what we were unable to see, however much we wished it. I must lament then, that I could not speak with the following learned and famous men, because (as is usual in summer) they were either residing in London or in the 20 country. Among them it is only fair to name first Dr. Laughton, the bibliothecarium of the university. For if he had been in residence, we should (thanks to his singular courtesy, which was very highly commended to us) not 25 only have examined the public library more thoroughly and better, but also his own collections in manuscriptis and nummis.† Moreover

* As Tenzel relates at length, in Monatlichen Unterredungen t. VI. an. 1694. p. 799.

† Extolled by Chamberlayne, p. 303.

we were unable (more's the pity !) to converse with Dr. Barnes, Mr. Clarck, and John Eachard, all three of whom have made themselves very famous by many publications; as also Mr.
 5 Cotes, prof. of astronomy and experimental philosophy, who generally shews strangers many curiosa in the way of instruments and experiments. Dr. Barnes, who is said to be quite deaf, has resided the whole summer on an estate
 10 six miles off, which he bought to live in peace, after marrying an old woman for her money.

Much remained which we had noted down and would gladly have seen, in libraries and elsewhere, namely in biblioth. publ. Acad. Lexicon
 15 Syro-arabicum MS. Bar Bahlull.* That of Bedwello we did see, as was mentioned before;† it is noticeable however that it was bequeathed with an arabic fount of type, as Arnold also reports. Of the public library it is elsewhere‡
 20 related, that it was greatly increased by the duke of Buckingham from the library Erpenii, which is certain; but that the library should have been sold by Cromwell to asiatic Jews, no one professed to have heard, not even Mr.
 25 Baker, who however, as I was assured, designs to write Athenas Cantabrigienses (on the plan of what Ant. Wood has done for Oxford). It is further stated§ that in the Benedictine college

* Mentioned by Arnold, in epistol. Richterianis, p. 485.

† P. 157, l. 11.

‡ Ritterplatz, tom. 2. 'of libraries,' p. 242. § ibid.

there is a large room containing nothing but manuscripta; but, as was related above,* the room is not so large, and rather to be called a prison than a chamber. Nor can I see why it is called Benedictine college, inasmuch as it 5 derives its name not from the Benedictines nor from St. Benedicto,† but a Benedicto Corpore Christi, for it is called also collegium corporis Christi.

I have already spoken‡ of the codice Virgilii,§ 10 written by a bishop. It is also said, that many arabic books are in collegio Trinitatis;|| but I 83 imagine, that there are many more in St. John's library. Nor did I find in the court of S. Clarae (Clare hall) such a multitude of hebrew and 15 arabic books, as is reported.|| Hickesius¶ also boasts that there are in archivis ecclesiae Cantabrig. inter apographa Guil. Somneri manuscripta anglo-saxonica. We could not however ascertain what church, or what archives, could be meant. 20

When I spoke above** respecting the falsification of

* P. 181, l. 12.

† [A mistake. The college is (Masters, append. 24) 'collegium Sti. Benedicti sive corporis Christi' and is so named from St. Benedict's church, which originally served as its chapel (ibid. 12), and is connected with it by a gallery. So Peterhouse took its name from St. Peter's without Trumpington gates, now Little St. Mary's. The original foundation was the gild pretiosi (not benedicti) corporis Christi (ibid. 5)]. ‡ P. 185, l. 17.

§ Mentioned in Ritterplatz, ibid.

|| ibid.

¶ Catal. MSS. Anglo-saxonicorum. ** P. 185, l. 20.

the epistolae Lutheri and the many voluminibus epistolarum variarum, which exist in bibliotheca collegii Corporis Christi, I forgot to relate, that we also saw the letters by the illustribus manibus spoken of by Tenzel ;* together
 5 with many others, as of Henrico VIII., Anna Bolenia (several, † in a very querulous tone), Elisabetha regina, Th. Cranmero, Matth. Parker et Petro Martyre etc. Of the bibliotheca publ. acad. I must further report that Chamberlayne‡ brags greatly, as his manner is, when 10 he says that it contains ‘about 14,000 books’, for to judge by the eye, I can scarcely believe that there are 6000. The same Chamberlayne§ says also of Bennet 84 college that there exists there ‘a collection of MSS. by Matth. Parker relating to the history of England’; of 15 which however I saw nothing, having had so many other old codices MSS. to examine, that I never thought of these.

Among the scholars, whom I could not meet, I forgot to mention above Mr. Dr. Syke, 20 hebr. ling. prof. whom I ought to have named above all others as a German and a man of singular courtesy. But to our great vexation he had been already three months in London, and there was no prospect of his return before 25 winter. So we could only hope to meet him in London, after our visit to Oxford.

On the whole I must further report of Cambridge that the place itself is not at all large, and about as mean as a village, or as

* l. ibi cit. ex And. Adami Hochstetteri oratione de utilitate peregrinationis anglicanae, Tubingae 1697 habita.

† [one only, in fr. and also in lat. 119 n. 9 and 10].

‡ P. 302.

§ P. 303.

Höchst near Frankfurt; and were it not for the many fine collegia here, it would be one of the sorriest places in the world. Nor is the entertainment good; one must dine everyday pretty nearly alike, as on mutton, etc. About Cambridge we have the following works : 5

Io. Caii de antiquitate acad. cantabrig. libri v. Lond. 1568. 8vo.* and 1574. 4to. Eiusd. Caii historia cantabrigiensis acad. ab urbe condita, libri II. ibid. [1574. 4to.]. Eiusd. de libris propriis liber unus, Lond. 1570. 10 8vo., which last however does not properly fall under 85 this head. [Io. Ray] index plantarum circa Cantabrigiam. London 1660. 8vo.

Most of these I have gone through, but found only historica, and little else of note to 15 be seen here. Accordingly as we found nothing more to do here, we set off on Thursday morning, 14 Aug.

* [Uffenbach repeats this under the date 1658, and names the printer Henr. Bynneman, as the author].

NOTES.

‘Isto modo’ inquit ‘nec medico quicquam debere te nisi mercedulam dicis nec praeceptori, quia aliquid numeraveris: atqui omnium horum apud nos magna caritas, magna reverentia est.’ Adversus hoc respondetur, quaedam pluris esse quam emuntur. emis a medico rem inaestimabilem, vitam ac valetudinem bonam, a bonarum artium praeceptore studia liberalia et animi cultum; itaque his non rei pretium, sed operae solvitur, quod deserviunt, quod a rebus suis evocati nobis vacant. mercedem non meriti, sed occupationis suae ferunt.

SENECA de benef. VI 15 § 2.

NOTES.

THE BONWICKE FAMILY.

- John B.* of Christ's coll. Cambr. B.D. 1663. Manning and Bray, Surr. II 185 from a 'MS. in Lambeth library': 'In the return made by the jurors of Reygate to the commissioners appointed by Cromwell to inquire into the value and situation of livings, they reported that Anthony Bathurst was impropiator, and of his free will gave £5 a quarter to John Bonwicke the curate.' He was appointed rector of E. Horsley by the abp. of Cant., where he was instituted 5 Febr. 1662-3; he resigned this living in 1669 (ibid. III 34). Incorporated B.D. at Oxford 12 July 1670 (Wood-Bliss, Fasti II 320), and buried at Mickleham, where on a black marble gravestone on the s. side of the altar is the epitaph (Manning and Bray II 661): 'Hic positae sunt reliquiae Johannis Bonwicke S.T.B. et istius ecclesiae per annos xxix rectoris, qui natus est III Nov. MDCXXII. sepultus III Nov. MDCXCVIII. et coniugis Dorotheae quae obiit IX. Febr. an. aet. XC. sal. MDCCXI.' It thus appears that it was not from him that the family derived its nonjuring principles. His son Ambrose was born 29 Apr. 1652; educated at Merchant Taylors', chosen scholar of St. John's 11 June 1669 (H. B. Wilson, Hist. of Merch. Taylors', Lond. 1814, 4to. 353, 1199); where he was appointed librarian in 1670; B.A. 1 Febr. 1672. M.A. 18 Mar. 1675. B.D. 21 July 1682. incorporated M.A. at Cambridge 1678. ordained deacon 21 May 1676; priest, 6 June (Trin. Sunday) 1680. By his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Philip Stubbs of St. Peter's, Cornhill, he had twelve children (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. 1 66-7; v 118). He died 20 Oct. 1722 (Hist. Reg. Wilson ibid. 969-71, 1178).

He was elected head master of Merchant Taylors' 9 June 1686 (Wilson, 386, 838), procured a licence from 5 the bp. of London 15 July 1686, and (ibid. 387, 8) 'entered on his office with a hearty devotion of his great and powerful talents to the service of the school, in which they had themselves received their early cultivation. In December 1686 he made a probation of all the forms, but never 10 afterwards thought it necessary to repeat it at that season of the year.' Among his pupils were Wm. Dawes and Hugh Boulter, afterwards abps. (ibid. 848, 861). The revolution dashed his prospects (ibid. 389, 390): 'the court having agreed on the 5th of June [1690], that 15 Bonwicke, in consideration of resigning his fellowship, should hold his head-mastership during good behaviour, instead of the tenure by annual election, he actually surrendered his fellowship on the 11th into the hands of the president. . . . But though Bonwicke had acted 20 on the faith of the arrangement that was made on the 5th, the court did not think fit to ratify it at their meeting on the 27th of that month. And it having, in the interim, been hinted to them, that he and the ushers had not taken the oath of allegiance to the new king and queen, as re- 25 quired by law, they ordered them to appear at the next court of assistants.' On 4 July 1690 (ibid. 391) Bonwicke requested time to answer the question whether he had taken the oaths of allegiance; a month's indulgence was granted, which was tacitly extended to a year. On the 30 5 Aug. 1691 (ibid. 392) he was dismissed, having 'time till Michaelmas next to provide for himself.' On 16 May 1701 (ibid. 400) a deputation was sent to St. John's college from the Merchant Taylors', to ascertain 'whether any person or persons enjoy fellowships there who are not 35 legally entitled thereunto.' This severity is of a piece with the subsequent persecution of the younger Ambrose.

- After his ejection Bonwicke established a private school (ibid. 503) at Headley, where Wm. Bowyer was educated. We may judge of Bonwicke's teaching by the evidence of this grateful pupil (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. 1 65-6): 'At 5 this excellent seminary [at Headley] young Bowyer made such advances in literature, as reflected the highest credit both upon himself and his preceptor; for whose memory, to his latest years, he entertained the sincerest respect; and to whose family he always remained an useful friend.
 10 The attachment indeed was mutual.

'One instance of the good schoolmaster's benevolence, which made an indelible impression on the mind of his pupil, appeared in the following letter:

Headley, Feb. 6, 1712-3.

15 MY GOOD FRIEND,

- I heard of the sad calamity, it has pleased God to try you with [a fire which destroyed the premises and stock of the elder Wm. Bowyer on the night of 29-30
Jan. 1712-3], last Monday; but concealed it from your 20 son* till I had the account from yourself, and then broke it to him as gently as I could. He could not forbear shedding some tears; but that was no more than some of your friends here had done for you before; and it would be some comfort to them if their sharing in it
 25 might lessen your grief. We have in Job a noble example of patience and resignation under even a severer trial than this of yours; for, God be praised! though you have lost

* 'This circumstance Mr. Bowyer used frequently to mention with the highest gratitude: as he did another in which the same delicacy was shewn to him. When the brief [for a public collection, by which Bowyer received nearly £1400; other collections were made; e. g. Cambridge university gave £40 (Nichols ibid. 60, 63)] was to be read in Headley church, Mr. Bonwicke contrived that he should be kept at home, without assigning the reason for it. The writer of these memoirs accompanied Mr. Bowyer to that village in 1774, when he, with great satisfaction, repeated the above and many other particulars of his younger years.'

a worthy friend,* your children are alive, and one† of them providentially disposed of a little before, the news of which proved a happy mixture in your melancholy letter; and though you began with it, I made it the close of my narrative to your son. And when we have seen the 5 end of the Lord, as St. James expresses it, we shall find that he is very pitiful and of tender mercy, as he was to his servant Job, whose losses in the end were abundantly repaired; and since he is still the same God, if our behaviour be conformable, we may humbly hope for the 10 like treatment. As an earnest of which, I must tell you, that he has already put it into the heart of a certain person, upon hearing of your great loss, to pay the whole charges of your son's board etc. for one year; the person desires to be nameless,‡ that the thanks may be returned 15 to God only. My wife, who truly condoles with you, gives her service to yourself and Mrs. Bowyer, to whom pray give mine also, and to my good friend Mr. Ross; our service likewise (with hearty wishes of much joy notwithstanding this melancholy beginning) to the new- 20 married gentlewoman. Your son speaks for himself in the enclosed, which he just now brought to, Sir,

Your condoling friend and faithful servant,

AMBR. BONWICKE.'

Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 249: 'On the death of Mr. 25
Bonwicke, his grateful scholar [Wm. Bowyer] had an opportunity of requiting in some measure the obligations he had received, by officiating for a time in the capacity of a schoolmaster, for the benefit of the family.'

In 1763 Bowyer wrote to Wm. Warburton (ibid. II 30

* [Charles Cock 'passé par feu au ciel, âgé 76' as was said on the mourning ring (Nichols, 59)].

† A dau. married in Dec. 1712 to James Bettenham, a thriving printer.

‡ 'It may be unnecessary to mention, that this friend was Mr. Bonwicke himself.'

390): 'May I be excused in mentioning that I lent or gave you my old master Bonwicke's MS. sermon on the text of Job xix. 25.'

Miscellaneous tracts by the late William Bowyer, 5 printer, F.S.A. and several of his learned friends. . . .
 Collected . . . by John Nichols. Lond. 1785. 4to. contains 'letters from Mr. Ambrose Bonwicke to his father; transcribed by his grateful scholar W. Bowyer; '* 1 (597, 598):
 'e museo meo Ioannensi, Oct. 9, 1669.' Am greatly 10 pleased with Oxford. You must not expect Ciceronian elegance from me. 'Vix possum non effutire quidditates, entitates, formalitates, et id genus barbariem.' My tutor
Dickenson 'praeclarissimus deque philosophia optime 15 meritus,' returns your good wishes, 'cuius auspiciis nullus dubito quin ambages logicas et Aristotelis labyrinthos tandem veluti filo ductus penitus exquiram.' My respects to Geo. Freeman† and Ambr. Brown‡ 'susceptoribus meis longe colendissimis.' 2 (ibid. 598): 'e coll. Ioan.
 pridie Circumcisionis 1669.' The good wishes of the 20 season: 'eo in loco sunt res meae, ut ni protinus ad manum sit pensio trimestris, possim coram latrone cantare.'
 He also condoles with the family, a Surrey family, of * Extracts from these, and from Bonwicke's latin verses, are printed in Wilson's Merchant Taylors' 803—814.

† Of Betchworth in Surrey, son of Sir Ra. Freeman, master of the mint to James I. He died in 1678 (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. viii 358, who gives there from Rawlinson's MS. hist. of St. John Bapt. coll. Oxon. an. 1669, as does Wilson p. 970, the following): 'Ambrosius Bonwicke, archididascalus scholae Mercatorum Scissorum Londinensium, munere functus est non sine laude, sed bonae conscientiae ergo amotus 1690, obiit apud Hadley com. Surriensi 20 Octob. 1722. In usum amicorum post mortem schedam volentem suis sumptibus imprimi fecit Gulielmus Bowyer, non ita pridem Ioannensis Cantabrigiae pensionarius, posteaque typographus: "To the memory of the truly pious Sir George Freeman, knight of the bath, his ever honoured god-father." 7 stanzas fol. sine anni aera.'

‡ Perhaps the Sir A. B. who subscribed £20 to the new buildings at Jesus college in 1637 (Cooper's Memorials i 384; Shermanni hist. coll. Jes. 32).

a sometime secretary of state: 'Quam officiose meo nomine salutabis familiam illam semper colendissimam, cui quondam heu! praefuit vir amplissimus D. Edvardus Nicholas; cuius etsi mortui apud me numquam intermoritura est memoria.' Mr. Brasier* B.D. of our college 5
 'te plurimum salvere iussit, ut et contubernales mei.' 5
3 (ibid. 599): 'Oxon. Feb. 3, 1669-70.' 'Gratae profecto (Reverende Domine) fuerunt litterae tuae, gratissimi vero nummi, quos nudiustertius abs tabellario accepi.' You tell strange news of the flirtations of my sometime friend 10
Griffith. 'Vestes nostrae undique fatentur vetustatem et subter togam gestiunt latere, lucem aversantes ne suam indicarent raritatem, nec diutius multo dominum tegent, cum ipsae dudum nudae fuerunt. Facile locum cedent successoribus, si modo mittas quae succedant, verumtamen 15 eatenus evigilabunt. Tutor noster una cum D. Meryfield† iun. tibi salutem plurimam.' 4 (ibid. 599, 600): 'ex aedibus Ioan. Aug. 18, 1670.' Thanks for criticisms on the style of my last. 'Bibliotheca Ioannensi donatus sum ideoque M. Strerii [?] data copia.' I beg you to 20 send 'Famiani Stradae prolusiones academicas et Tacitum cum observationibus Boxhorni, Amstelodami impressum 1661.' I wrote long ago to brother Henry with your commissions. 'D. D. Smitheus‡ et Rhodes§ tuam salutem iterum remunerantur.' Pray continue your criticisms; 25 the severer they are, the more welcome. Meryfield sen. and jun. and Rhodes suppose that the oath which you forgot is 'non promovere indignos aut retardare dignos.' 5
5 (ibid. 600): 'Sept. 1, 1670.' I gave Mr. Smith your message about the living, he does not think it worth 30

* Jo. B. See Peshall's Oxford 216.

† Geo. M. elected to St. John's June 1656 (Wilson 322, 1197); M.A. 5 May 1663, B.D. 6 May 1669. His elder brother was elected 11 June 1651, B.D. 29 Nov. 1664 (ibid. 315, 1196).

‡ Perhaps Josi. S. of St. John's B.A. 3 Febr. 1664, M.A. 14 Mar. 1667, B.D. 18 July 1674.

§ John R. of St. John's B.C.L. 31 Oct. 1670.

while to be a candidate for it. I would have informed Mr. Baylie* also of it, if he were not away from college. 'Pridem est cum ad carissimum praeceptorem D.D. Goad† litteras vel importunas dedisse constitui, etsi illis
 5 quia importunis saepius malis avibus inceptis supersedendum censui; nunc vero cum de fraterculis habeo quod scribam, epistolium huc usque libenter detentum libentius brevi demittam, ut de eadem fidelia duos parietes (quod aiunt) possim dealbare.' Pray add Appuleius to the 10 books already named. 6 (ibid. 601): 'in museolo nostro, vigiliis D. Thomae, vigilans scripsi 1670.' The commemoration in honour of the prince of Orange has already been described to you by Mr. Warren.‡ One thing alone, more welcome, 'absit verbo invidia,' even 15 than a royal presence, was wanting to grace the ceremony: 'te inter ceteros istos nobiles toga ostro perfusa vestitum sedisse et S.S.T. doctorem evasisse. Quanta iniuria non datur esse. Nullibi doleo (Deo favente) nec caput nec calcem, nisi togam dolere possim, siquidem mea in-20 firmissima est.' 7 (ibid. 601-2): 'ex aedibus Ioan. x. cal. Iunii, 1671.' I have nothing to write about, except my habitual poverty. I ought rather to apply to my mother: 'cum non tam librorum inopia laboro, quam indusiorum et id genus vestium effeminarum.' 8 (ibid.
 25 602): 'Oxon. xvi cal. Nov. 1671.' I wrote on the 6th of the month, enclosing a paper book for Mr. Guest;§ but have received no reply from either. 'In istis ad te (quod plerumque fit) nummulos aliquos petii quibus admodum opus est in auditorio hoc nostro.' 9 (ibid.) to 30 his father at Michaelham: 'Oxon. ipsis cal. Febr. 1671-2.'

* Three of the name were of St. John's at this time; probably Simon is meant, B.A. 8 May 1666, M.A. 26 Mar. 1670.

† John G. master of Merchant Taylors', for whom see the indices to Wood-Bliss F.O. and A.O. and to Wilson.

‡ Ri. W. of St. John's B.C.L. 16 Apr. 1670, D.C.L. 6 July 1676.

§ John G. elected to St. John's 11 June 1665 (Wilson, 344, 1198); M.A. 22 Mar. 1672-3.

I have not received the promised sums of money, though I have diligently inquired of both postmen. I waited several days in suspense and have not received so much as a line. 'Mittas, obsecro, quam citissime aliquid saltem vel argenteum vel papyraceum, etsi prius malim. . . 5
 Argentes digiti plura nolunt.' 10 (ibid. 602-3): 'ex aedib. Ioann. 19 cal. Febr. 1671-2.' Yesterday night Richard Warren shewed me your letter. The vice-chancellor yesterday renewed his order for paying battels at this season 'de batellis (ut cum nostratibus barbare 10 loquar) hac ipsa anni tempestate solvendis.' 11 (ibid. 603): 'Oxon. 7 idus Martias 1671-2.' To be true to my wont 'pecuniolam aliquam emendico; tenemur enim omnes scholares sub baccalaureo aliquo in hac Quadragesima determinante, bis pro forma respondere; hoc 15 autem fieri nequit absque triginta solidis vel minimum viginti. Semel iam respondi, quapropter decem solidos ab amico mutuo accepi, ea lege ut quam citissime solverem. Mittas igitur, obsecro, viginti saltem, utinam triginta, ne diutius sim in ullo aere praeterquam tuo.' 12 (ibid. 20 603-4): 'Oxon. 6 cal. Apr. 1672.' The postman gave me the last money from you on Monday. Dr. Levinz* sends you a hearty greeting. Mr. Rhodes† is from home, taking the chancellor's duty at Rochester. 13 (ibid. 604): 'Oxon. 4 cal. Maias 1672.' I wrote to you about the 25 10th of April, begging for some money on account of my exercises; but received not a syllable in reply. I asked brother John to act as a second letter; still nothing came. 'Examen magistrorum iam subii pecunia mutuo accepta. Aliud exercitium die crastino praestaturus sum, responsurus 30 scil. pro forma in Parviso‡ (ut loquuntur); adhuc nescio * Ri. L. M.D. afterwards president. See index to Wilson.

† Jo. R. B.C.L.

‡ Parvis fr. 'a church-porch' from paradisus, used in medieval latin in the same sense (Diez, etymol. Wörterb. ed. 2, 1861, 384). Ducange s. v. Paradisus, cites Matt. Par. an. 1250: 'unde pro illa substantiola persolvenda cogeatur ille pauperculus, multis diebus quid faciam. Spero tamen ut aliquis ex amicis pecuniam accommodavit,* quod certe non alio pacto faciat, quam ut citissime solvam. Postremis etiam tutoris minerval cum anicularum stipendiis petii, et nummos pro batellis

 5 solvendis; pro exercitiis praestitis et praestandis et nomine ubique liberando tribus ad minimum minis mihi usus est.' 14 (ibid. 610-1): to his father at Mickleham. 'Pridie calendas Octobris 1672.' To shew my gratitude for your forgiveness I send english Pindarics on Mickleham and its 10 patron saint. 'Quod de angelis tamquam de corporeis quibusdam substantiis locutus sim, licentiae poeticae tribuas.' 'Institutum meum secutus iam Prudentii cathe-

scholas exercens, venditis in Parvisio libellis, vitam famelicam et Codrinam protelare'; and Fortescut. de laud. leg. angl. c. 51: 'sed placitantes tunc se divertunt ad Parvisum et alibi consulentes cum servientibus ad legem.' See Chaucer prol. 311-2, 'A sergeant of the lawe ware and wise, that often hadde yben at the parvis.' Halliwell quotes Mind, Will, and Understanding, p. 8: 'And at the parvyse I wyll be At Powlys betweyn ij. and iij.' Wood-Gutch, Hist. and ant. II 727-8: 'Some have thought that schola parvis, or answering in Parvisiis, cometh from the french, because that anciently those that did that exercise performed it 'in parvis, i. e. in area,' in a court or court-yard, they being unworthy because of their inferiority to enter the schools of arts. But that derivation I suppose cannot by any means take place, because other faculties beneath them had schools appointed for them, and were never forced to do their exercise in the open air without any shelter. But in my opinion the true meaning comes from those inferior disputations that are performed by the juniors, namely 'generalls,' which to this day are called and written disputationes in parvisiis. For in the morning were anciently as now the answering of 'quodlibets,' that is the proposing of questions in philosophy and other arts by certain masters to him or them that intend to commence master of arts, and such as are called the great exercises. In the evening were the exercitia parva, sometimes corruptly called parvisiaria, taken out of the 'parva logicalia.' Wood also cites Selden's account of Parvise: 'it signifies an afternoon's exercise or moot to the instruction of young students, bearing the same name originally (I ghesse) with the parvisiae in Oxford, as they call their sitting 'generalls' in the schools in the afternoon.'

* Sic in printed edition; Bonwicke probably wrote accommodarit.

merinon singulis paene diebus volvo.' A business postscript reminds his father by the date of the quarter's bills. 'Postridie sancti Michaelis 1672.' I hope you remember your promise of a more liberal quarterly allowance; it will be very welcome this Michaelmas. 15 (ibid. 611): to his father at Mickleham. 'Ex aedib. Ioan. Octob. 26, 1672.' Two letters have brought no reply. I will try once more to draw from you, if not silver coin, at least golden words. My letters will lay siege to your silence, and come back laden with spoils; or you may keep them 10 as hostages, 'ac e tua gente ad me aliquas invicem cures mittendas, at pecunia oneratas, quinquaginta circiter solidis, stipendio illo quod convenit.' 16 (ibid. 604-5): to his friend John Griffith* at London. 'Oxonii, 4 calend. Novembris 1672.' You are false to your word, and force 15 me to challenge you to the combat of letters. 'Livius ille tuus etiam nobis in manibus est, nondum autem vel duos libros totos perlegi: te tamen praeceuntem sequar quamvis non passibus aequis.' 17 (ibid. 605). Same to his father 'Oxonii, 4 nonas Novembris, 1672.' I received 20 your letters yesterday, the money to-day, 'utraque pergratissima.' As to your question about the account, I should be glad to believe that you intended the first quarterly stipend to last till Michaelmas, when you only† gave me 30s. at my departure, of which the half was 25 spent before I reached Oxford. 'Legibus autem tuis posthac iis arithmetices magis subserviam: quamvis exlex illa necessitas nullas omnino agnoscat.' Observations on your criticisms upon certain Pindaric verses of mine. 18 (ibid. 605-6): to John Griffith at London, 'Oxonii, aedib. 30 Ioannensib. nonis Novembris, propter coniurationem illam sulphuream dudum famosis, 1672.' On the sotadic verse 'Roma tibi subito motibus ibit amor.' I have laid aside Livy, the father of history, for a while, till his turn comes

* Probably John G. of New B.A. 21 June 1670. Ch. Ch. M.A. 4 July 1674.

† Reading 'cum nihil nisi' for 'cum nisi.'

according to the course laid down by Alstedius. I shall begin with the writers on universal history; with Raleigh, if he had not written in english. Then Cluverius, Peta- vius, Boxhornius; history after Christ and the like; I 5 shall then descend to special histories, and in particular, sacred history; then political, natural etc. 19 (ibid. 606-7): to his father at Mickleham. 'Ex aedibus Io- hannis, nonis Ianuarii, 1672-3.' Prayers for the new year. Our president* has been elected bp. of Bath and 10 Wells, and will be consecrated next month at Lambeth; where you may see him and hear our Mr. Bernard† preach, who (as is reported) has been presented to a living in your county of Surrey, not very far from Croydon. Dr. Levinz will succeed as president by an 15 almost unanimous vote; therefore, if occasion offers, attach him to you and me by some means or other; though I nothing doubt, but he is already greatly attached

* Pet. Mews, on whom see beside the indices to Wood, Wilson, the calendars of state papers and the catalogue of the Tanner MSS. Brydges, Restitut. i 160; Cassan's bishops of B. and W.; D'Oyley's Sancroft, ed. i, ii 144 seq. (he was a friend of Henry Wharton's); Todd's Deans of Canterb. 151 n. w; Calamy Acc. 601-2; Atterbury's corresp. iii 210. He was nicknamed Patch (North's Lives of the Norths, 1826, i 241).

† Edw. B. of St. John's, proctor 1667, rector of Cheam and Brightwell, Savilian prof. 1678. See Wood and Wilson and Tanner MSS.; Bentley's Correspondence 6-32, 35-38, 721-2, 724; Calamy's Own Times i 222-3, 280-1; he was a friend of Prideaux (P.'s Life 14); cf. prefaces to Tho. Smith's Vitae ix, x; and to the Catal. MSS. Angl. His books were sold by Millington 25 Oct. 1697 (a copy of the catal. in St. John's, Cambr.). He has latin verses before Creech's Lucretius and helped Almeloveen in his ed. of Casauboni epist. His De ponderibus here and there criticises Cumberland's Essay towards the recovery of Jewish weights and measures; and the bp. (Life, p. xxvii) made some preparations towards a reply. His letter on the discovery of the pendulum is cited by Andres, Dell' orig. e progr. d'ogni letter. i 248. Colomesii Opusc. 614: 'Josephum Oxonii nunc edit E. Bernardus, de quo nihil tam magnificum dixero, quin id virtus eius superet.' See his article in Biogr. Brit.

to both of us. The time is close at hand for my bachelor's degree, which must be bought (so to say) at such a cost, that I know not whether it has brought with it more joy or pain and annoyance. For who would gladly mount that step, which he cannot approach without lowering 5 in a manner his parents? Whoever makes poor, lowers; but this I must do in taking from a very slender store £10, which are necessary. For the purchase of cap and gown, and some larger expenses, (as Sir Gibbons* of our's, who has tried it, assures me) £10 barely suffice. 10 I should be glad to have the money in hand, 'modo nemini vestratum (quod vix sperare possum) tanta summa invisita foret: mallet enim humi semper iacere, quam assurgere ut melius livore petar. Cures, obsecro, ut haec summa sit ultima a vobis petenda, quod facies, si locum 15 aliquem investigas, ubi peregriner, donec ad magistratum artium, ac ideo ad statum meliorem in collegio revertar. D. Dickenson† salutem tibi precatur.' 20 (ibid. 607-8):

* Wm. G. of St. John's B.A. 2 May 1672; M.A. 18 Mar. 1675; M.B. 10 July 1679; M.D. 9 May 1683. He raised a marble monument to his father John G. (ob. 1693 aet. 76) on the e. wall of S. Mary's, Warwick, n. of the chancel gate. Amhurst's Terrae filius, Lond. 1726, 276-7: 'Dr. Gibbons the famous physician, and formerly fellow of this college, gave the perpetual advowson of the rectory of Beverly in Yorkshire. It is expected that the same worthy person, having no children, will prove a greater benefactor when he dies.' There is a copy of latin elegiacs by him in Bowyer's misc. tracts 617. He gave £40 to St. Giles' parish, Oxford, the interest to be distributed to the poor (Peshall's Oxford 219). There is a portrait of him in the college, in his doctor's robes, presented by his wife Elizabeth in 1729 (Wood-Gutch, colleges and halls, 550). See Dr. Wm. Munk, Roll of Coll. of Phys. Lond. 1861, I 449-452, and for both him and Levinz cf. the indices to Wood-Bliss and Wilson. Levinz was greek prof. and canon of Wells; administration was granted of his estate 29 Oct. 1698; he died 3 Mar. 1697-8, aet. 73, and lies buried in St. John's chapel, on the s. of the altar. The inscription (printed in Wood-Gutch, colleges and halls, 559) was set up by his brother Sir Creswell, sometime attorney general (Is. Milles' Life, 90, 91).

† Brian D. vic. St. Giles, Oxf. 1671 (Peshall 216).

- to bp. Mews. I find it hard to climb the lowest step of advancement without your aid, you have nimbly mounted the whole ladder. ‘Utinam eo altitudinis tandem aliquando ipse progrediar unde pedes tuos humiliter exosculer; paternitati enim tuae obsequium illud (praefiscine autem loquor) et D. Petri cathedra maiori iure debentur, quam senecioni illi, cuius alter saltem pes iam pridem a Charontis peculio fuerit: nisi pedes illius eo nomine exosculandi sunt quo cineres et reliquiae defunctorum. . . .
- 10 Ante decessum autem obsecro, famulum tuum fidelissimum emancipes, et pileo (quod solent) dones.’ 21 (ibid. 608-9) to his old master John Goad.* ‘E coll. D. Ioan. Oxon. 4 idus Februarii, 1673-4.’ I have abstained from writing, because my letters would be little better than the exercises
- 15 of a schoolboy, and of them you are surfeited. ‘Quaecum ita sint, videar forsitan commodo tuo pariter ac nostro consuluisse, si a te impetravero, ut a Beniamine fratre et nugis eius quotidianis te ipsum liberares; id e re tua fuerit; utque ad collegium nostrum eum mittendum
- 20 curares; hoc e mea fratrisque nostri, patris autem praesertim, qui liberos suos aegre alit, adeoque academiam filiis suis toto animo exoptat. Tantus est illius in te amor, quantus fratrum solet esse, aut si quis maior uspiam sit aut vehementior: nec dubito quin amore amori
- 25 respondeas, ea est tua humanitas omnibus perspecta, mihi autem imprimis, qui meam humanitatem (mea autem culpa perexiguam eam esse agnosco, quamvis aliqua sit, id agnoscere) tibi soli totam debeo. Te id quod exoptamus posse crederem: quippe qui fratrem ad studia
- 30 excitare ac iuxta† meritum vel (si id pueri indigentia et tua erga eum benevolentia postulet) supra meritum gradum ei assignare possis: nisi probe scirem te id quod possis in re nostra velle. Sunt forsitan aliqui e discipulis tuis qui collegio huic adscisci merito suo plus quam frater

* See the indices to Wilson and Wood.

† In printed copy iusta, by mistake.

debeant, exoptent autem minus ac minus indigeant. Tu, quod visum fuerit, facias; non potes nobis non gratum facere; cum aut ad collegium Benjaminem mittas necesse est, aut tutelae tuae academiam contra optatissimae reserves.' 22 (ibid. 609): to Dr. John Goad, 'praeceptor 5 etiam nunc suo,' at London. 'Oxonii, pridie idus Martii, anno 1673-4.' Your letter has removed all my alarm. I cannot expect an answer to every letter, knowing how well you bestow the few hours of leisure which school duties leave you. 'Quam te caelis tuis et astro- 10 nomicis recreare ac animum scholasticis defatigatum studiis severioribus reficere soleas, haud sumus ignari.' As to Benjamin, I have said that whatever course you take with him, will content us; you aptly liken your pupils to birds; 'feliciores esse videntur, si felicitatem norint 15 suam, qui cavea inclusi cibis praeparatis vescuntur, quam qui libertatem nescio quam sibi fingentes, perrupto ostiolo avolant, et multo cum labore et periculo per silvas et avia vagabundi tenuem sibi victum conquirunt. Vale et Ambrosium tuum amare persevera.' 23 (ibid. 610): 20
 'ornatissimo viro D. Rudstat.* Our grief rejects every * Tobias Rustat, for whose benefactions (amounting to nearly £12,000 in his life-time) see Peck's Desid. cur. xiv 9 p. 553 (ed. 2) ibid. 50; for that to Cambr. library MS. Ashmol. 865 472-477; 1137 110; for his benefaction to St. John's Oxf. ibid. 865 468, 471. See also ibid. 863 344-6; Evelyn's diary 24 July 1680; Dupont's musae subsec. 176; Gent. Mag. LXVII 86 b; MS. Baker xxv 248, 251-2. xxxvi 207-8. xxxviii 215. xli 218. xlii 136; Peck's historical pieces n. 27 p. 83 (after his Cromwell); Trusts, statutes and directions affecting the professorships, scholarships and prizes and other emoluments of the university. Cambr. 1857, 219-221: 'the instrument and declaration of Mr. Tobias Rustat, to what purpose he gave the sum of £1000 to the university.' The memoirs of Tobias Rustat ... by William Hewett, Lond. 1849, is an uncritical and very imperfect compilation, but it illustrates Bonwicke's letter in the text. The Rustat B.A. scholars at Jesus are directed (57-8) to make latin orations on 5 Nov., 30 Jan., 29 May, and on the day of the accession of the reigning king. The £1000 given 14 Dec. 1665 to St. John's Oxf., was to be expended in land producing £50 a year, which sum ornament ; like a mourner it walks with dishevelled hair

 'calamistris abiectis.' 24 (ibid. 611-2) to his father.
 [No date, but the contents make it probable that it is rightly placed last.] I am overjoyed with your letter on 5 many accounts : 'qua nuntiae pecuniae adventurae et patruelis recens nati ; qua monitrices ; qua denique crista gentili obsignatae fuerint. Nihil in his insipidum, nihil amarum gustavi, praeter maternas lacrimulas. Hae gaudia nostra temperaverunt, ne supra modum fierent : quis enim, 10 precor, posset non affligi, non deici, cum dignosceret se matri indulgentissimae causam exitisse non unci doloris, nec semel tantum lacrimandi ? quasi indies cum aetate filiorum curae succrescerent, nec iam viri victum absque ope parentum quaeritarem : in hoc unico mandatis tuis 15 paene non obtemperarem. Di boni avertant ut in aere etiam fratrum sim, qui vel tantillo parentum numquam ero solvendo. Adultus ego potius abiciendus sum quam teneriores illi : obnixè igitur rogo ut nihil posthac e fratrum aut sororum peculio mihi prodigo insumas ; satius enim 20 est carere quam lacrimis affluere : frustra autem expectas is now paid by Cambr. university out of the Ovington estate. The dean of divinity was to receive 40s. yearly for a lecture in the college hall on 30 Jan., 'on which day the king was beheaded, to the amazement of all the world, by some of his subjects.' No more worthy recipient, either for character, need, ability, or sympathy with the founder's creed, could be found than Bonwicke for the next item : 'to one, whether fellow or scholar, that speaks a speech before supper on 30 January, declaring the barbarous cruelty of that unparalleled parricide . . . 10s.' 'An original ms. (now in the possession of Tobias Rustat Hemsted esq.) which contains the substance of one of these orations spoken in the time of Charles II. is thus entitled : "Ornatissimo clarissimoque viro D. Tobiae Rustat hanc de Caroli primi martyrio orationem in aula collegii divi Ioannis Bapt. Oxon. 30mo Ianuarii habitam humillime d. d. d. Ambrosius Bonwick"' (65-67). Cf. Wood-Gutch, Colleges and halls 542. Rustat's epitaph is in ms. Baker vi 60 = B 61 ; thence in Le Neve, Monum. Angl. (1680-99) 148-9 : Blomefield, collectan. Cantabr. 143 ; also in Hewett 86-7. He lies in the chapel of Jesus college, where he has a monument of white marble.

ut Oxonii sim Cantabrigiensis, aut hodie vivam ut olim vixerunt : iubeas igitur ut alio transeam, et victum (quod frater Iohannes facit) per me quaeritem ; nolim nempe doctus fieri fratrum Beniaminis et Iacobi dispendio. Quinquaginta solidos a fratre accepi 5to nonas huiusce mensis, 5 quorum quadraginta et quod excurrit expendi ; nondum tamen integrum nomen liberavi.'

Then follow various copies of latin verses, which are not always even correct : 1 (ibid. 622) : elegiacs to Pet. Mews vicechancellor in 1669, 1670, 1672 on the return of 10 spring. 2 (ibid. 613) : elegiacs on the death of John Asgill, fellow of St. John's. * 3 (ibid. 614) : an eclogue in hexameters congratulating William Levinz on his election as president. 4 (ibid. 615) : 'angelus Gabriel annuntiat nativitatem D. Iohannis.' Hexameters. 5 (ibid. 15 615-6) : 'Visitatio B. Mariae.' Hendecasyllables. 6 (ibid. 616) : 'in obitum ducissae Eboracensis,' who died 31 Mar. 1671. Elegiacs. 7 (ibid. 617-8) : 'in coniurationem sulphuream.' Iambics. 8 (ibid. 618) : 'in obitum serenissimae Mariae reginae ;' on the death of the queen 20 mother, who died 10 Aug. 1669. Two copies of elegiacs. 9 (ibid. 619) : 'in obitum illustrissimi ducis Albemarle,' who died 1670. Elegiacs. A latin copy of verses by Ambrose Bonwicke, B.D. is in the Oxford collection on the death of Charles II. 1685 (Wilson, Merchant Taylors', 25 970).

Then follow (Bowyer, ibid. 620-654) 'Letters between Mr. Ambrose Bonwicke and Richard Blechynden,† B.D.

* Elected to St. John's 1657 (Wilson's Merch. Taylors' 322, 1157). B.A. 30 Apr. 1661. M.A. 18 Apr. 1665.

† Elected to St. John's 11 June 1665 (Wilson's Merch. Taylors' 344, 1198). B.A. 27 May 1669. M.A. 22 Mar. 1672. B.D. 5 June 1679. He was one of four nominated to succeed Goad as master of Merchant Taylors' in 1681 (ibid. 381) ; prebendary of Peterborough 11 Febr. 1685-6 (ibid. 837) ; he held the college living of Crick, Northants, where he was buried 30 Oct. 1697 (ibid. 187, 378, from Bridges 1 561). Rawlinson (in Wilson 378) adds : 'He has written "Two useful cases resolved. 1. Whether a certainty of being in of St. John's college, Oxford, concerning the oaths.' 1 (ibid. 620-1): Blechynden to Bonwicke. 8 Aug. 1691. 'I am heartily sorry for the Merchant Taylors rigorous proceeding against you. The letter of the statute does not reach you, 5 schoolmasters being not particularly mentioned. . . But it is unaccountable to me, that any honest man should refuse the oaths out of conscience: out of generosity and honour they might, struggling for their deposed prince, provided his restauration were for the public good.' 'The bishop 10 elect of Bath and Wells [Ri. Kidder] has often declared for me a kindness for you, and perhaps can do you the greatest kindness among your adversaries. Dr. [John] Rudston will be buried on Thursday next at St. Alban's

 [in St. Peter's]. He died of a fever here in the college 15 on Wednesday last [5 Aug. aet. 35]. Mr. Tothill has desired a recommendation to succeed you.' 2 (ibid. 622).
Bonwicke in reply. 11 Aug. 'I suppose . . . that king James had a right to my allegiance, and that secured by an oath; and unless he has given away this right or forfeited 20 it, it is still in him. Now to me it does not appear that he has done either, therefore I dare not give it to another, which . . . is the design of the new oaths . . . I ought not to have entered into the obligation, if I had not designed to have kept it.' 3 (ibid. 622-7). Blechynden in reply. 15 25 Aug. 'He that has no longer a right to the government, has no longer a right to my allegiance . . . King James has a state of salvation be attainable? 2. What is the rule by which this certainty is to be obtained? London 1698." 4to. published after his death.

'A copy of a former edition printed at London for Henry Bonwicke in Paul's churchyard, 1685, is in the Bodleian library, with marginal notes in the hand-writing of bishop Barlow, who judged many things in it erroneous, and, to a doubting person who should rely upon it, pernicious.' He preached the consecration sermon of bp. Thomas White at Lambeth 25 Oct. 1685 (Wood-Bliss, Fasti II 392). For another of both names, the last principal of Gloster hall, first provost of Worc. coll., preb. Glouc., vic. of Fairford Bagpuse and Newnham Courtney, see Wilson 383-4, 1201. shewn, that he neither has the qualifications for government, nor for this of the English. . . . A full possession of the power, especially when recognised by the grandees and main body of the people, gives him that has it a title to the obedience and fidelity (or, if you will, allegiance) 5 of all within his territories ; at least that they are guilty of no sin that promise fidelity to him.' 4 (ibid. 628-631). Bonwicke in reply. 20 Aug. 'I should be glad to find my friends and relations (whom I have so great a concern for) are in the right, and that it is prejudice in me has blinded 10 me so long. Though I suppose it would be perjury in me to quit that oath that I still think obligatory, yet I have a very charitable opinion of those that have taken the new one, and suppose that conscience has been as much their guide in taking it, as it has been mine in 15 refusing it. . . . I suppose a man may be dispossessed of a legal right no otherwise than by law. . . . I am to consider how I am to behave myself under a king that has possession and not right. The execution of those laws that protect me are [sic] in his hands ; I will give 20 him all the obedience that is necessary for that purpose. . . But to take an oath of allegiance to the king de facto, certainly cancels my oath of allegiance to the former. . . . If it were barely submitting to him in power, I suppose we should have no great dispute. . . I remember in the 25 charter put out by Dr. Burnet (for you must know I read all the books I could on that side, with the same design I now dispute with you, and I think not one of the other, as you may perceive).' 5 (ibid. 631-637). Blechynden in reply. 25 Aug. 'Municipal laws are not the sole measure of 30 right and wrong. There is a superior law of right reason, which respects the common good of mankind, which gave beginning to all civil societies. . . . You say treason against the king de facto is not treason de iure ; hereby you must mean according to equity and right reason ; for 35 treason against a king de facto is the only treason by the law of the land, if Coke and Hales may be credited. . .

- You call for a legal forfeiture ; nothing else, say you, will forfeit a legal right to a crown. But if you please to consult the gentlemen that write politics, who surely are the best guides in this affair, you will find them assign
- 5 a great many others . . . The assemblies of the grandees and parliaments have near forty times either deposed their prince or waived the next of kin for the good of the community.' He quotes Grotius, Milton, Edward the confessor's law, Bracton, Fleta etc. 6 (ibid. 637-8).
- 10 Bonwicke in reply. 30 Aug. 1691. 'Reason must be our best guide, and she has directed you to take the oaths, as she does me to refuse them. I consider on one side there is only a little temporal concern, and on the other the danger of perjury. . . . For what you urge, that
- 15 therefore I ought to have no protection from king William, I must be contented ; but I think that it is the law that protects us both. At present it only deprives us of our livings, and that we submit to. When the laws become more severe, we must shift as well as we can, and if we
- 20 cannot live in this country, fly to another. . . . A whole nation can as ill dispense with their oaths as a single person.' 7 (ibid. 638-9). Bonwicke again. 5 Sept. 'I do really take those laws which have been made since king William's coming to the crown to be good laws. . . .
- 25 King James has lost thus much by losing possession : he has lost the assistance of his people, for it would be treason and illegal to fight against king William, who has now the law on his side.' 8 (ibid. 639-646). Blechynden in reply. 8 Sept. 'The defence of the society being
- 30 the sole ground (and measure too) of our obedience and fidelity to our chief governor, it is plain that it is due to him, and to him only, that can and does defend the society. . . . If you will rightly weigh the matter, it is not only a little temporal concern that pleads for your
- 35 taking the oaths. For (pardon my plain dealing) you are chargeable with disobedience to the powers that be, with depriving your country (for which we are all in a great measure made) of the good you may do in your present station, or in the ministry; and with the making or strengthening a party against the public establishment, to the great prejudice of church and state; besides the injury to yourself and family, which an honest man ought not to 5 prejudice but upon very good grounds. All this, I say, you are chargeable with, if the taking the oaths be not manifestly sinful. For the danger or fear of its being so is not sufficient to justify the neglect of any duty, and an opposition to a public establishment and the benefits of 10 it.' Quotations from Dr. [afterwards abp. John] Sharp, bp. Sanderson. 'Reason will prefer the good of the community before that of a single man, especially of one already very false to his trust. . . . It is not plain that I am sworn to king James; the oath in an equitable 15 interpretation not reaching the present case; nor has king James any reason to insist on it as the present circumstances are; nor ought you to oblige me by my oath to hurt my neighbours, or my country, how rigorous soever I might be otherwise to myself. There is a great deal of 20 difference between a private oath relating to my own concerns, of which I am master; and a public, which was made for the good of the public, and therefore ought in no wise to be strained to the prejudice of the same. . . . The affection that men are bred up with towards the 25 memory of king Charles the first, and the abhorrence of the parliament of 1641, does extremely prejudice men for kings and against parliaments; but both extremes are to be carefully shunned.' 9 (ibid. 646-9). Bonwicke in reply. 16 Sept. 1691. The author of The whole duty of 30 man declares that 'the king is accountable to none but God.' Oxford by decree of 21 July 1683 'solemnly condemned all those propositions as seditious, impious and heretical etc., repugnant to the holy scriptures, decrees of councils, writings of fathers, the faith and profession of 35 the primitive church etc. by which this revolution is justified. . . . The sons of the church of England (by their general defection) have brought an indelible scandal upon her; and it is not to be wiped off by the constancy of a small party. But yet it is glorious to see an archbishop quitting the honour and profits of his station, rather than 5 quit the obligation of an oath. . . . Non-resistance upon any pretence whatever is a plain rule that exposes us only to the inconveniencies of tyranny: but if every man must be the judge of the actions of his prince, and quit his allegiance whenever he thinks the coronation oath broken, 10 there can be no such thing as peace.' 10 (ibid. 649-654).

 'Fragments of Mr. Ambrose Bonwicke, relating to the same controversy.' Many cases cited from English history.

His desire to conceal the authorship of his son's life has been frustrated by the communicative historian of the 15 literature of our eighteenth century: Nichols, Lit. Anecd. 1416-9: 'This little volume was generally ascribed to our worthy printer [Wm. Bowyer], though it was in reality the production of Ambrose's father, and came into Mr. Bowyer's hands as executor to James Bonwicke. This assertion is 20 confirmed by the following letter, addressed by the author to his wife, and found unopened at his death:

[Undated].

'MY DEAREST,

'YOU were thinking, quickly after dear
 25 Ambrose's death, that an account of his life might be of some benefit to the world. I have here drawn it up as well as I could: if any thing material be omitted, dear Femmy, by your direction, will be able to supply it. He therefore must be let into the secret; and I depend upon 30 you two, that it shall for ever be a secret to all the world beside, who was the author. He must therefore take the trouble of transcribing it as soon as he comes hither after my death, for which I bequeath him the two inclosed guineas: and if my dear friend Mr. [Fras.] Roper be 35 living, I would have that copy be shewed him by Femmy, as of his own motion, and wholly submitted to his judgement to be altered as he shall think fit. I would have my good friend Mr. [Tho.] Browne's consent likewise procured (if it may be) for the publishing his letter in this account. And if Mr. Jackson and Mr. Newton are willing to make any alterations in their verses, pray let it be done 5 before they are published. I hope, my dearest, you will be at the charge of printing it handsomely; and if your bookseller be faithful, it is possible that charge may be made up to you again in a little time. You will, I know, think it proper that the master of the college [Dr. Rob. 10 Jenkin], Mr. Roper, Mr. Baker, and Mr. [Tho.] Verdon, dear Ambrose's special benefactors, should be presented with these better bound than ordinary; and that Jemmy should give his tutor one handsomely bound, and distribute about a score among the lads where he thinks they may 15 do most good. I am sorry I must bequeath you both this trouble; but, if by this means one soul may be gained, your reward will be great. However, I hope our good God will graciously accept the honest intention of us all, through the merits of our blessed Saviour Jesus 20 Christ. Amen.'

Nichols, Lit. Anecd. v 118, 119 (also in Manning and Bray, Surr. II 661): 'On the south side of the altar at Mickleham, on a black marble, is the following inscription: Hic, eodem sepulchro conditi, iacent par carissimum 25 Augustinus et Philippa, liberi natu minimi Iohannis Bonwicke S.T.B. et Dorotheae uxoris; quorum ille in caelum cursum maturavit festo S. Iohan. Bapt. A.D. MDCLXXXIII; haec autem, tam dilecti fratris desiderio contabescens, post quinquennium pridie eiusdem festi in amplexus eius 30 ruebat A.D. MDCLXXXVIII.

'Parce pias animas nimio violare dolore;
non poscit lacrimas ille vel illa tuas.
quin potius gravidis quantus fluat umor ocellis,
in tua, si sapias, crimina totus eat.

‘On another marble grave-stone: H.S.E. Benjamin Bonwicke LL.B. collegii S. Iohannis Bapt. Oxon. socius, et filius Iohannis Bonwicke, istis ecclesiae rectoris, ex Dorothea coniuge: vir summo ingenio, iudicio pari, at 5 modestia pene nimia; cuius mores suavissimos omnes, quibus notus erat, iam maxime desiderant; hunc saevus variolarum morbus nobis omnibus praeripuit et Deo suo reddidit, quem semper, quantum humanitas patiatur, religione non querula et muliebri, sed tacita et mascula
 10 coluerat. Abi quisquis es, et scito te pariter mortalem: Obiit a.d. III idus Decembres MDCLXXXVII.’ Chosen scholar of St. John’s Oxf. 19 May 1675 (Wilson’s Merchant Taylors’ 366, 1200). B.C.L. 11 May 1681, second under-master of Merchant Taylors’ 1687 (ibid. 1183).

15 Henry Bonwicke, brother of the elder Ambrose. Two letters from him to Strype (2 and 7 Aug. 1705) are printed in Notes and Queries, 29 Aug. 1859, 343. Life and errors of John Dunton, Lond. 1705, 205: ‘Mr. Bonwick. I don’t think there’s an honestest man in London, or one
 20 that is more ZEALOUS for the church. He served his time with Mr. Benjamin Took, and we find all the wit and loyalty of his INGENIOUS master exemplified in his life and practice.’ MS. C.C.C. Oxon. 391 contains a letter from him to Chr. Wase on the Horatian metres. Nichols, 25 Lit. Anecd. v 119: ‘a bookseller in St. Paul’s churchyard, a man of great piety and probity, who died in 1706.’

One Jas. Bonwicke occurs B.A. of Trin. coll. Cambr. 1680-1.

Nichols ibid. ‘Counsellor Bonwicke, of the Mickleham
 30 family, and a barrister of the Middle Temple, died May 14, 1729.’

Manning and Bray, Surrey II 197, speaking of Kinnersley manor, Horley: ‘In 1675 Kettleby and Petty conveyed to Benjamin Bonwicke, who was a captain, 35 afterwards major, in the trainbands of this county. In 1708 Bonwicke settled it on his intended marriage with Sarah. . . There was issue of this marriage a son named

Benjamin, who inherited the estate. He was a barrister, resided at Reygate, and left two daughters and coheirs; viz. Sarah, who married Charles Mason (and died aged 97*); and Mary, who married Samuel Duplock. These parties, with the widow of Benjamin Bonwicke, conveyed 5 to Mr. Richard Ireland in 1740 and 1765.' Erbridge manor, Horley (ibid. 199) 'was settled in 44 Elizabeth by Richard Bonwicke of Horley yeoman on his son Benjamin Bonwicke of the Inner Temple.'

James Bonwicke, brother of Ambrose B. jun. Nichols, 10 Lit. Anecd. I 313-320: 'In January 1724-5 Mr. James Bonwicke, the younger son of Mr. Bowyer's worthy schoolmaster,† knowing his integrity and friendship, appointed him executor to his will, and bequeathed to him a small cabinet of medals. The same cabinet, somewhat aug- 15 mented, Mr. Bowyer afterwards left to his worthy friend and physician the late Dr. Heberden,‡ for whom he had a sincere regard.

'As the circumstances attending the executorship are remarkable, I shall annex, from Mr. Bowyer's handwriting, 20 a copy of the will: "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, one God, blessed for ever. I James Bonwicke, being now by the blessing of God in good health, do by this my last will and testament dispose of that temporal estate He hath been pleased in 25 much mercy to bless me withal. I have been a miserable sinner, God He knows, and unworthy of the least of those many mercies He has vouchsafed me all my life long; yet

* [In vol. III app. clvii her age at death, 18 Dec. 1801, is given 91; i. e. she was born in 1710 or 1711; two or three years after the date above assigned for her grandfather's marriage.]

† 'The greek "Spicilegium in usum scholae Felstediensis sub S. Lydiat gymnasiarcho," was printed 1698, 12mo. for H. Bonwicke (brother to the schoolmaster) at the Red Lion, St. Paul's churchyard; and the edition of 1738, for J. and J. Bonwicke, at the same place and sign.'

‡ "I give to Dr. William Heberden my little cabinet of coins."
Mr. Bowyer's will.

humbly hope for the greatest of all, even the salvation of my poor soul, through the merits of our blessed Redeemer Jesus Christ. I give and bequeath to my sisters Thea and Winny, to each of them the sum of sixty pounds, to 5 be paid them immediately upon my decease; to my sister Molly the like sum, to be disposed to her own private advantage in a small settlement; to my sister Betty the sum of twenty pounds at my death, and forty more at the birth of her first child; to my sisters Henny* the like sum,
10 to be paid, one moiety at my decease, and the other at the day of marriage, if they marry with the consent of my uncle James Bonwicke esq.; to my brother John forty pounds, to be paid when he shall have been settled one whole year in some business with the approbation of my uncle; to 15 my grandmother Stubbs, and uncle Mr. Samuel Stubbs, and my godson James Jones, to each of them twenty pounds; and to Mrs. Sarah Norton ten pounds, to be laid out for her private use; I desire also that twenty pounds may be laid out in the building of a monument
20 for my dear F. and M.; I desire that one hundred pounds may be disposed of to augment two poor livings, particularly where my friends Mr. B. C., Mr. G. H., Mr. R. M., or Mr. M. B. may be incumbents; and one other hundred pounds, whose annual product for eight years may be
25 given to two poor children born in the year of my decease in the parishes of Mickleham or Headley, and to be nominated by the vicar of Leatherhead and the rectors of Mickleham and Headley; I leave my cabinet of medals to my dear friend Mr. William Bowyer junior, to whom 30 I bequeath all my other goods and chattels whatsoever; I appoint him likewise executor to this my last will and testament."

'On this will were grounded the following cases, drawn up by Mr. Bowyer, and answered by two coun-35 sellors of considerable eminence.

• [No doubt 'and Margaret' should have followed.]

Case I. James Bonwicke having bequeathed above £600 in legacies, by a will of his own hand-writing, though neither dated, signed or sealed; may an estate held in trust for him be sold to make up the amount, or must it go to the heir at law? Edmund Sawyer answers 5 8 Mar. 1724 that the estate must go to the heir at law; but as to the personalty, the will is good for that. In his answer to Case II. 10 April 1725, Sawyer advises (1) that the same sum to be paid to Henny is £60, not £40; (2) that the sixth sister, though possibly it might be the 10 testator's intention to give her the same legacy with the rest, yet has no claim; (3) that brother John 'is entitled to the legacy in case he has been one year out of his clerkship, and pursues the business of an attorney when required by his clients;' (4) that the letters F. and M. 15 are not so sufficient an evidence of the testator's intention as to oblige the exor. to lay out £20 in a monument for the testator's father and mother; (5) that the bequest of £100 for the augmentation of two livings is void.

Case III. gives a good deal of the family history. 20
'A[mbrose] B[onwicke] by his last will and testament in writing, gives and devises unto his five daughters the sum of £400 apiece, and unto his wife and two sons John and James doth (inter alia) give and bequeath as follows: viz. "I give and bequeath to my dear wife all that my 25 messuage, or tenement and farm, of all those lands . . . known by the . . . names of Burford and Boxland, situate . . . in the parish of Mickleham . . ., and all other my freehold messuages, lands, tenements . . . within the said parish, . . . to hold during her natural life, if she continues 30 a widow so long; and upon her decease or marriage, to my son James and his heirs, he paying within six months after he comes to the possession of the said estate £200 to his brother my son John."

'A. B. died Oct. 20, 1722, and on Dec. 3 following, his 35 widow and relict also died. Whereupon James, the said testator's younger son, being then of the age of 18 years, received the rents and profits of the said estate from J. B. esq. the testator's brother, in whose name the said estate was purchased in trust for the said testator, and in whom the legal right was to the day of James's death, he having 5 never made any conveyance thereof to the testator's widow, or the said James the son.

'That the said James about two years after his mother's decease, at the age of 21 died likewise, without having paid to his elder brother John the £200 or any part 10 thereof. . .

'That the said James by his will, neither dated, signed, nor sealed, but all of his own hand-writing (and for the validity whereof sentence has been given in Doctors' Commons) bequeaths several legacies, and among 15 the rest £200 to charitable uses, no mention being made therein of the estate given him by his father's will, but only in general words leaves his cabinet of medals to his dear friend Mr. W. B. junior, to whom he bequeaths all his other goods and chattels whatsoever, and appoints 20 him likewise executor of his last will and testament.

'That, without the said estate, there will not be assets sufficient to discharge his legacies ; notwithstanding which, the said John the brother not only claims the said estate, but also the £200 with interest for the same, and £40 25 being a legacy left him by his said brother James's will.

'Query, is James's will sufficient to convey to his executor the said estate held in trust, to enable him to fulfil the said will ; or must it go to the brother John as heir at law, in prejudice to the said charities and legacies ?'

30 Answer. 'This will is not sufficient to pass lands of freehold or inheritance, not being signed or executed according to the statute, and it therefore descends to the heir at law John, and not affected with the charities or other legacies.'

35 'II. If the trust of the estate descends to John the heir at law, is it not sufficiently implied in his father's will that the £200 legacy he bequeaths to the said John should be an incumbrance on the estate bequeathed to James. Can John therefore claim the said £200 as a debt of James's executor, when he possesses that estate which seems to be charged with the very incumbrance he claims?

‘Or, further, may not James's neglect to pay the said £200 (that is, to perform the conditions by which he was to hold the said estate) be interpreted as a refusal to accept of that estate, to which his father had annexed such conditions? Or shall his receiving the rents and profits of the estate during his minority be looked upon as an acceptance of that estate, which was never made over to him, and the profits whereof he never received after he came of age?’

Answer. ‘I think the land devised to James being charged with the £200 and the land so charged descending to John (to whom the £200 was also payable) it amounts to an extinguishment or satisfaction of the £200 and all interest due on that account, and cannot be claimed by John of the executor of James.’

‘III. If the £200 is likewise due to John as a debt from James, is James's exor. obliged to pay interest for the said £200 to the claimant John any longer than to the time of the said James's death, provided the exor. has made no interest of the said money; and especially considering that the claimant John, by litigating his brother's will for near half a year, hindered the exor. from paying either interest or principal?’

Answer. ‘I think James's exor. is liable to pay neither principal nor interest.’

‘IV. When was James, according to the words of his father's will, possessed of the estate? Was it from the time he received rents and profits of the said estate, which was from the Michaelmas before his father, who gave it to him, died, his father and mother both dying between Michaelmas and Christmas? Or was he not rather then only possessed of it, when his mother, who during her life was the obstacle to his possessing it, was dead? Or lastly, was he, or could he be possessed of it, before he was of the age of 21? Consequently, must the interest the elder brother John claims with the £200 commence from 5 six months after the Michaelmas which preceded his father's death, or from six months after the younger brother James came of age?"

Answer. 'James was possessed of the estate within the meaning of the will when the mother died, and the 10 devise to him took place; and whether he was 21 or not, as long as he was entitled to the rents and profits, it was sufficient; and if James had lived, John might have demanded interest from six months after his mother's death; but he dying, and the estate out of which both principal 15 and interest was to be paid coming to John, the demand, I think, is extinguished.

THOMAS LUTWYCHE, April 25, 1726.'

'The whole progress of this business reflects honour on the integrity of Mr. Bowyer; but his conduct to the 20 unprovided sister deserves to be particularly known. I have now before me an exact debtor and creditor accompt of the whole of his executorship, by which it appears that he not only paid to Margaret Bonwicke £21. 8s. the whole surplus which remained after all the other legacies were 25 paid, and added £10 to it as a free gift, but, at the distance of thirty years, made up the sum which her brother had most probably intended for her. This circumstance is confirmed by the following remarkable receipt:
 "Whereas a legacy of £60 was probably intended to 30 have been left to my wife Margaret, when a maiden, by her brother Mr. James Bonwicke, who died January 1724-5; but her name being omitted in his will, and there not being assets sufficient to pay the whole of the said intended legacy, she gave a discharge in full to his exor.
 35 Mr. William Bowyer, May 23, 1729, on receiving £21. 8s., being the whole surplus which remained after the other legacies were paid: And whereas the said William Bowyer did, out of his own good will, pay at the same time, and at his own expense, £10 more in aid of the said intended legacy; and afterwards, on or about July 16, 1747, did give to my said wife Margaret £4. 5s. more out 5 of the second dividend made to him on account of Mr. Edward Jones's bond of £100; which sums made in all £35. 13s.: And whereas Mr. Samuel Stubbs, dying on or about December 12, 1756, left the following clause in his will: I give and bequeath unto Mr. William Bowyer, of 10

Hatton Garden, London, printer, the sum of £31. 10s. (willing him to take it as a part of my late nephew James Bonwicke's estate) and to dispose of it as he shall think proper, by which clause the said Mr. William Bowyer, having received £31. 10s. hath thought proper to dispose 15 of £24. 7s. to me: I hereby acknowledge to have received the said £24. 7s.; which, with the sums before received by my wife and myself, amounting to £60, is in full of the intended legacy of Mr. James Bonwicke to my wife, and of the utmost intention of the late Mr. Samuel Stubbs. 20
Witness our hands,

EDWARD ANDREWS, MARGARET ANDREWS.'

'Received of Mr. William Bowyer, each of us respectively, £2. 8s., the sum which he hath thought proper to dispose of in pursuance of the before-mentioned clause in 25 the late Mr. Samuel Stubbs's will.

MARY JONES, DOROTHY WILDMAN, WINEFRID COOKE.'

Nichols gives a few items from Bowyer's accompt.

'EXECUTORSHIP.

	Debtor.			30
	£.	s.	d.
'Found in a box dedicated to the poor . . .	6	9	1
Sold three sheets of paper . . . . .	0	0	1
Sold Miss Henny a book called Hygiasticon . . .	0	0	4	35
Sold Mrs. Winny a pair of black buttons . . .	0	0	2

		£.	s.	d.
	Received of the administrators of Mr. Ambrose Bonwicke and E. Bonwicke an eighth share of odd things which were not divided in their brother's life-time . . . . .	0	2	5½
5	— for household goods . . . . .	146	0	0
	— for eatables and drinkables . . . . .	4	15	0
	— of Mr. Woodward for books . . . . .	102	2	0
	— of Mr. Bonwicke , bookseller . . . . .	185	0	0
	— of Lord Oxford for seven MSS.* . . . .	7	7	0
10	— of Mr. May for MS. sermons . . . . .	12	0	0

‘Per contra.’

			Creditor.	£.	s.	d.
	‘Paid for my journey to London upon Mr. Bonwicke's horse, waterage to and from Vauxhall , and putting up the horse at the Vine . . . . .	0	2	9
15	Paid neighbour Martyr's score . . . . .	1	11	3½
	Paid Goody Hubbard , for her trouble in attending Mr. James Bonwicke during his last sickness . . . . .	0	10	6
20	Spent at a coffee-house, waiting for Mr. Stubbs . . . . .	0	0	1
	Paid counsel for resolving three cases [as above] . . . . .	3	3	0
25	Paid the pocket expenses of Mrs. Elizabeth, Dorothea, Winefrid, Henrietta, and Margaret Bonwicke , when they went to London , to give testimony to their brother's will . . . . .	0	11	6

* Cf. Nichols' Lit. Anecd. i 92-3, from Humphr. Wanley's journal: ‘Sept. 11, 1725, being in company with Mr. Moses Williams, he told me, that he had that day seen, in the hands of young Mr. Bowyer, a small parcel of mss. which were to be sold. Hereupon I went to Mr. Bowyer this day, and bought them for my lord in his absence; they will be all marked with the date of this day. These books formerly belonged to the rev. and learned Mr. Ambrose Bonwicke, deceased.’

P. 81. 6. Wm. Beveridge. See the indices to Baker's Hist. of St. John's college (Cambr. 1869) and to Dean Granville's Remains, Surtees soc., both parts. When admitted sizar of St. John's 24 May 1653 under Nic. Bullingham, he is described as of Barrow Leic., son of Wm. B. deceased, 5 educated at Okeham school for two years under Mr. Frear, aet. past 16.

P. 81. 18. Whincup. See p. 12 l. 1. Thos. W. co. Herts., admitted in C. C. C. C. 1664, B.A. 1667-8, M.A. 1671, B.D. 1679, D.D. 1684. Proctor 1677, and uni- 10 versity preacher. Presented by the college to the rectory of St. Mary Abchurch and St. Lawrence Pountney 21 Nov. 1681 (inst. 10 Nov. Newcourt 1 432): 'but a contest arising respecting the title, he was continued in his fellowship until the suit was ended, although Sir Sagg [Wm. S.] 15 had been some time before pre-elected to it. As a testimony of his grateful sense of this and other favours from the college, he added £20 to the stock for commons' (Masters 165). He was chosen to represent the diocese of London in convocation 1695 (Luttrell III 552) and 1708 20
(Masters); and preached the 5th of Nov. sermon before the commons in 1702 (Luttrell v 230), on Esth. 5, 12, which was printed; as were two others, one before the sons of the clergy on Tit. 3, 8 in 1695; and an Easter sermon, 1701, on charity before the lord mayor on 1 Jo. 3 25
(Masters). The life and errors of John Dunton, Lond. 1705, p. 449: 'Dr. Wincop: We have a pious example to follow, in this learned divine, for he is a great master of his temper, and no man is better skill'd, than Dr. Wincop, in the mystery of winning upon the hearts of 30 men. He is well read in casuistick divinity, which does abundantly furnish him for treating with persons, either shaken with opinions, or troubled in mind; and he's a divine of such great sincerity, that any may safely discover their cases to him, without any fear of upbraiding or 35 treachery.' He died in 1713 and his will was proved in 1715 (Lamb 368, 493; Masters 164, 165, app. 8, 49).

Masters, app. 49: 'He was probably the son of John, D.D., pastor of the church of Clothall in Herts. and of St. Martin's in the fields; one of the assembly of divines and the author of Israel's tears for distressed Sion, a sermon
 5 preached before the lord mayor in 1645; who was descended from Thomas, a preacher at Beverley in Yorkshire, where he died in 1624.'

John Wincopp, D.D. inst. rect. of Clothall 6 Nov. 1643 (Clutterbuck's Herts., Lond. 1827, fol. III 504) and 10 still rector in 1650 (ib. 503); his successor was Tho. Newcomen (504). The first date in the following inscription (507) must be a mistake: '1647. Iohannes Whincop. Resurget. Arms . . . a fess . . . in chief a covered cup between two mullets. Ne erres, advena, tres erant e
 15 Whincoporum genere theologi, ex eodem utero fratres, in eadem academia socii eodemque doctoratus gradu co-honestati. Tertius et natus minimus Iohannes, postquam in familia patrem egerat providum, in ecclesia pastorem pium et proficuum, in republica virum integerrimum, im-
 20 matura morte a suis ereptus, exuvias hic deponere voluit et placide reclinare. In memoriam tam charissimi coniugis relictæ eius Etheldreda hoc posuit saxum et epitaphium. Obiit Mai sexto, anno aerae christianæ 1653, ætatis suæ 52. Tantum est quandoque, lector, virtute
 25 prius quam annis canescere.' He has verses in Genethliacum Acad. Cant. 1631, p. 73.

John Whincop of Clothall was fellow of Trinity, B.A. 1621-2, M.A. 1625, B.D. 1632, D.D. by mandate 1637. His brother Sam. was of Sidn. B.A. 1610-1, admitted 30 Halytreholme fell. of St. John's 12 Apr. 1614 (described as of Beverley, son of Tho. W. preacher there), M.A. 1614, B.D. 1621, D.D. by mandate 1631, vic. of Cheshunt (Newcourt 1 822). Diary of Sir Hen. Slingsby, Lond. 1836, 318 (H. S. to his father, from Queens' coll. 13 June 35 1621): 'I was upon Tuesday morning at St. Maries church to hear Mr. Wincopes concio clerum, who did very well and with great applause, and soe every day at one act or other. Quis me uno vivit felicior? His dau. Elizabeth married Dr. Thos. (son of bp.) Sanderson 19 June 1655 (Sanderson's Works vi 416 cl. 407). Another brother, Thomas, also fellow of Trinity, was B.A. 1615-6, M.A. 1619, B.D. 1626, D.D. 1635. The father, Thomas, was of Trinity, B.A. 1578-9, M.A. 1582, and died 7 Sept. 1624 (note in Richardson's ms. list of graduates). Others of the name (which is spelt with or without h, with p or pp) are Thomas of Trin. B.A. 1541-2; John of Chr. 1581-2; Edm. of Caius, B.A. 1636-7, M.A. 1640; of Layston (Calamy, Contin. 799). Thos. (no doubt the son of Thomas of St. Mary Abchurch) of London, adm. C. C. C. C. 1713, B.A. 1718-9.

P. 10 l. 15. Sim. Patrick's Christian Sacrifice. 'The Christian sacrifice. A treatise shewing the necessity, end and manner of receiving the holy communion: together with suitable prayers and meditations for every month in the year; and the principal festivals in memory of our blessed Saviour . . . Lond. 1671.' 8vo. pp. 509. Of the sec. ed. 'enlarged with additional prayers . . . Lond. 1672.' 12mo. pp. (24) and 498, St. John's has two copies, both among bp. Gunning's books. Of the 3rd ed. 'corrected . . . Lond. 1675.' 12mo. pp. (24) and 498, St. John's has a copy among Thos. Baker's books. Other ed. 1687. 12mo; 1732. 12mo. Devotional Exercises, extracted from bp. Patrick's "Christian sacrifice," adapted to the present time by Laetitia Matilda Hawkins. Lond. 1823. 8vo.

P. 10, l. 19. The Whole Duty of Man. See p. 47 l. 1. On the author (lady Packington?) see Reliquiae Hearnianae, ed. 2, 1869, I 18, 113-4, 122, III 62-4, 87-8; 30 Notes and Qu. I Ser. II 292-3; V 229; VI 537; VIII 564; IX 551; 2 Ser. V 334, 426; 3 Ser. VII 106, 124, 290, 328. To the candidates for the authorship may be added Is. Barrow (Ward of Stratford's diary, 300); and bp. Fell (Prideaux' Life 17-19).

P. 10 l. 20. Winchester manual. Cf. p. 59 l. 3 seq. See [Anderdon's] Life of Ken, 2nd ed., 1854, 103-113.

- First published in 1674; the morning, evening, and midnight hymns first appeared in the 7th ed. 1704. Geo. Whitfield borrowed largely from this book. See on bp. Ken the life of Is. Milles 119-221, 136; Brydges' Restituta 5 I 151; at ld. Weymouth's in Aug. 1701 (Eur. Mag. Apr. 1787, 275); Lady Warwick's Diary, R.T.S., Lond. 1847, 107, 138, 146. With one of his most often quoted verses cf. Sam. Clarke's Lives of divines (1683, fol.): 'that we love and live each day as the last.' In Poems by Tho. Fletcher, 10 B.A. Lond. 1692, 8vo. pp. 12-16, are verses: 'To Thomas lord bishop of Bath and Wells, staying at Winton, after his promotion to that see, 1685.' Life of bp. Tho. Wilson, 1822, 269, 304; Life of Jo. Bowdler, 1824, 16, 260.

- P. II l. 7. Doctor Mandevil. See p. 12 l. 4. Jo. 15 Mandevile of Trin. Cambr. B.A. 1673-4, M.A. 1677, D.D. 1694; rect. of St. Mary Magd., Old Fish-street, 27 May 1691 (Newcourt I 472); preb. of Ketton, Linc. 12 Jan. 1694-5 (Le Neve-Hardy II 159); collated to the chancellorship of Linc. 24 Dec. 1695, installed 18 Jan. 20 1695-6, resigned Mar. 1712-3 (ibid. 94); appointed canon of Windsor by patent 23 Febr., installed 26 Febr. 1708-9; on his resignation his successor was appointed 1 May 1722 (ibid. III 406-7); archd. of Linc., collated 23, installed 28 Oct. 1709, a preferment which, with the two next, he 25 held till his death (ibid. II 48); installed preb. Westm. 7 May 1722 (ibid. III 365); instituted dn. of Peterb. 23 May 1722 (ibid. II 540); died 20 Jan. 1724-5 and was buried in the church of St. Mary Magd., Old Fish-street (ibid. II 94; ibid. 48 and 540 the day of his death is given 30 21 Jan.; but see Hist. Reg. 1725). See also Coxe's Life of Marlborough III 169. He published a sermon preached before the queen, on 1 Jo. iii 24. Lond. 1705. 4to. (Bodl.).

- P. II, l. 10. [Edw.] Lake's Officium Eucharisticum. Cf. pp. 18 l. 27, 26 l. 19, 38 l. 30, 45 l. 21. See Wood- 35 Bliss Athen. IV 735. Reprinted at Oxford, 32nd ed., in 1846, on the suggestion of the late Mr. Norris Deck.

P. 12 l 15. [Henry] Sacheverel. 'His grandfather by the father's side was Mr. John S., ejected from the living of Wincanton in Somersetshire by the Bartholomew act for nonconformity etc. See the wisdom of looking backward, published by bp. Kennett, pag. 114' (Baker). Calamy, Account, 597-9; cl. Contin. 746; Nichols, Leicest. III 510: 5 John 'was the eldest son of Mr. Sacheverell, minister of Stoke [in the isle of Purbeck in Dorset], who was a man of great reputation;' cf. Contin. 449). Timothy S., brother of John, was ejected from Tarrant Hinton, Dorset (Calamy Acc. 269, 597; Contin. 424-7, 870). Another brother was 10 Philologus (ibid. 427). On Thos. S. vic. of St. Martin's, Leicester, see Mather's New England, bk. III p. 73 and ind. to Nichols' Leicestersh. Vol. I (see both indices and that to Lit. Anecdotes, for Hen. Sacheverell and others of the family). Joshua S., B.A. Cath. 1667-8, father of Henry, was rector of St. Peter's, Marlborough (Gough's Brit. Topographer I 381; Nichols, Leicestersh. III 511; Nichols, Collectan. v 39, 263). Henry Sacheverell was incorporated D.D. at Cambridge in 1714; see upon him State trials xv 1-522; Parliament. hist. vi 805-87; Watt, 20 Biblioth. Brit. (under 'authors' and 'subjects'); Darling's Cyclopaedia; the Bodl. catalogue; the indices to Swift, Burnet (text and notes, ed. 1833), Tindal, Luttrell, Reliquiae Hearnianae, ld. Mahon, Notes and Queries; Calamy's Own Times II 223 seq., 227 seq.; Kennett in Brydges, 20 Restituta III 379, IV 69; Dean Granville's Remains, Surtees soc., II 252. In 1719 Wm. Whiston (Memoirs 289, 290) published a sarcastic Letter of thanks to the bishop of London [Robinson] for his late letter to his clergy, against the use of new forms of doxology. On which 'happened Dr. Sachev- 30 erell's attempt to exclude me from St. Andrew's, which was then my parish church; at which time I published my Account of Dr. Sacheverell's proceedings, in order to exclude me from St. Andrew's church in Holborn; which is added to the collection of my small pamphlets.' Addison, in 35 verses entitled An account of the greatest english poets, 3 Apr. 1694, addresses 'Mr. H. S.' as 'dearest Harry.'

Rob. S. fell. com. Trin., has verses, sign. P 4, in Ducis Cornubiae genethliacon, Cambr. 1688.

P. 13 l. 23. ald. Ward. Sir Jo. Ward, ld. mayor in 1719 (Wilson's Merchant Taylors' xxviii, 419, 421).

- 5 P. 16, l. 20. Dr. [Wm.] Delaune. See Van Mildert, Life of Waterland, 27; indices to Wilson's Merchant Taylors' and to Nichols' Lit. Anecd.; Works of the learned (1703), 126; Amhurst's Terrae filius, 65, 150, 165 seq., 185 seq., 198, 245. He was Margaret prof., canon of 10 Worcester and Winchester and died 23 May 1728 (Histor. Reg.).

P. 17 l. 4. the second and fourth boys. i.e. Stephen Bignell and Francis West, on 11 June 1710 (Wilson 419).

- P. 17 l. 22. admitted into St. John's college Aug. 25.
15 Described as son of the Rev. Ambrose B., born in London, educated at Merchant Taylors' under Mr. [Thos.] Parsell, admitted 24 [not 25] Aug. 1710 sizar for Mr. Turner, tutor Mr. [Christ.] Anstey.

- P. 17 l. 23 seq. several that had been below him at 20 school, superior to him in the university. Some of the following, who had all the same tutor, Anstey. Tho., son of Rev. Rob. Beverley, born at Kimbolton, educated at M. T. under Dr. Shorting, adm. sizar for Francis Robins 20 Aug. 1708, aet. 17. John, son of John Downes goldsmith, 25 born in London, educated at M. T. under Parsell, adm. sizar for Lloyd 12 Oct. 1708, aet. 17. Henry, son of Rev. Hen. Cooper, born at Hampton, Midds., educated at M. T. under Parsell, adm. sizar for Herbert 8 Jan. 1708-9, aet. 18. Laur. son of Laurence Jackson deceased, born in 30 Lond., educated at M. T. under Parsell, adm. pensioner 29 June 1709, aet. 18. John, son of John Brailsford tinman ('stannarii'), born in London, educated at M. T. under Parsell, adm. sizar for Dawkins 29 June 1709, aet. 17.

- 35 P. 17, l. 29. one especially. Francis Roper. Cf. pp. 60, l. 10, 102 l. 8.

P. 18 l. 8. Frequent returns of the holy sacrament.

Denis Granville, dean of Durham, laboured zealously for the introduction of weekly communions in cathedrals and colleges. See his Remains, published by the Surtees soc., pt. I (in 'Miscellanea,' 1861), xxix—xxxiv, l, 143, 171-180, 182-3, 211; pt. II (1865), xvi, 42, 45 ('the celebration of the Holy Communion every Sunday at the least, not observed in more than two cathedrals and two or three chappels in all England,' A.D. 1680); 46, 48-50, 52-4, 56-62, 71, 73, 79, 85-91, 108, 124-5, 130, 132. As bps. Gunning (ib. 49, 60) and Turner (ibid. 124-5), successively masters of St. John's, were principal supporters of these endeavours of Granville's, it is no wonder that the college also adopted weekly communions; indeed Humphry Gower speaks (Baker's Hist. of St. John's, 1869, p. 654 l. 49 seq.) of 'those frequent communions, which, to his everlasting praise, this holy bishop [Gunning] establish'd or practis'd weekly in all places where he liv'd, and which were subject to his jurisdiction.' In 1681 the abp. ordered weekly communions to be held in all cathedrals (Patrick's Autobiogr. p. 99). Cf. Secretan's Life of Nelson, 173-6.

P. 18 l. 28. Dr. Patrick's book. The Devout Christian instructed how to pray and give thanks to God: or, a book of devotions for families and for particular persons in most of the concerns of humane life. By the author of the Christian sacrifice. Lond. 1673. 12mo. pp. 508, 509: 'A short prayer for a Student. I look up unto thee, O Lord, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift, beseeching thee to direct, assist and bless all the labours of my mind. Illuminate my understanding, O Father of lights, and lead me unto right apprehensions in all things. Indue me with that humility and soberness of mind, which thou delightest to reward with more of thy gifts and graces. Bestow upon me a discerning spirit; a sound judgement; and an honest and good heart, sincerely disposed to imploy all the talents which thou hast, or shalt instruct me withal, to thy honour and glory, and to the good of mankind. For which end, I beseech thee to excite my thirst after useful, rather than much knowledge. And especially enrich me with the treasures of that inspired wisdom, contained in thy holy Scriptures; which are able to make me wise unto salvation. That growing in understanding and 5 goodness, as I grow in years; my profiting may be apparent unto all men: and I may give a comfortable account of my time to thee, my God, at the day of the Lord Jesus. Amen.'

P. 19 l. 1. Sturbridge fair. By the statutes of St.
 10 John's (Early statutes of St. John's college, Cambr. 1859, 8vo. pp. 172-3, 321, 380) a piece of cloth for a gown was bought for every fellow of the college at the fair. A letter from abp. Williams, dated proctors' booth, in Sturbridge
 13 Sept. 1612 is printed in his Letters, Cambr. 1866, 14-18.
 15 Worthington's diary (Cheth. Soc.), I 115, 7 Sept. 1658:
 vicechancellor's court at the fair. I 207, Oct. 1660: Stur-
bridge fair the carpenters' harvest. Very frequently Worthington and others speak of the fair as a well-known date. Halliwell cites Brathwaite's Honest ghost, 1658, 20 p. 189:

'When th' fair is done, I to the colledg come,
 Or else I drink with them at Trompington,
 Craving their more acquaintance with my heart,
 Till our next Sturbridg faire; and so wee part.'

25 Edward Kemp printed a sermon preached at St. Mary's 6 Sept. 1668, the Sunday before the fair. 4to. pp. 20. See accounts of it in Jo. Caii hist. acad. Cant. 105; Cambr.
Chron. 15 Sept. 1764, last page; Gent. Mag. LXVIII 761;
Rob. Gardiner, Hist. of Cambridgeshire, Peterb. 1851. 8vo, 30 179, 180. In the Bibliotheca topographica Britannica, v
 pt. 1, n. XXXVIII, 1786, is a History of Barmwell Abbey
and of Sturbridge fair. Cf. Nichols, Lit. Anecd. VIII 569;
Stirbitch fair, a mock heroic poem, s. a. et l.; a pamphlet, printed at Cambridge, n. d. 8vo: An historical account of 35 Sturbridge, Bury, and the most curious fairs in Europe and America; interspersed with anecdotes curious and en- tertaining: and considerations upon the origin, the progress, and decline, of all the temporary marts in this kingdom; also Thos. Hill, Nundinae Sturbrigienses, an. 1702. Lond. 1709. 8vo. Several MSS. in the Cambridge university library are referred to in Index to the Baker MSS. Cambr. 1848, pp. 153-4, and H. R. Luard, Index to the catalogue of MSS. in Cambr. univ. libr. Cambr. 1867, p. 28 b. The formal opening of the fair is described in Wall-Gunning, The ceremonies observed in the senate-house of the univ. of Cambridge, Cambr. 1828, 129-131. 5 10

In the works of the ribald Edward Ward, 2nd ed., II 218-243, is 'A step to Stir-bitch-fair. With remarks upon the university of Cambridge,' printed originally Lond. 1700 fol. Several illustrations of the manners of the university may be picked from the filth. P. 219: 'Our 15 booted caravan . . . had no more sway when we came over a kennel, than St. Sepulcher's steeple has when the colledge youths are ringing in it.' The company comprised five women and an old gentleman, who, (p. 220) 'having a son at St. John's colledge, whose unruly appetites 20 were a little too powerful for the weak discretion of his junior years to keep under a regular subjection, was going down in order (by his paternal authority) to restrain him, if it were possible, from the vices and debaucheries incident to the fair.' P. 234: Trumpington taverns fre- 25 quented by scholars. P. 237: London hackney coaches convey passengers to the fair for 3*d.* P. 238: Proctors' booth; hops, fish, pitch, tar, soap, wooden bowls, spoons etc. P. 239: Garlic-row, 'occupy'd by sempstresses, perfumers, milleners, toymen and cabinet-makers.' Pp. 30 240-1: Cooks-row, but a 'great number of booksellers . . . are now crept into possession of their greasinesses division; this learned part of the fair is the scholars chief rendezvous, where some that have money come to buy books, whilst others, who want it, take 'em sily up, upon condition to 35 pay if they're catch'd, and think it a pious piece of generosity, to give St. Austin or St. Gregory protection in a gown sleeve till they can better provide for 'em. Here the most famous auctioneer of all Great as well as Little Britain, sells books by the hammer, and gives the scholars as merry an entertainment, as a mountebank and

5 his Andrew. Here's an old author for you, gentlemen, you may judge his antiquity by the fashion of his leather-jacket ; herein is contain'd, for the benefit of you scholars, the knowledge of every thing ; written by that famous author, who thro' his profound wisdom, very luckily discover'd that he

10 knew nothing. For your encouragement, gentlemen, I'll put him up at two shillings, advance three pence ; two shillings once : what ? no body bid ? The bidder advances three pence, two and three pence, once : gentlemen, fye for shame, why sure men of your parts and learning, will

15 never suffer the works of so famous an author to be thus undervalued : if you'll believe me, gentlemen, he's worth more to a powder-monkey to make cartridges of, than what's bid : two and three pence, twice ? What ? no body amongst you gentlemen of the black robe, that has so much respect

20 for the wisdom of our ancestors, as to advance t'other three-pence ? Well, sir, I find you must have him for two and three pence, knock, and now you've bought him, sir, I must tell you, you'll find learning enough within him to puzzle both universities : and thus much I promise you

25 further, sir, when you have read him seven years, if you don't like him, bring him to me again, in little Brittain, and I'll help you to a man who shall give you a shilling for him to cover band-boxes. At this sort of rate he banters the young students ; and whatever they purchas'd, gave

30 'em a jest into the bargain.' P. 241 : Cheapside, with its 'wholesale tradesmen, as linnen-drapers, silk-men, iron-mongers, leather-sellers, tobacconists etc.' The Duddery, where Norwich stuffs and Yorkshire cloth are sold ; where stands (p. 242) 'an old weather-beaten pulpit, where on

35 Sunday a sermon is deliver'd, for the edification of the stroling sinners, who give open attention, as in a field-conventicle. Here is also great quantities of wooll, put up in bags, which they call pockets, weighing at least a tun weight. An Irish gentleman coming by, and staring very hard upon 'em, By my shoul, says he, they are the largest feather-beds dat ever I did see; I wonder how they do to turn 'em when they make 'em.' 'The chief entertain- 5

ment of the fair is stubble geese and apple sauce; fat pig and fly sauce; bad sack and good walnuts; the last of which the citizens send as fairings to their wives.' 'An old fellow dignified with the title of Lord Tap, from his going arm'd all over with spiggots and fossets, like a 10 porcupine with his quills, or looking rather like a fowl wrapt up in a pound of sausages.'

From C. H. Cooper's Annals of Cambridge a pretty complete history of the fair may be derived. I 34 circ. A.D. 1211, cf. I 59: king John granted to the lepers of the 15 hospital of St. Mary Magd. at Sturbridge, a fair in the close of the hospital, on the vigil and feast of the Holy Cross (13 and 14 Sept. Rotuli Hundred. II 360). I 101 A.D. 1351: Cloth seized in Sturbridge fair to the king's use. I 113 A.D. 1376: The feast of dedication of Trin. 20 church changed to Oct. 9, to avoid clashing with Sturbridge fair. Town ordinance respecting the fair and chapel. I 125 A.D. 1382: False weights used in the fair. I 149, 150 A.D. 1403 and 1405: Corporation ordinances about booths in Sturbridge fair. I 153 A.D. 1411: suit between 25 the warden of Sturbridge chapel and the town, about stallage in the chapel yard. I 161 A.D. 1418: Rob. Hierman banished for maintaining common women at the fair. I 163 A.D. 1419: suit between the city of London and the university respecting the fair. I 171-2 A.D. 1423: the cor- 30 poration exempt from toll merchandise coming to the fair. Petition of the commons respecting embroidery sold in the fair. I 173 A.D. 1425: Purchases at the fair on account of Burcester priory Oxf. I 210 A.D. 1459: Ri. Andrewe, alias Spycer, burgess, bequeaths three booths and certain 35 booth ground in the fair, the profits to be applied to his anniversary in St. Mary's. I 214 A.D. 1464-5: Act em-

- powering the horners' company to search in the fair for defective wares pertaining to their mystery. I 222 A.D.
- 1475: John Erlych, burgess, surrenders a booth at a place in the fair called the Chepe, before the sign of the
- 5 cardinal's hat, on condition of an annual obiit being kept for him at St. Mary's. I 233 A.D. 1487: An act of parl. relating to fairs at Cambridge and elsewhere. I 245 A.D.
- 1495: Proclamation to be made at Sturbridge enforcing the act for the packing of fish. I 246 A.D. 1496: Katherine
- 10 Cooke grants three booths in the fair viz. in the Soper's lane, the Chepe, and the Petimercerye, for a dirge and mass in St. Mary's. I 248 A.D. 1497: Sturbridge chapel leased to the corporation. I 252-3 A.D. 1499: ordinance of the corporation respecting its rights in the fair. I 255
- 15 A.D. 1501: much of the chapel land in the fair not hired this year, because Londoners withdrew themselves. I 259 A.D. 1502-3: Wm. Kentte, clk., devised by will two booths in the fair to the town, for a dirge and mass in St. Benet's. I 300 A.D. 1516: The town, by composition
- 20 with Barnwell abbey, to enjoy and maintain the fair. I 302 A.D. 1519: composition respecting the toll to be taken at the fair from freemen of Northampton. I 304 A.D. 1521: the mayor accused of seizing for toll at the fair. I 332 cir. A.D. 1529: the townsmen complained of
- 25 the usurpations of the university at the fair. I 355-8 A.D. 1533: specific charges against the proctors and taxors. I 360-1 A.D. 1533: bonfires and music at the fair. I 363 A.D. 1533-4: An act against forestalling and regrating of fish, specially in Sturbridge, St. Ives, and Ely fairs, 'being
- 30 the most notable fairs within this realm for provisions of fish.' [Repealed 1543-4 ibid. 409]. I 369 A.D. 1534: the king's council decreed 'that Styrbridge faire was in the subarbes of Cambridge and that the vicechancellor or his commysary might kepe courte cyvyll ther for ples
- 35 wheare a scolar was the one party. Item, that in the same faire the university had the oversight, correction and punyshemente of all weightes and mesures, of all maner of victayll, of all regraters and forestallers. Item, it was determyned that spyces be vytaill.' I 371 A.D. 1534: Sturbridge chapel valued at £10. 10s. in the king's books. I 372-4 A.D. 1535: Warnings from Sir Tho. Audeley and Thos. Cromwell against disturbances between university 5 and town at the coming fair. I 388-90 A.D. 1537: Tho. Cromwell and Henry VIII. rebuke the town's interference with the university's rights at the fair. I 393 (cf. 394) A.D. 1538-9: Quo Warranto against the town for the fair: the town agrees to pay the king a fine of 1000 10 marks for a grant of the fair. Cf. MS. Baker x 270 seq. I 400 A.D. 1541-2: an act revoking the grant of two fairs to Lynn, as prejudicial to the fish trade at Sturbridge, Ely and other places. I 416 A.D. 1544: Sturbridge chapel leased to the town for 60 years at a rent of £9; 15 revenues of the chapel. I 430 A.D. 1545-6: suit respecting the fair. I 441 A.D. 1546: Town banquet at the fair. II 2 A.D. 1547: Nic. Elton devises a booth in the fair to the town. II 3-4 A.D. 1547: Corporation order respecting the bailiffs' right in the fair. Proctors' power in the 20 fair maintained by the privy council. Cf. p. 7. II 8-9, II-15 A.D. 1547-8: proposals for an agreement between town and university respecting their respective rights in the fair. II 18-21 A.D. 1548: 'the crye in Sturbridge fayer.' Also in MS. Baker XLI 142. II 47-9 A.D. 1550: 25 Night watch kept at the fair by the colleges and the town. The university, not the pewterers' company, entitled to search for insufficient pewter at the fair. II 61-2 A.D. 1552: The poor to be recompensed by the court of augmentations for certain moneys, issuing of booths in the 30 fair, given for the maintenance of obiits. II 64 A.D. 1552: 30s. paid by the mayor for the watch at the fair. II 69-71 A.D. 1553: the town sues for a new charter for the fair. II 86-88 A.D. 1554: the town complains of the university's usurpation of authority in the fair. II 93-4 A.D. 1554-5: 35 the town again sues for a grant of the fair. II 98-9 A.D. 1555: the watch at the fair to be doubled, in order that

- ‘the vagabonds, naughtie and joly persons, which are farr more in numbre at this present then hath been sene in tymes past, may suffer due punishment.’ [MS. Baker x 250, 8 Sept. 1556: Rob. Brooke to the v. c. and mayor,
- 5 complaining of vexatious searching at the fair.] II 132-3 A.D. 1557: Certain rents in the fair to be granted again to the town, for maintenance of obiits etc. II 135 A.D. 1557: complaint of the London drapers of vexatious searches at the fair. II 143-4 A.D. 1558: Dr. Brassey,
- 10 prov. of King’s, opposes a proposal to sell to the town the university’s rights in the fair. Chr. Francke, alderman, bequeaths three booths in the fair for an obiit in Trinity church. II 154-7 A.D. 1559: dispute respecting the watch at the fair. II 164 A.D. 1560-1:
- 15 town sues for a grant of the fair. II 167-8 A.D. 1561: charter confirming the university’s rights in the fair. II 174 A.D. 1562: ‘the water fair’ removed because of a flood. II 176 A.D. 1562-3: the university’s authority to search for tanned leather confirmed by act of parliament.
- 20 II 216 A.D. 1565: 8*d.* charged in the town accounts for carrying a pulpit to Sturbridge chapel and bringing it home again. II 231 A.D. 1567: suit between Sudbury and Cambridge about a distress in the fair. II 235 A.D. 1568: the town anxious to bring Londoners to the fair,
- 25 ‘as of old they were accustomed.’ II 268 A.D. 1570: in the town accounts are items for the new pillory, for a dinner at a meeting for ordering the fair, for fetching the pillory from Sturbridge chapel. II 322-3 A.D. 1574: Andr. Perne suggests that the fair should be granted by the
- 30 queen to the university. II 325-8 A.D. 1575: town order respecting the tenure of booths at the fair. II 341 A.D. 1575: town order respecting attornies pleading in the fair. II 347 A.D. 1576: disputes between town and university respecting a grant of the fair. II 349 A.D. 1576-7:
- 35 on the same subject. II 357-9 A.D. 1577: list of things bought at the fair for ld. North’s household. The town in vain attempts to obtain a grant of the fair. A haberdashery booth in the fair pulled down by order of the mayor and aldermen. II 359 A.D. 1577-8: Sturbridge fair a scarlet day. II 366 A.D. 1578: Provision bought at the fair for ld. North. II 367 A.D. 1578-9; the mayor to imprison such as refuse the charges assessed for their 5 booths at the fair. II 373 A.D. 1580: dispute between university and town respecting the charter for the fair. II 390 A.D. 1582 etc.: Presbyterians hold synods at commencement and at the fair time. II 396 A.D. 1583: book-sellers at the fairs. II 403-4 A.D. 1584: points still in 10 dispute between university and town respecting the fair. II 422-6 A.D. 1586: the same. The V. C. and doctors to ride to the fair, and make their proclamation on horseback. The tolbooth, counsel and court houses blown down. II 432-4 A.D. 1586-7: university objections to the town 15 charter for the fair. II 461 A.D. 1588-9: order of the corporation for defraying the charges of their charter for the fair. II 466-476 A.D. 1589: new charters for the fair to town and university. Several items in the town accounts relating to this charter. II 477 A.D. 1589: Wm. Foxton, 20 alderman, bequeaths three booths in the fair, on condition that 40s. be given yearly to the poor, and a commemoration sermon preached at St. Mary's. [On a presbytery at the fair 1590 (or 1589) see Bancroft's Daungerous positions bk. III 44, 45, 77, 79, 81, 85, 92; Pretended holy discipline 25 67]. II 492-7, 507, 510 A.D. 1591: town orders for the fair. Riots. Stokys' almswomen to have 8s. each 'to buy them freese gownes and lynnin vales' at the fair. II 514-8 A.D. 1592: town orders respecting the sale of meat and fish at the fair. University's complaint of the dis- 30 traction caused to study by players at Chesterton during the fair. II 524 A.D. 1594: in the town accounts only 7s. appear from the profits of Sturbridge chapel, the remainder being lost owing to a flood. II 552-6, 560, 563-4 A.D. 1596: town order respecting the booths at the fair. Town's 35 complaint against the proctors for taking bribes and behaving tyrannically at the fair. II 595-6 A.D. 1599: award

- respecting the rights of burgesses of Lynn at the fair. II 605-6 A.D. 1600-1 : rights of the proctors, taxors, searchers etc. at the fairs. II 612 A.D. 1601 : dispute with the town respecting a pair of scales used by the university at the fair. III 3 A.D. 1603 : 23s. 4d. charged in the town accounts for certain persons 'going to the courte to get leave to build Sturbridge fayre.' III 19 A.D. 1605 : 2s. 6d. in the town accounts 'for makinge the stocks in the tolboth at the fayre and a lock to them.' III 22 A.D. 10 1606 : 2s. 4d. 'for a payre of claricalls [also called 'claricord', 'claricol', 'claricoale', an instrument in the form of a spinet ; see Halliwell] at Sturbridge fayre.' III 41, 43 A.D. 1610 : the town dispenses with the bailiffs' dinners and breakfasts at Sturbridge fair because of the plague.
- 15 'Mony expended against Wulfe for the compelling of him to pay for Midsomer and Sturbridge dynners in the tyme of his baliwicke.' III 44-5 A.D. 1611 : the rent of Sturbridge chapel. The mayor apologises to the V. C. for his proceedings against certain clothiers at the fair. III 53
- 20 A.D. 1612 : 'laid out betwene the town and university concerning the informacions exhibited by the deputy alangers in the court of Sturbridge faire, vijli. ijs. viijd.' III 103 A.D. 1616 : in the town accounts, 'to the printer for iijj<sup>c</sup>. passes against Stirbridge fayre, xs.' III 136 A.D.
- 25 1620 : session of gaol delivery held at the fair. III 146, 148-9 A.D. 1622 : the town bailiffs freed from the charge of the dinner at the fair. Suit respecting the right of erecting booths in Sturbridge chapel yard. III 169 A.D. 1624 : in the town accounts, 'paid Godbytte for apprend-
- 30 inge rogues at Stirbridge fayre vjs. viijjd.' III 180-1 A.D. 1625 : the fair prohibited by proclamation, because of the plague. III 220 A.D. 1629 : in the town accounts, 20s. to the e. of Suffolk's keeper and man 'for bringinge a bucke which the maior and baylyves had at Sturbridge fair.'
- 35 'Item, for muzitions at the maior's booth at Sturbridge faier, iijjs.' 'Item, to hym that shewed the dancing horse before the maior and aldermen, vs.' III 226-7 A.D.

1630: proclamation prohibiting the fair, because of the plague. III 258, 262 A.D. 1633: town's order respecting right to dower of widows of booth-holders in the fair. In the town accounts, 'to Mr. Blackley for his extraordinary disbursements at Sturbridge faire in the inter- 5 tainment of Sir John Cutts and his company, iiiijli.' III. 271 A.D. 1635: in the town accounts, 'paid Mr. Bridge to goe to London about the shippe money in Sturbridge faire, £5.' III 278-9, 284 A.D. 1636: proclamation, against the wish of the town, prohibiting the fair because of the 10 plague. [Cf. Patrick papers in Cambr. univ. library XXII f. 57. XXIII ff. 33-5]. III 287 A.D. 1637: proclamation to same effect [cf. Patrick papers XXII f. 89. In this and the last year the university desired the proclamation]. III 290-1 A.D. 1638: the fair was held this year, in spite of 15 the plague; only the Michaelmas feast was not kept. III 381 A.D. 1644: full fair at Sturbridge. III 395 A.D. 1645: 'to the centries at Jesus lane's end at the proclayming of Sturbridge fayre by Mr. maior's appointment, 5s.' III 415-6 A.D. 1647: complaint of the university 20 about the infringement of its privileges at the fair. III 435 A.D. 1650: order of the town for the election of the Sturbridge fair preacher. III 445 A.D. 1650-1: university petition against fen drainage, as injurious to navigation and likely to stop the general commerce at the fair. 25 III 457, 460 A.D. 1654: 'the mayor's house,' i. e. a banqueting room and court house, erected at the fair. Evelyn, who arrived at Cambridge 31 Aug., saw from King's chapel roof 'the incampment of Sturbridge faire now beginning to set up their tents and boothes.' III 464 A.D. 1655; 30 'xxs. shall be given out of the moneys in the chest to Michael Wolfe towards the buyinge of a coate against Sturbridge fayer now next ensuinge, he being lord of the tappes this present year.' [The 'lord of the taps' in red coat hung with wooden taps, was conspicuous in the fair 35 within this century.] III 465 A.D. 1655-6: a joiner is paid 3s. for four pillars for the Sturbridge pulpit. III

- 484-5 A.D. 1660: king's order for the university to enjoy the sole weighing of hops and other things of great bulk in the fair. III 493 A.D. 1660-1: 'to the painter for painting the kings armes in the court and on the chamber
 5 at Sturbridge faire, £4 10s.' III 504 A.D. 1662: 'Paid to the cryer for whipping a vagrant at Sturbridge faire 4d.' III 515 A.D. 1664: item in the accounts for 'harnesmen' attending on the high constable at the fair to search. III 517-20 A.D. 1665-6: fair prohibited on 10 account of the plague. III 573 A.D. 1677: town petition against a new fair at Maidstone which might injure Sturbridge fair. III 614 A.D. 1686: Edward Millington, the famous auctioneer, sold in Cooks' row at the fair, the library of James Chamberlaine, fellow of St.
 15 John's. [Sold 8 Sept. The catalogue, priced, is among Baker's books in St. John's library, 4to. At the end of the catalogue of a library sold at the Pelican in Little Britain 14 Febr. 1686-7 by Wm. Cooper is a list of 74 previous book-sales, including Bibliotheca Sturbitchiana, 20 8 Sept. 1684, and Bibliotheca Sturbigiensis 8 Sept. 1685; the latter is advertised in the London Gazette n. 2063.] III 640 A.D. 1688: hackney coach fares from Cambridge to Sturbridge 1s. from sunrise to sunset, 1s. 6d. after sunset. IV 11 A.D. 1689: an action brought against Cæsar Crouch,
 25 proctor, for seizing goods going down the river to the fair. IV 45-6 A.D. 1701: the mayor having allowed players to perform at the fair, the senate conferred the authority of proctors on 62 masters of arts; and Ri. Bentley v. c. imprisoned an actor and ordered the booth built for the 30 theatre to be demolished. Yet in The longvacation, Lond. 1708. 8vo. p. 8 it is said: 'The actors too must take the pleasant air, To Oxford some, to Sturbridge some repair, And quite debauch the hopeful students there.' IV 100-1 A.D. 1710: preacher at Sturbridge fair [bp. Hurd filled 35 this office Nichols, Liter. Anecd. VI 474]. IV 170-1 A.D. 1722: the profit of the booths of the fair not taxable for land tax. IV 175-181 A.D. 1723: De Foe's account of the fair, which he calls the greatest in the world. IV 195

A.D. 1727: procession of the corporation to proclaim the fair. IV 205-6 A.D. 1729: order of the town regulating the fares of hackney coaches at the fair. IV 213 A.D. 1733:
university entitled to weigh hops at the fair. IV 227 A.D. 5 1736: orders restraining the cost of 'the riding dinner';
'the regulators' dinner' etc. at the fair. IV 229-232 A.D.
1737: parliament refuses to allow plays at the fair. IV
241 A.D. 1738: pro-proctors appointed to prevent John Henley (orator) from preaching at the fair. IV 257-8 A.D. 10
1747: action relative to a distress in the fair. IV 262
A.D. 1748: players at the fair. IV 275-7 A.D. 1749:
Edmund Carter's account of the fair. IV 299 A.D. 1759:
the town weighs hops at the fair. IV 318-322 A.D. 1762:
Ri. Hone's account of the fair. IV 331 A.D. 1763: account 15 of the fair from Cantabrigia depicta. IV 337-9 A.D. 1765:
obituary of Jacob Butler, barrister, owner of the Barnwell estate; he used to invite the giants and dwarfs from the fair to dinner, and once drove his carriage among the crockery that was kept too late upon the ground. IV 366 20
A.D. 1772: booths at the fair overthrown by a storm. IV 438 A.D. 1790: Procession of the corporation to open the fair abolished. The corporation dinner there was given up in 1789. IV 474 A.D. 1802: false alarm of fire at the theatre in the fair: four persons killed; the theatre was pulled 25 down in 1806 (490). IV 488 A.D. 1807: the rights of the fair protected in an enclosure act. IV 653 2 July A.D.
1842: grace dispensing with the entertainment given by the proctors at the fairs. Wm. Whiston (Memoirs, 1749, p.
49), when an undergraduate, greatly admired the sermon 30 preached at the fair by Gervase Needham of Emm. Wm.
Paley (Memoirs by G. W. Meadley, Edinb. 1810, 8vo., p. 15) used 'to frequent the fair held annually at Stirbitch,
... where, mixing with the crowd, at puppet-shows or other exhibitions, he watched the various changes of 35 countenance in the spectators, and listened attentively to their remarks.' A description of the fair in its later days is given in Gunning's Reminiscences, ed. 2, I 148-158. With his account of Ri. Farmer's partiality for the Sturbridge entertainments cf. Nichols, Lit. Anecd. II 669.

- P. 19, l. 9. Dionysius's Periegesis. Much used as a 5 school-book. Thus Ra. Winterton published it at Eton (?), early in the 17th cent. [in 1615, Watt] with a dedication in gr. elegiacs to sir Henry Wotton; repr. in usum scholae reg. Etonensis, Cantabr. Tho. Buck and Rog. Daniel, 1633. 8vo.; Lond. Jo. Redmayne, 1668. 8vo. Ed. by Wm.
 10 Hill, sometime fellow of Merton, a schoolmaster at Dublin, Lond. 1658, 1659, 1663, 1679, 1688, 1708. 8vo. This edition was intended for schools: 'textui etiam subiungitur figurarum quae apud Dionysium occurrunt (cum dialecticis et aliis grammaticis minutiis) systema, in usum tyronum;
 15 ut non modo philologicis et geographiae studiosis, verum et scholis inserviat, in quibus geographia vetus, historiae lux, una cum poesi graeca ex hoc fonte imbibi poterit.' As this (Wood-Bliss, Athen. III 800) was 'used in many schools, and by most juniors of the university of Oxon,'
 20 it was probably the edition read by Bonwicke. An important ed. by Edw. Thwaites, Oxf. 1697. 8vo. An ed. by Edw. Wells, Oxf. 1704, 1709 etc., last in 1761; in the later editions modern geography was added, also in gr. verse. Dionysius is in the 4th vol. of Jo. Hudson's Geogr.
 25 gr. min. Oxf. 1710, new title 1712. Dr. John Free in his London geography translated Dionysius into blank verse (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. v 695) 'for the use of the ladies who read history, and the youth of the universities.'

- P. 19 l. 11. Aelian's Varia Historia. Jas. Upton's
 30 ποικίλη ιστορία, sive novus historiarum fabellarumque delectus, from Ael., Polyaenus, Aristotle, Maximus Tyr. etc., of which a 2nd ed. was published at Eton 1715; another at Lond. 1726.

- P. 19 l. 14. Burgersdicius. Cf. p. 53 l. 3. Franco 35 Petri Burgersdijck, prof. of philosophy at Saumur 1614-9, and prof. of rhetoric, morals and natural philosophy at Leyden between 1619 and his death 19 Febr. 1635 (A. J.

van der Aa, Biogr. Woordenb. der Nederlanden). His philosophical works were much studied and often printed in England; e. g. his Collegium physicum, Cambr. 1653. 12mo. Fr. Burgersdicii institutionum logicarum libri duo. Ad iuventutem Cantabrigiensem. Quod vetus est, iuvenes, 5 in religione sequamur: Quod placet in logica, nil vetat esse novum. Cantabr. Jo. Field. 1660. Sm. 8vo. It had already appeared at Cambridge in 1637, 1644, 1647; afterwards (Heereboord's extract) 1663, 1666, 1668, (Heereboord) 1670, 1680. Extract from the pref. 'Methodum petii ex 10 ipsa artis natura. In quo tamen ex parte secutus sum institutum clarissimi viri Marci Duncani, in academia Salmuriensi professoris philosophiae praestantissimi, et olim collegae mei dilectissimi, cuius accuratae Institutiones Logicae maius auxilium mihi tulerunt, in meis institu- 15 tionibus apte ordinandis, quam ullae aliae.' See Edm. Miller's Account of the Univ. of Cambridge, 2nd ed. Lond. 1717, 8vo., p. 6, where he says of the students: 'they must, in all probability, in vain hear their tutors in their reading ethicks, teach 'em the sacredness of an oath; 20 when if they would but look within the lid of their Burgersditijs's Logick (where that taken at their matriculation is usually pasted) they can't but see one, which soon after their admission they forced them to take; tho' at the time of taking, they could not know the extent of 25
 it, or if they did, their own reason told 'em, they could never punctually perform it.' In 1727 a pamphlet on the interpretation of a university statute appeared under the pseudonym Franciscus Burgersdicius (see Watt). Dr. John Jebb, Works, Lond. 1787, III 279, 280 (II Nov. 1775): 'The 30 logic of Burgersdicius prevailed at Cambridge in the memory of our forefathers. The barbarous sounds of Darii and Felapton now no longer grate upon our ears.' An abler logician than Dr. Jebb, Sir Wm. Hamilton (Lectures on logic I 71) recommends this logic 'principally' among all 35 the old latin compendiums. Respecting the study of logic in the university see the index to the Autobiogr. of Matth. Robinson, Cambr. 1856, s. v. Logic.

P. 19 l. 16. Bussièrès. One of the many Roman catholic authors whose books were then text-books at Cambridge. *Flosculi historiarum delibati. Ex rebus præcipuis quæ ab orbe condito ad Christi obitum contigerunt. A patre Ioanne de Bussieres societatis Iesu sacerdote. Editio secunda auctior. Lugd. 1651. 12mo. in 2 pts. Printed at Oxf. 1663. 8vo. 1668. 8vo. Jean de Bussièrès was born near Lyon in 1607 and died 26 Oct. 1678. His lat. poems, esp. Scanderbeg, had considerable vogue (De Backer, Biblioth. des écrivains de la comp. de Jésus, Liège 1853, I 157).*

P. 19 l. 17. Pindar. Cf. p. 53 l. 9, 10.

P. 19 l. 19. Suetonius. Cf. p. 53 l. 20. Pliny. Cf. ibid. l. 21.

15 P. 19 l. 31. Thomas a Kempis, a copy of which, as revised by Seb. Castellio, appeared at Cambr. in 1685. Cf. p. 53 l. 18.

P. 20 l. 1, 2. The Whole Duty of Man. Nelson. Cf. ibid. l. 19.

20 P. 20 l. 2. John Kettlewell. Probably among others A help and exhortation to worthy communicating, with suitable devotions, of which an ed. appeared at Cambr. in 1701. 8vo. with a portr. Observe that Bonwicke's favorite divines were nonjurors.

25 Ibid. Brome. Cf. pp. 30 l. 10 seq., 31 l. 11 seq., 53 l. 18. Rob. Nelson. Cf. p. 53 l. 19. See his life by Secretan, Lond. 1860. 8vo.

P. 20 l. 9. Henry Byam. See Chronological memoir of Henry, John and Richard Byam, sons of the Rev. L. Byam, rector of Luckham, Somerset, 1574-1614. Ryde 1864. 8vo.; Wood-Bliss, Athen. III 836-8; Walker's Sufferings of the clergy, II 29.

Ibid. Thomas Erpenius. No doubt Bonwicke used Consilia et methodi aureae studiorum optime instituendorum, . . . quæ Th. Crenius collegit. Rotterod. 1692, 4to. which contains the tract of Joachim Sterck van Ringelbergh, the friend of Erasmus, 'de ratione studii,' with the short preface in which Erpenius says of himself, that at the age of 16 he was abandoning study as hopeless to one of his mean abilities, when a perusal of Ringelbergh's arguments filled him with new hope and ardour; the treatise of Erasmus is in the same collection. Both treatises (but not the preface of Erpenius) are likewise contained in H. Grotii et aliorum dissertationes de studiis instituendis. Amst. Elzev. 1645. 12mo.

P. 20 l. 17. Eustachius. Cf. p. 53 l. 7.

P. 20 l. 20 seq. Cf. p. 54 l. 10 seq. Roger Ascham 10 recommends a method very similar to this, Scholemaster ed. 1863, 2-5, 93-7, 100-6, 230-2.

P. 20 l. 30. Theognis, Theocritus. These he would read in Ra. Winterton's Poetae minores gr. printed at Cambr. 1635, '52, '61, '67, '71, '77, '84, 1700. 15

P. 20 l. 31. Mr. Leedes's Lucian. 'Nonnulli e Luciani dialogis selecti, et scholiis illustrati ab Edwardo Leedes, cui in schola Buriensi contigerunt esse curae τὸ σφλν καὶ σφῶιν καὶ τὸ μὲν ἢ δὲ τὸ νλν. In usum eorum, qui dum Graecari student, non metuunt interim ridere. Omne tulit punctum . . . monendo . . . Londini, Excudebat Sam. Roycroft LL. orientalium typographus regius, et prostant venales apud Nevil Simmons ad insigne (Princes Arms) in coemiterio Paulino, et Thomam Simmons bibliopolam Buriensem, 1678. 12mo. pp. 24 unpagged and 408. Con- 25 tains 21 dialogues. After an interesting dedication to Hen. Poley of the Middle Temple, whose proficiency both at Bury and Cambridge, the editor highly extols, follows a preface 'ad lectorem;' both dated 'in villa Faustini, quae in pago Suffolciensi est, 11 Kalendas Februarias, 30 A.D. 1676;' then 8 latin iambics, by Sam. Leedes of Clare. The imprimatur is dated 13 Dec. 1676. 'Nonnulli e Luciani dialogis selecti, et in duas partes divisi; alteram prius editam, alteram nunc additam: omnes scholiis illustrati ab Edwardo Leedes, cui in schola Buriensi graeca 35 lingua et minutissimae eius partis, τὸ σφλν καὶ σφῶιν καὶ τὸ μὲν ἢ δὲ τὸ νλν, contigerunt esse curae. Accessit etiam (quod ad hanc rem spectare visum est) quidquid scripserunt Graevius, Gronovius, Iensius, cum nuper tantum edito scholiasta graeco. Omne tulit punctum . . monendo. Cantabrigiae, ex officina Io. Hayes celeberrimae academiae typographi. Impensis R. Clavel, S. Smith et B. Walford, bibliop. Londinens. MDCCIV.' 8vo. pp. 16 unpagged and 218; the 'pars altera' (containing 6 pp. unpagged, 132 and ind. of 18 pp.) is dedicated 'Edmundo Poley, nunc a serenissima Anglorum regina legationis obeunti munus Hannoverae in Brunswici ducatu urbe florentissima.' Edmund was brother of Henry: 'quando prius prodibas foras et inter Allobrogum gentes aliquandiu tibi erat morandum, sumebas tecum duos atticos scriptores, Xenophontem scilicet et Lucianum; non totum Lucianum, sed partem tantum, eos nempe selectos dialogos, quos hic habes in eodem involucro cum his inclusos, quos ideo gratiores tibi fuisse iudico, quod fratris gerebant nomen, nec minus fortasse, sic enim sperare libet, quod et meum.' Dated 'Buriae 90. Kalend. Iunias A.D. 1704.' It is to be hoped that the greek and latin epigrams 'to the purchasers' in the copy in the Cambridge university library, are not by the editor; for each contains a false quantity. Other editions (cited in Fabricius-Harles v 358) are Lond. 1710, 1726, 1728, all in 8vo. In the Tanner MS. 137 f. 84 is a letter of his (10 June 1699) to bp. Moore, on a dispute with the governors of the school. J. W. Donaldson, A retrospective address read at the tercentenary commemoration of King Edward's school, Bury St. Edmund's, on Friday, the 2nd of August, 1850. Lond. 1850, pp. 42-55, gives some account of Leedes, whose mastership lasted 44 years; he published a latin exercise book which ran through twenty editions at least, and died 17 Nov. 1707 (cf. Nichols' Topogr. I 286). He was of Christ's coll. B.A. 1645-6, M.A. 1654. He was probably of the same family as the master of Clare of both his names, who died 1589-90 (add to Cooper's Ath. Cant. II 65, 66, MSS. Baker XXVIII 78; XXX 243, 247; XXXVI 239). The name is common among Cambridge graduates.

P. 21 l. 22. Hierocles. Cf. p. 53 l. 25. No doubt in Needham's ed. 'Hieroclis philosophi Alexandrini commentarius in aurea carmina, de providentia et fato quae supersunt, et reliqua fragmenta. Graece et latine. Graeca cum MSS. collata castigavit, versionem recensuit, notas et indicem adiecit Pet. Needham, S.T.B. coll. D. Ioannis Cantab. socius. Cantabrigiae: typis academicis. Impensis A. et J. Churchill, bibliopolarum Londinensium. 1709.' 8vo. pp. (30), XLII, 467, (20). Dedicated to Wm. ld. Cowper, ld. chanc. In the pref. Needham owns his obligations to bp. Jo. Moore, Matt. Prior, Rob. Cannon D.D. of King's, archd. of Norfolk; Jo. Alb. Fabricius; prof. Hen. Syke 'amicus vere doctissimus, et miro animi candore praecellens;' Rog. Gale. 'Primum et praecipuum merito locum sibi vindicant schedulae aliquot emendationum et coniecturarum, quas, magna ingenii sagacitate excogitatas, benevole mihi dedit vir in antiquis litteris exercitatus et plane summus Richardus Bentleius S.T.P. collegii SS. Trinitatis apud nos magister, et regius bibliothecarius, criticorum nostrae aetatis facile princeps: cui plurimum debere Hieroclem nostrum, gratissimo semper testabor animo;' John Davis of Queens'; John Hudson of the Bodleian. He taxes the english version of the Platonist John Norris, as displaying singular ignorance of greek and bad faith. Hierocles was a Cambridge text-book before and after this. In 1654, 1655 an edition with Jo. Pearson's 'prolegomena' was printed by Rog. Daniel in London 2 vols. 8vo. (Pearson's 'prolegomena' were reprinted by Needham; in the Class. Journal XVII 197-208; and in E. Churton's collection of his Minor theological works. Oxf. 1844); reprinted 1673. 8vo. 'Lond. by J. R. for J. Williams in Cross-keys court in Little Britain, and are to be sold by Henry Dickinson of Cambridge bookseller.' Another ed. by Ri. Warren, D.D. sometime fellow of Jesus coll., was printed at Lond. 1742, 8vo. by James Bettenham, 'impensis Gul. Thurlbourn bibliopolae Cantab.' English translations were published by John

Hall of Durham (Lond. 1657); John Norris (Oxf. 1682); Nic. Rowe (Lond. 1707).

P. 21 l. 23. lecture after dinner. The greek lecturer was bound by c. 17 of the statutes to lecture at 3 P.M., 5 from more advanced students original gr. composition or translation into gr. was to be required.

P. 22 l. 4. chosen scholar. Among scholars elected
 6, adm. 10 Nov. 1710 (Register III 604): 'Ego Ambrosius Bonwicke Middlesexiensis iuratus et admissus sum 10 in discipulum huius collegii pro domina fundatrice ad officium custodis horologii, decessore domino Gregory.' See the Elizabethan statutes of the college c. 15: 'Tres vero alios praeter viginti quattuor dominae fundatricis discipulos, quorum unus vestiario, alius qui pulsationi 15 campanae, et tertius horologio deputetur, intra quattuor dies a vacatione eorundem eligi volumus.'

P. 22 l. 5. Gower. On Dr. Humphr. Gower see ind. to Baker's history of St. John's (1869).

P. 22 l. 26. Christopher Anstey. He was of Merchant
 20 Taylors', born 1680 (? Notes and Queries, 2nd Ser. VIII 167); hence Bonwicke and his schoolfellows were entered under him. He was son of Wm. A., born at Blooberry Berks, educated at Merchant Taylors' under Dr. Shorting, admitted sizar for Dr. Smith 25 June 1696 aet. 18, tutor
 25 Arth. Orchard. Admitted scholar 'pro magistro Robinson decessore magistro Dearing' 7 Nov. 1699. B.A. 1699-1700. M.A. 1703. B.D. 1710. D.D. 1715. He has gr. and lat. verses in the collections on the peace of Ryswick, 1697; the death of Wm. duke of Glouc. 1700; the death of Geo.
 30 pr. of Denmark 1708; the peace of Utrecht 1713. Elected foundation fellow 7, adm. 8 Apr. 1701; his place was filled up 21 Jan. 1716-7. He subscribed to Strype's Parker and Annals (described in the list prefixed to the latter as 'rector of Brinkley, Cambs.' cf. Nichols, Lit.
 35 Anecd. I 682). His dau. Anne died 28 June 1719 aet. 4 m. (MS. Cole XIX 93 a). There is a slight account of him and fragments of two letters, in Nichols' Lit. Anecd.

1 221-2. Cole (ibid. 92 a) speaking of Brinkley parish in 1750, goes more into detail: 'The present rector is the rev. Dr. Christopher Anstey, who has another living in Essex or Hertfordshire. He was of St. John's college in Cambridge, where he was pupil-monger, and got a good 5 deal of money; and marrying the daughter of Mr. Thompson, of Trumpington, on the death of Porter and James Thompson, esqrs., without issue, his wife came in for the estate as heir-at-law: though the last had left it all to the rev. Mr. Dowsing, late of Benet college; but by 10 a defect in the will, one of the legatees being a witness, after several long and expensive trials at law, it was adjusted at a very easy rate for Dr. Anstey, who only gave Mr. Dowsing 1000*l.* to give up his pretensions. Dr. Anstey has two children, both unmarried; a daughter 15 Mary, aged about thirty-five; and a son Christopher, fellow of King's college, aged about twenty-five, who would be M.A., was he not under a suspension from Dr. Paris, when he was vice-chancellor in 1748, for some irregularity in the performance of his bachelor's exercise; 20 which was revived at that time, after a disuse of some years, and therefore unacceptable to the bachelors of the university; he is a very ingenious young man and an excellent scholar, and drew this censure upon himself from his too much vivacity and parts, which hurried him on to 25 treat that in too ridiculous and jocose a manner, which the vice-chancellor determined to have regarded as a serious exercise: and not being able, much against the opinion of his university friends (for his father knows nothing of it), to bring himself to make a proper submission to the 30 vice-chancellor, his censure still continues in full force against him. He is now a student at one of the inns of court at London. Dr. Anstey is quite deaf, and has been so for many years; so as not to be able to hear the report of a cannon, though let off at his ear.' He held the 35 college living of Lawford, Essex, and died at Trumpington 19 Jan. 1751 (Gent. Mag. XLII 188). The Acta Eruditorum

- in the college library is of his gift. See Geo. Dyer's Memoirs of Rob. Robinson, Lond. 1796, p. 126: 'Christopher Anstey, esquire, of Bath, generously offered me [Robinson] the use of the large library of his good father, the late Dr. Anstey.' He spelt his name Ansty at first, but there is no reason to suppose that he was connected with the Ansty family of Quy (see Commun. to Cambr. antiq. soc. I 239). His son, of both names, was of King's, B. A. 1746-7, author of the New Bath Guide. See Walpole's
- 10 Memoirs of Geo. III. III 172; index to Walpole's Letters; Nichols, Lit. Anecd. IX 187, 724; Gent. Mag. 1756 p. 42 b (his marriage); Gent. Mag. 1805, p. 780; Annual Reg. XLVII 491; Lipscomb's Bucks I 185; Burke's Landed gentry, II 9, 142, 177, 1535; Cooper's Annals of Cambridge IV 261;
- 15 Madame D'Arblay's Memoirs; Journals of T. S. Whalley, Lond. 1863, I 235, 311-2; ibid. II 384 seq., 388 seq., 410 seq. are letters to Arth. Ansty esq. of Bath. See Tabitha's dream, a poem by him, in Notes and Qu. I Ser. v 129. Another 'to D. Garrick, esq., on meeting him at a friend's
- 20 house,' in Cambr. Chron. 18 May 1771. Marriage of his eldest son, [Christopher, of Trin. coll.] vic. of [Norton near] Stockton-upon-Tees [Whalley, u. s. II 322; he appears to have held the living 1786-1827] to Miss Grey of Stockton (Cambr. Chron. 21 June 1783). He died 3 Aug. 1805, at
- 25 Hen. Bosanquet's, esq., Harnish ho. near Chippenham aet. 81 (ibid. 10 Aug.); his widow died 31 Jan. 1812 at Lyde house, Sion hill, Bath, aet. 80 (ibid. 14 Febr.). His life by his son John Anstey is prefixed to his poetical works, Lond. 1808. 4to. This John was fellow of King's,
- 30 B. A. 1781, M. A. 1784; of Lincoln's Inn, specially appointed to investigate the claims of the loyalists in the United States (Cambr. Chron. 9 Dec. 1785); author of The pleader's guide, 6th ed. 1810. 8vo. Another son, Robert, a writer in Musae Etonenses, was born at Trumpington
- 35 30 Mar. 1760; nominated to King's 28 Jul. 1777 and 27 Jul. 1778; adm. pens. St. John's 7 Jul. 1779; took no degree; of Canons Leigh ho. Devonshire in 1796; died at

Bath 12 Apr. 1818 (N. and Q. 3 ser. I 474). Another Christopher Ansty, son of — Ansty gent., born near Wantage, educated at Sedbergh under Dr. Saunders, was admitted pensioner of St. John's 26 Mar. 1728, aet. past 17, tutor Williams, admitted Lupton scholar 6 Nov. 1728. 5 B.A. 1731-2. M.A. 1735. B.D. 1743; the B.D. is one year too late, he having had 'a year of grace' granted 1 Mar. 1741-2. Admitted foundation fellow 25 Mar. 1735; his place filled up 1 Apr. 1754. Had leave to go abroad Jan. 1736 (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 682). He was 10 cousin to the Dr., as appears from Nichols, ibid. 222: 'my cousin is preparing to come to reside in college, and would be extremely glad to have some curacy near, that he might serve and be there sometimes. . . Could you help him to be deputy-lecturer in the college, or any 15 thing of the like advantage? He is a very worthy, prudent and good man and deserves encouragement.' He was elected to the college living of Holme on Spalding moor 20 June 1753; the lease of which rectory was renewed for 20 years 30 May 1775. He was collated 30 20 Apr. and installed 30 May 1772 prebendary of Asgarby Linc.; on his death a successor was collated 12 Nov. 1784 (Le Neve-Hardy II 104). Thos. Ansty (probably brother of the last-named), son of James A. gent., co. Berks, educated for many years at Sedbergh under Dr. Saunders, 25 was admitted sizar of St. John's for Dr. Baker 30 Mar. 1730, aet. 18, tutor Williams; Lupton scholar 6 Nov. 1733; B.A. 1733-4; buried 17 Aug. 1734 (Register of All Saints', Cambridge, in MS. Cole III 141 a).

P. 23 l. 4. Roper. Fras. R., of Kellow, Durh., son 30 of Rob. R. farmer, educated at Darnton school, Durh., for 3 years under Mr. Johnson, was admitted sizar for Mr. Brackenbury 21 Sept. 1658, aet. 16, tutor Chr. Fulthorpe; B.A. 1662-3. M.A. 1666. B.D. 1673; admitted Keyton fellow 2 Apr. 1666; succeeded by Matt. Prior 5 Apr. 35 1688; taxor of the university 1671. Collated 22 Jan. 1677-8, by bp. Gunning, to the vicarage of Waterbeach;

- installed prebendary of Ely 1 Apr. (Bentham 258) or 12 May (Le Neve-Hardy 1 360) 1686, and resigned Waterbeach, to which Rob. Jenkin was collated 29 Apr. 1686 (W. K. Clay's Waterbeach, Cambr. 1859, 66); rect. of
- 5 Northwold Norf. 7 June 1687 (Bentham; Blomefield, Hist. Norf. II 220); deprived in 1690 of both preferments for refusing the new oaths. He died 12 Apr. 1719, and was buried in the college chapel without any memorial. There are letters to him in Europ. Mag. Febr. 1799, p. 81; Sir
- 10 H. Ellis, Orig. Letters, 1st ser. III 333, 353. He, like Baker, founded an exhibition in the college; Wm. Bowyer, who received the first £6 from it in 1719, wrote a lat. letter to the president in praise of the donor (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 182-4). His will, dated 1716, is transcribed in
- 15 MS. Baker XII 61. The following book-plate is in books in the college library (e. g. Rohaulti Physica 1697):

DONO dedit Reverendus Vir, FRANCISCUS
 ROPER, S.T.B. huius collegii per multos annos socius dignissimus, ecclesiae deinde Eliensis canonicus etc. Apprime literarum sciens, peritus rerum, egregia morum suavitate, totiusque vitae 20 sanctitate conspicuus. Sagaxque adeo fuit ingeniorum explorator, mira ut facilitate teneros animos erudita pietate imbueret. In rebus secundis modestia, in adversis constantia enituit. Sibi parvus,
 25 sumptuosus aliis, huic imprimis collegio: quod quidem haeredis loco habuit, et luculenta haereditate locupletavit. Obiit 12 April. 1719.

P. 23 l. 10. Tho. Browne, son of Tho. B. deceased, 30 of St. Giles' in the Fields, educated at Sutton's hospital for 7 years, was adm. sizar for Yarb. Reresby 13 Jan. 1671-2, aet. 17, tutor Fras. Roper; adm. pens. 24 Febr. following; adm. Billingsley scholar 3 Nov. 1674. B.A. 1675-6. M.A.

1679. B.D. 1687; adm. foundation fellow 18 Mar. 1677-8; his successor elected 27 Mar. 1710; taxor 1685. Incorporated M.A. Oxon. 11 July 1682 (Wood-Bliss, Fasti 11 385). The titles of his works may be seen in the Bodl. Catal. cf. Nichols, Lit. Anecd. 1 374. Catal. of tracts for 5 and against popery, Cheth. soc., 1859, 1 207, 217. They are upon the nonjuring controversy and the validity of anglican orders. The exhaustive treatise, The story of the ordination of our first bishops in queen Elizabeth's reign, at the Nag's head tavern in Cheapside, thoroughly examined, 10
Lond. 1731. 8vo. is dedicated to Sir Francis Leicester, bart., of Tabley in Cheshire, 'in grateful acknowledgment of his long favour and friendship to the author; and of a never-to-be-forgotten instance of it, in his most free, charitable, and generous support of him, under the in- 15 firmities of a very advanced age, and the irreparable ruin of his fortunes, by a late, too general, calamity.' In the preface the earl of Oxford is thanked, 'whose generosity and goodness renders his incomparable library a public benefit.' Browne died 23 June 1741 (Le Neve-Hardy III 20 640). In 1749 was published at London An answer to a discourse published by bishop Stillingfleet, soon after the revolution, intitled, 'The unreasonableness of a new separation.' 8vo.; 'faithfully printed from an original manuscript in the author's own hand-writing. . . It would be altogether 25
needless to say anything here of the character of the great and worthy author, that being already sufficiently known to the learned world from what he published in his own lifetime, both against infidelity, and in defence of the church of England also, against the Romanists, who 30 shamelessly object to the validity of her orders.' By the 'infidelity' which Browne combated, we are probably to understand political infidelity, breach of the oaths taken to James. In a letter to Rob. Jenkin, 23 Febr. 1697-8, which contains a clear statement of nonjuring principles 35
(Nichols IV 242-5), Browne concludes with words that do honour to his cause: 'Balsham, our great Charter-house living, is fallen againe by the death of Dr. Templer's successour; so that you see how many motives I have (both of that and a good living now in the college gift) to qualify my selfe for preferment, if I could satisfy conscience that I am at liberty.'

P. 23 l. 13. sacrifice to his net. See Habak. i 16.

P. 24 l. 13. Mr. R. Roper.

P. 25 l. 3. faciam etc. Stat. Eliz. c. 16 'de discipulorum iuramento;' the passage meant is: 'omnia statuta dictum collegium concernentia edita et decreta secundum planum litteralem et grammaticalem sensum et intellectum ipsorum quantum ad me pertinet inviolabiliter observabo ac quantum in me fuerit faciam ab aliis observari.'

P. 25 l. 14. our university statutes. See Corpus statutorum universitatis Oxoniensis. Oxon. 1768. 4to. pp. 87-9: EIIINOMIZ, seu explanatio iuramenti, quod de observandis statutis universitatis a singulis praestari solet: quatenus scilicet, seu quousque, obligare iurantes censendum sit. The clause most to the purpose is: 'Si statutorum poenarumve contemptus et crassa obstinataque negligentia abfuerit, delinquentes, si poenis per statuta sancitis aliasve arbitrariis se submiserint, iurisiurandi religionem temerasse minime censendi sunt.'

P. 26 l. 18. Lent. Remember bp. Gunning's Lent fast; see Gower in Baker's History of St. John's college, 1869, p. 655 l. 4 seq. 'Plenty of all things flowed round about him, but for the use of others rather than himself. His study and his business was his meat and drink; for of any other he had as little regard and made as little use, as was well possible to flesh and blood. He that had writ so irrefragably for the fasts of the church, kept them as rigidly himself.' Jenkin (ibid. 656 l. 15) to the same effect: 'Quadragesimae assertor invictissimus prope continuum sibi indixit ieiunium.'

P. 27 l. 9. Obey the precepts of the gospel, and follow it's counsels as thou canst. This distinction between precepts which all must obey, and evangelical counsels (or counsels of perfection) which are an optional means of higher perfection, is found already in Hermas and Origen; its advocates quote e.g. 1 Cor. 7 6 and 25. Bellarmin (II de monach. 7 and 8, in Rud. Hofmann, Symbolik, Leipz. 5 1857, p. 63, cf. 161, 375) defines such a counsel as ‘opus bonum, a Christo nobis non imperatum, sed demonstratum, non mandatum, sed commendatum.’ The principal counsels are celibacy, poverty, and obedience to a religious superior. The doctrine of works of supererogation 10 was the natural development of this distinction, which is condemned in our 13th article, in the Augustan confession art. 20 and its apology, and by all protestant disputants, from Jo. Gerhard Loci theol. xv 9 (vol. VI 159-181 ed. Cotta) to Baur and Nitzsch. See the Romanist Kirchen- 15 Lexikon of Wetzer and Welte (Freiburg 1852) IX 23-30; Herzog’s Real-Encyklopädie für prot. Theologie, Stuttgart 1855 III 119-122, and ind. s. v. consilia; Alex. Hal. Summa pt. IV qu. 23 memb. 5 art. 2; Thomas Aquinas, Summa II I qu. 108 art. 4, II 2 qu. 184 art. 3, III suppl. 20 qu. 25 art. 1; Rothe, theol. Ethik, 1st ed. III 90-3; Hase, Handb. d. prot. Polemik, Leipz. 1862, II 2 § 1; Münscher-Coelln, Dogmengeschichte, Cassel, 1832-4, I 457-8, II 177-8; S. Aug. de sancta virginitate 14. Mosheim cent. 2, pt. 2, c. 3 § 11 seq. traces the connexion between the Christian and 25 the pagan aspirations after an exceptionally ‘religious’ life.

P. 27 l. 20. Humfrey Gower. He was a correspondent of Dennis Granville’s (Granville’s Remains, Surtees Soc. I 212, where is an extract from Abr. de la Pryme’s diary, 30 who entered St. John’s in 1690: ‘Our master, they say, is a mighty high, proud man, but, God be thanked, I know nothing of that as yet by my own experience. His name is Dr. Gower, and it was he that first brought up the having of terms in the college, without the keeping 35 of every one of which we can have no degrees’).

P. 28 l. 13. the president. Thos. Thurlin admitted

- president 26 Mar. 1683 and so on until 11 Mar. 1713-4 (2nd register 79-93; 3rd register 37-8); 'Edmundus Brome surrogatus in locum praesidis huius collegii Aug. 160. 1714, decessore Dre. Thurlin defuncto.' Thos., son
 5 of Thos. Thurlin of Linne Regis merchant, born at Linne and educated in the school there under Mr. Bell, was admitted sizar 3 Febr. 1650-1, aet. 15, tutor Jo. Bowker. B.A. 1654-5. M.A. 1658. B.D. 1665. D.D. 1681. Admitted foundation fellow 17 Mar. 1656-7, sen. fell. 1 Febr.
 10 1675-6. He was 50 years rector of Gaywood,  $\frac{3}{4}$  m. from Lynn (Parkin's hist. Norf. VIII 423-4), where he died 11 Aug. 1714. He has verses in Acad. Cantabr. affectus, 1684-5, sign. D 2, and in Lacrymae Cantabr. 1694-5, sign. B 4; and published The necessity of obedience to spiritual
 15 governors; a visitation serm. on Hebr. xiii. 17. Cambr. 1686. 4to. In MS. Tanner XXII 193 is a letter from him to bp. Jo. Moore, giving an account of his proceedings with Hen. Wake, a quaker, in the matter of tithes. The following book-plate is in many books in the college 20 library, e. g. in Hare's Terence, Lond. 1724.

EX dono THOMAE THURLIN, S.T.P.
 huius coll. per quinquaginta septem annos socii dilectissimi, per triginta praesidis dignissimi :
 qui, novo amoris et gratitudinis exemplo sua pene 25 omnia nobis legavit bona, eaque ad valorem plus-quam mille librarum, quarum ultra trecentas, libris coemendis impendendas, huic bibliothecae dicavit. A.D. 1714.

- P. 28 l. 20. Robert Jenkin. See ind. to Baker's hist.
 30 of St. John's, 1869; he was 'much with bishop Ken in lord Weymouth's family' (Baker, in A Layman's Life of Ken, 98, 662; Dean Granville's Remains, Surtees Soc., II 251-2).
 P. 28 l. 25. Mr. R. Roper.

P. 28 l. 27. Thomas Ken. See Mr. Anderdon's admirable Life of Thomas Ken, 2nd ed., Lond. 1854, 8vo.; verses 'To Thomas lord bishop of Bath and Wells, staying at Winton, after his promotion to that see, 1685,' pp. 12-16 of Poems by Tho. Fletcher, B.A., Lond. 1692. 8vo. 5
Tho. Hearne, Reliqu. Hearnian. 26 Mar. 1711 notes: 'He was a truly good and pious man, and was one of those bishops that were illegally deprived at the late wicked revolution.'

P. 29 l. 3. Lord Weymouth's. Longleat, the seat of 10
Thomas Thynne, visct. Weymouth, had the high honour of giving shelter to Ken after his deprivation. See Mr. Anderdon's ind. under Weymouth.

P. 29 l. 4. Mrs. Thynne. The hon. Mrs. Henry T., of Lewiston near Sherborne, ld. Weymouth's dau. in law, 15
Anderdon, 627, 799, 800, 802.

P. 29 l. 22. At Froome, I think. At Frome-Selwood, where he ordered a plain stone to be laid over him, with this inscription (Anderdon 803): 'May the here interred Thomas, late bp. of Bath and Wells, and uncanonically 20 deprived for not transferring his allegiance, have a perfect consummation of blisse, both in body and soul, at the great day, of which God keep me always mindful.' The injunction was not carried out.

P. 30 l. 9. Mr. Edmondson. Wm., son of Alan Ed- 25
mundson farmer, born at Coalflate, Yorksh., educated at Sedberg school, admitted sizar for John Billers 6 May 1692, aet. 19, tutor Pet. Nourse. B.A. 1695-6. M.A. 1699. B.D. 1706. D.D. 1714; adm. Heblethwaite fellow 12 Apr. 1698; sen. fell. 19 Mar. 1715-6; his successor in the 30 fellowship. adm. 29 Mar. 1737, his place in the seniority filled up 8 Oct. 1736. He was curate of Fen Ditton in 1702 and 1710 (MS. Cole XIX 102 a). He subscribed for Strype's Parker, Peck's Stanford (large paper), Spencer de legg. Hebr., 1727 (large paper). A letter of his to H. 35
Lodge, 18 May 1711, is in the Brit. Mus. Add. 4275 art. 82 (Ayscough).

P. 30 l. 10. a book. See the full title and dedication in Baker's Hist. of St. John's, 1869, pp. 1000-1.

- P. 30 l. 13. Edmund, son of the Rev. Edm. Brome, born at Woodbridge, Suff., where he was educated under 5 Mr. Candler, was adm. pensioner 26 Mar. 1686, aet. 15, tutor John Billers. B.A. 1689-90. M.A. 1693. B.D. 1701; adm. Gregson fell. 16 Mar. 1691-2, sen. fell. 8 Nov. 1708; his successor on the seniority appointed 2 Nov. 1724. A letter of his to Mr. Dwyer, 22 July 1698, is in Brit. Mus.
 10 MS. Add. 4275 n. 32 (Ayscough). His father Edm., son of the Rev. Edm. Brome, born in Middlesex, educated for 3 years at Norwich school by Mr. Loveday, was admitted pensioner of St. John's 24 May 1658, tutor Jas. Chamberlaine. B.A. 1661-2. M.A. 1665; perpetual curate of Wood-
 15 bridge 1666, where he died Apr. 1719, aet. 77 (Edm. Bohun's Autobiography, 5, 39; his character by Bohun in MS. Tanner XXXIV pp. 155, 172;; his petition to Sir John Trevor, master of the rolls, touching the misapplication of the surplus revenue of the almshouses at Woodbridge, 1699, 20 ibid. CXXXVII p. 74). The grandfather, also Edmund Brome, was ejected from the living of S. Repps, Norf. (Calamy Contin. 623).

- P. 30 l. 18. Abednego Seller's book. The good man's preparation for the happy receiving of the blessed sacrament.
 25 Together with an account of the Holy-Passion-Week; and the great festival of Easter. With rules and directions how to fast acceptably; and how to communicate worthily. To which are annexed, particular lessons, prayers, meditations, and anthems, for the several days of those times of strict 30 mortification and holy joy. In two parts. London. 1704. 12mo. Dedicated to Sir Wm. Boothby bart. and his virtuous lady. It is a republication, 'with many alterations, additions, and amendments,' of The devout communicant assisted with rules for the worthy receiving of the 35 blessed sacrament. Lond. 1686. 8vo.

P. 31 l. 5. his will. In MS. Baker XII 190. l. 6. his books. See the book-plate in Baker's Hist. of St. John's 1002 l. 23.

P. 31 l. 13. another who had been his sizer. A mistake. Henry, son of Wm. Gunning deceased, born at Ely, educated at the school there under Mr. Tenant, was entered a pensioner 17 July 1705 aet. 15, tutor Thos. Bosvile. He was nominated Hare exhibitioner by the master each year 5 from 1705-9, both inclusive. B.A. 1709-10. M.A. 1713; adm. Platt fellow 21 Mar. 1710-1, successor adm. 5 Apr. 1715.

P. 32 l. 30. Mr. R. Roper.

P. 34 l. 20. a younger brother. Philip, son of the Rev. 10 Ambrose Bonwick, born at Hedley in Surrey, taught there by his father, was adm. sizar for Drake junr. 26 Apr. 1712, aet. 14, tutor Anstey.

P. 35 l. 26. I do not care you should lye with any other but your brother. See John Strype's letter to his mother, 15 A.D. 1662 from Cambridge (Sir H. Ellis, Letters of eminent literary men, Camd. Soc. 179): 'At my first coming I laid alone; but since, my tutor desired me to let a very clear lad lay with me, and an alderman's son of Colchester, which I could not deny, being newly come: he hath laid 20 with me now for almost a fortnight, and will do till he can provide himself with a chamber. I have been with all my acquaintance, who have entreated me very courteously, especially Jonathan Houghton. I went to his chamber the Friday night I first came, and there he made 25 me stay and sup with him, and would have had me laid with him that night, and was extraordinary kind to me.'

P. 45 l. 23. Questions. The first three are taken, as Nelson says (Festivals and fasts, 1st ed., 1704, 496-7), from the well known lines in the golden verses 40-44, ascribed 30 to Pythagoras (cl. the commentary of Hierocles c. 19):

μηδ' ὕπνον μαλακοῖσιν ἐπ' ὄμμασι προσδέξασθαι, πρὶν τῶν ἡμερινῶν ἔργων λογίσασθαι ἕκαστον· πῇ παρέβην; τί δ' ἔρεξα; τί μοι δέον οὐκ ἐτελέσθη;
ἀρξάμενος δ' ἀπὸ πρώτου ἐπέξιθι· καὶ μετέπειτα 35
δειλὰ μὲν ἐκπρήξας ἐπιπλήσσειο, χρηστά δέ, τέρπευ.

Cf. Cic. de senect. § 38; Diog. Laert. VIII 22; Sen. de ira III 36; Diod. Sic. x 5 § 1; Arrian, Epictet. III 10 §§ 1-4, IV 6 §§ 32-35; Porphy. vit. Pythag. § 40; Plut. de superst. c. 7; de curios. c. 1; Appul. Florid. I c. 6 of the Indian gymnosophists; Hor. sat. I 4 133-8; Clem. Alex. paedag. I 10 p. 154 P. Hieronym. in Rufin. III 39, vol. III col. 566 A Vallarsi, gives the Pythagorean rule thus: duorum temporum maxime habendam curam, mane et vesperi, id est, eorum quae acturi sumus et eorum quae gesserimus. In 10 the famous verses 'de viro bono,' printed as Idyl XVI of Ausonius, we have a version of these rules, 14-17:

*non prius in dulcem declinat lumina somnum, omnia quam longi reputaverit acta diei.
quae praetergressus? quid gestum in tempore? quid non?*
15 cur isti facto decus absuit aut ratio illi? etc.

P. 49 l. 31. all the while I lived with your mother.
Cf. p. 8 l. 27.

P. 53 l. 2. Whitbey's Ethics. Ethices compendium, in usum academicae iuventutis. Authore Daniele Whitby 20 S. T. P. Auctius et emendatius tertio editum. Lond. 1713. 8vo. The copy in St. John's library seems to have been bought by the college, which shews that it was a book in request. First ed. Oxon. 1684. 8vo.

P. 53 l. 3. Thirlby. Styan T. fellow of Jesus coll.
25 An answer to Mr. Whiston's seventeen suspicions of Athanasius in his historical preface. Cambr. 1712. 8vo. Cf. A defence of the answer to Mr. Whiston's suspicions, and an answer to his charge of forgery against St. Athanasius. Cambr. 1713. 8vo. See a memoir in Gent. Mag. 1782,
30 p. 242, Gilb. Wakefield's Memoirs, ed. I p. 69 seq. and the indices to Nichols, Lit. Anecd., and the Tanner MSS. His Justin Martyr was viewed with jealousy at Oxford (Thesaur. epistol. Lacroz. I 375; see Otto's proleg. to his 2nd ed. p. xxxviii). He was of Leicester school (Carlisle I 774).

35 P. 53 l. 3. Burgersdicius's Ethics. Cf. p. 19 l. 14 with n. Idea philosophiae tum moralis, tum naturalis. Sive, epitome compendiosa utriusque ex Aristotele excerpta et methodice disposita. A Mr. Franc. Burgersdicio in academia Lugduno-Batava logices et ethices professore ordinario. Oxonii, excudebat Henr. Hall, Impensis Rob. Blagrave. 1654. 12mo. Also published at Leyden 1623, 1626, 1629, 5 1644, Oxon. 1634, Amst. 1650 etc.

P. 53 l. 4. Stephani Curcellaei synopsis ethices. Tractatus lectu dignissimus. Editio secunda, priori (quoad capitulum summaria) auctior, et longe emendatior. Accessit Henrici Jenkesii Cantabrigiensis praefatio, de natura et 10 constitutione ethicae, praesertim Christianae; eiusque usu et studio: Londini: Excudebat M. C. sumptibus H. Dickinson, bibliopolae Cantabrig. 1684. sm. 8vo. pp. (8) and 133. Recommended in the preface tyronibus academicis, as worth its weight in gold. A third ed. huic postremae editioni 15 annexa est Renati Des-Cartes Ethice. Cantabrigiae, ex officina Johan. Hayes, celeberrimae academiae typographi. 1702. Impensis Edvardi Hall, et Rich. Thurlbourn, bibliopol. Cantab. sm. 8vo. pp. (8) and 133. Renati Des-Cartes ethice, in methodum et compendium, gratia studiosae 20 iuventutis, concinnata. pp. 53, separately paged, but the signatures run on. Etienne de Courcelles, born at Geneva, 2 May 1586, a pupil of Beza's, preacher (1609-34) successively at Fontainebleau, Amiens and Vitry, became a Remonstrant and succeeded Episcopus in his chair at 25 Amsterdam; he died 20 May 1659. He was a warm friend of Descartes (A. J. v. d. Aa, Biograph. Woordenb. der Nederlanden, III 780-3).

P. 53 l. 4. Puffendorf, de officio hominis et civis. Cambr. 1682. 8vo. The two principal works of Sam. v. Pufendorf 30 were long used as text-books in the universities. See Lowndes, Watt and Darling for editions and translations.

P. 53 l. 5. Rob. Sanderson's De iuramenti promissorii obligatione praelectiones septem. Habita in schola theologica Oxon. termino Michaelis A.D. 1646, were printed at Lond. 35 1647. 8vo. (2 editions), 1670, 1676, 1683, 1696, 1719; transl. into english by k. Charles I. Lond. 1655. 8vo.

(Wood-Bliss, Athen. III 627). De obligatione conscientiae praelectiones decem: Oxonii in schola theologica habita A.D. 1647, were printed at Lond. 1660 with a dedication to Rob. Boyle; 1661, 1670, 1676, 1682, 1686, 1710, 1719.

5 Wm. Whewell published the de obligatione conscientiae, with engl. notes and an abridged translation Cambr. 1851 8vo. Cf. Allibone. See more respecting the editions in Jacobson's pref. to Sanderson's Works (Oxf. 1854, 6 vols. 8vo.) pp. ix-xiii. The lectures are printed in vol. IV.

10 P. 53 l. 7. the Aeneis. See p. 19 l. 10. Eustachius. Cf. p. 20 l. 17. Fr. Eustachii a S. Paulo, ex congregatione Fuliensi ordinis Cisterciensis, ethica, sive summa moralis disciplinae, in tres partes divisa. Cum duplici indice locupletissimo. Nunc demum, in gratiam studiosae iuventutis,

15 seorsim edita, et quam plurimis mendis repurgata. Cantabrigiae: ex academiae celeberrimae typographeo, impensis Guilielmi Morden bibliopolae, apud quem venales prostant. 1655. 12mo. pp. (8), 150, (11). Again Lond. 1666. 12mo., 1677. 12mo., 1693. 12mo. 'Ex officina Elizabethae Red-

20 mayne. Prostant venales apud H. Dickinson, E. Hall, bibliopolas Cantabrigienses.' His Summa philosophiae quadripartita, de rebus dialecticis, moralibus, physicis et metaphysicis was printed at Paris. 1609. 2 vols. 8vo. and 1623. 8vo.; Lugd. 1620. 8vo.; Genev. 1638. 8vo.; Cam-
25 bridge 1640. 8vo., and 1649. 8vo.; Lugd. Bat. 1647. 8vo. with pref. by Adr. Heereboord.

P. 53 l. 9. Jer. Collier's essays. Essays upon several moral subjects. In two parts. 3rd. ed. Lond. 1698. 8vo.

In four parts. Vol. I. 6th ed. corrected and enlarged.
30 Lond. 1722. Vol. II. (pt. 3). 4th ed. with large additions. Lond. 1728. Vol. III. (pt. 4). Lond. 1709. Like so many of Bonwicke's favourite authors, Collier was a nonjuror.

P. 53 l. 10. Pindar. Cf. p. 19 l. 17. G. J. Vossius. Rhetorices contractae sive partitionum oratoriarum libri
35 quinque. Lugd. Bat. 1622, '27, '40. Amst. '66. 8vo. Oxon. 1672. 12mo. Elementa Rhetorica. Lond. 1739. 8vo. In vol. III. of his works.

P. 53 l. 11. Grotius. Perhaps in: Institutiones iuris naturae et gentium ex Hugonis Grotii libris de iure belli et pacis excerptae. Catabr. 1703. 12mo. Cf. Tho. Rutherford, Institutes of natural law; being the substance of a course of lectures on Grotius De iure belli ac pacis, read in St. John's college, Cambridge. Lond. 1752-6. 2 vols. 8vo.; a book very highly esteemed in America, where it has been reprinted (Allibone). Wm. Whewell printed Grotius at Cambridge with an abridged translation and notes, 1853. 3 vols. 8vo.

P. 53 l. 12. John Ray. See Memorials of J. R., consisting of his life by Dr. Derham, and notices by Sir J. E. Smith, Cuvier and Dupetit Thouars, with his itineraries etc. ed. by E. Lankester. Lond. 1846. 8vo. Letters printed in Sussex Archæological collections x 13 seq. John Belfour prefixed a biographical preface to his Proverbs, 5th ed., 1813. 8vo. 12s. He was ejected from a Trinity fellowship (Calamy, Account, 87; Contin. 120-2); and says in the pref. to his Wisdom of God: 'By vertue of my function I suspect myself to be obliged to write something in divinity, having written so much on other subjects: For not being permitted to serve the church with my tongue in preaching, I know not but it may be my duty to serve it with my hand by writing. . . . As for this discourse, it is the substance of some common places (so in the university of Cambridge, they call their morning divinity exercises) delivered in Trinity college chapel, when I was fellow of that society; which I have enlarged with the addition of some collections out of what hath been since written by the forementioned authors [Hen. More, Ra. Cudworth, Edw. Stillingfleet, bp. Sam. Parker, Rob. Boyle] upon my subject.' The book is dedicated to lady Lettice Wendy of Wendy, Cambs., 'because I owe it to the liberality of your honoured brother, that I have this leisure to write any thing.' In early life he called himself Wray: Jo. Wray coll. Trin. quadrantarius admissus in matriculam acad. Cant. Apr. 10, 1647. Johan. Wray A.M. coll. Trin. soc. has a copy of verses to Oliver Cromwell in

- Oliva pacis. Cantabr.* 1654. 4to. He was Dr. Duport's pupil. See Duport's Sylvae, p. 395' (Baker). See Weekly Memorials for the ingenious, 1683. 4to. n. 24. Gods wijsheid geopenb. in de werken der scheppinge, uit het Eng.
- 5 Amst. 1765. and again 1769; 2 pts. 8vo. A supplement by P. J. Loosjes: Beschouwing van de werken der natuur. Amst. 1768. 8vo. Z. C. v. Uffenbach had admired the book as a student, and began to translate it shortly before his death, but abandoned his task on ascertaining that fr.
- 10 and germ. translations (the latter with Calvoer's elaborate commentary) had already appeared (Schelhorn, Vita Z. Conradi ab Uffenbach, before Selecta commercii epistolaris Uffenbachiani, Ulm 1753, p. xxxviii). Ray is now best known to general readers by this admirable piece, which
- 15 has been popular since the time of its first appearance in 1691. See Watt, Biogr. Brit., Lowndes, Allibone, Grasse, Trésor and Lehrbuch III (2) 644-5.

- P. 53 l. 13. Allingham. This book, which seems to be scarce, is in St. John's library. A short account of the
- 20 nature and use of maps. As also some short discourses of the division of the earth into zones, climes and parallels; with the properties of the several inhabitants thereof. To which is subjoined a catalogue of the factories and places now in possession of the English, French, Dutch, Spanish,
- 25 Portugueze and Danes, both in the East and West Indies. With several tables very useful in geography and Navigation. By William Alingham, teacher of the mathematicks in Channel-Row, Westminster. London: Printed by R. Janeway, for Benj. Barker at the White-Hart in West-
- 30 minster-Hall. 1703. 8vo. pp. (8), 85. Dedicated to Wm. Duncomb esq. of Battlesdown, Beds., as an acknowledgement of many favours. Advertisement at the end: 'At the house, late the lord Weymouth's, in Channel-Row, Westminster, are taught the mathematicks in all its parts;
- 35 also youth boarded, land survey'd, timber measur'd, and dials delineated, by the author.' Another book of Alingham's, there advertised by the same publisher: An

epitomy of geometry, containing the principal theorems of Euclid's first, third, fifth, sixth, eleventh and twelfth books, with their uses and applications, digested in a method fit to be read by all such who would, in a short time, lay a foundation for the most required parts of the mathematicks. Also 5 Euclid's second book, and doctrine of proportion, algebraically demonstrated. To which is annexed, a treatise of measuring superficies and solids, vulgarly, decimally and practically; with the customs now used by artificers in measuring their several works. Likewise directions for 10
measuring board and timber; making vessels of any bigness; taking the plan of any court, yard, garden etc. Also, the cutting and measuring the five Platonick bodies. Of great use to all that would found their mechanick practices on the unerring principles of geometry. More particularly 15 for all engineers, gunners, mariners, gaugers, surveyors, measurers, artificers etc. Watt (under Allingham) cites a later edition ed. Lond. 1714. 12mo.; also Method of fortification. Lond. 1702. 8vo. 2s.; Treatise of arithmetic. Lond. 1710. 8vo. Alingham also revised and corrected 20
John Taylor's Thesaurarium mathematicae. Lond. 1707. 8vo. (Brit. Mus.).

P. 53 l. 13. Euripides. No doubt in the following edition: Euripidis tragoediae Medea et Phoenissae, graecolatinae cum scholiis graecis integris; nonnullis nunc pri- 25
mum editis. Quarum prior ex collatione H. Stephani, posterior Hug. Grotii et MS. C. C. C. Cantabrig. cum commentario, variis lectionibus, atque indice locupletissimo. Accessit eiusdem vita iam denuo conscripta. Studio et opera Wilhel. Piers, coll. Emman. Soc. Cantabrigiae, 30
typis academicis, impensis Sam. Smith et. Beni. Walford, ad insignia Principis in coemeter. D. Pauli Londini. A.D. MDCCIII. 8vo. pp. (40), 392, with portrait of Euripides.
'Si typorum elegantiam mireris, gratias merito ingentes habeto illustrissimo principi Carolo duci Somersetensium, 35 munificentissimo nostrae academiae cancellario, cui cordi est nostrum, imo suum denuo revixisse typographeum.

- Horum [Grotii et Stephani] ubique fere institi vestigiis, non mediocriter adiutus manuscripto fab. Phoenissarum qui asservatur in collegio Corp. Christi, cuius mihi copiam fecit, et cui plurimum debes, Mr. Io. Waller dignissimus
- 5 eiusdem collegii socius. Illius exemplar Grotianum Parisiis editum anno superioris saeculi xxx<sup>o</sup>. . . humanissimus bibliothecae publ. praefectus [Io. Laughton] e propriis amice et benevole, ut semper solet, mecum communicavit.' The preface is dated Emm. coll. 3 Nov. 1702.
- 10 Wm. Piers B.A. Emm. 1684-5. Pierse M.A. 1688. B.D. 1695. rect. of N. Cadbury when he subscribed for 2 copies of Richardson's Godwin in 1743. He has verses in Lacrym. Cantabr. 1694-5. f. K 4 verso. See on his Euripides the Acta erud. 1704, 355; Le Clerc, Biblioth. choisie, XI 276.
- 15 S. F. W. Hoffmann calls it a correct ed. It was published at 4s. large paper 26s. (see Knight's Life of Colet, 491). Verses by one Wm. Pierse in Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 112.

- P. 53 l. 18. Sallust. The ed. of Jos. Wasse was published at Cambridge 1710. 4to. l. 19-20. Cf. p. 19 l. 31
- 20 seq. l. 20, 21. Suetonius. Pliny. Cf. p. 19 l. 19. Pliny was published at Oxf. 1677, and (by Tho. Hearne) 1703, 8vo. The numerous editions of several english translations shew the popularity of this author during the 18th century.
- l. 24. Telemachus. Cf. pp. 34 l. 17, 54 l. 27. l. 25.
- 25 Hierocles. Cf. p. 21 l. 22.

- P. 53 l. 28. Catilinarian etc. The speeches here named are all comprised in M. Tullii Ciceronis orationum selectarum liber. Editus in usum scholarum Hollandiae et West-Frisiae. . . . Lond. Typis E. Cotes, pro Iohanne
- 30 Pierrepoint. 1667. 12mo. Probably also in the editions bearing the same title Lond. 1675, '79, '86. 8vo.; and certainly in Orationes quaedam selectae cum interpr. et notis, quas in usum Delph. edidit P. Carolus de Merouville. Quibus praefigitur vita Ciceronis per annos consulares di-
- 35 gesta. Adiiciuntur in tres oratt. notae quaedam ex Asconio, P. Manutio cet. decerptae. Cantabrigiae, Io. Hayes, 1692 and 1699. 8vo. Lond. 1706, '14, '22, 8vo.

P. 53 l. 29. Laur. Echard's Roman history. Cf. p. 106 l. 5. Several editions of this book appeared, one as late as 1735, in 5 vols. 8vo. It was translated into fr. by Desfontaines, Paris, 1730-6. 12 vols. 12mo. His History of England may still be consulted with advantage. See 5 Biograph. Brit., Lowndes, Calamy's Own Times II 395 seq., Life of Is. Milles 64, 152. He died 3 Sept. 1730 (Hist. Reg. Chronol. p. 57).

P. 53 l. 30. Howell's Epistles. These inimitable letters will soon be accessible in Mr. Arber's reprint. See an 10 anecdote of Jas. H. in Sir K. Digby's Discourse of the powder of sympathy. 1659.

ibid. Jas. Tyrrell. A brief disquisition of the law of nature, according to the principles and method laid down in the reverend Dr. Cumberland's (now lord bishop of Peter- 15 borough's) latin treatise on that subject. As also his confutations of Mr. Hobbs's principles put into another method. With the right reverend author's approbation. London: Printed, and are to be sold by Richard Baldwin, near the Oxford-Arms in Warwick-Lane. 1692. 8vo. pp. (100), 396. 20 2nd ed. 1701. 8vo. Dedicated to bp. Ri. Cumberland, of whose treatise Tyrrell had made an epitome on its first publication, for his own better remembrance and as an introduction to ethics for some near relations of his. Rob. Boyle and some other friends urged him to print the book. 25 All that was new in bp. Parker's Demonstration of the laws of nature borrowed from Cumberland. Tyrrell has added some notes from modern travellers concerning the customs of barbarians; and others from bp. Jo. Wilkins, Hen. More, and John Locke. Bp. Cumberland's letter to 30 the bookseller, consenting to the publication, begins: 'The learned authour of this treatise sent it to me (then being in a private station) above a year ago, but then concealed his name from me, either through his great modesty, or because in his prudence he thought that if I knew him, I might 35 be biassed in my judgement, by the honour which I am obliged to have to his family, and especially to his grandfather by his mother's side, the most learned primate of Ireland' [James Ussher]. The 'learned and judicious' Jas. Tyrrell, was son of Sir Timothy (Parr's Life of Ussher, pp. 58, 98). He induced Tho. Smith to write his 5 Vita Usserii (praef. v, viii). See Wood-Bliss, Athen. iv 520; Biogr. Brit.

P. 54 l. 1. Clerk's Physics. The translation of Rohault by Sam. Clarke. See p. 65 l. 10 n.

ibid. Cheyne. Philosophical principles of religion:
10 natural and revealed: In two parts. 'Part I. Containing the elements of natural philosophy and the proofs of natural religion arising from them. The second edition corrected and enlarged. Part II. Containing the nature and kinds of infinites; their arithmetick and uses: together with the 15 philosophick principles of reveal'd religion. Now first publish'd. By George Cheyne, M.D. and F.R.S. London: Printed for George Strahan at the Golden Ball in Cornhill, over against the Royal Exchange. MDCCXV. 8vo. pp. (32), 360, (24), 188. Dedicated, as ed. I of part I. had been 20 in 1705, to John d. of Roxburgh. The author had 'been often solicited to give orders for another edition of this work, for the use of the younger students of philosophy, who while they were taught the most probable account of the appearances of nature from the modern discoveries,
25 might thereby have the principles of natural religion insensibly instill'd into them at the same time . . . I had seen the observations and corrections, the late ingenious and learned Dr. [David] Gregory, Savilian professor of astronomy at Oxford, had made on the former edition of 30 this part. I had some remarks from the reverend and learned Mr. John Craig; as also some very judicious reflections from a gentleman at Cambridge ['Dr. Brook Taylor', ms. note in copy in St. John's library], who conceals his name.' The author is now chiefly remembered 35 for his singular experiments in diet. See Biogr. Brit. with addenda in vol. iv.; Burton's Life of David Hume i 42-8; Keble's Life of bp. Wilson, 923 seq.

P. 54 l. 8. the former excerpta. Cf. p. 19 l. 27.

P. 54 l. 10. his former method. Cf. p. 20 l. 20 seq.
l. 11. the version of Musaeus. The metrical latin version of Musaeus, Bion and Moschus, by David Whitford, Lond. 1655, 4to., and 1659, 4to. was highly esteemed. 5

P. 54 l. 13. De Rep. ordinanda. The περὶ συντάξεως is the first speech in a selection printed at London in 1672 and 1686, 12mo. l. 20. Quintilian. The title of the first of the declamations which go by his name is Paries palmatus. The ed. used by Bonwicke would be that of 10 Oxf. 1675 or 1692. 8vo. both of which contain also the dialogue on the causes of corrupt eloquence, which he had read (p. 19 l. 20).

P. 54 l. 27. Telemachus. Cf. p. 53 l. 24.

P. 54 l. 31. a small tract of bishop Joseph Henshaw's. 15
See Wood-Bliss, Athen. III 1195, IV 861. Bp. Kennett's account of him (MS. Lansd. 987 art. 99) is printed from MS. Baker XXVI 371 in Notes and Qu., ser. 2, x 161. As a sufferer for Charles I., the author would have a special attraction for Bonwicke's 'best friend', Fras. Roper. 20

P. 55 l. 19. formerly. Cf. p. 32 l. 10.

P. 55 l. 30. John Newcome. Afterwards master; see ind. to Baker's Hist. of St. John's, 1869. Tacquet's Euclid. See Whiston's Memoirs 131: 'In March 1702-3 I published my third book, which was Tacquet's Euclid, with 25 select theorems of Archimedes, and with the addition of practical corollaries, in Latin; for the use of young students in the university. The second edition was printed at Cambridge by Mr. Crownfield, for Mr. Thurlborn and Mr. Dickenson, A.D. 1710. It was also put into English 30 at London, from the second edition, under my own review. The price of my own edition in 8vo. was 4s. Now it was the accidental purchase of Tacquet's own Euclid at an auction, that occasioned my first application to the mathematics, wherein Tacquet was a very clear writer.' André 35
Tacquet was born at Antwerp 23 June 1612 and died there 23 Dec. 1660. He taught first classics for five years, then mathematics for 15 years, at Louvain and Antwerp. See De Backer, Biblioth. des écrivains de la compagnie de Jésus. Liège 1854. 11615-7, where many editions, english and foreign, are cited. See also Watt and Lowndes, under Euclid.

- 5 The full title is : V. Cl. Andreae Tacquet soc. Iesu sacerdotis et matheseos professoris elementa Euclidea geometriæ planæ ac solidæ; et selecta ex Archimede theoremata. Editionem primam Cantab. adornavit plurimisque corollariis, varios propositionum usus exhibentibus illustravit, et schemata XL addidit Gulielmus Whiston, A.M. nuperus matheseos professor Lucasianus. Editio tertia, prioribus multo auctior: cui accedunt complura nova schemata aeri incisa. Cantabrigiæ, impensis Corn. Crownfield, celeberrimæ academiciæ typographi; et Iacobi Knapton; bibliopolæ Londinensis, ad insigne Coronæ in coemeterio D. Pauli. MDCCXXII. 8vo. pp. (22), 330. Whiston's preface is dated 3 Cal. Mart. 1702-3. He acknowledges obligations to De Chales, Barrow, Pardies, Sturm, and Is. Newton.

- P. 55 l. 31. Rohault's Physics. Cf. p. 54 l. 1. Iacobi Rohaulti physica. Latine reddidit, et annotiunculis quibusdam illustravit S. Clarke A.B. C.G.C.C. Accessit index rerum et phaenomenorum præcipuorum. Lond. impensis Iacobi Knapton. 1697. 8vo. pp. (32), 184, 262. Dedicated to John Moore, bp. of Norwich. Iacobi Rohaulti
- 25 Physica. Latine vertit, recensuit, et uberioribus iam adnotationibus, ex illustrissimi Isaaci Newtoni philosophia maximam partem haustis, amplificavit et ornavit Samuel Clarke A.M. admodum reverendo in Christo patri, Ioanni episcopo Norwicensi a sacris domesticis. ibid. 1702. 8vo. pp. (32)
- 30 263, 119, 102, (14). Editio tertia, in qua annotationes sunt dimidia parte auctiores, additæque octo tabulae aeri incisæ. ibid. 1710. 8vo. pp. (32), 495, (17). Clarke is described as regiae maiestati a sacris; he acknowledges his obligations in the preface: 'permulta doctissimo et
- 35 in his rebus exercitatissimo viro Ricardo Laughton; nec non domino Carolo Morgan, reverendo admodum episcopo Eliensi nunc a sacris domesticis; debere me gratus fateor.

Quorum prior, multa sparsim communicavit, plurima correxit; posterioris, integrae sunt dissertationes sex.' A fourth edition was published in 1718: accedunt etiam in hac quarta editione novae aliquot tabulae aeri incisae, et annotationes multum sunt auctae. In the catalogue of 5 Queens' library occurs an ed. Lond. 1750. John Clarke, dean of Salisbury, translated Rohault with his brother's notes into English. 2 vols. Lond. 1735. 8vo. Tyrrell's dedication of his Disquisition of the laws of nature: 'Thus Monsieur Rohault's abridgement of Des Cartes's philosophy 10 .....[has] been received with general applause, not only by all ingenious men of the French, but also of our own nation, who understand that language.' Hoadly's pref. to Sam. Clarke's works: 'The philosophy of Des Cartes was then the established philosophy of that uni- 15 versity; and the system of nature hardly allowed to be explained any otherwise than by his principles: which, at best, were evidently no more than the inventions of a very ingenious and luxuriant fancy; having no foundation in the reality of things, nor any correspondency 20 to the certainty of facts. His tutor himself [afterwards Sir Jo. Ellis], though a learned man, and for ever to be honoured for his conscientious care of all under him, was a zealot for this philosophy; and as he was most diligent in reading to his pupils, without doubt gave them 25 the most favourable impressions of what he had so closely embraced himself; and but little encouragement to strike out any light in another way of thinking. The great Sir Isaac Newton had indeed then published his Principia. But this book was but for the few; both the manner and 30 matter of it placing it out of the reach of the generality even of learned readers: and strong prejudice, in favour of what had been received, working against it. But neither the difficulty of the task, nor the respect he paid to the director of his studies; nor the warmth and pre- 35 judice of all around him, had any effect upon his mind. Not at all satisfied therefore with hypotheses arbitrarily adapted to appearances, he set himself immediately to the study of what was real and substantial: and in this study he made such uncommon advances, that he was presently master of the chief parts of the Newtonian philosophy; and, in order to his first degree, performed a public exercise in the schools, upon a question taken from thence, which surprized the whole audience, both for the accuracy of knowledge, and clearness of expression, that appeared through the whole. Such an example could not but be of great use, to animate all around him. But he was not content with the service he could do to true philosophy, by his example only. As soon as he had taken that first degree, young as he was, he made an effort for the service of the students, which ought not to be forgotten. The system of natural philosophy then generally taught in the university, was that written by Mons. Rohault; entirely founded on the Cartesian principles; and very ill translated into latin. [The translation of Th. Bonet, Genev. 1674. 8vo. was republished at London 'cum animadversionibus Antonii le Grand' in 1682. 8vo. with a dedication to Thomas Short, M.D.]. He justly thought that philosophical notions might be express'd in pure latin: and if he had gone no farther than this, he would have merited of all those who were to draw their knowledge out of that book. But his aim was much higher than the making a better translation of it. He resolved to add to it such notes, as might lead the young men insensibly, and by degrees, to other and truer notions than what could be found there. And this certainly, was a more prudent method of introducing truth unknown before, than to attempt to throw aside this treatise entirely, and write a new one instead of it. The success answered exceedingly well to his hopes: and he may justly be stiled a great benefactor to the university, in this attempt. For by this means the true philosophy has without any noise prevailed: and to this day his translation of Rohault is, generally speaking, the standing text for lectures; and his notes the first direction to those who are willing to receive the reality and truth of things in the place of invention and romance. And thus before he was much above twenty years old, he furnished the students with a system of knowledge, which has been ever since, and still continues to be, a publick benefit to all who have the happiness of a liberal and learned education in that university.' Wm. Whiston's Memoirs of Dr. S. Clarke. Lond. 1730. 8vo. pp. 5-8: 'About the year 1697, while I was chaplain to Dr. John Moor, then bishop of Norwich, I met at one of the coffee-houses in the Market-place of Norwich, a young man, to me then wholly unknown, his name was Clarke, pupil to that eminent and careful tutor, Mr. Ellis, of Gonvil and Caius college in Cambridge. Mr. Clarke knew me so far at the university, I being about eight years elder than himself, and so far knew the nature and success of my studies, as to enter into a conversation with me, about that system of Cartesian philosophy, his tutor had put him to translate; I mean Rohault's Physicks; and to ask my opinion about the fitness of such a translation. I well remember the answer I made him; that "Since the youth of the university must have, at present, some system of natural philosophy for their studies and exercises; and since the true system of Sir Isaac Newton was not yet made easy enough for that purpose; it was not improper, for their sakes, yet to translate and use the system of Rohault, [who was esteemed the best expositor of Des Cartes,] but that as soon as Sir Isaac Newton's philosophy came to be better known, that only ought to be taught, and the other dropp'd." Which last part of my advice, by the way, has not been follow'd, as it ought to have been, in that university: but, as bishop Hoadley truly observes, Dr. Clarke's Rohault is still the principal book for the young students there. Though such an observation be no way to the honour of the tutors in that university, who in reading Rohault, do only read a philosophical romance to their pupils, almost perpetually contradicted by the better notes thereto belonging. And certainly, to use Cartesian fictitious hypotheses at this time of day, after the principal parts of Sir Isaac Newton's certain system have been made easy enough for the understanding of ordinary mathematicians, is like the continuing to eat old acorns, after the discovery of new wheat, for the food of mankind. However, upon this occasion, Mr. Clarke and I fell into a discourse about the wonderful discoveries made in Sir Isaac Newton's philosophy. And the result of that discourse was, that I was greatly surpriz'd, that so young a man as Mr. Clarke then was, not much, I think, above twenty-two years of age, should know so much of those sublime discoveries, which were then almost a secret to all, but to a few particular mathematicians. Nor did I remember above one or two, at the most, whom I had then met with, that seemed to know so much of that philosophy, as Mr. Clarke. Of which conversation I gave an account to my patron, the bishop, as soon as I was returned to the palace: and farther told him what I had learned, that the young man's father was an alderman of that city: whose most excellent character also was soon known, and which character recommended him so to the citizens of Norwich, that they chose him without, nay, against his own inclination, to represent them in parliament. Bishop Moor, who ought to have that justice done his memory, that he was ever ambitious of being, and of being esteemed a patron of learning, and learned men, immediately desired me to invite alderman Clarke and his son to the palace, to see me: taking care, at the same time, that they should be handsomely entertain'd by me there. They were by me both invited, and they both came down to the palace together accordingly. And then it was that I had the opportunity of first introducing Mr. Clarke into the bishop's acquaintance, which proved the happy occasion of that great favor and friendship which was ever afterward shewed him by the bishop, which he highly deserv'd at his hands ; and which procured him at first St. Bennet's Paul's-wharf, and at last to be made both chaplain to queen Anne, and rector of St. James's. Jacques Rohault, born at Amiens in 1620, died at Paris 1675 and was buried in the Sainte-Geneviève, by the side of Descartes. 5

A barometer, invented by him, is still known as the chambre de Rohault.

P. 56 l. 1. *De Chales. The Elements of Euclid explain'd, in a new, but most easie method. Together with the use of every proposition through all parts of the mathe- 10 maticks. Written in French by that excellent [sic] mathematician, F. Claud. Francis Milliet de Chales, of the society of Jesus. And now carefully done into English, and purg'd from a multitude of errors, which had escap'd in the original. Oxford, Printed by L. Lichfield, printer to 15 the university, for Anthony Stephens, bookseller near the theater in Oxford. 1685. 8vo. [contains bks. I-VI. XI. XII.] pp. (4), 380. 2nd ed. Lond. 1696. Other editions, fr. Paris 1677, engl. Oxf. 1685, 1700, 1704 all 12mo. See Watt and Lowndes under Euclid. De Challes was born 20 at Chambéri in 1621, taught classics and rhetoric for nine years, was for sometime a missionary in Turkey; then professor of hydrography at Marseilles; he then taught at Lyons philosophy for four years, mathematics for seven, theology for five; lastly he was rector of the college of 25 Chambéri and died at Turin 28 March 1678 (De Backer, Biblioth. des écrivains de la compagnie de Jésus, Liège, 1854, II 115-7, where many editions are cited).*

P. 58 l. 22. coffee house. Fifty years later Wm. Paley (Memoirs by Meadley, Edinb. 1810, pp. 16-7) used to spend 30 his evenings when an undergraduate 'at a coffee-house in Trumpington Street, kept by one Dockerell; a house of character, and frequented more by fellows and masters of arts than by undergraduates. This coffee-house retained its character for many years: the masters of arts used to 35 occupy the upper, the bachelors and undergraduates the lower parts of the room.' So, as tutor of his college, he went at nine o'clock (p. 70) 'to supper at Dockerell's coffee-house, or elsewhere.'

P. 59 l. 3. Ken's Winchester manual. Cf. p. 10 l. 20.

P. 60 l. 14. once before. Cf. p. 23 l. 23 seq.

5 P. 62 l. 15. his brother. Third register p. 258: 'Electio discipulorum Iulii 10, 1713. Ego Philippus Bonwicke Surriensis iuratus et admissus sum in discipulum huius collegii pro domina fundatrice ad officium pulsatoris campanae decessore [Sam.] Lisle.'

10 P. 62 l. 24. Mr. R. Roper. l. 25. Mr. B. Given in full, Browne, both here and below, in Nichols, Lit. Anecd. v 140-1. If Nichols went upon conjecture, a more probable guess would be Baker, as the two Bonwicks held Baker exhibitions, and Tho. Baker had the right of 15 disposing of them during his life (Masters xii, 102).

P. 62 l. 27. another exhibition. Third register, p. 506: 'Exhibitionarii Iulii 4<sup>to</sup>, 1712. Bonwick senr. electus exhib. pro M<sup>ro</sup> Baker.' P. 509. 'Exhibitionarii electi Nov. 2, 1713. Bonwick iunr. pro M<sup>ro</sup> Baker decessore 20 M<sup>ro</sup> [Io.] Baker.' Neither of the Bonwicks held a Hare exhibition.

P. 64 l. 8, 12, 14, 26. Mr. B. Browne or Baker.
l. 25, 28. Mr. R. Roper.

P. 65 l. 9. Suicer. Ioh. Hen. Suiceri, linguae graecae
25 in Athenaeo Tigurino professoris, compendium physicae Aristotelico-Cartesianae, in usum tironum methodo erotemata adornatum. Accedit breve et succinctum theoreticae philosophiae theatrum: editio altera, recognita et emendata. Amst. apud. Henr. Wetstenium. Prostant venales apud
30 Guil. Graves, bibliop. Cantab. 1695. 12mo. In a singular dedication Henr. Wetstein confesses that he had purloined the MS. 'En Tibi, SUICERE CLARISSIME, tractatum illum tuum, quem ego cum nuperius ad Te inviserem, Te inscio atque inconsulto manu scriptum mecum abstuli.'

35 Joh. Heinr., son of Joh. Caspar Suicer author of the well-known thesaurus ecclesiasticus, was born 6 Apr. 1644, succeeded his father as greek prof. at Zurich, and died

23 Sept. 1705. The historia vitae et obitus J. H. Suiceri was published by Joh. Rod. Wolph in 1745.

P. 65 l. 10. Rohault's Physics. Cf. p. 55 l. 31. Derham. Wm. Derham's Physico-theology; or, a demonstration of the being and attributes of God from his works of creation, being the substance of sixteen sermons preached in St. Mary-le-Bow church, London, at the hon. Mr. Boyle's lectures in the years 1711 and 1712. Lond. 1714. 8vo. (the third ed. within a year). Reviews are cited in I. A. Fabricii Dilectus argumentorum etc. Hamb. 1725, p. 292; there is a notice of him in Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 142-3, and an account of his life and writings is prefixed to the ed. of his Boyle lectures published in 1798, 2 vols. 8vo.; a letter by him in Sir H. Ellis, Letters of eminent literary men 315. He offered to procure the election of Fabricius as fellow of the Royal society (Fabricii Vita 68, cf. 173-4). His Astro-theology and Physico-theology have been translated into dutch by A. van Loon, Leyden 1728, 1739, 1742, 4to. etc.; into germ. by Fabricius 1741 and 1750 etc.; into fr. by Bellanger, E. Bertrand and Lafneu, last printed in Migne's Démonstrations évangéliques VIII; also into danish, italian, swedish. See Allibone, the Bodl. Catal., Watt, Lowndes; Höfer, Biogr. générale; Quérard, La France littéraire.

P. 65 l. 11. Hughes. *S. Ioannis Chrysostomi de sacerdotio libri vi. graece et latine quibus dissertationes quaedam praemisit contra librum falso inscriptum, ecclesiae Christianae iura vindicata, notasque adiecit Ioannes Hughes A.M. collegii Iesu Cantab. socius. Editio altera priore illa emendatior et auctior. Accessit S. Gr. Nazianzeni eiusdem sedis archi-episcopi, de eodem argumento conscripta, oratio apologetica. Opera S. Thirlby, A.B. eiusdem collegii alumni. Cantabrigiae, typis academicis impensis Edm. Ieffery, bibliopolae Cantabr. MDCCXII. 8vo. pp. (12, title; dedication to Dr. Charles Ashton, master of Jesus; 'lector benevolo s.' by Styan Thirlby, the editor of the 2nd ed., published after the death of Hughes; 'Iuventuti*

- academicae, iis praesertim, qui rei theologiae aut operam dant, aut sunt daturi'), 160 ('Dissertationes quaedam prooemiales: in quibus auctoritas ecclesiastica, quatenus a civili est distincta, explicatur et defenditur; obiectiones
- 5 Erastianorum, quae sese offerunt, diluuntur: praesertim vero nuperi cuiusdam scriptoris, qui de ecclesiae Christianae iuribus librum edidit'), 456. The first ed., published at Cambridge in 1710, met with rare success. See Walch, Bibl. Patrist.; letters between Hughes and some friends in
- 10 Gent. Mag. 1778, 583, 621; ibid. 1783, 412. In Dr. Geo. Hickes' Two treatises on the Christian priesthood, ed. Anglo-Cath. libr. Oxf. 1848, III 283 seq. Hughes' preliminary dissertation is translated; the translation (by Hilkiah Bedford) was first published in 1711, 8vo. In 1712
- 15 Hughes published an Essay towards further evidence of our Saviour's divinity, 8vo. He gave evidence against Wm. Whiston (Whiston's Append. to his Historical preface I, 3 seq.) and died 18 Nov. 1710 (inscription in Le Neve, Monum. Anglicana, 1615-1718, 239).
- 20 P. 65 l. 12. Henry Hammond. Cf. p. 106 l. 16. Many of his letters are printed in 'Illustrations of the state of the church during the rebellion' (in various numbers of the Theologian and ecclesiastic); also in Brit. Mag. x 678 seq.; nineteen were printed by Fr. Peck in 1739. He
- 25 wrote 'a letter to the publisher' for The gentleman's calling [by lady Packington?], Lond. 1660. See the indices to Sanderson's Works and the Tanner MSS.; lives in The Christian's mag. III 99-108 and in Teale's Lives of English divines, 1846. On his living of Penshurst see Ms. Baker
- 30 XXVII 432, Calamy Contin. 281; subdean of Ch. Ch. Calamy Acc. 699; his letters to Cheynell, ibid. 676. Verses to him by Thos. Washbourne in his Poems 1654 (repr. by Grosart 1868 pp. 218-9). Cf. Allibone.
- P. 65 l. 19. Sir Norton Knatchbull. On his library,
- 55 his notes on the N. T. and his share in the Polyglot, see Duport's Musae subsec. 262, 295, 309; his son John, Duport's pupil, ibid. 313; he founded the school at

Ashford, Kent (Life of Dr. Rt. Warren, before his Sermons, 1739, p. iii seq.); the autograph MS. of his Annotationes in libros Novi Testamenti paradoxae orthodoxae is in Cambr. MS. Gg iv 20 art. 3. The book was printed Lond. 1659. Oxf. 1677. Amst. 1694. 8vo. Engl. by the author Anno- 5
tations upon some difficult texts in all the books of the N. T. Cambr. 1693. 8vo.

P. 65 l. 20. French. Cf. pp. 34 l. 8, 53 l. 24, 54 l. 26.

P. 65 l. 22. Lutrin. The Oxford reprint retains the blunder Latin. 10

P. 66 l. 3. while the coaches continued to go through in a day. Cf. p. 115 l. 2. Cooper's Annals of Cambridge III 463 'From Chamberlayne's Angliae Notitia, 1671, it appears that the coaches from London to Cambridge performed the journey in 12 hours, "not counting the time 15 for dining, setting forth not too early and coming in not too late." In the early part of Geo. II.'s reign, especially in the winter season, although the coaches had six horses, they were frequently two days in performing the journey hence to London.' 20

P. 67 l. 10. singing bishop Ken's Morning Hymn as soon as he awaked. See Anderdon's Life of Ken, ed. 2, p. 115: 'Ken exhorts the Winchester scholars to "be sure to sing the Morning and Evening Hymn in their chamber devoutly." He means that they should say them in bed, 25 the first thing on waking, and the last on going to sleep.'

P. 68 l. 3. This exercise. Cf. the puritan exercise of 'repetition.' Autobiogr. of Matt. Robinson, Cambr. 1856, p. 63 n. See Sam. Clarke's Lives of 32 divines, 1677, fol. p. 197: 'the particular fellows[of Queens' under Herb. Palmer] 30
..., beside the instruction of their pupils in learning, caused them to come to their chambers to prayers every night, and to repetition of sermons on the Lord's day.' P. 290: 'on Sabbaths in the evening the sermon, which he [abp. Ussher] had preached in the forenoon, was repeated in 35 his chappel by one of his chaplains.' P. 314: 'Master [Stephen] Goffe [of Magd. coll. Oxf.] having thus received him [Rob. Harris] into his charge, required him that with the rest of his fellow-pupils he should joyn in reading the scriptures, repetition of sermons, and prayer.' P. 331: 'His [Rob. Harris]' custome was, presently after he had 5 heard a sermon, to write down the heads thereof, and he scarce either forgat or misplaced any of them. Upon fast-nights he would by the strength of his memory repeat two, sometimes three, sermons that he had heard that day, in the same order as they were delivered.' P. 394:

 10 'He [Ignatius Jurdaine] was a constant writer of sermons, even when he was old, and that, not for his own benefit alone, but for the good of his family, to whom he did constantly repeat the sermons.' Cf. pp. 149, 162, 190, 237.

P. 69 l. 8. Great Bookham. Manning and Bray, 15 Surrey, 1809, II 688 (speaking of Bagdon farm, Gt. Bookham): 'About 30 years ago an earthen vessel was ploughed up, containing about a peck of small roman brass coins, chiefly of Galliennus, and some of the later emperors.' James Bonwicke in his will bequeathed his 20 cabinet of coins to Wm. Bowyer, who bequeathed it again to Dr. Wm. Heberden.

P. 70 l. 10. SOLI INVICTO COMITI. An inscription found on the coins both of Constantine the great and of his son of the same name (Rasche II 849, 855).

25 P. 72 l. 11. as the philosophers have discovered an acceleration of the motion of heavy bodies in their descent towards the earth, the same we may suppose in the ascent of a pious soul towards heaven. A common comparison. Autobiogr. of Matt. Robinson, Cambr. 1856, 69: 'he 30 preached to his people as diligently as ever, and more earnestly and fervently, his motions being all velociiores in fine, when drawing near unto the centre.' Tho. Fuller, The holy state bk. IV c. 10 p. 276, Cambr. 1648, fol. 'The motion of piety in him [St. Augustine], by custome now 35 made naturall, was velocior in fine, daily breathing out most pious ejaculations.' Leighton's Works, ed. West, 1870, v 273: 'the nearer things are to their accomplishment, the more, usually, the Lord excites the hopes and prayers of his people about them, and they pray the more earnestly, . . . moving naturally in it, and therefore fastest when nearest their place.' Cf. Jos. de Burgo cited in West's n. Pref. to Jos. Mede's Works, 1677, f. * 4 vo. 5

 'By other letters of his . . . might farther appear his equal skill in the history of nature and philosophy; they being written in answer to several enquiries of Sr. W. Boswel, an excellent philosopher and mathematician, some de motu gravium et levium, as likewise touching the equality of 10 natural motions, with some reflexions on the common opinion, of their being velociores in fine quam in principio.'

P. 72 l. 29. bp. Beveridge's Private Thoughts. Cf. pp. 11 l. 14, 73 l. 4.

P. 82 l. 18. so to love the person, as yet to hate his sins. 15
Martial x 33 10 parcere personis, dicere de vitiis.

P. 94 l. 20. winding up the clock. Cf. pp. 95 l. 3 and 12, 101 l. 16. He was elected to his scholarship as 'clock-keeper.' See Stat. Eliz. c. 14 and 18.

P. 96 l. 10. ground-ivy-tea. Rees' Cyclopaedia: 'Ground-ivy is an attenuant and dissolvent, and famous, both externally and internally, as a vulnerary. It is much used by way of tea in disorders of the breast and lungs, and is sometimes an ingredient in the pectoral decoction. It is esteemed a specific in erosions and ulcerations of the 25 viscera, and particularly of the kidneys and lungs.' Gerarde, Herbal, 1633, p. 856, recommends it as a remedy for sciatica. plantane. Rees s. v. plantain: 'The leaves and seeds, recommended as vulneraries, in phthisical complaints, spittings of blood, alvine fluxes etc., appear to be 30 of the milder kind of restringents or corroborants.' Gerarde, 421: 'Plantaine is good for ulcers that are of hard curation, for fluxes, issues, rheumes, and rottennesse, and for the bloody flux: it stayeth bleeding, it heales up hollow sores and ulcers, as well old as new.'

P. 96 l. 27. Dr. Wm. Wagstaffe. See index to Nichols, Lit. Anecd. 35

P. 97 l. 28. his death. Four years after Wm. Bowyer wrote of him (Nichols, ibid. I 183): 'Quoties de angelis, de caelis, fit mentio, ignosce mihi, si defuncti amici subeat recordatio. Eheu! infandus renovatur dolor, et vulnera
5 nostra plane recrudescunt. At, at, simul ac tecum mihi esse sermonem intueor, spes aliqua laetior effulget; ignosce etiam mihi, si pro amico abrepto in vivis alter praesens esse videatur.'

P. 98 l. 30. Sir Newton. Sir, i.e. Dominus, Ds. the 10 proper title of a B.A. See Autobiography of Matt. Robinson, Cambr. 1856, p.29 n.5. Lancelot Newton (p.102 l.1), son of Lancelot Newton gent., born at Carcolson Notts, educated at Nottingham school under Ri. Johnson, was adm. pensioner 18 May 1710, aet. 18, tutors Tho. Feilde
15 and Edm. Waller. B.A. 1713-4, M.A. 1717, LL.D. by mandate 1728, adm. 1729. Elected foundation fellow of St. John's 19 Mar. 1715-6, adm. 20 Mar. Again 'sworn, admitted and restored' 21 Jan. 1716-7; elected medical fellow 13 Oct. 1721 decessore Matt. Prior (Register III 625);
20 elected legista or legal fellow, decessore Dr. Ri. Berry 22 Dec. 1727 (ibid. 624); elected sen. fellow 19 May 1733; registry of the university 27 April 1726; died fellow 5 Dec. 1734 (Gent. Mag. p. 703). Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 418 adds: 'bachelor of the canon and civil law and 25 Cronian professor of physic' (?). His friendship for Bonwicke found vent in the following (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. V 152-4, 'from the original MS. preserved by Mr. Bowyer).

'Ode on the death of AMBROSE BONWICKE.

I.

30 'Dearest of all my friends and best of men,
Accept the offering of a grateful pen.
Somewhat extremely kind I fain would say:
But, through the tumult of my breast
With too officious love oppress,
35 My feeble words want strength to force their way.

' But why this formal speech from me ?
     If I am eloquent in sighs,
         It will suffice,
     Thee, my friend, my better part ;
 Partner of every secret of my heart. 5

II.

' Unhappy youth ! what shall I say ?
 Shall I intreat relentless Fate in vain ?
     Shall I complain
 That thou art immaturally snatcht away ? 10
     Alas ! what have I said ?
 In virtue thou 'rt mature, though not in age :
     And blessed are the dead :
 Blessed it is to quit this earthly stage.
     I'm the unhappy, who remain 15
 Fast link'd to earth with a corporeal chain.

III.

' I who groveling lie
     In darkness and obscurity :
 Whilst thou, let loose, dost roam the realms above, 20
 And view'st in brightest day the wondrous works of Jove.
 Those things from thee no longer hidden are,
 Which rack the brain of the philosopher.
     Oh ! what discoveries
     Make thy enlightened eyes ! 25
 Thou now those riddles art able to explain,
 Which thou and I have found too hard for mortal man.
 Thou now canst understand, how God
 Created heaven and earth and all things with a nod.

IV.

30

' Thou now canst understand
 How all events are rul'd by the Almighty hand.
     Thou pity'st, when I try
     To fathom deep eternity.

Alas ! too deep the pit,
 For Reason's plummet and the line of Wit ;
 Too light the plummet and too short the line,
 To search into the Power and Will Divine.

5

V.

'Thou shalt no more
 Be lost upon the boisterous seas
 Of trouble and of woe
 Common to all below :

10

Thou 'rt safely landed on the shore
 Of everlasting happiness and ease.

Thou with a pitying eye
 Shalt see

Thy friends wade through a vale of misery.

15

Thus a happy mariner
 (The gods have seal'd for good)

Brought safe to shore by some propitious star,
 Beholds his comrades sinking in the flood.

VI.

20

'But art thou for ever gone ?

Must thy dear flesh be eaten by the worm ?

Will neither prayers nor tears atone
 For thy return ?

And must thy head,

25

With arts and learning so well furnished,

No distinction have,

But moulder in the grave,

Together with the vile and ignominious slave ?

Shall I no more converse with thee ?

30

Shall we no more dispute ?

Shall we no more the subtle Locke confute ?

Shall I no more partake of thy philosophy ?

Yes we shall meet again, my friend,

In a far more happy state,

35

Where our joys shall know no end,

Where death shall have no power to separate.

LANCELOT NEWTON, B.A.'

P. 99 l. 12. that prayer. Cf. p. 103 l. 3. In Whichcot's Discourses, Lond. 1701, I 409-424: 'The prayer, some parts of which were ordinarily used by Dr. Whichcot before sermon.' The passage quoted is from § 17 p. 421: 'And superadd this to all the grace and favour Thou hast 5 shewn us all along in life, not to remove us hence, but with all advantage for eternity; when we shall be in a due preparation of mind, in a holy disposition of soul, in a perfect renunciation of the guise of this mad and sinful world; when we shall be intirely resigned up unto 10 Thee our God; when we shall have clear acts of faith in God by Jesus Christ in our souls; high and reverential thoughts of Thee in our minds; enlarged and enflamed affections towards Thee.'

P. 99 l. 14. into his Nelson. Cf. p. 11 l. 12 seq. 15

P. 99 l. 21. neighbour. Cf. p. 102 l. 8.

P. 100 l. 6. elegies. See that of Laur. Jackson pp. 107-9; that of Lanc. Newton pp. 291-3.

P. 100 l. 10. my rediit. Fellows and scholars by stat. Eliz. c. 27 were ordered to ask leave of absence from the 20 master, or in his absence, the president or his deputy. 'Quicunque exeundi facultatem petierit scribat prius in registro apud magistrum vel praesidem, vel eius vices gerentem, diem exitus et rursus diem reditus postridie quam redierit manu sua.' Within the last 20 years this 25 register was still kept in the master's lodge.

P. 100 l. 14. Thos. Baker. Add the following notices to Zach. Grey's account of the college historian, which has been three times printed, by Masters, by Nichols, and in the Biogr. Brit., and to the thin and lifeless sketch in 30 Hor. Walpole's Works, 4to., II 339 seq. where is his will p. 360 seq. He has verses in Acad. Cantabr. affectus 1684-5 f. R 4 vo. Cole's account of him is in Brydges, Restituta, IV 409; notices in Reliquiae Hearnianae, see ind., Wilson's Memorabilia Cantabr. 239 seq., Carter 261, 35 266, 441; verses on his death among the Hunter MSS. at Durham; a funeral sermon on him in Waterland's Works

- x 442; an account of him, with his will, in Dibdin's Bibliomania. He was liberal out of his poverty, even to men of opposite principles: on Calamy's Acc. 118, Contin. 157, (where Rob. Wilson, sometime a scholar of
- 5 Jesus college B.A. 1653-4, is called 'an arch beggar for the nonconformists,') he notes: 'This is a true account of honest Rob. Wilson, who was a Durham man, where the church there might have taught him music, and better principles, had he been so inclin'd. He was a great
- 10 beggar, and has been several times at my chamber upon such occasions.' Diary of Edw. Rud, Cambr. 1860, 7: 12 Oct. 1711: 'Mr. Burrell contested with Mr. Euin of Sydney for the rectory of Ovington in Norfolk and lost it by one vote, viz. 85 to 86, but Euin had 2 nonjurors who
- 15 voted for him, viz. Mr. Baker and Mr. Billers, and tho' Mr. Burrell objected against their votes, and desired that the oaths might be tendered to them, yet he was overruled by Dr. Laney, v. c. d. and Dr. Ashton.' Books were often given to him by his friends, e.g. E 10 20 in St.
- 20 John's library by Beaupré Bell; Dd 9 12 and 13 by Nat. Vincent pres. of Clare; a vol. now in the univ. library LR 34 18 by Sir Phil. Sydenham. Letter to John Lewis, thanking him for his life of Caxton (Gent. Mag. 1786, 669); a letter to Jo. Strype in Cambr. MS. Mm. VI 49 n. 28 [lot
- 25 462 of Dawson Turner's MSS. sold by Puttick in June 1859] and 120 to the same in Baumgartner papers, vol. x.; other letters in Europ. Mag. Apr. 1788, 237; to Thoresby in Thoresby's Corresp. II 230, 236, 241, 258; many to Thos. Hearne in the Bodleian; to Humphry
- 30 Wanley in MS. Harl. 3778 art. 21 seq., one printed in Notes and Qu. I Ser. IX 7; to Kennett in MSS. Lansd., in one of which, 1035 p. 49, Cambr. 14 June 1728, he mentions his bequest to Kennett of the annotated Burnet, which afterwards came to Cambr. library; the Surtees
- 35 society intends to print all his letters. Letters to him by Dr. Thos. Smith in Europ. Mag. Dec. 1797, 364; by Thos. Cooke, translator of Hesiod, ibid. Febr. 1786, 91. In

Thorpe's catalogue 1842 no. 1690 is Baker's collection of tracts on coinage ; no. 4004, of tracts on Ri. Bentley. On the annotated copy of Godwin de Praesulibus which he bequeathed to his kinsman Geo. Smith, see Gent. Mag. 1787, 1070. Ri. Fiddes, Life of Wolsey, Lond. 1724, 312, 5 calls St. John's 'a society, which has successively from that time produced some of the greatest lights, both in the ecclesiastical state and the republick of letters ; but none of a more diffusive influence, or more willing to communicate, than the excellent person here referred to 10 [Thos. Baker], who has been pleased to favour me with the present and several other informations.' Ant. Blackwall, Sacred Classics, Lond. 1725, 4to., 1 225, quotes Baker as 'a noble scholar and critic of our own.' Blackbourne's Life of N. Spinckes, 1731, p. x : 'my much honored friend.' 15 An impartial examination of the second volume of Mr. Daniel Neal's history of the puritans. By Zach. Grey, Lond. 1737, 8vo. 62 n. 'For these authorities, and many more, I am indebted to my most worthy friend Mr. Tho. Baker, S. T. B. of St. John's college, Cambridge; a person universally es- 20 teem'd, for his great knowledge in almost all the branches of literature ; and who, as he is the most knowing in our English history and antiquitys ; so he is the most communicative man living.' MS. Cole XIX 226 a : 'I remember to have seen a very curious old picture of this master 25 [Rob. Shorton of St. John's] in his doctor's robes at my worthy friend's house at Cambridge, Dr. Zachary Grey; but not recollecting sufficient of it to describe it, took an airing to Ampthill [7 May 1759], where the doctor now resides, since he left his house at Cambridge, on purpose 30 to see it : but it was at his parsonage house at Houghton-Conquest, 3 miles beyond, and not good roads for wheels, so I was disappointed in my sight of it : the doctor had it, with several other old pictures, as a legacy from Mr. Baker, whose life the doctor is now writing and almost 35 finished: he told me he designed to leave the picture to St. John's college, especially as they have one at this [Pembroke] college already of Dr. Shorton. I well remember the college arms are on the picture; but I wanted to see whether his own were there or not; and this Dr. Grey could not resolve me in.'

5 P. 100 l. 22. higher. Cf. p. 102 l. 8.

P. 101 l. 9. Dr. Turner. Thos., brother to bp. Fras. Turner, elected pres. of C. C. Oxon. 13 Mar. 1687-8; born 19 Sept. 1645, died 29 Apr. 1714, a very great benefactor to Ely cathedral and to his college, where he lies buried, 10 and has a long inscription on the s. wall of the inner chapel (printed in Wood-Gutch, Colleges and halls 403-4; cf. 397, 399, and append. 279). He bequeathed £20,000 to be laid out in estates for the relief of clergymen's widows and orphans (ibid. append. 277 from Browne 15 Willis, Survey of Ely, 390 and Bentham's Ely, 263; see Memoirs of W. Whiston, 206-215).

P. 102 l. 1. his dear friend. Lancelot Newton. See p. 98 l. 30.

P. 102 l. 8. up. Cf. pp. 17 l. 29, 100 l. 22.

20 P. 102 l. 25. heathen emperor. Suet. Aug. 99: 'In hac voce defecit: Livia, nostri coniugii memor vive ac vale; sortitus exitum facilem et qualem semper optaverat. Nam fere quoties audisset cito ac nullo cruciatu defunctum quempiam, sibi et suis εὐθάναστον similem (hoc enim 25 et verbo uti solebat) precabatur.'

P. 103 l. 3. Benjamin Whichcote. B.A. Emm. 1629-30, M.A. 1633, B.D. 1640, D.D. by mandate 1649. MS. Baker vi 82 b = B 89: 'Fifth son of Edward Whichcote esq. of Stoke in the county of Salop, where he was born
 30 4 Maii 1609. Fellow here [Emm.] and bred up as many persons of great quality and others, as any perhaps tutor of that time; presented by the college to the rectory of North Cadbury; bestow'd on the college £1000 for the foundation of scholarships bearing the name of Mr. Larkin,
 35 who making him his executor, intrusted him with the said summe to dispose of to pious uses at his own discretion. Left £20 to the college library.' Cf. ibid. vi

80 = B 86. Among his pupils was the learned John Wallis (Hearne's Langtoft, append. to pr. p. CXLVIII): 'About Christmass 1632 I was sent to the university of Cambridge; and was there admitted in Emanuel college, under the tuition of Mr. Anthony Burgess; a pious, learned 5 and able scholar, a good disputant, a good tutor, an eminent preacher, a sound and orthodox divine; and (after he had left the college) I was under the tuition of Mr. Thomas Horton, and lastly of Mr. Benjamin Whichcot; all able scholars and eminent divines; . . . and all of them in 10 their time eminent preachers in London.' Another pupil was Wm. Reynolds, afterwards ejected from Nottingham, Calamy Acc. 521: 'He went to Cambridge in 1641, and was admitted of Emmanuel-college, under the tuition of Dr. Whitchcot. Mr. [John] Whitlock [a pupil of Ra. Cudworth's] 15 and he were chamber-fellows in the college, and both design'd for the ministry.' Symon Patrick (Autobiogr. Oxf. 1839, 11, 12) attests Whichcote's reputation: 'It was in the year 1644, when I was between seventeen and eighteen years old and had some discretion to govern myself. My 20 father had recommendations to Dr. Whichcote and Dr. Cudworth, of Emanuel college, who it was hoped might take me to be their sizer. For my father was so mean then, he could not otherwise maintain me. They were both very kind, and being full* themselves, recommended 25 us to Queens' college, which was newly filled with fellows from thence.' Calamy, Account 582, 583 says of Ri. Fairclough that he went from Emm. 'furnish'd with an unusual stock of rational, substantial and polite literature. His leaving the college to fix in Somersetshire was pretty re- 30 markable. Dr. Whitchcot, who was then fellow of the same college, being presented to a living in Somersetshire which was in the disposition of that college, prevail'd with Mr. Fairclough to bear him company in a visit to the people he was to take the charge of. The doctor being 35 hastily call'd away, engag'd him to stay behind, and * Observe this still common technical term.

- supply* for him in his absence.' Jeremiah French also accompanied Whichcote on this visit (Calamy, Contin. 435). He was a candidate for the divinity chair at Gresham college 26 Oct. 1641, but was defeated by Thos. Horton 5 (Ward's Gresham professors 65). In Dec. 1655 Whichcote, with Ra. Cudworth and other divines, were invited by Cromwell to advise him on the question of tolerating the Jews (Crossley's note on Worthington's Diary 179). He has verses in Acad. Cantabr. σῶστρον 1660 sign. ** 3.
- 10 He was a friend of John Locke's (Europ. Mag. May 1789, 353). Burnet's well known account of the latitudinarian divines, who saved the church from losing her esteem throughout the nation, though often quoted, deserves a place here (Own Times, fol. ed., I 186-7): 'These were generally of
- 15 Cambridge, formed under some divines, the chief of whom were Drs. Whitchcot, Cudworth, Wilkins, More, and Worthington. Whitchcot was a man of a rare temper, very mild and obliging. He had great credit with some that had been eminent in the late times; but made all the use
- 20 he could of it to protect good men of all persuasions. He was much for liberty of conscience: and being disgusted with the dry systematical way of those times, he studied to raise those who conversed with him to a nobler set of thoughts, and to consider religion as a seed of a deiform
- 25 nature, (to use one of his own phrases). In order to this, he set young students much on reading the ancient philosophers, chiefly Plato, Tully, and Plotin, and on considering the christian religion as a doctrine sent from God, both to elevate and sweeten humane nature, in
- 30 which he was a great example, as well as a wise and * Observe this early use of a term now classical. Wm. Jay's Autobiogr. Lond. 1854, 35: 'there was no fixed minister at Tilsbury, but the service was supplied by preachers of various denominations. . . Among these supplies came the excellent Cornelius Winter.' 44: 'I went to supply for a sabbath.' 51: 'to supply Surrey chapel.' 129: 'for nearly fifty years I annually supplied Surrey chapel.' 130: 'for more than thirty years I supplied for eight Sundays yearly. . . Then I supplied for 6 Sundays.'

kind instructor. Cudworth carried this on with a great strength of genius, and a vast compass of learning. He was a man of great conduct and prudence: upon which his enemies did very falsely accuse him of craft and dissimulation. Wilkins was of Oxford, but removed to Cambridge. His first rise was in the Elector Palatine's family, when he was in England. Afterwards he married Cromwell's sister; but made no other use of that alliance, but to do good offices, and to cover the university from the sourness of Owen and Goodwin. At Cambridge he joined with those who studied to propagate better thoughts, to take men off from being in parties, or from narrow notions, from superstitious conceits, and a fierceness about opinions. He was also a great observer and a promoter of experimental philosophy, which was then a new thing, and much looked after. He was naturally ambitious, but was the wisest clergyman I ever knew. He was a lover of mankind, and had a delight in doing good. More was an open hearted and sincere christian philosopher, who studied to establish men in the great principles of religion against atheism, that was then beginning to gain ground, chiefly by reason of the hypocrisy of some, and the fantastical conceits of the more sincere enthusiasts.' It is singular that Whichcote's admirable sermons are so little known; the late Dr. Donaldson wrote a comparison of Whichcote and Butler in Fraser, but one rarely meets any one who has read them. In 1659 he, with Ra. Cudworth, Ant. Tuckney, and other Cambridge doctors, supported Matt. Poole's scheme 'for the maintaining of students of choice abilities at the university, and principally in order to the ministry' (Autobiogr. of Matt. Robinson, Cambr. 1856, p. 193). In 1674 he, with Jo. Tillotson and Edw. Stillingfleet, joined some nonconformists in furthering Thomas Gouge's efforts to extend education in Wales; a remarkable movement, for though Gouge was a nonconformist (Calamy, Acc. 9): 'he was so far from that narrowness of spirit or bigotry to the interest of the dissenters, that he procur'd the church catechism, with a practical exposition of it, and the common prayer, to be printed in Welch and freely given to the poorer sort, with the Welch bible, The whole duty of man, The practice of piety, and other practical books.' Whichcote and Cudworth supported Worthington in a fellowship election at Emm. 16 Oct. 1641 (see their reasons in Worthington's Diary, Cheth. Soc. I 12-15, with Mr. Crossley's note). 22 Febr. 1648-9 (ibid. 31): 'I disputed in the first place upon Dr. Whichcote.' (ibid. 39, 40): extract from a letter of Whichcote's to Worthington, on the lawfulness of accepting a post void by ejection. On 13 Oct. 1657 Whichcote married Worthington to Mary dau. of his brother Christopher Whichcote (ibid. 87, 89). Whichcote was engaged in various matters of business in Worthington's vicechancellorship 1658 (ibid. 92, 101, 106, 110, 117). He was a constant friend to the famous Sam. Hartlib (ibid. 178): 'Given to Mr. Hartlib anno 1659, by Dr. Whichcote £2.' 30 Oct. 1660 Francis, afterwards abp. Marsh (ibid. 224) presents his 'most hearty respects and service to Dr. Whichcote.' Hartlib to Worthington 10 Dec. 1660 (ibid. 241): 'There are more copies of the Bohemian Church Government arrived at the custom house..... Dr. Whichcote hath one already.' Same to same 20 Dec. 1660 (ibid. 223-225): 'This day I was surprised with another kindness of yours, brought by the hands of Dr. Whichcote. The more is my obligation to accept with many thanks the liberal favour you have been pleased to bestow upon me, and no less for the great love which you have been exercising towards many worthies of your better acquaintance. I long to see Dr. [Henry] More, to give him thanks for the copies he was pleased to bestow upon us. Dr. Whichcote hath promised to send him to me.' Whichcote to Worthington 21 Dec. 1660 (ibid. 256-7): 'I paid to Mr. Hartlib your 20<sup>s</sup> and will do for him what I can. I consider your clause about Sr. Barret to be in your house; and being moved by my brother Sr. Jeremy

Whichcote, concerning his eldest son Paul, near fit for the university, I advised him to commit him to your care, for his better fitting; which motion was very pleasing to him. He will very willingly allow you 30<sup>lib</sup> per an. for his diet and teaching, and if you will take him, he will send him 5 to you soon after Christmas.' Same to same 2 Jan. 1660-1 (ibid. 260, cf. 270, 273, 274, 275, 276): 'I believe Mr. [Fras.] Marsh never had to do in the exchequer, had no place under the treasurer but words only: he is gone into Ireland to a great living about Caricfergus as I hear. 10 For my cosin Paul, it is not desired you should keep one in your house, to instruct him: that had relation to your own clause in your note, that you would keep a reader for the church, and therefore wished some such additional employment for him. If you can (as in your letter) spend 15 a quarter of an houre in the morning and another in the afternoon to instruct him, it will be sufficient and satisfactory to his father. So the 30<sup>lib</sup> will rest in yourself, for his diet etc. My brother is highly pleased to have him with you, in a way preparatory for the university, 20 and intends to send him to you soon after these holydays: but I have not seen him, since your letter to me. I doubt, I shall not stir abroad this month, through my old infirmity, which sends me to chirurgery and physick; so I cannot act for Mr. Hartlib, as I would.' Hartlib to 25 Worthington 15 Jan. 1660-1 (ibid. 272): 'I am very sorry for worthy Dr. Whichcote's sake.' Whichcote to same 25 Jan. 1660-1 (ibid. 273): 'Mr. Marsh went for Ireland, before I came last from Cambridge. Your letter to him is delivered to Mr. Croon. I hope, my malady is in a 30 good way of cure.' Same to same 18 Febr. 1660-1 (ibid. 275): 'I shewed your letter to my brother Sr Feremy, who took great content in your report and opinion concerning cosin Paul.' Hartlib to Worthington 11 June 1661 (ibid. 336, 337): 'I was surprised on Saturday last 35 with a gift of 6<sup>l</sup> procured by Mr. [Symon] Patrick at Battersee [from Sir Walter St. John], which the good man

Dr. Whichcote was pleased to deliver unto me.' Worthington in reply 24 June 1661 (ibid. 339): 'I was glad of the last clause in your letter about Mr. Patrick. Dr. Whichcote writes he found him most ready upon intima-

5 tion given.' Worthington to Hartlib, Aug. 1661 (ibid. 350): 'Dr. Whichcote being lately come into these parts, tells me that Mr. Brereton went last week to London.' Sam. Hartlib to Dr. Worthington Oct. 1661 (Worthington's Diary II 62): 'You do not tell me where Dr. Whichcote

10 is at present; I have few such friends as he hath been to my distressed condition.' Worthington in reply, 26 Oct. 1661 (ibid. 63, 64): 'Dr. Whichcote goes this week to London. He hath had a quartan ague, and is not likely to be free from it till spring. He hath taken a house

15 upon Bednall Green.' Hartlib to the same 2 Nov. 1661 (ibid. 66, 67): 'Mr. [Symon] Patrick is a pious and very useful man, and ready to do me any good that lies in his power. I count myself very happy in his acquaintance, and must profess always my obliging respects to Dr.

20 Whichcote, who made up the match between us.' (ibid.): 'This day a gentleman of Gotha was with me who has the receipt of a complete and never failing cure of a purely tertian ague, which I do not despair to obtain hereafter. But if it had been of a quartan ague, I should

25 have waived all formal civilities to do service to worthy Dr. Whichcote.' (ibid. 68): 'Mr. Brereton hath been returned these six days. He went to see Dr. Whichcote.' Worthington in reply 14 Nov. 1661 (ibid. 70): 'Dr. Whichcote's ague (as he writes to me) continues to afflict

30 him sorely. That receipt you speak of for a tertian ague may be a very charitable and gainful discovery if procured.' Hartlib in reply 19 Nov. 1661 (ibid. 72): 'Dr. Whichcote's is more my affliction than I will write. If I can procure the receipt for a tertian ague, it would

35 truly be a very charitable and gainful discovery. But the author comes seldom at me. If I get it at any time, it shall be yours.' Worthington to Hartlib 3 Febr. 1661-2

(ibid. 103): 'Dr. Whichcote made a step down into this country (his presence being necessary) and he returns by coach this week. His ague seems to have shaken him much. Though some have wished him to this or that means for the removing of it (as the Jesuit's powder, etc.), yet it is thought best to let the ague have its course.' 5
 Same to same 24 Febr. 1661-2 (ibid. 110): 'Dr. Whichcote was returned to London before yours came. I have not heard from Mr. Foxcroft's at Finsbury since Dr. Whichcote returned hither.' Part of a letter from Whichcote to 10
Worthington 23 Apr. 1663 (ibid. 119): 'Were your case mine, I would readily close with an offer to remove into Suffolk to £140 per annum upon good terms,' etc. Fras. Theobald, patron of Barking, to Worthington, 'at Dr. Whichcote's house at Blackfriars' (Ipswich 9 May 1663, 15 ibid. 121): 'I pray present my service to Dr. Whichcote and his lady.' Tho. Stephens to Worthington, Bury 10
Aug. 1663 (ibid. 128): 'Last Friday Dr. Whichcote etc. gave me the honour of a visit, and discovered some doubts that Ditton might be otherwise disposed of.' On his re- 20 moval from Ditton to Barking, Worthington spent several weeks at 'Bednall Green' with Whichcote, between 30 Sept. and 17 Nov. 1663 (ibid. 129). Whichcote 'in a letter to his sister Foxcroft, Nov. 21, 1666' (ibid. 222): 'I pray you let not Dr. More otherwise dispose of his living 25 [Ingoldsby, which he had offered to Worthington, and afterwards bequeathed to his own college], for Dr. Worthington is not provided for where he is' etc. Same to same 14 May 1667 (ibid. 228-9): 'Bishop Wren was interred last Saturday, in the vault by himself prepared in 30 his new chapel in Pembroke hall. Dr. Pearson made a speech. Regents and non-regents had sugar-boxes. I have, since Michaelmas last, married away three of my four servants, and the fourth is upon the point of being married. This trade goes on though all others at a stand.' 35
Worthington to 'his honoured uncle, Dr. Whichcote, at Dr. Cudworth's,' dated Ingoldsby, 10 Aug. 1667 (ibid. 234-5),

- giving an account of Mrs. Worthington's death). Sentence of the court of arches condemning him to pay the pension due out of the rectory of Milton to the bp. of Ely for the years 1642-59 (MS. Tanner 141 f. 26). Letter to his
- 5 brother, Lond. 18 Mar. 1671-2 (MS. Tanner 44 f. 260). Kennett in Wood-Bliss, Ath. IV 21: 'His picture was given to archbishop Tenison, and by him left to his successor, and is now (1727) in the palace of Lambeth. I have heard Dr. John Mapletost often say, that when he
- 10 had wrot his sermon, he oblig'd his wife to read it aloud to him, that if she stuck at any word or period, or any thing sounded harsh to his own ears, he might immediately amend it.' 'Dr. Whichcote's reasons for his being in King's college. (Copied from his own hand-writing).
- 15 For satisfaction of conscience in respect of my being in King's college. 1. 'Twas the act of the then ruling power. 2. I am now indemnified for it by the now indubitable power. 3. 'Twas not then my contrivance when time was. 4. I had an invitation or willing ac-
- 20 ceptance of persons interested. 5. Their necessity required me and I served their necessity. 6. For so doing I laid down my living at Cadbury of proportionable value. 7. I satisfied myself with reasonable allowance, scil. about the matter of maintenance there, while I discharged the
- 25 duty of the place. 8. The party ejected had by this means a better compensation then otherwise he would have had, and in a way in part to my losse.' The same paper is printed from Worthington's transcript (in MS. Baker VI 90 = B 98) by Heywood, King's statutes, p. 290.
- 30 MS. Lansd. 988 f. 3. Dawson Turner's MS. 648 was a letter from Whichcote to Lauderdale, 12 June 1660, respecting his remaining provost, some having objected that he had never been a fellow. An indenture (21 Sept. 1670) between Whichcote and Emm. coll. for the foundation of
- 35 Larkin scholarships in MS. Baker VI 91, 92 = B 99-101. MSS. Tanner 155 f. 171 b. cf. 155 ff. 32-3, 44. Ayscough's Catal. of MSS. in the Brit. Mus. Lond. 1782. 4to. p. 39:

MSS. Sloane '2716 4 Philosophical and theological reflexions addressed to Dr. Tuckney, 68. 2903 25 Letter to Dr. Tuckney. 1691 66 Copies of letters that passed between him and Dr. Anthony Tuckney.' These have been printed. Ibid. p. 800. MS. Birch '4276 art. 129. 5 Benj. Whichcot to Charles [?] Whichcot, Dec. 1, 1675. Articles for uniting the Catholics.' His epitaph is in MS. Baker VI 93 b = B 102, printed in Wood-Bliss, Athen. IV 20 and Strype's Stow III 47-8. For other of the family see Collier's Hist. Dict. His sister Anne was baptized at 10 Burcott 2 Aug. 1608, and was wife of Thos. Hayes, and mother of Philemon Hayes, minister of Childs Erccall (Owen and Blakeway's hist. of Shrewsbury, Lond. 1825, 4to. I 408 n. 7: ibid. II 436 is a notice of Whichcote's mother, Elizabeth dau. of Edward Fox esq. of Greet, who survived 15 her husband 46 years, and after his death removed to St. Julian's, Shrewsbury, where she was buried in 1666). Worthington's Diary, 25 Jan. 1661-2 (II 101): 'This day cousin P. Whichcote went to King's college to continue.' (ibid. 127): Paul Whichcote esq. godfather to John Worth- 20 ington junior. 26 Apr. 1664 (ibid. 133): 'On Tuesday night between 10 and 11 died my father-in-law, Chr. Whichcote esq., at Frogmore.' Sir Jer. Whichcote, solicitor gen. to the elector palatine, was buried 5 July 1677 (see an account of him and his family, and their Hendon resi- 25 dence, in Lysons, Environs of London, 1795, III 15, 16, 68, 549). He gave £100 to St. Bride's church (Strype's Stow III 267 a). Cf. Worthington's Diary II 133, 178. Patent granting to him the offices of warden of the Fleet and keeper of the old and new palaces Westminster (Cal. 30 State Papers, Sept. 1667, 496. See also the ind. to the volumes for 1664-5, 1665-6). Tho. Whichcote of Chr. was B.A. 1636-7. Rob. Whichcote of Emm. B.A. 1648-9.

P. 103 l. 3. his brother mentions. Cf. p. 99 l. 13 n.

P. 105 l. 5. according to that book. ed. Oxf. 1846, 76: 35
'Having thus finished your closet-devotions, you go forth to the church or chapel fasting, that so a portion from

God's table may be the first morsel; and remember to take something out of your store to present at the offertory.'

P. 105 l. 15. July 7, 1713. Thanksgiving for the treaty of Utrecht; the two houses of parl. went to St.

5 Paul's (Tindal XVIII 103).

P. 106 l. 3. the same early riser. Cf. p. 21 l. 8.

P. 106 l. 15. Echard. Cf. p. 53 l. 29.

P. 106 l. 16. Hammond. Cf. p. 65 l. 12.

P. 106 l. 19. Fontenell's Plurality of worlds. Trans-10 lated by Glanville, Lond. 1688, 8vo. and the notorious Mrs. Aphra Behn, ibid. 1688, 12mo., who adds a singular preface, 'wherein the arguments of Father Taquet and others against the system of Copernicus (as to the motion of the earth) are likewise considered and answered.'

15 Editions have appeared even in this century. See Watt.

P. 106 l. 22. Whiston's Astronomy. See his Memoirs, 1749, 134: 'In the year 1707 I published [at Cambridge, 8vo.] Praelectiones astronomicae, Cantabrigiae in scholis publicis habitae. Quibus accedunt tabulae plurimae astro- 20 nomicae, Flamstedianae correctae, Halleianae, Cassinianae et Streetianae. In usum iuventutis academicae. Pretium 5s. 6d. They were put into English afterward.'

P. 107 l. 25. Daphnis. See Verg. ecl. 5.

P. 108 l. 19. Harvey's name. See Cowley's fine poem
25 On the death of Mr. Wm. Harvey, l. 20-1. stanzas 5 and 6:

'Say, for you saw us, ye immortal lights,
How oft unwearied have we spent the nights,
Till the Ledæan stars, so fam'd for love,
Wonder'd at us from above!

30 We spent them not in toys, in lusts or wine;
But search of deep philosophy,
Wit, eloquence and poetry,
Arts which I lov'd, for they, my friend, were thine.

'Ye fields of Cambridge, our dear Cambridge, say
Have ye not seen us walking every day?
Was there a tree about which did not know
The love betwixt us two?'

P. 108 l. 22-3. morn drave on etc. stanza 1.

'It was a dismal and a fearful night,
Scarce could the morn drive on th' unwilling light,
When Sleep, Death's image, left my troubled breast,
By something liker death possest.'

5

P. 109 l. 27. Laur. Jackson A.B. See p. 222 l. 4. A schoolfellow of Bonwicke's (Wilson's Merchant Taylors' 1204). B.A. of St. John's 1712-3. fell. Sidn. 1715. M.A., 1716. B.D. 1723. Vic. of Ardleigh near Colchester, rect. of Gt. Wigborough, collated 15 Apr. to the prebend of 10 Asgarby, Linc., and installed 6 June 1747, a preferment which he held to his death, which occurred 17 Mar. 1772 (Le Neve-Hardy II 103; Cambr. Chron. 21 Mar.; Gent. Mag. p. 151). He published. 1. Occasional letters on several subjects (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 418); 2. An ex- 15 amination of a book intituled, The true gospel of Jesus Christ asserted, by Thomas Chubb; and also of his appendix on Providence, with a dissertation on episcopacy; shewing in one short and plain view the grounds of it in scripture and antiquity. Lond. 1739. 8vo. (the dissn. on 20 episcopacy is reprinted in the Churchman's remembrancer, vol. 2, as 'a masterly argumentation'); 3. A letter to a young lady, concerning the principles and conduct of the Christian life; addressed to the S.P.C.K. Lond. 1755, 8vo. 15. 1758. 12mo. 4. A short review and defence of the 25 authorities on which the catholic doctrine of the Trinity in Unity is grounded. Lond. 1771. 8vo. 2s. (Watt). Cf. MS. Cole XX 135; Gent. Mag. 1739, p. 219.

P. 109 l. 29. Allhallows. All Saints' church, opposite to Trinity and St. John's colleges. The old church was 30 taken down a few years ago, and a new one erected opposite to Jesus college.

F. BURMAN.

Multa tuo, o Iohannes dilecte Deo,
Magnifice donavit collegio:
Huic, quibus ipse tam est feliciter
Usus, legavit libros:
O si potuisset et doctrinam!
Quamquam eidem, iure dixerim, et illam reliquit,
Plusque nos vivens quam moriens locupletavit,
Praeclaris praeceptis, praeclariori exemplo:
Hic sacra cernimus impressa vestigia,
Et, quem sequi non possumus, e longinquo veneramur.

ROB. JENKIN, in memory of PET. GUNNING,
who died 6 July 1684.

F. BURMAN.

Frans, brother of the celebrated Pieter Burman, was born at Utrecht 15 May 1671, was minister first at Kondum, whence he was called to Brielle in 1698; it was here that he received the invitation to accompany 5 as chaplain the embassy charged with congratulating Anne on her accession. In 1703 he removed to Enkhuizen and in 1705 to Amsterdam; on the 26 Febr. 1715 he delivered an inaugural address as prof. of theology at Utrecht, and died 22 Sept. 1719. He was a learned orientalist and 10 father of Pieter Burman the younger (A. J. van der Aa, Biogr. Woordenb. der Nederlanden, Haarl. 1854, II 1600-2). His tutor J. G. Graevius in a letter to Bentley (Bentley's Corresp. 192, Utrecht 9 May 1702) introduces him thus: 'Hebraice, graece, latine est pereruditus, in philosophia,
15 in mathematicis artibus et omnis doctrinae varietate versatus egregie. Excellit etiam pietate integritate vitae et morum suavitate. Te dudum is admiratur et suspicit, et tanta tui cupiditate inflammatus est, ut nihil ardentius desideret, quam te videre et tuis pasci sermonibus. Nullus
20 dubito, quin, ubi eum cognoris, se tibi sit ilico probaturus. Si tamen et mei causa illum sis complexurus arctius, magna accessione tua in me merita cumulabis.' Bentley in reply, Cambr. 20 Aug. 1702 (ibid. 196): 'Gratias vero, ut par est, habeo maximas, quod humanissimum Burman-
25 num, qui has deferet, commendatum mihi voluisti. Is et Londini me et Cantabrigiae hic invisit; adiutusque est omni ope nostra, et sua causa, et tua praecipue, vir magne, cuius amicitiae nihil possum negare.' Same to same, St. James's, 30 Oct. 1702 O. S. (ibid. 199): 'Non dubito, quin litteras Neocori [of Küster] et meas acceperis, quas a Cantabrigia huc Londinum ad optimum Burmannum misimus, ut Bataviam ad te deferendas curaret. In illis consilium meum tibi aperui de edendo Horatio.' 5

Graevius to Bentley, Utrecht 23 Nov. 1702 (ibid. 203-4):
 'Burmannus noster nondum ad nos rediit. Expectatur indies.' Same to same, Utrecht 10 Dec. 1702 (ibid. 205):
 'Frater Burmanni rediit quidem ad suam ecclesiam, quae est Brielae, sed nondum ad nos.' Cf. ibid. 208; and 10
Bentley to Burman in Bentleii Critica sacra 167.

The text is translated from: FRANCISCI BURMANNI, v. d. m., viri clarissimi, itineris anglicani acta diurna. Quae nunc primum edidit, praefatus est notisque illustravit Abrahamus Capadose, med. doct. Amstelaedami, apud 15
J. H. den Ouden. 1828. 8vo. What follows is an abstract of the remainder of Burman's journal; the portions between inverted commas are translated at length.

P. 1: I was appointed chaplain to the embassy sent by the states to condole with England on the death of 20
William III. and to congratulate qu. Anne on her accession.

Pp. 1, 2: 25 May 1702 N. S. put to see from goede Reede at 10 a.m. with two ships of war, war having been declared with France and Spain on the 15th. 25

Pp. 2, 3: 26 May. Towards evening we came up with the english fleet off Sheerness under George Rook; broadsides were fired, sailyards manned, and cheers given in the two fleets.

P. 3: 27 May, anchored off Gravesend, a place notorious 30 for the wantonness of its women. 28 May, 10.30 a.m., rowed up to London in a wherry; arrived about 3 p.m.

Pp. 3, 4: Dr. Douce, minister of the chapel royal, begged me to preach there, which I undertook to do by order of the ambassadors. It is a chapel of moderate 35 size, allotted by K. William in the first year of his reign to his french and dutch domestic chaplains. The dutch preach every Sunday at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. The french at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The other dutch minister is called Balton; the french were two brothers Ménard and Dr. Gilbert.

5 P. 4: 4 June, began my morning sermons in the chapel royal. 5 June, saw a cock-fight, 'dementia quadam Anglorum commendandum,' in the cock-pit. [It is described at length].

P. 5: 6 June. Death of my Mæcenas, baron v. 10 Dykveld. His Christian end.

Pp. 5, 6: 7 June, went through Lambeth palace. The abp's deputy, Dr. [Edm.] Gibson, a very obliging man, shewed us everything. The library is very well furnished, but almost all the books are of older editions. One MS. 15 containing the four gospels, was conspicuous above the rest; it is more than a thousand years old, and is called codex ephesusinus in the Oxford edition, on which Dr. Mill has long been engaged. The palace is noble and has rooms both for civil and ecclesiastical business. In the 20 pulpit-cloth of the chapel I saw inscribed the three letters IHS from the name 'Ἰησοῦς', just in the same character as is usual among the Jesuits. [Cf. the like jealousy of this symbol in an english puritan, Lives of N. Ferrar, Cambr. 1855, xxxi.]

25 P. 6: 8 June, I inspected Gresham college, where the royal society meet. One room was full of rare instruments collected from all parts of the world, of which an english description has been published in folio. Here were many magnets, one of prodigious size, at least a foot, but not 30 framed in iron nor suspended, but carelessly thrown amongst many of different size. They are dug up in the west of England. A second room contained the library. I found here a second MS. of the four gospels, having the eusebian canon at the beginning, in cursive and not very 35 clear hand, and with many abbreviations.

P. 7: 9 June, saw the Tower [which is described].

Pp. 7-8: 12 June, saw the dutch church and the library belonging to it. It is a noble temple, and has room for a large audience; there are a considerable number of members of the church. It was founded by Edw. VI., so that it may justly be called the earliest dutch church. This name remained inviolate even in the most troubled 5 times; indeed many of the episcopalians in such times were secured by attaching themselves to this congregation. It has now two pastors, Aemilius von Cuylenborg and — Bisschop. Because of this privilege our ambassadors have always been accustomed to hear sermons here; and I ob- 10 served that some jealousy had sprung up between this church and the pastors of the chapel royal, because the ambassadors had appointed the chapel for me to preach in. The library is well stocked with printed books and has a few MSS., amongst the latter was a Koran, very 15 neatly written; a latin bible on vellum, in which Hebr. and Acts follow the catholic epistles; three volumes of letters of the most eminent men of the 16th and 17th centuries. The same day in the afternoon I climbed the Monument. 20

Pp. 9, 10: 13 June, p.m. I visited the most famous Newton, who received me with great kindness, if only for [Burchard de] Volder's sake, as whose pupil I introduced myself. We spoke chiefly of the system of the universe.

First. The motions of the planets exactly observe the 25 laws of gravity, which amount in the main to these. 1. Gravity always acts with the same force on the same portion of matter, excepting the resistance, which arises from the surface of the body moved. So that bodies of different bulks would fall with equal velocity in vacuo, 30 i. e. if there were nothing sensibly to retard their motion. 2. The velocity, with which heavy bodies fall, is in a duplicate ratio to the spaces traversed. But as these proportions suit any one of the sections of a cone, if a heavy body, instead of falling, be conceived as whirling round 35 by the force of gravity, it will describe one of the conic sections. And since these laws hold in all planets, we must imagine the ethereal matter to be so rare, as not sensibly to interfere with these laws of motion. But the illustrious author admits this rarefaction to be so great, that between each part of the ethereal matter spaces are 5 interposed void of all matter.

I objected, that then motion is not uniform, but changes at each of these spaces : because bodies passing from one medium into another are liable to refraction. But these media are of all most different, the one being 10 entirely void, the other close packed with matter. The answer I did not well understand.

A second difficulty is derived from comets. For they move with equal velocity, whether carried away with the stream of the vortex, or making head against it. For 15 sometimes they fall far below Jupiter's orbit. The main endeavour of astronomers at this day is to determine the orbits of comets from given observations. But a somewhat longer time is needed for this purpose, the first trustworthy observations having been made only by Tycho.

20 I found him most ready to do me a service ; he declared that he would willingly have introduced me to the royal society, but as he was engrossed at that hour with mint business, it could be most conveniently done by Dr. Halley. So he immediately writes a letter of introduction to him.

25 'Sr.

The gentleman who brings you this, is one of the chaplains to the Dutch ambassadors. I beg the favour that by the leave of the R. Society you would introduce him to see one of their meetings. He has heard Mons<sup>r</sup>.
30 Volder's lectures and has a curiosity about Mathematical and Philosophical things. If he brings a friend with him, I beg the favour that you will treat them with respect.

I am

Your humble servant

Jerom-street,

IS. NEWTON.'

*June 2*, 1702.*

• [Sic].

P. 11: 14 June, a.m. I called on Dr. Halley, who was out of town. Then I visited Dr. Stratford,* who resides in Westminster Abbey. He shewed me the abbey library, very carelessly kept; all was filthy with dust. All the MSS. had been destroyed by fire. It was founded 5 by Dr. Williams, first bp. of Lincoln, and then abp. of York and keeper of the great seal at the end of the reign of James I.

p.m. Went to Chelsey; a large building with very pleasant gardens, intended for veteran and crippled soldiers. 10 The governor is D., a Dutchman, who regaled us with english ale. This most pleasant spot the Jesuits had chosen for themselves under James II., from whom William III. took it and devoted it to its present use.

Pp. 11, 12: 16 June, p.m. Went to a sword-fight 15 [which is described at length].

P. 12: 18 June, p.m. Taken by Dr. Stratford to Westminster Abbey: First the litanies† were read, and music (suited rather for a display of art than for edification of souls) interspersed. Then the sermon, after which the 20 reader read some more prayers out of the book.

Pp. 12, 13: 19 June, a.m. Dr. Thomas Smith shewed me the Cottonian library, given to the public a few months ago by Cotton the grandson; at the same time an act of parliament was passed that it should never be sold. It 25 is still kept in Cotton-house near Westminster hall. It consists solely of MSS., most of which belong to english history. Of others I saw Vitruvius, Vegetius and Solinus in one volume, the two former in a very ancient, the last in a very modern hand. Then the autograph of the 30 union between the greek and latin churches, agreed to at the council of Florence, and signed by Eugenius IV. and many other bps. and by the emperor Palaeologus. Also a vellum MS. of the four gospels in latin, in very ancient * Wm. S. afterwards canon of Ch. Ch., to which he bequeathed his library (Alumni Westm. 210-1).

† [Evening prayers].

uncials. Specially remarkable are the gilt pictures in the frontispiece of each gospel, representing the four evangelists with their symbols. At the end of St. Luke occurs the name of Lucanus, of which Dr. Smith supposes Luke to 5 be an abbreviation. As regards the pictures, this MS. resembled another of venerable antiquity, containing the greek version of Gen.; the pictures in this last were more artistic, and were inserted in the actual context, occupying the whole breadth of the page. The letters were uncial, 10 and greatly resembled those of the codex alexandrinus, which Dr. Smith believes to be more modern.

p.m. I again climbed the Monument.

P. 14: 21 June, kept the fast appointed by the queen.

15 P. 14: 24 June. The very learned Bentley took me to Lambeth, to abp. Tennison's public dinner. He keeps open table on Saturdays and Mondays. Many guests, both churchmen and statesmen, were present, so that a second table had to be set out. It was a most sumptuous 20 repast: two courses, each of six large and three small dishes. When the abp. (having had a hint, I suppose, from Dr. Bentley) had asked me whether I were son of prof. Burman, he gave me a hearty welcome. During dinner he spoke little, in a low voice, as usual, and in english. Im-
 25 mediately after dinner tea was served. Afterwards I took leave, thanking him for his singular kindness, and praying that God might long preserve him in health, for the good of the church, over which he presides. He replied with a prayer that God would speed me in all things. On my 30 way back I inspected the codex alexandrinus.

P. 14: June 26, began morning prayer in the house at 10.

P. 15: June 27, Ez. Spanheim, envoy of the king of Prussia, introduced into the city with great pomp.

35 P. 15: June 28, our envoys began to treat with the queen's representatives on the business of their mission, viz. to condole with the queen on the king's death, and to congratulate her on her accession; to renew the treaty; to settle the division of prizes.

Pp. 15, 16: 4-8 July, reception of the dutch envoys in London, ending with a dinner given by them [described at length].

5

Pp. 17, 18: 9 July, a.m. At service in St. Paul's, which is still very incomplete; the sermons are preached in the choir, the prayers read at the west end; the intermediate part is yet unfinished, and it is supposed that it will not readily be completed, as the proportion of the 10 coal-duties, assigned to the work, increases very slowly and can always on some pretext or other be diverted to another purpose.

p.m. Was taken by the most learned Bentley to the royal library in St. James's. For want of room most of 15 the books are stacked on the floor, nor are the rest arranged in any regular order. [Description of the cod. Alex.] 'The most learned Bentley intends to edit this MS. as it stands, in the same form of letters and line for line. He is already making all preparations, and hopes to 20 begin the work about winter-time.'

Pp. 18, 19: 12 July a.m. Went to the bp. of London [Hen. Compton] at Fulham, to move him to intercede with the queen to continue the stipends of the french and dutch ministers of the chapel royal. On my return saw 25 Kensington.

p.m. Drove to Mile end green, to visit Mr. Domner Sheppart, an english merchant, whose son is a student under my brother at Utrecht.

Pp. 19, 20: 13 July, a.m. Saw the public library in 30 the Mews opposite Charing Cross. It contains many excellent books, but no MSS., and was founded by the present abp. [Tennison], who in king James' time made it over for the use of christian youth in order to counteract the intrigues of the Jesuits. For they built schools in the 35 Savoy, possessed a very well-stocked library, offered a free education to the young, and had seduced even some children of reformed parents. Setting a most commendable example, the present abp. then offered all the same advantages, so to baffle the arts of the devil. Afterwards, when the danger was over, he left the privileges intact, 5 but removed the MSS. with him to Lambeth on his promotion. William III., chiefly at lord Portland's instance, allowed the Jesuits to remove that library, which is said to have been a very rare one. The same day, dining with Ez. Spanheim, I was regaled with choice fare and most 10 learned conversation.

p.m. Saw Islington. Wantonness in all suburban taverns. On my return saw the pleasant terraces and walks of Lincoln's Inn fields.

P. 20: July 14. Second conference of the envoys
 15 with the queen's representatives.

P. 21: 16 July, p.m. In passing I called on the Oxford professor [David] Gregory at Mr. Newton's house: then on Mr. [Nic.] Only, preb. of Westm., a very friendly man.

20 [Then follows the 'Iter Cantabrigiense,' given in the text].

P. 27: 24 July, Monday. Set out for Oxford: put up at the Cross.

P. 27: 25 July, a.m. Degrees conferred. p.m. Saw 25 New college, 'admodum augustum.'

P. 27: 26 July, p.m. Saw the Bodleian; climbed Ch. Ch. tower.

Pp. 27-8: 27 July, a.m. Walked to a mineral spring in the neighbourhood. p.m. Heard the exercises in the 30 Sheldonian theatre. Saw the laboratory.

Pp. 28-9: Saw Trinity college. Then in the house of convocation at the election of two members of parliament. Then Dr. Hudson took me to the Bodleian, to the library of Qu. coll., and to Dr. Mill in St. Edm. hall. Spoke of 35 the N. T. on which he has been many years engaged. The passage I Jo. v 7 is found in no MSS.; perhaps erased from the time when the fathers began to prove the doctrine of the Trinity from the following verse. p.m. After the departure of my dutch friends, I began to examine the library, especially the MSS. of the N.T. Met at Mr. Gregory's Mr. Stradfort and Harnar* who confuted Dr. [Thos.] Burnet's 'theory of the earth,' by arguments from 5 the mathematics, in which he is an adept.

P. 29: 29 July a.m. and p.m. in the Bodleian.

P. 29: 30 July, a.m. Saw the university church St. Mary's, 'satis augustum.' Heard bp. Hall's† sermon in his parish church, where he preaches weekly. Was then 10 at a quakers' meeting. p.m. At prayers in a suburban church; also in the fine chapel of New college. Then saw Magd. coll. walks.

Pp. 29, 30: 31 July, a.m. in the Bodleian. p.m. Saw St. Jo. Bapt. coll. with its fine library, of books and MSS.; 15 Balliol, University, All Souls'.

P. 30: 1 Aug. a.m. In the library. p.m. Rode to Woodstock.

Pp. 30-2: 2 Aug. a.m. and p.m. In the library. With Mr. Gregory visited the most famous [John] Wallis, a man 20 of astonishing vigour for his age. He is 86, and yet reads very readily without spectacles, which he has never used; rises at five daily; studies, for more than 10 hours, mathematics amongst other things; is equally strong in judgement and in memory, neither of which is in the least 25 impaired. His face is cheerful and open. Both related

* If by confutavit is meant 'confuted in a published work' Harnar is probably a mistake for [Erasmus] Warren; if 'confuted in the course of conversation,' it may stand for Harmer.

† John Hall, bp. of Bristol and master of Pembr. coll. (Calamy's Own Times 1 272), 'one of eminent piety, but not much esteemed by the young wits of the university. He catechized at St. Toll's near his college every Lord's day evening, and I sometimes heard him. He could bring all the catechism of the Westminster assembly out of the catechism of the church of England. I never heard Mr. Gilbert applaud any one more than this bishop.' See also Calamy Acc. 109, Contin. 100, Cambr. univ. MS. Ee vi 43. He was of Merchant Tailors (Notes and Qu. 2 Ser. ix 280).

that Des Cartes had stolen his geometry from [Thomas Harriot an Englishman. For he died in 1610;* his 'analysis' was published by his heir in 1631, at which very time Des Cartes was in London, which adds weight
 5 to the suspicion. And afterwards it was a common rumour, as Dr. Wallis well remembered; it was also reported at that time that Mr. Scoten [Fras. Schooten of Leyden] was author of Des Cartes' 'geometry,' at least of the third part. Wallis added, that Des Cartes did not 10 well understand analysis; at least he had expressed everything most confusedly and obscurely, which had been already explained with great clearness by Harriot; perhaps to conceal the plagiarism.

To-day I looked through the remains of Casaubon, 15 consisting in great part of adversaria† and stray notes, not reduced to certain heads. Much could be extracted from them relating to his personal history.

Pp. 32-3: 3 Aug. a.m. in the library. Saw the hortus medicus. Quaintly trimmed yews. p.m. In the library.
 20 Examined Sam. Petit's MSS. in two volumes, containing notes on Josephus, bought for the university at Paris for £200 or £300. Dr. Hudson will incorporate them in his commentary. Mr. Gregory took me to the Savilian lecture-rooms and library, containing gr. and arabic mathematical 25 MSS. He shewed me there a copy of Des Cartes' geometry of the first edition, bought by Mr. Pitkarn at Leyden, with the advertisement: 'On n'a imprimé que six exemplaires de cette géometrie en cette forme; et ils sont pour les six premiers, qui auront fait connaître à l'auteur, 30 qu'ils l'entendent. C'est pour quoi celui ci appartient à Mr. Chauveau.'

P. 33: 4 Aug. returned to London. 5 Aug. the envoys went to Windsor. 6 Aug. p.m., preached in the dutch church.

* 2 July 1621, Wood-Bliss, Athen. II 303.

† His Ephemerides were printed by Dr. Jo. Russell, Oxf. 1850. 2 vols. 8vo.

Pp. 33-5; 7 Aug., went to Windsor [described at length].

P. 35: 2 Sept. Second fight with swords; one combatant unwounded, the other disabled.

P. 35: 6 Sept. Returned to London from Windsor. 5
9 Sept. deputed by the envoys to attend the council of the dutch church, in Mr. Cuylenburgh's case.

Pp. 35-6: 11 Sept. At Hampton-court, said to have been designed by the late qu. Mary. Took Richmond on our way back; at the mineral springs there is a great 10 crowd of dancers every Monday and Thursday night.

P. 36: 12 Sept., called on Mr. Cyprian. 13 Sept., called on Dr. Halley, the eminent mathematician, who is engaged on a new system of magnetic phenomena, and in particular has attempted to determine by actual experiment 15 the various declinations of the needle. He has already published tables of the declinations in the Atlantic; and by this time he has pretty well learnt, from the experience of many observers, those of the rest of the globe, and he is drawing up tables for them too: he seems to have 20 ascertained thus much, that he ventures to assign to the earth four magnetic poles. In support of this system he supposes that another globe swims in this our earth, much as Saturn does in his ring. He will also correct the longitude of many places in the maps. 25

P. 37: 20 Sept., saw the mint, by the favour of Is. Newton, its master, who ordered every process of melting and coining gold to be shewed to us. He then entertained us most sumptuously. 22 Sept., saw Montague house.

P. 37: 25 Sept., saw the houses of parliament. 27 30
Sept., saw Lambeth palace a second time, being shewn over by Mr. Gibson.

Pp. 38-9: 31 Oct., saw the first session of parliament [described at length].

Pp. 39, 40: 3 Nov., called on the most illustrious 35
[Ezek.] Spanheim. [Gilb. Burnet], bp. of Salisbury was there, who spoke of Dykveld's merits at great length;

among other things, he said he had it from his own mouth, that he had silenced a papal theologian at Münster, when he was there with the envoys on the business of the peace. With regard to Joh. de Wit, he said he had been told,
 5 that his brother Cornelius missed in him a knowledge of our history, and regretted that he had not devoted to that study the time which he had spent in mathematics; hence he wanted sagacity to forecast the future, and knew nothing whatever of the treaty between England and France for 10 crushing our country.

P. 40: 6 Nov., called on the bp. of Salisbury [Burnet], and presented to him my 'pietas Burmannonum.' He received me most lovingly. 9 Nov., saw the lord mayor's procession; the queen was present. As he is a vintner, 15 the expeditions and orgies of Bacchus were represented.

Pp. 40-1: 10 Nov., present at the meeting of convocation. Heard three speeches, one of a canon respecting the election of the prolocutor of the lower house [Dr. Aldrich], whom he presented to the bishops, begging 20 them to confirm the election, and recounting the differences which were beginning to arise amongst certain divines. (The drift of this was, as Dr. Stratford said, to degrade those who had been promoted by William III.; this threatened no small danger to bp. Burnet). A second of 25 the prolocutor, promising to maintain to the best of his power the laws and rights of the church. A third from the abp. of Canterbury, who alone read his speech, confirming the election.

Pp. 41-4: 14 Nov. p.m. Called on Bentley, and there 30 met the most famous Newton. We talked of points of philosophy, especially of the Newtonian system. Also called on bp. Burnet; [a long conversation on the theology of Cocceius, on the jewish conceptions of Messiah and of sacrifices is reported]. Lord Russel came in and inter-35 rupted our discourse.

P. 44: 15 Nov. a.m. Mr. Bentley took me to [John Moore] bp. of Norwich. He received me in the most friendly way, shaking hands and offering chocolate. He shewed me his London library, and begged me to visit him daily, during the remainder of my stay in England. Dr. Hamel shewed me the Medical college. Then we saw the lunatic asylum Bethlehem. In the evening there was 5 an illumination in the city, in memory of king William's coming.

Pp. 44-5: 16 Nov., Gunpowder plot. A pope of straw, with the devil behind him, are set on a cart: they go from house to house begging contributions for a great 10 bonfire, into which they cast pope and devil.

P. 45: 17 Nov. Dined again with the most noble Spanheim. 18 Nov. Left London for Gravesend.

NOTES.

P. 115 l. 1-17. a coach. Audley house. Cf. p. 66 l. 5 15 with n. See lists of the coaches to and from London in Cooper's Annals IV 273, 331 seq. (A.D. 1749 and 1763). Thoresby's Diary II 229, 230, 3 July 1714: 'Rose by three; walked to Bishopsgate to take coach for Cambridge, was in time, and had the good hap of agreeable converse, 20 Mr. Branthwait and Mr. Dover. We passed through a pleasant country, full of towns, hamlets and seats of the gentry and citizens, to Epping Forest; thence through Woodford to Bishop Stortford, where we dined; thence by Quenden-street and Newport to Littlebury, but had not 25 time to view the late ingenious Mr. Winstanley's house, or the model of his noted lighthouse, which was cast down in the dreadful storm, the same night that he himself perished in the lighthouse itself [the Eddystone] by the sea. Had a view of Audley-end (much of which is now taken 30 down, but formerly reputed the greatest house in England), and of Saffron-Walden; the country people were planting that valuable crocus; thence over Gog-magog's-hill (upon the height whereof is an ancient and large camp with a double vallum) to Cambridge.'

- P. 115 l. 8 and 13. Audley house. a porch so spacious.
Edw. Ward's Works, 2nd ed. II 231-2 (first printed in 1700): 'we jogg'd on about a mile, at which distance from Saffron Walden stood a famous pile of stone building,
5 called Audley End, of which I had often heard, but never till this time had amazed my eyes with such a stupendous structure, which seem'd to me to be a great city, with the license of a traveller, almost as big as London within the walls, if you take gardens and all, and for aught I know,
10 I shall not enlarge so much as to need your pardon for it. This magnificent edifice was first raised by an ancestor of the earl of Suffolk, and sold afterwards to king Charles; the magnitude of this house is reported to be such, that 'tis a day's work for a running footman to open and shut 15 the windows that appertain thereto; and that there is one gallery in it of such a vast length, that if you beat a drum at one end, it shan't be loud enough to fright away a mouse at the other; nor are we able to distinguish at the same distance a hog from a dog, without a spying glass.'
- 20 Cf. Evelyn's Diary, ed. 1854, I 305, 3 Oct. 1654.

- P. 115 l. 19. the university solemnities. Cf. Thoresby's Diary 6 July 1714 (II 230-1): 'at the commencement at St. Mary's: our countryman, Dr. Edmundson, had kept the act yesterday, and Mr. Waterland, master of Maudlin, 25 did the like to-day. Dr. James, Dr. Edmundson, Dr. Gibbons [Tho. Gibbon of St. John's], and Dr. [Tho.] Sherlock (which three commenced yesterday) were opponents, and Dr. Jenkin (master of St. John's) was moderator; all performed excellently, and the prevaricator's speech was smart and ingenious, attended with volleys of hurrahs; the vocal music etc. was curious, and after seven or eight hours' stay there, being sufficiently wearied, I went thence to visit Mr. Baker (a learned antiquary) at St. John's, whom I never saw before, though 30 I corresponded with him many years ago. . . . I was invited by Dr. Edmundson and Mr. [Tho.] Bennett to the commencement treat in the college hall, which I very thankfully embraced, to see the manner of it: the masters of arts now commenced waited in their hoods. Dr. Jenkin, the master, sent to invite me afterwards to his lodgings, with Dr. Edmundson and Mr. (now Dr.) Bennett of Colchester.' 5

P. 116 l. 4. setting a cap on their heads and handing them a book and ring. No notice of these ceremonies is to be found in Wall-Gunning's book on the subject, Cambr. 1828; but they are very ingeniously explained in Bentley's commencement speech 6 July 1725 on the crea- 10 tion of 7 doctors of divinity (printed before his Terence, and by Dyce in his Works III 541-6): 'Vos Academia iubens in hunc doctorum ordinem cooptat. . . . Ne tamen vos et hodie prorsus indonatos dimittat, his suis insignibus de more veteri deductis cohonestat. . . . Ac primo quidem 15 vos pileo donat, libertatis quondam symbolo; quo vos, opinor, hunc gradum semel assecutos post ab omnibus apud se scholasticis exercitiis liberos et immunes constituit. Nec tamen vos deinceps otiosos ac desides fore arbitratur. Quippe, ut olim qui nudo capite domi ac in urbe versa- 20 bantur, ad iter tamen accincti pileo sibi caput aut petaso vel galero muniebant; ita vos hoc suo pignore commonitos esse cupit, ut iam pileo instructi, continuo magis arduum iter ac laboriosum inceptetis. Non iam amplius vobis in hac umbra scholarum, sed in sole ac pulvere, in vera 25 iustaque acie sub dio est militandum; iam cum hostibus ecclesiae undecumque incursantibus, qua concionibus habendis, qua libris edendis, acerrime configendum. Quin et illud vobis inculcat; sicut in nummis veteribus Ulixei et Mercurii ac Vulcani effigies pileatae plerumque vel 30 petasatae spectantur, ita vos in sermonibus scriptisque vestris et Ulixei facundiam et Mercurii acumen et Vulcani artificem operam exprimere oportere.*

'Sed et altero vos dono beat mater Academia, potiore cunctis Persarum Arabumve divitiis. Videtis hunc Codicem 35 Sacrum, melioris vitae ducem et magistrum, immortali-

* 'Hic singulis pileus imponitur.'

tatis obsidem, salutis sponsorem. Hoc vos libro impertit, et primo quidem clauso; quo velut signo vobis indicat, arcana Dei mysteria cunctosque sapientiae thesauros hic haberi reconditos, non illotis, quod aiunt, manibus tractandos, non indocto cuivis et profano temere commit-
 5 tendos.* Vobis vero, quos cum eruditione tum moribus cognoscit idoneos, etiam apertum concedit; unde et vobismet ipsi lucidum veri fontem vivosque latices hauriatis, et auditorum vestrorum animos puro ac salubri rore
 10 caelestis doctrinae irrigetis.†

‘Neque vero vel hic clauditur munificae matris liberalitas. Nam et anulo vos dignatur, et eo quidem aureo; tam libertatis iam vestrae quam auctoritatis indicio. . . . Iam manum ferulae subducitis‡; iam magistrorum dictata
 15 tuto neglegitis; non diutius vestrum est stantes discere, sed ex cathedra docere. . . . Hic vobis anulus more veteri natalicius habeatur; hodie enim doctores nascimini. Hic dies vobis deinceps quasi natalis numerabitur; tanto illi alteri honore anteponendus, quanto maius est doctores
 20 quam infantes nasci. Porro idem hic anulus etiam pronubus vobis esto. Quippe hoc velut arrabone iam mater Academia filiarum suarum natu maximam Theologiam in matrimonium vobis collocat; quam sive dote exigua seu (quod auguror atque opto) luculente dotatam inveneritis, 25 numquam cum illa facietis divortium, uxorem eam vobis, matronam, dominam, caste semper et honorifice habebitis. Quin et ipse ego, more maiorum, cum anulum meum vobis trado, heredem huius cathedrae meae de vobis aliquem, si non dedignamini, libens instituo.’§ Two 30 other ceremonies, not noticed by Burman, the installation in the professor’s chair and the kiss of peace, are handled with no less skill.

P. 116 l. 14. John Laughton of Trin. has verses in * ‘Hic singulis clausus datur liber.’

† ‘Hic apertus.’

‡ [Bentley has mistaken the meaning of this phrase; which is ‘to flinch from the cane’].

§ ‘Hic minimo singulorum digito anulus imponitur.’

Hymenaeus Cantabrigiensis, 1683, f. K 2 vo.; in Acad. Cant. affectus, 1684-5 f. T 4 seq.; in Ducis Cornubiae genethliacon, 1688, f. I 2 vo.; in Lacrymae Cantabr., 1694-5, f. M vo. Moses du Soul (Solanus) in a note on Lucian, Demosth. encom. 33 fin. speaks of an emendation, 'quam [restitutionem] ante annos viginti a me repertam non meis tantum libris adscripseram, sed in codice viri doctiss. Ioh. Laughton bibliothecae Cantabrigiensi praeffecti, amicitiae causa.' Grabe says that Laughton, 'vir erga externos supra modum humanus,' shewed him the Cambridge MS. of the 10 Testaments of the XII. patriarchs; of which Jo. Mill; 'fautor meus gratiosissimus ac numquam satis laudandus' afterwards gave him a transcript. Laughton corrected for Tho. Smith a transcript of Camden's Annals of James (Smith's pref. to Camdeni epist. Lond. 1691, 4to., f. C 2). 15 He supplied the list of the Trinity MSS. for the Biblioth. MSS. Angl. Installed prebendary of the fourth stall at Worcester 22 May 1700; successor nominated 8 Nov. 1714 (Le Neve-Hardy III 83). On 14 Febr. 1688-9 he preached the thanksgiving sermon at St. Mary's on the deliverance 20 of the nation from popery and arbitrary power.

P. 116 l. 15. a most sumptuous dinner. 10 May 1664 a decree was issued by the consistory court, that the inceptor who keeps the divinity act for D.D. at commencement should spend not less than £30 nor more than £40 25 on the dinner; whom he is to invite. Every other doctor then commencing to contribute 5 marks towards the expense (MS. Baker XLII 59). Cf. Monk's Life of Bentley I 75.

P. 116 l. 23. Ludolph Küster, LL.D. by mandate 1705. 30 See Bentley's Corresp. 184, 197, 204, 208, 215, 227, 228, 241, 243-5, 263, 269, 272, 758; indices to Monk's Life of Bentley and Nichols, Lit. Anecd. The qu. of England proposed, Jan. 1706, to give him a gold medal (Fabricii Vita 283 seq., where are extracts from his letters). Com- 35 mercii epistolaris Uffenbachiani selecta I 34 in a letter from J. A. Fabricius 25 Nov. 1714: 'Le roy a donné une

- pension de 2000 livres à M. Küster. Il y a environ six mois qu'il est à Paris, ou il a fait abjuration de la religion protestante.' See also Uffenbach's Reisen III 646. Other authorities are cited by Grässe, Literär-gesch. III (3) 1906
- 5 n. 1 and in A. J. van der Aa, Biogr. Woordenb. der Nederlanden. (Tib. Hemsterhuis profited by his instructions at Amsterdam, Elogium T. H., auctore Dav. Ruhnkenio. Lugd. Bat. 1789, p. 23). His Suidas, 3 vols. fol. 1705 (Monk I 154-5), is one of the largest works that has ever
- 10 issued from the Cambridge press, which had just been brought into an effective state through Bentley's endeavours (Monk I 73-4, 153-6). In Epigrammatum specimen novum, p. 37, after Musarum Anglicarum delectus alter, 1698, are verses to William III. 'in gratulationem pacis
- 15 typis academicis Cantab. ex Batavia nuper comparatis feliciter mandatum.' In 1700 Matt. Prior and others were in treaty with the Paris press for a supply of greek type (MSS. de la biblioth. du roi, Paris 1787, I p. xciii seq.).

P. 116 l. 31 and 117 l. 4. Laughton was not a doctor.

- 20 P. 117 l. 4. library and coins. Cf. p. 194 l. 28.

P. 117 l. 7. lately edited Virgil. ad optim. exempl. fidem recens. Cantabr. typis ac imp. Iac. Tonson. 1701. 4to. ibid. 1702, '7, '11, 8vo.

P. 117 l. 13. the bishop of Ely. Symon Patrick.

- 25 P. 118 l. 1. Dr. Mills. John Mill or Mills. Cf. p. 319. White Kennett in Brydges' Restituta I 50-1: 'He was a poor child, tabarder and fellow of St. John's college, Oxford; installed in the 4th preb. of Canterbury, July 27, 1704. Died . . . aet. 63. He was a ready extempore preacher,
- 30 became very early chaplain to king Charles II. by the interest of a pupil's father; was discovered by bp. Fell to have a good warm impetuous inclination to studies and labours, and was therefore by the bishop advised to undertake the laborious task of giving a new edition of
- 35 the Greek Testament, with various lections; and to encourage him the bishop promised to undertake for the charge of the impression. But upon the bishop's death, the author was forced to take it upon himself; and by the expense of it brought himself into great difficulties, and could never have subsisted without a wife's portion. He succeeded Dr. Crossthaite in the principality of St. Edmund hall, and had thereby the advantage of shining 5 the brighter in it: but was so much taken up with the one thing, his Testament, that he had not leisure to attend to the discipline of the house, which rose and fell according to his different vice-principals. I think he talked and wrote the best latin of any man in the university, and 10 was the most airy and facetious in conversation—in all respects a bright man. He drank very much coffee, and his apoplexy seemed owing to it. He would often complain of Dr. Beveridge for a narrow man in leaving the prebendal house in Canterbury in a very bad condition, 15 and refusing to allow one farthing towards the repairs of it.' Ibid. III 370, White Kennett to S. Blackwell 5 July 1707: 'Dr. Mills died at Edm. Hall, of an apoplexy, in the morning, June 23d; the jest of the Terrae filius that he finished his will but not his testament, is now reversed; 20 for he died intestate, and his estate goes to two children of his father, born since his marriage at 80.' Same to same, I [? II] July 1707 (ibid. 388): 'I paid for Dr. Mills' book 10s. subscription, and 20s. at delivery, in sheets, and 6s. binding. I can have the favour from Mr. 25 archd. Worth to have another on the same terms; it seems to be dear, but it is indeed a very valuable book, and I think the greatest work that was ever yet performed by any single hand. I will get one ready to send you as soon as possible.' Cf. ibid. 366. He made preparations 30 for an edition of Hippolytus (Fabricii Vita 148 seq., 354; cf. the notices 'ad lectorem' before each of the volumes of Hippolytus ed. Fabric.). His epitaph is in Le Neve, Monum. Anglic. 1650-1718, p. 219. His notes on Clem. Rom. were partially printed by Russel, the whole by 35 Jacobson. Uffenbach (commerc. epistol. Uffenb. I 41) to J. A. Fabricius 2 Febr. 1715: 'Millius solertissimus nimisque,

- quod multis videtur, anxius alias harum [of various readings] ruspator.' Cf. Uhlrii Sylloge nova epistolarum I 531, 629 seq.; indices to Nichols, Lit. Anecd., Reliquiae Hearnianae, Wood's Athen., F. O., Annals and Life; Bentley's 5 Correspondence and Life; Biogr. Brit.; the prefaces to critical editions of the N. T., and introductions to the same; Meyer, Geschichte der Schrift-Erklärung, Gött. 1805, IV 161 sq., 171 sq., 295 sq. A most competent judge, F. H. Scrivener, A plain introduction to the criticism of the 10 N. T. Cambr. 1861. 8vo., pp. 316-7, says: 'Dr. Mill's services to Biblical criticism surpass in extent and value those rendered by any other, except perhaps one man yet living..... During the many years that Mill's N. T. has been my daily companion, my reverence for that diligent 15 and earnest man has been constantly growing.'

P. 118 l. 8 seq. On the back of the same page. See F. H. Scrivener, Bezae Cod. Cantabr. Cambr. 1864, 4to., 325, 428.

P. 118 l. 13. The following leaf. ibid. p. 326.

- 20 P. 119 l. 1. a great gap. ibid. pp. 15-6.

P. 119 l. 3. These liturgical notes are all collected ibid. 448 seq.

P. 119 l. 5. This note ibid. 431 col. 3 ad fin. The third name is Patisarea.

- 25 P. 119 l. 10 and 12. ibid. 449 col. 1 l. 1, 5, 12.

P. 119 l. 17. one page. Eight pages, ibid. 161, 172, 173, 213, 218, 220, 221, 225. 197 has no heading; 214, 236 have Luā.

- P. 119 l. 20. Thomas Smith. Cf. p. 316 l. 22. Letters
 30 of this learned nonjuror are in Europ. Mag. 1797, Nov. p. 293, Dec. p. 364; 1798, Jan. p. 8; Sir H. Ellis, Letters of eminent literary men 238 seq. Baker has noted in his copy of Smith's Vitae: 'Obiit doctiss. auctor 110. die Maii an. 1710, anno aet. 72, plus minus. Natus erat
 35 tertio die Iun. an. 1638. Dr. Tho. Smith died at London the 11th of May, between 3 and 4 of the clock in the morning, and was buried on Sat. night following in St.

Anne's church, between 10 and 11 o'clock. From Mr. Hearne's Collection of curious discourses, append. p. 298.' See Biogr. Brit. 3720-3, 3727-32. His help is acknowledged by Almeloveen in his pref. to Casauboni Epistolae; he is highly praised by T. Hearne, Camd. 1 pr. vii, lvi, c, 5 civ, cvi, cxli, cxliii. Graevius, 18 May 1695, sent to Smith through Bentley a copy of a speech which he had printed in honour of the late queen. Bentley (Corresp. 98, 101) sent it to the abp. instead; he would not deliver it to Smith, 'homini alioqui probo et erudito; verum, 10 quod tu, opinor, haud inaudiveras, animo erga regem Gulielmum et beatae MARIAE memoriam non parum iniquo.' MS. letters of his to J. W. van Meel (Uffenbach's Reisen III 556). See the indices to Wood's works, Nichols, Lit. Anecd., Reliqu. Hearn., and Macray's Annals of the 15 Bodleian, where Smith's MSS. are deposited.

P. 119 l. 25. a MS. of several epistles. Dd xi 90, (Scholz 21). l. 27. Dr. Covell. Cf. p. 147 l. 9 with the n. l. 29. two fine copies of the N. T. Cf. p. 148 l. 15 seq.

P. 120 l. 2. Hen. James, pres. of Qu., has verses in 20 Hymenaeus Cantabr. 1683, f. C vo., in Acad. Cantabr. affectus, 1684-5, f. C 2 vo., in Ducis Cornubiae genethliacon, 1688, f. B I vo. His will in MS. Baker XXXVIII 223-8 (see Catal. of Cambr. MSS. v 463 for a summary): 'Henry, the son of Henry James and Martha his wife, 25 baptiz'd Dec. 25, 1642. From Kingston register, co. Somerset. [He bequeathed £100 to the parish.] He was born at Kingston, his father being then minister there, and was put into Crocomb by the committee, after his son Henry was born. [The son bequeathed £100 to Croken- 30 ham.] From Sir Phil. Sydenham, Somerset. Hen. James Somersetensis admissus prius in coll. [litora obducitur] Maii 1660, translatus est ad nos Aug. 26, 1661, tutore Domino Newberg. Jan. 26, 1664 Dominus James admissus est socius in locum Mri Lade. Regr. coll. Regin.' ibid. 328: 35 'Henr. James, S.T.P., ob. 15 Mar. 1716-7.' Cf. xxv 433, MS. Cole VII 160. He was king's chaplain, preby.

of Canterb. and York (Hist. Reg. 15 Mar. 1716-7). He published a sermon on Luke 1 74-5, preached before the king at Newmarket, Lond. 1674, 4to. Bp. Hoadly gives an account of his humour as moderator (Pref. to Dr. S. Clarke's Sermons): 'The royal professor of divinity, Dr. James, who was a learned, ready and very acute disputer, exerted himself beyond what was his common practice, in order to oppose and try him to the utmost. By the help of a great memory and fluency of words, and a certain 5 knack in the art of disputing, he first went into a long examination of Dr. Clarke's thesis, (which was an elaborate discourse upon the former of these two questions) sifting every part of it with the strictest nicety; and afterwards pressed him with all the force of syllogism, in its 10 various forms, thro' the course of the disputation. Here was an adversary worthy of such a respondent. To the former Dr. Clarke made an extempore reply in a continued discourse for near half an hour, in which, without any hesitation either for thoughts or for language, he took off
 15 the force of all that the professor had said, in such a manner, that many of the auditors declared themselves astonished, and own'd that if they had not been within sight of him, they should have supposed him to have read every word of this reply out of a paper. After this, thro'
 20 the course of the syllogistical disputation, he guarded so well against the arts which the professor was master of in perfection; he replied so readily to the greatest difficulties that such an objector could propose, and press'd upon the professor so close and so hard with his answers,
 25 clear and intelligible to all, that perhaps never was such a conflict heard in those schools; never such a disputation kept up for so long a time with such spirit, nor ever any which ended with greater, if equal honour, to the respondent. The professor himself, who was a man
 30 of humour as well as learning, said to him aloud, towards the end of the disputation (an accidental debate having arisen, as I have been informed, about the meaning of the word exacuo) profecto, *me probe exacui*sti, which I hardly know how to interpret to the English reader, unless by a phrase of a low kind, In truth you have thoroughly rubb'd me up. Others think the word was exercuisti. They remember that the professor used often to speak to a respondent after a long disputation, finem iam faciam; nam te probe exercui: "I will now make an end, for I have sufficiently work'd you," and say that he was going to use the same expression to Dr. Clarke, but after the word te, stop'd and corrected himself and said, — nam ME probe 10 exercuisti—"For you have work'd me thoroughly." This was look'd upon as a very high compliment in his humorous way of speaking.'

P. 120 l. 3. Humfr. Gower. See p. 27 l. 20 seq. .

P. 120 l. 5. Thomas Smoult has verses in Acad. Cantabr. 15 affectus, 1684-5, f. D3, and in Lacrymae Cantabr. 1694-5, f. C. ' Thomas Smoult, filius Edmundi Smoult de Latham in comitatu Lancastriensi generosi natus, ibidem litteris grammaticis institutus in schola publica de Winwicke sub magistro Gosse praeceptore eius, annos natus sedecim 20 admissus est subsizator sub magistro Compton tutore et fideiussore eius 19 die Maii 1650.' St. John's register. Admitted Ashton fellow of St. John's 5 May 1664, successor elected 22 Mar. 1707-8, sen. fell. 6 Apr. 1685, successor appointed 3 Nov. 1707; college preacher 4 May 25 1667. He was a special friend of Is. Milles; lord keeper North, who had known him well at college, would enquire of any Johnian whom he might meet, 'how honest Tom Smoult did?' (Life of Is. Milles, Lond. 1721, 8vo., my copy ascribes the authorship to 'Mr. Pocock,' pp. 24-5; a 30 curious story is told ibid. 25-9): 'It happened not many years after the restoration of king Charles II., that Mr. Smoult was either a visiter or a guest at the house of a certain gentleman who had one day several other gentlemen who came to dine with him, some by invitation, and 35 others of their own accord. Mr. Smoult being the only clergyman in the company, was oblig'd to say grace before they sat down to dinner, which accordingly he did, but whilst he was performing this office, a certain young gentleman in the company behaved himself in such a manner, with so much contempt and ridicule of the parson, as he called him, that all the company, as well as Mr. Smoult, could not but take particular notice of him. Mr. Smoult however said nothing, nor shewed any manner of resentment of the affront, lest he should any way render the company uneasy during the time of dinner. When dinner was over, and it was Mr. Smoult's duty to say grace afterwards, the same gentleman was so remarkably silly and rude whilst he was performing this duty, that Mr. Smoult and the whole company could do no otherwise than much observe it. Mr. Smoult thought it became him to resent this unaccountable behaviour in a way somewhat different from that in which the rest of the company thought fit to take notice of it, and calling the gentleman aside, into a little room hard by, he reproved him pretty severely for his profaneness and ill manners. Upon this the gentleman seemed so much nettled that he told him he would never bear such an indignity, but did demand, and would have from him, an honorable amends. Upon which Mr. Smoult told him he did not know that any amends was due to him, nor what he meant by an honorable one; whereupon, in a seeming rage, the gentleman clapped his hand on his sword. Mr. Smoult then told him "that he wore no sword, and his profession withheld him from the use of one; adding, that he did suppose that was the chief reason which made him so forward to demand a satisfaction which he knew in the present case could not nor would not be given to him;" and so left him and went to the company. After he had sat a little while, there came in a servant, who, whispering him in the ear, told him there was one without desired to speak with him. Mr. Smoult, not thinking any more of what had passed, and never imagining it was the aforementioned gentleman who sent for him, went into the garden, whither the servant led him, and at the upper end of it, found this same gentleman walking to and fro, with two swords under his arm. As soon as Mr. Smoult came to him, the gentleman told him he did insist upon Mr. parson's (so he styled him) giving him the satisfaction he had demanded; and that now there was no room for his former refusal, since he had there two swords, of which he might take which he pleased, holding out the hilts of the swords to him. After a little pause, Mr. Smoult accepted of one of the swords, and retiring to a small distance, stripped himself to his waistcoat, drew and apply'd himself to the combat; resolving however, as he said, to be only on the defensive. The gentleman, after some flourishes, to shew how well he had been bred to the sword, made three or four hearty thrusts at him, the last of which Mr. Smoult, who was a perfect master of his weapon, put by with so great force, such exactness and steadiness of direction and motion, and such intrepidity of mind, that he had like to have disarmed the gentleman by flinging his sword out of his hand, and at the same time very nimbly and dextrously running in to him, threw up his heels, and very fairly laid him on his back. After which, holding the point of his sword near his breast, he told him he did apprehend "that by the laws of the honorable satisfaction he had so importunately demanded and taken he ought now to beg his life;" which the gentleman however refused to do. Whereupon Mr. Smoult took his sword from him, and broke it over his head. And then after he had put on his cloaths, he broke also the sword which he himself had used, and so went into the company he had left, who knew nothing of what had passed in his absence. This affair, as it had no witnesses to it, so might it have gone off without being ever mentioned, if the gentleman, who was concerned, had not been so indiscreet as to publish it. Mr. Smoult, for reasons best known to himself, always afterwards disapproved and condemned his own conduct

- herein, tho' some may be apt to say there was nothing in it that ought to be blamed, and as I have heard Mr. Milles say, he was not well pleased to hear it at any time mentioned.' He was first Knightbridge professor, and 5 a grace passed 10 Oct. 1685, that he and his successors should rank with the other professors (MS. Baker XXXIII 247: Stat. Acad. Cant. p. 401). His epitaph is in Salmon's Herts 401 and Le Neve's Monum. Anglic. 1700-15, p. 131. He was buried at Barkway, Herts, where he was vicar
 10 (MSS. Cole III 58 b, XXXV 49). White Kennett to S. Blackwell I [misprint for II ?] July 1707 (Brydges, Restituta III 388): 'Dr. Smoult, rector of Northchurch in Hertfordshire, and casuistical professor of divinity in Cambridge, dying there at the end of last week, left £600 to pious uses, 15 £200 to clergymen's widows, £200 to augment his professorship, and £200 to the public library.' On 11 Jan. 1719-20 a grace passed for enrolling him among the benefactors of the university, because of his bequest of £300 for buying land to augment the salary of the prof.
 20 of practical theology (MS. Baker XXXVIII 248).

- P. 120 l. 6. George Oxenden, or Oxinden, of Trin. h. LL.B. 1673, M.A. by mandate 1675, LL.D. 1679; pupil of Roger Meredith (Ward's Gresham Prof. 255); prof. 1684, mast. Tr. h. 1688; has verses in Hymenaeus Cantabr.
 25 1683, f. C 4 vo., Acad. Cantabr. affectus, 1684-5, f. D 4 vo., Ducis Cornubiae genethliacon, 1688, f. C 2, Lacrymae Cantabr. 1694-5, f. C 4. Dean of the arches (Trevor's William III. II 480). See Nichols, Topographer and geneal. III 44; Brydges, Autobiogr. I 82, cf. 96. Cole's 30 account of him is printed in Brydges, Restituta, IV 388-9; see MS. Cole XXX 214. A younger Geo. Oxenden 'Londinensis LL.B. socius in locum Rob. Mapletost LL.D. defuncti ex fund. Mowse,' elected 2, adm. 7 June 1715 (Register of Tr. h. in MS. Baker IV 369).

- 35 P. 120 l. 8. Chr. Greene fellow of Caius B.A. 1671-2; (Green) M.A. 1675, M.D. 1685, prof. 1700. Another Chr. Green (prob. his son) was of Eman. M.B. 1714,

M.D. by mandate 1717. Chr. Green of Chr. B.A. 1741-2, M.A. 1745 was the professor's grandson (MS. Cole XIX 32 a), and sister's son to Wm. Fordham of Emm. B.A. 1717, M.A. 1721, conduct of King's, who lived at Royston. The professor subscribed for Strype's Parker and Annals. 5

P.120 l.9. William Whiston. See p.178 l.28.

P.120 l.10. James Talbot, of Trin. B.A. 1686-7, M.A. 1690, Hebr. prof. 1699, D.D. by mandate 1705. He has verses in Acad. Cantabr. affectus, 1684-5, f. I vo. Rector of Spofforth, Yorkshire (Nichols, Collection of poems, 10 III 89, VIII 292). Editor of Horace, Cambr. 1799, 4to., 1701, 12mo.; published a visitation sermon on Matt. xviii 17. The judicial power of the church asserted. Lond. 1708. 4to.—The church-catechism explained by a paraphrase, and confirmed by proofs from the holy scripture; to which is 15 added a table of questions to be answered from the catechism. Lond. 1705. 8vo.—The Christian schoolmaster; or the duty of those who are employ'd in the publick instruction of children. Lond. 1707. 8vo.

P.120 l.11. Joshua Barnes. See p.195 l.2. 20

P.120 l.12. John Luke, fellow of Christ's, has arabic verses in Ducis Cornubiae genethliacon, 1688, f. B 3.

Z C. v. UFFENBACH.

Sure I am there needeth no such pains to be took, or provision to be made, about the preeminence of our English universities, to regulate their places, they having better learned humility from the precept of the Apostle, In honour preferring one another. Wherefore I presume my aunt Oxford will not be justly offended, if in this book I give my own mother the upper hand, and first begin with her history. Thus desiring God to pour his blessing on both, that neither may want milk for their children, or children for their milk, we proceed to the business.

THOMAS FULLER, History of Cambridge, Preface.

LIFE OF UFFENBACH.

Joh. Geo. Schelhorn's life of his patron, prefixed to vols. I. and II. of Commercii epistolaris Uffenbachiani selecta, Ulmae et Memmingae, 1753-6, 5 vols. 8vo., was translated into german by Schelhorn's son-in-law, Joh. Geo.

5 Hermann, and prefixed to the Reisen, Ulm, 1753; Hermann drew some additional details from a larger latin life by Schelhorn, which has never been printed. From these the following account is taken. See also Saxii Onomast. VI 332.

10 Uffenbach was born at Frankfort on the Mayn 22 Febr. 1682-3, of a good family. From his infancy he took delight in an illustrated Bible and in Gottfried's history of the four monarchies, with Merian's plates. He early learnt to play the violin and to bind books; and was

15 a curious observer of all mechanical arts. He was sent to school at his earnest entreaty, 1 Oct. 1694, to Rudelstadt under Jo. Ern. Müller; here he spent his play-time and half the night in study, until his master, fearing for his health, and finding warnings ineffectual, 'candelarum

20 copiam denegabat.' He afterwards complained that history, chronology, genealogy and geography were neglected in this school; which he would have substituted for logic and scholastic metaphysics. He made up for the defect however by his private studies; e.g. he could

25 recite whole chapters of Morhof's Polyhistor by heart. He remained at school, without one visit to his home, for four years. In 1698 he was sent to Strassburg university, where he speedily made himself at home in libraries, public and private, and museums, and in the shops of booksellers and dealers in curiosities. He attended lectures on chronology, law, anatomy; learnt to play the flute; became perfect in french; weak eyesight however compelled him to abandon drawing after three months' study. In his journeys his brother afterwards aided him with his pencil. In the year 1700 he lost both his parents, and entered at Halle, where he attended the lectures of J. S. Stryck on law, and those of the admirable J. F. Buddeus on philosophy, to whom he declared that he owed more than to any other man. In April 1701 he attended the Leipzig book-mart: already he had a library of his own fit for a professor. He had free access, when at Halle, to the public and several private libraries, from one of which he borrowed many travels; these afterwards stood him in good stead, as he digested into 6 thick volumes all their information respecting the curiosities of various countries. At the same time he read through Gottfr. Arnold's Kirchen-und Ketzer-Historie, and greedily devoured the learned journals; he also attended lectures on natural philosophy, and studied the arguments by which Parker, Bentley, Ray, Nieuwentijt and others prove a Creator from the works of creation. He applied himself likewise for the first time to greek studies, and in two months was able to construe the gr. testament. He attended courses on politics and modern history by Buddeus; on philosophy by Christian Thomasius, who seasoned his lectures with scurrilous jokes at the expense of his colleagues, and encouraged a love of paradox. In September 1703 he took the degree of doctor in civil and canon law. At this time he had drawn up a plan for visiting the whole of Europe, on a scale which would have required nine years for its execution. In order to record his observations on the spot, he practised writing pencil-notes in his pocket, unobserved by those with whom he was conversing. In the autumn of 1703 he travelled through part of Germany, inspecting libraries, museums, churches, workshops, studios, copying inscriptions and manuscripts, and now and then, under seal of secrecy, some prohibited book. On 10 Jan. 1704, he returned home to Frankfort, and there spent upwards of five years, 'the happiest of his life,' in collecting and studying books; some of which he always had with him, even when walking, driving, or lying on the banks of the Mayn. At first he bought books and MSS. on all subjects; but gradually limited his purchases for the most part to MSS., especially the correspondence of scholars, and books enriched with their notes, early-printed, rare, and prohibited books, books on political and literary history, and documents relating to Frankfort. In the hope of making his library generally useful, he spent much time in compiling catalogues; one single list, of tracts comprised in large collections, begun in 1706, contained 60,000 entries in 1725. In a trip to Holland in 1705 he mastered the dutch language, and for the first time attended book-sales. In 1706 he appears as an ardent collector of coins. In 1709 he so arranged his affairs as to allow of a lengthened journey in Holland and England, with a design of settling for life in some Oxford college. He took with him his brother John Frederick, then a student of Halle, afterwards 'consul magnificus' of Frankfort. When preparing for his journey he saw twin-sisters, Helen and Judith, joined at the hips, born in Hungary in 1701, who spoke dutch, hungarian, french and german. From J. M. Heineccius at Halle he learnt the art of taking casts of seals; having great skill in leading all with whom he conversed to the topics of which they were masters, and thus adding to his knowledge wherever he went. On 8 Nov. 1709 he set out on his journey through lower Saxony and Friesland into the Low Countries and England. In his visits to the english libraries he made corrections in Bernard's catalogue of MSS. sufficient to fill a volume. The english diet and climate, and especially the disturbed state of public affairs in this country, made him abandon the design of settling in Oxford.* The wars barred the way to Italy and France; accordingly he returned to Frankfort in April 1711, bringing with him more than 4000 volumes which he had purchased on his travels. He found the friend, with whom he had before lived, no longer alive, and 5 knowing that the widow would not interfere with his tastes, 'studium suum bibliothecarium haud remoraturam,' he married her. In 1718 she accompanied him on a tour through the Low Countries. In Flanders, which was virgin ground, he stole away from his lady friends to 10 inspect the Jesuits' libraries at Antwerp and Louvain; 'Musasque, ringentibus licet ac opprobantibus Gratiis meis, sectatus sum.' He was very courteously received by Du Sollier, who had the chief oversight of the Acta Sanctorum. The greek and latin MSS. of the monasteries had all, he 15 was assured, perished in the wars; he was forced to content himself with historical and genealogical documents. His correspondence was very wide; he preserved the rough copies of his own letters, latin, french or german, and bound them up with his correspondents' replies. Of 20 these he bequeathed to Schelhorn one thick volume in fol., and nineteen in 4to.; containing in all more than 5000 letters, by about 160 authors. In 1725 he exchanged his fine cabinet of coins for 100 MSS. on Swiss history with the father of J. B. Ott, the Lambeth librarian. He amassed 25 a fine collection of seals and charters; and noted down many thousand abbreviations employed by mediæval scribes. A 'bibliotheca diplomatica Uffenbachiana' was intended to comprise all his charters, chronologically arranged under different heads. Of MSS. he had about 30 2000; of books containing the collations, corrections and other notes of the learned, nearly 400; of inedited letters more than 20,000, a catalogue of which was published by its purchaser, the learned J. C. Wolf, at Hamburg, 1736, 8vo.; the collection itself is now in the Hamburg library. 35 He continually employed young students to make tran-

* Cf. Commerc. epist. Uffenb. II 293-4, 347.

scripts of his MSS., for purposes of exchange. Every scholar was welcome freely to use these treasures; Martene and Durand quote the testimony of Schannat; he found no library to equal it in Germany: 'Car outre un très
5 beau cabinet de medailles, il a des bustes, statues, bas-reliefs, des bijoux en grand nombre, et pardessus cela une bibliothèque des plus riches et des mieux ordonnées. Pour vous en donner une idée, je vous dirai, qu'il travaille actuellement à en donner le catalogue au public,
10 en deux gros volumes en folio, dont l'un ne contiendra que ses manuscrits, tous également rares. . . Du reste, je ne sçauois assez vous vanter le sçavoir et les manières nobles et gracieuses de ce Monsieur de Uffenbach, qui ne souhaite rien tant que la connaissance des sçavans, à
15 qui il se fait un plaisir de communiquer tout sans réserve.' Uffenbach corrects this statement in some points; he never intended to publish a catalogue of his printed books; the two volumes projected were to comprise the description of MSS. alone; the first and only volume
20 appeared at Halle in 1720, fol., Uffenbach himself describing all except the greek and oriental MSS. The Hamburg library contains the album, in three 4to. volumes, in which Uffenbach's learned visitors inscribed their names between 1711 and 1733. Among the authors who were 25 indebted to his help were J. A. Bengel, J. C. Wolf, Chr. A. Heumann, P. B. Pez, and his devoted biographer and editor, J. G. Schelhorn. When no longer able to use the library as he wished, he issued (1729-1731) bibliotheca universalis Uffenbachiana, in 4 thick volumes 8vo. The 30 books thus offered for sale did not include those relating to literary history, or to the city of Frankfort. These two classes he still continued to increase by purchases. To his native city he bequeathed his local collections; of books unsold at the former sale, and of books on 35 literary history, a new catalogue was issued, also in 4 vols.; they were sold by auction in March 1735 and the following months.

‘He was of choleric-sanguine temperament, of middle stature, of a noble countenance, somewhat pale, of dark large eyes, which betrayed the calmness and goodness of his soul; of a voice manly, strong, but not harsh, and what is the main point, ever agreeing with the thoughts of his mind; of a habit of body rather spare than lusty; of decent and grave carriage; pious and reverent towards God; temperate in diet, scorning all pleasures, but such as spring from literary pursuits; somewhat irritable, but soon appeased and not eager for revenge, a lover of justice and fairness, regarding neither fear or favour in passing sentence; never more rejoiced, than when by his advice and his resources he could advance the interests of the literary world.’ In his daily devotions he employed the 25th psalm; he often applied ps. 139 13-18 to his deliverance before birth; when, owing to a severe fall of his mother, he received a bruise, the marks of which he retained to his dying day. He early chose ps. 39 5-10 as the text of his funeral sermon, applying the seventh verse to his library. He died 6 Jan. 1734, and lies buried in the grave-yard of St. Catharine’s church, Frankfort, near his friend Job Ludolf. His younger daughter, the light of his eyes, died before him at the age of 21; she knew the place of every book in his library, and was a good latin scholar; she had read to her father the whole of the Basel lexicon in 4 folio vols., and many other books.

In a treatise ‘de studio Uffenbachii bibliothecario’ prefixed to parts III. and IV. of the commercii epist. Uffenb. selecta, Schelhorn calls him, as many others had done, the Peiresc of Germany; and assuredly he did not yield to that ‘procureur général de la littérature,’ either in ardour or in liberality.* In the year 1704 the monks of Cologne sent to Frankfort market a number of MSS. in loose sheets, as mere waste; Uffenbach selected from the mass all that seemed of value, and thus laboriously bringing together their Sibylline leaves, secured many complete and important works: fine MSS. of the fathers, martyrologies, etc. were sold to him by weight. By himself and his agents

* He says himself (commerc. epist. III 20) 16 Apr. 1712: Nihil profecto mihi optatius, quam ut viros bibliophilos adiuvem: nihilque magis odio habeo, quam bibliotaphos.

5 he ransacked not only bookstalls, but goldbeaters', bookbinders' and trunk-makers' workshops, and the shops of bakers, grocers, confectioners, fishmongers; one fine folio, containing the acts of the councils of Constance and Bâle, had fallen 'in manus illotas, vel potius profanas nonnullarum virginum,' who pared away the margins for patterns of lace. After some years he gave to his brother his mathematical and physical library, and concentrated his attention chiefly upon history. He formed an unrivalled collection of prohibited and condemned books; but was

15 careful to lock up the classes in which they were kept, granting access to them only to men of proved discretion. Flysheets, controversial tracts, dissertations, might often have perished utterly, but for his care. In his early years he had great opportunities for collecting MSS., the stores

20 of the monasteries being at that time in the market; but the rivalry of the English, and the Vandalism of bookbinders and goldsmiths, exhausted the supply before his death. Of manuscript letters he had no less than 30,000; of the autographs of famous men 6000. Like the great

25 English collector of our day, he catalogued his books with his own hand, filling 50 thick folios with the titles. All were wrapped in blue paper, with the title of the contents on the back; each separate tract was marked by a separate piece of paper. His very dreams turned upon

30 books; he would discourse of them in his sleep, so as to awake his wife; often he would seem to see books on some worthy but neglected theme, and regretted that he had not catalogued his copious 'bibliothecam e somniis.' He drew up a list of 300 desiderata, some of which are

35 highly suggestive: e.g. 'de haereticis fictis'; 'de docta, pia ac necessaria in theologicis et mysteriis sacris ignorantia.'

UFFENBACH'S TRAVELS.

He writes 9 Apr. 1712 (commerc. epist. III 17): 'prae-stabo id, quam primum diarium itineris, nuper per Saxoniam inferiorem, Frisiam, universum Belgium et Angliam a me peracti, quod nunc prae manibus habeo, absolvero.' It was not until 1753-4 however that there appeared at Ulm 5 in three volumes 8vo. Herrn Zacharias Conrad von Uffenbach merkwürdige Reisen durch Niedersachsen, Holland und Engelland. The following translation is a summary, more or less full, except in the portions between inverted commas, which is literal.

Vol. II 426-7: 4 June 1710, after waiting for despatches from the duke of Marlborough, embarked at Helvoetsluys on board the Dolphin, at 6½ p.m.

Pp. 428-32: Twenty-four hours generally reckoned a good passage; with a speeding wind the captain expected 15 to cross in nine or ten hours; but the wind shifted, privateers forced the packet out of her course, so that it was not till 1½ p.m. on 5 June that we reached Harwich. Miseries of sea-sickness. Pp. 432-3: Importance of the custom house officers, who stared hard at 20 twelve new shirts which I had bought in Holland; however, as they had my name, and were purposely tumbled, they were allowed to pass. We spent the night here, and found every thing very dear and very bad. We hired a four-horse coach for next day, and paid full fare, five 25 guineas, though we were only three persons, with three trunks. These coaches are very oldfashioned, carrying three before and three behind.

P. 433: 6 June. At 6 a.m. we set out and at Manningtree (12 miles), found that they wished to search our 30 trunks again; but only in order to extract a 'Trinkgeld.' Pp. 434-5: at 2 p.m. we reached Colchester (8 miles), where we dined; at 7 p.m. Witham (5 miles), where we slept, as the coaches generally go no farther, and the roads are dangerous at night. 7 June at 7 a.m. we set out, and baited at Chelmsford (7 miles); reached Brentwood (10 miles) at 2, where we dined. At Rumford (5 miles) and all the way thence to London, we met a multitude of travellers, riding and driving; the dust was so thick, that one could scarce see a hand's breadth before one.

P. 435: We reached London (10 miles) at 7 p.m., where our things were again searched; took one of the hackney-coaches which stand in every street for hire, and drove to 'Suffolk street at the upper end,' to the lodgings of Mistress Benoit, from the Palatinate.

8 June, Whitsunday. Went in the afternoon to walk in St. James's park (Délices de la grande Bretagne IV 837-8), which is stocked with the finest english kine, and with red deer. P. 436: There are no longer any birds here. The park was full of common people; on week-days persons of quality frequent it, all on foot, except the queen and the dukes of Marlborough and Buckingham, who are allowed to drive. Both here and in the streets many masks are seen, mostly courtesans, of whom there are great numbers here.

Pp. 436-8: 9 June. The festival was not at all observed. We went to Chelsea-college, described in Délices de la grande Bretagne IV 853. The altar and pulpit were hung with violet velvet, with the common symbol of the Jesuits, which however is from the time of king James, when the Jesuits bore rule everywhere. [For a similar jealousy of the IHS. see above p. 313 l. 22]. In the afternoon drove in the Haypark, which was crowded with carriages, driving round and round.

Pp. 438-42: 10 June, Tuesday. To the Exchange; then to the garden behind the Drapers' hall, and back to the Exchange, where I bought some books. At dinner-time, 2 o'clock, took a boat to Whitehall; on a windy day wigs suffer greatly in the open boats, but many are covered. At Whitehall saw the wreck of the fire; only the chapel remains. Cavalry mounting guard.

At 3.30, after dinner, walked in Westminster and the Haymarket. In the evening went to Haymarket theatre, to the opera Hydaspes; it was the last performance of the season. The director Nicolai [or Nicolini] is very highly paid; of the women singers Margarita de l'Epine was the best. Most of the performers are Germans and then French; for the English are not much better than the Dutch. The director of the music is from Brandenburg, the well-known Pepusch. Scenery, decorations and acting were excellent. 5

Pp. 442-4: 11 June, Wednesday. To 'Paternoster row, the corner house,' to Badman's store of old bound books, which is the best in England. Elsewhere you find few latin books, but here there were two shops full, and the floors piled up with books. The prices were however so high, that I only bought a few english historians, and Mabillon de re diplomatica, the last very cheap, at 2 guineas. Latin books may be bought far cheaper in Holland than here; english books however must be bought here, as they do not go out of the country; when I began to study english at Frankfort, I could meet with nothing but a bible. Widow Swaart, behind the exchange at Amsterdam, is the only dealer in english books there, and she has nothing but sermons and the like. Accordingly I set about forming a great collection, especially of english historians. In the evening we saw a comedy, 'you man of Kent.' 15

Pp. 444-451: 12 June. Took a boat to Greenwich 6 miles. When we came to the bridge we got out and walked, leaving the boatman to row through alone, for the stream is so strong, that boats are often upset. The hospital is far finer than Chelsea. They have been at work on it for 14 years, and it is not half finished: 6d. a month is stopped out of every sailor's pay for the works. The painting of the hall ceiling alone cost £1000: the 25

- architect is Mr. James Thornhill at St. Paul's church. The game in the park is exceedingly tame. We found John Flamsteed, the famous astronomer royal, in his study. He is bent down with gout, but received us with politeness rare in England. He spoke latin tolerably well and
- 5 fluently for an Englishman, and not so much with the english pronunciation, as to hinder us from understanding one another. He enquired after our german mathematicians, Sturm, Weigel, Bernouilli, and shewed us a vast number
- 10 of his written observations, taken during 30 years. He has a salary, but, as he says, so small, that he could not have done what he has, if he had not been a rich tradesman's son. He is of weak constitution, a small, insignificant-looking man. He complained that neither
- 15 Bayer nor others understood Ptolemy rightly; and shewed us that countless fixed stars had been misplaced. When I said, it was a pity he did not edit Ptolemy, he said, now prince George, his patron, was dead, there was scarcely any hope of it. The mathematical and physical sciences,
- 20 and the royal society, seemed drooping. He sent his amanuensis to shew us the observatory, which is much worse furnished with instruments than we expected. [Uffenbach then describes the observatory, and especially a quadrant, of which he gives a plate].
- 25 Pp. 451-5. On our return with the flood we shot the bridge, the water on either side standing much higher than our boat. In the afternoon we drove to the watchmaker Buschmann, a German, formerly at the Hague, who has now for many years resided here; his watches are as
- 30 good as Quare's, and even as Tompion's [Tho. T. cf. p. 448, and Bechmann, hist. of invent. ed. Bohn, II 364], which are much dearer. My brother bought of him a gold watch and chain and cornelian seal set in gold for £21. The neat steel swivels cost £6 more. In the
- 35 evening we went to the Paris coffee-house, opposite our lodgings, where much gambling goes on and many Germans have been shamefully cheated. But there are many rooms, and, though you do not play, you may meet much good society, especially of Germans, glad of an opportunity to speak. For owing to the difficulty of english pronunciation, a stranger, however well he may understand the written language, is no better off here than if he were 5 deaf and dumb. We here made the acquaintance (1) of Baron Nimtsch, of a wealthy family in Silesia, who has wasted most of his estate in gambling. He has lived many years in Italy and Holland, and now more than seven in England. He spends his whole time between 10 chemical experiments and the coffee-house. He knows the english language and society thoroughly, and gave us much useful information. (2) A Silesian M.D., of Breslau, named Karger, who spent two years here some time since, and has now again been more than a year 15 here. He is investigating specially the state of learning in England, and will write an account of it in very lively colours, which will certainly open foreigners' eyes, to see that England is no seat of the Muses and all wisdom, but that ignorance and pedantry rule here. He has a great 20 knowledge of mathematics, mechanics, physics and medicine, in which he was of much service to my brother. I learnt much from him in respect of english literary history and bibliography. He intends to spend the winter here, then to make a short stay at home, and finally to return 25 and complete his book here. (3) Mr. Burg, also of Breslau, a magister and candidatus theologiae, not yet 30 years old, but so well read in theology and general literature, that the English themselves esteemed him highly. He intended to go to Cambridge, to perfect himself in the 30 eastern languages under Mr. Sike. He is a special admirer of the greek fathers, and intends to form a complete catenam patrum in Iobum. I am sorry that he could not stay longer in Holland and England, as he seems to have means. But he constantly complained of the cost of 35 travelling, especially in England. From him also we learnt much that was of service to us.

Pp. 456-7: 13 June, Friday. Afternoon, in the New Exchange. In the evening at a comedy in Drury Lane, 'the fair quaker of Deal.' The principal actress Mrs. Sandlow is known throughout all England; as Harlequin she is painted on snuff-boxes. Then followed a tumbler as Scaramouche.

Pp. 457-463: 14 June, Saturday morning. To St. Paul's. At the top of the tower found countless names written in chalk, or scratched in the stone; ordered our servant to write ours also. Clock with inscription: Langley Bradley fecit. 1707: it cost £1500. Library of the church: only lately formed. 'He who has charge of the library is an Englishman, that is, one who troubles himself little about it.' The choir of the church was full of scaffolding, the workmen being engaged upon the stucco of the groining. The sculptor also was at work upon the statues which are to stand before the church. In the afternoon we removed from our old lodgings to the mesdemoiselles Grossellières in Suffolk street.

Pp. 463-4: 15 June, Sunday morning. Went to St. James's chapel, to hear the sermon, and at the same time to see the queen; otherwise, as she has kept no open table since prince George's death, one has no opportunity of catching a sight of her. This time however she did not appear. In the afternoon to St. James's park, to see the crowds. No other diversion is allowed on Sunday, which is nowhere more strictly kept; not only is all play forbidden, and public-houses closed, but few even of the boats and hackney-coaches may ply. Our hostess would not even allow the strangers to play the viol di Gamba or the flute, lest she should be punished. This is, I suppose, the only point in which one sees that the English profess to be Christians, certainly from the rest of their conduct one would not suspect it of many of them.

Pp. 464-6: 16 June, Monday afternoon, with Mr. Campe,* who lodges at a tinker's at Charing cross. He is by trade a sword-cutler, but deals in old coins, of which he has a fine cabinet, and assured me that he can obtain a guinea or more in England for coins which in Germany or Holland one might buy for half a florin or half a dollar. Some of his greek and latin inscriptions seemed to me modern forgeries. He has from 200 to 250 little statues, 5 idols, utensilia etc. He is an Englishman, but speaks french fairly, though with a bad pronounciation. In the evening at the comedy 'London cuckolds,' which always draws a large house.

Pp. 466-474: 17 June, Tuesday morning. To the 10
Tower, where on entering one must give up one's sword to the Swiss guard. One of these english Swiss led us round. The 'narrow gate,' through which condemned criminals passed to execution: hence the proverb: 'he must go through the narrow gate,' i. e. must die. The wild beasts; 15 only four lions with a pet dog, one tiger, two wolves, two indian cats, two eagles, one 40 years old. Armoury, with its quaint arrangement of the arms in patterns. Diving-bell. Royal jewels, 'shewn piece by piece, not in english fashion, that is, cunningly and superficially, but at your 20 leisure.' We saw two prisoners of rank; one of whom was lord Griffith, whom the queen reprieves from month to month till his death [Edw. lord Griffin, taken on board the pretender's vessel the Salisbury by Sir Geo. Byng 13
Mar. 1707-8]. They were walking under the trees in the 25 great court. We visited the medailleur Crocker, a Saxon, who makes all medals for the queen, and cuts the dies for the coinage. The queen's head is indeed well cut in his coins, but the reverse is very clumsy, especially where many figures must be brought in. The Mint was closed, 30 and we were informed that no coin would be struck this month. We then drove to the customs' house, and dined near the exchange at a well-known traiteur's, named Caviac. In the afternoon we did business with a Frankfort merchant, Mr. Latomus; and in the evening saw a 35 comedy, 'Love for love.'

Pp. 474-8: 18 June, Wednesday morning, we saw the college of physicians, described in the View of London II 647. The library did not seem to contain more than 2000 volumes. Before the great fire it was much more numerous, as Wm. Harvey bequeathed his collection to it.

5 [Uffenbach quotes a long inscription, stating this, and regrets that he could not discover the author].

Pp. 478-481. In the afternoon went to see 'cock-fighting,' a sport in which the English take great delight, though to a stranger it seems very childish. There is 10 a special house built for the purpose near Grays Inn. When a fight is to come off, printed cards are issued, and advertisements inserted in the papers, stating the amount of the bets, the number and breed of the cocks. [Then follows an account of the fight. Uffenbach bought some 15 'spurs' of silver]. Afterwards we went into the fine walk belonging to Grays Inn.

Pp. 481-2: 19 June, Thursday morning, we went first to the auction of the books of the late swedish ambassador Leuwencron, who married ill, and died in debt. I bought 20 chiefly historical books, to the amount of 20 and odd guineas. We then visited Mr. secretary Hasperg, who was sent here by his master, the hereditary prince of Wolfenbüttel, to receive his share of the inheritance of prince George. We were glad to meet him, as he speaks 25 english well, is acquainted with all that is going on, and very inquisitive.

Pp. 482-3. In the afternoon we saw Henry Winstanley's water theatre, in which tea and coffee were laid on in pipes, and cups presented to the company. At the 30 close all the pipes threw jets of water.

Pp. 483-5: 20 June, Friday morning, we were first in Bedlam, which is described in Délices d'Angleterre IV 831, and in New view of London II 731. We then saw the great open space in front of Bedlam, called Moorfields, 35 which is planted with trees, and very pleasant. We then drove to Guildhall, described in Délices d'Angleterre IV 814 and in New view of London II 607.

P. 485. In the afternoon we drove to Little Britain, where are many second-hand booksellers. I bought to the amount of about 30 guineas, much better bargains than at Badman's or other city booksellers; my purchases were chiefly local histories, there being scarcely a shire in England which has not an admirable history. In the evening to the comedy, 'the silent woman,' containing an incomparable representation of a misanthrope.

Pp. 485-491: 21 June, Saturday morning. To Bridewell, described in New view of London II 733. Below were 10 prostitutes beating flax with hammers; they were very bold and made us give them some shillings for brandy. Manufacturers of pins, of plush and velvet, damask, curtains, ribbons, silk pocket-handkerchiefs. Next we went to London bridge and were nearly half-way across 15 before we found out that we were on the bridge, as there are high houses with shops below on either side. The irons on which the heads of Cromwell and his partisans were fixed, were still to be seen.

P. 491: 22 June, Sunday, it rained the whole day, so 20 that we did not quit our rooms.

Pp. 491-4: 23 June, Monday morning, I bought at an auction of a library 'lately lord viscount Fanshaw's' 10 guineas worth of english historical books. We drove to the Temple, and saw first the Middle Temple (New view of London II 701 seq.). The dinner was as roughly served, as in the Oxford colleges. The cloth had just been laid, wooden trenchers were set on it, and green pots of crockery to receive the bones; there were no napkins, and the cloth looked as if a sow had farrowed on it. We 30 should have had no stomach for the meal, so we hurried to the library, which contains some 2000 books all chained. There were boards to receive the names of benefactors, but the only name on them was that of the founder, Robert Ashley esq., whose portrait hung close by. 35 Among the books were some good ones. The hall and library of the Inner Temple (View of London II 695) were both more elegant than the above-named. The books were in neat oak cases. Of Rymer's Foedera the 9th volume (printed 1709) was the last in the library: the 10th is said to be ready. Only 225 copies, I was told, in all are printed, at the queen's cost, who presents them to the public colleges. Omitting matters of local and family interest, one might extract from this costly work several very useful volumes.

Pp. 494-5: In the afternoon I bought some ink-powder, which is whitish, and when stirred in water makes ink at once. In the evening to a bull-baiting: almost every Monday baiting goes on at two different places. Baiting also of a bear, and of an ass ridden by a monkey.

Pp. 496-501: 24 June, Tuesday morning, we were again at viscount Fanshaw's sale. We next drove to Painter-stainers hall (New view of London II 612). The finest picture is a landscape by Rob. Aggas 1679; there is also a small piece representing two copperplate portraits on a board, bearing the name Taverner; whether Taverner the artist, or the Paris bookseller who publishes many engravings, I know not. In the window is the portrait of Wm. Camden, which Tho. Smith supposes to have perished in the great fire. The cup, mentioned by Smith, is said still to exist, locked up in a cupboard. In a niche stands a bust of Thos. Evans, father and benefactor of the company, ob. 15 Jan. 1687.

We next visited Edzardi, who resides at the lutheran church (called swedish because supported by Swedes) of which he is minister. He is a brother of the restless Sebastian Edzardi of Hamburg, and son of the orientalist Esdras Edzardi famous for converting Jews. Both sons are good hebraists, and we found with this Edzardi one Gnospius of Dantzic, a gentleman and scholar, who takes lessons in hebrew from him. Baron Nimtsch recommended us to Mr. Edzardi not only because of his library and knowledge of books, but as a dealer in them, picking up bargains at auctions and then disposing of them. He is upwards of forty years of age. He received us very politely, but it plainly appeared that he is hot-tempered like his brother. He is on bad terms with his colleague in the church, who is the more popular preacher. I do not suppose that he will make friends by his nearly 5 finished historia ecclesiastica Anglicana, in specie lutheranismi in Anglia; from what he told us of it, I could see that it contained much that would give offence to the english church. He begged me to procure for him a publisher in Frankfort, as he would not be able to print 10 it here. It deserves for its learning to be printed, though I fear it lacks moderation. He shewed us his library, containing many good books, especially on english history; a MS. 'confessio regis Aethiopiae,' printed by Ludolf, to whom the elder Edzardi sent a copy; his father's hebrew 15 bible, containing many marginal notes. Out of this, he said, many Jews had been converted. Next Mr. Edzardi shewed us the english translation of Luther's 'table-talk.' He assured us that the passage about the Lord's Supper had been monstrously perverted; the editor, to judge by 20 his preface, presumed that there existed no other copy in the world than that from which he translated. Indeed, considering the prodigious ignorance of Englishmen in literary history, especially of other countries, it is possible that the editor presumed, that no other copy was to be 25 found in Germany. Next Mr. Edzardi shewed us 'Catechismus, that is to say a short instruction etc. Gualterus Lynne excudebat 1548' in 12. Cranmer's name is not on the title, but at the end of the preface. Luther's opinions, especially on the Supper, occur in it as plainly as Luther 30 himself could have stated them; which brought Cranmer into great trouble, and made this catechism as rare as any book in the world can be. Of this catechism, and its influence on Cranmer's fortunes, Mr. Edzardi will speak at length in the portion of his history called 'Anglia luth- 35 rana.' See his life [by Strype] which I have bought; Mr. Edzardi says that it is indeed well written, but not with perfect fairness. On our taking leave, Mr. Edzardi offered to let me have books, which he did not absolutely want, from his own library; he had opportunities of replacing them, whereas strangers were charged very large sums.

- 5 Indeed I found that I could procure from him for 6s. what the booksellers marked at 8s. or 10s. Accordingly I bought at once the precious works of Fuller and others.

Pp. 501-3. We went to a goldsmith's in Holborn, who had advertised ancient and modern coins for sale.

- 10 He would not sell them apart, and asked £40 for the lot, which was not worth £10. The void space in newspapers filled with advertisements in England, instead of with lies, as in Germany. In the evening we wished to see the comedy, the 'careless husband,' but came home too late.
- 15 So we turned into the park, where we saw the chief court ladies. The most beautiful were the duke of Marlborough's daughters, the duchesses of Montagu and Bridgewater.

Pp. 503-4: 25 June, Wednesday morning. Bought tickets (costing a crown) for one of Pepusch's concerts.

- 20 Margarita de l'Epine alone sang. Pepusch directed, and played the general-bass. The principal flutist was a Frenchman, Paisible. Mr. Gramm, of Lüneburg, who was of our company, wished to take lessons, but was frightened by the charge, 3 guineas for eighteen. My
- 25 brother engaged Scheyon, a German, a master of the violin, at a guinea a month. An Italian, Pietro, who has a large salary from the duke of Ormond, played the viol di Gamba incomparably.

- Pp. 504-8: 26 June, Thursday morning, we went to
- 30 see the 'records' (New view of London II 716) kept in Wakefield Tower, on the left as you enter the Tower, towards the Thames. The oldest were only of the 13th century, as we were assured by our guide, a man between thirty and forty and, for an Englishman, very polite and
- 35 modest. In a small room four clerks were making transcripts for Mr. Rymer. We compared several MSS. with the printed Rymer, and found it exact. We saw also the ‘book of common prayer 1662’ with the commissioners’ certificate and seal. In another room we saw papal bulls, autograph letters, some to Edw. I., some of Elizabeth, and of the unfortunate Mary; the oldest document of all was a grant of Adelred A.D. 1007. As one old paper document, of great age, was torn, I begged a piece, which I value at more than a guinea; the writing is scarce legible, and the fabric, where torn, is quite woolly. Our guide took us to the topmost story, to his own rooms; from which we had a very fine view over the Thames and Southwark; he then shewed us in a ‘camera obscura’ (bought from Marschall) the small boats plying on the river. Next our guide, the famous Mr. George Holmes, ‘deputy of the keeper of the records,’ took us to the White tower, containing a powder magazine below, and a vaulted chamber, Julius Caesar’s chapel, above, which contained many documents of the year 1602. Three persons were engaged in numbering them, and bringing them into order. When we took leave, Mr. Holmes refused two crowns which I offered him; I have observed that men of good address, librarians and the like, are shy of accepting presents from foreigners.

Pp. 508-511. In the afternoon we visited an Italian, Francesco Benedetti of Lucca, whose acquaintance we made in the Paris coffee-house. He is a well-known antiquary, has seen the world, spent many years in France, and has been here ten years. He is a mass-priest, and secretly reads mass daily at the venetian embassy. He is a great dealer in antiquities, and fleeces the English rarely, selling for enormous sums what he imports for a trifle from France and Italy. He is adviser general to all who have cabinets here; his collection of gems is superior to any that I have seen, except that at Berlin. [List of the chief gems]. He has also many modern gems, cut by the first artists in France, Holland and England. He next shewed us his coins; his series is incomplete, as he has sold a large portion to the earl of Pembroke and others. Lastly he shewed us a great collection of engravings by the best masters; but charged a guinea apiece, or a crown at least, for engravings such as my brother bought at Vischer's in Holland for 6d. or 8d. In general we were amazed by 5 the great sums which the English give for works of art.

Pp. 511-7: 27 June, Friday morning, we drove to see Westminster hall, which is by no means 'the most capacious room in Christendom without pillars' (New view
10 of London II 637), the St. Catharine's church in Frankfort being both broader and longer. Courts of law. House of commons (New view II 629), small and over-crowded during session; speaker's chamber, commanding a view of the Thames over the garden of lord Halifax. Court
15 of requests, a poor, smoky hall. 'Painted chamber,' where the painted ceiling can scarce be made out for the smoke. House of lords (New view II 628), smaller than the other; the tapestry all spoilt with smoke, and yet valuable for the mass of gold and silver worked into it
20 and for the history of the Armada. Woolsack. Prince's chamber. Vault of the gunpowder conspirators, now walled up. Westminster abbey; tomb (so-called) of the 'long maid of Westminster.' 'Library of the queen's school and college' (New view II 715, 730). Even the 25 newest books, as Graevii thesaurus, were chained to iron bars. The librarian [Ri. Widmore] was deaf and looked like a sweep. But to my surprise he spoke latin fairly and shewed us the following MSS. [8 in number]. There were few printed books, and those of no great importance.
30 At the end was a portrait of John Williams, abp. of York, a benefactor. We then bought in Westminster hall a globe, bacilli Nepperiani, a very small but powerful magnet.

Pp. 517-8. In the afternoon we drove to the famous 35 glass-grinder Marschall, whom my brother, with some pains, engaged to teach him the art. In the evening we went to the comedy 'S. Martin Mar-all, or the feign'd innocence, by John Dryden esq.,' which is little more than a translation of Molière's 'Etourdi.'

Pp. 518-9: 28 June, Saturday morning, went to Francis Hauksbee in Fleet-street in Wine-office-court, but did not find him at home. Yet his cousin shewed us some 5 common experiments with the pump, and we made an engagement for another visit. We paid 6s. for his Mechanical experiments, Lond. 1709, which describe the invention of his pump. On our way back we saw Sion college (New view II 724). The books are well arranged, 10 chained, but scarce to be touched for smoke and dust; indeed, whenever I examine London books, I make my ruffles as black as coal. Our guide knew nothing, least of all of MSS., yet I think there must be some. Then we went to the church of St. Mary le Bow, said to rank next 15 to St. Paul's (Délices d'Angleterre IV 814; View of London II 368).

Pp. 519-520. In the afternoon we went to a bookseller in Common [? covent?] garden, to see the model of a fortification, highly praised in the papers. We paid half- 20 a-crown for the sight, and found it not worth 6d. Bought some more english books.

Pp. 520-1: 29 June, Sunday. Again in the queen's chapel, but again missed seeing her. At dinner there was much talk of M. S. Evremont: though a true phi- 25 losopher, and without religion, he was highly esteemed for his genius and virtue; he was gentle not only towards men, but towards brutes, keeping many birds, and above all dogs; he fed the dogs that passed by from his window, so that after his death troops of them waited about the 30 house. The king, who had a liking for him, (as he would accept no other post) made him keeper of the canaries and other birds, with a salary of £200. Towards the end of his life he lost his appetite, never took medicine, but supported himself by a good glass of wine; he called 35 for one at his last gasp, and died drinking it.

Pp. 521-2. In the afternoon we visited Baron Nimtsch.

He said he had been 9 years in England, where he intended to remain till the peace, when he proposed to go to France and Spain. He shewed me a small two-inch opera glass, bought in Rome of Giuseppe Campani.

- 5 P. 522: 30 June, morning, letters. Afternoon, called on Mr. Campe, and waited long for him, in vain. Evening, walked in the park.

Pp. 522-9: 1 July, Tuesday morning, we drove to Claudius du Puy, a French Swiss cotton-printer, who 10 has four rooms full of curiosities in natural history, musical instruments and antiquities. [These are described at length; e.g. 'Cromwell's head, with the broken pole, as it fell down, unless indeed Mr. de Puy has been taken in.' However he asserted that he could sell it for 60
 15 guineas. 'By Cromwell's head was a mummy's, which I should greatly have preferred']. Likewise a sword-stick containing also a gun-barrel, more than 12 wax-figures large as life, Cleopatra and Antonius etc.; and two apes with tails, and other living creatures.

- 20 P. 529. In the afternoon we drove to Cassel [Castle?] street, to a Swiss locksmith, Westerreich. I paid him 2 gs. for a fine lock for a cabinet. He said prince Eugene had paid him more than 120 gs. for 20 locks for his house at Vienna.

- 25 Pp. 530-2: 2 July, Wednesday morning, we drove to the Monument (New view of London I 54 seq.), and then to Christ's hospital (ibid. II 738 seq.), with its handsome hall and new mathematical school. We saw the children dine after prayer; there were not more than 150 girls, 30 but a greater number of boys. Their costume. St. Bartholomew's hospital (New view II 759) with shops below. West-Smithfield, a cattle-market (ibid. I 87).

- Pp. 532-6. In the afternoon we drove to the Bear garden at Hockley in the hole. Rough behaviour of the 35 mob. Fight of four with sticks, a common diversion in Moorfields. Two champions, Thomas Wood an Englishman and George Turner a Moor, engage first with long swords, then with swords and daggers, lastly with broad-swords and bucklers. Many Moors in England. Combatants severely wounded, often killed; but the law does not punish the manslayer, if he have fought fair. Women sometimes fight in their shifts.

5

Pp. 536-543: 3 July, Thursday morning, we drove to Westminster Abbey (New view II 493 seq.), which is neither so large nor so fine as we expected. The altar stands to the west (Peirescius epist. 18 in append. ad Camdeni epistolas, p. 386). No trace in Hen. VII.'s tomb 10 of the jewels spoken of by Turlero de peregrinat. lib. I p. 102. Will. III. and Mary his wife, and prince George, lie under plain stones without epitaph. Monument of Elizabeth daughter of John Russell, who bled herself to death by the prick of a needle. The two wooden corona- 15 tion chairs, in Edw. the Confessor's chapel, are so smoky and poor that I should not care to have them among my furniture. Under the chair brought by Edw. I. from Scotland, is the famous stone of the patriarch Jacob, which is not, as Buchanan asserts, marble, but pure sandstone. 20 I would gladly have scraped off a little with my knife, which would have done small damage to the sacred relic, but durst not venture, especially as there is a penalty for sitting on one of the chairs. The great sword, mentioned in the Badensfahrt oder Keyse-Beschreibung Herzog Friede- 25 richs von Württemberg, p. 14. Graves of famous men. Smith says truly that some ruffian has broken off Camden's nose. St. Evremond's epitaph (ob. 9 Sept. 1703) given at length. Went home through the 'private garden,' which is utterly spoilt, as is also the elaborate sun-dial. 30

P. 543. In the evening we were at the Queen's theatre in the Haymarket, and saw 'Othello Moor of Venice, written by the immortal Shakespeare.' It was a fine piece, and consequently the house was crowded.

Pp. 543-4: 4 July, Friday morning, drove to Hyde 35 park, to see the review of the royal horse guards, commanded by the duke of Ormond. They are said not to be as gallant as they look ; for when troubles lately broke out in Scotland, almost the half of them wished to resign. They have, as all Englishmen have, a bad seat, looking like tailors on horseback.

5 Pp. 544-5. In the afternoon we could not go beyond the coffee-house for the rain, where baron Nimtsch shewed us a fine microscope by Bovilly of Paris; also a signet, which, when you press a spring, falls into three parts. Mr. Benedetti shewed us some pieces (small heads, and 10 also 'Alexander and the captive princesses') cast in steel, a remarkable invention, by a watchmaker, Pingo in New-street [called Perigo p. 566].

Pp. 545-552: 5 July, Saturday morning, we drove to Gresham-college (New view of London II 664 seq.). Miser-
15 able state of the royal society's apparatus. The guide, if asked for anything, generally said: 'a rogue had stolen it away;' or he shewed fragments of it, saying: 'it is broken.' The 'transactions' of the first six years of the society are worth all the rest together. The entire series
20 can be had bound for £12. The society never meets in summer, and very little in autumn. The present secretary, Dr. Sloane, is indeed a very learned man, but engrossed with his practice and his own large cabinet. The president, Newton, is an old man, and too much occupied 25 as master of the mint, and with his own affairs, to trouble himself much about the society. For the rest, excepting Dr. Woodward and a couple more Englishmen, and the foreigners, there remain only apothecaries and the like, who scarce understand latin. For the museum see Grew
30 and the New view of London II 666. The great magnet, made by Dr. Wren's direction [fully described with a plate, and an account of experiments]. A chair of a certain root, with as many veins as walnut wood, 'given by John lord Somers. . . from Chusan in China 30 June
35 1702.' I cannot believe that it is of one solid piece. Ovula of a dropsical woman, some as large as a cherry. Of the library, which came from the duke of Norfolk,

I have the printed catalogue in 4to. There were some good MSS., but we could scarce glance at them, as the operator, like a true Englishman, was impatient. The iron oven, constructed by Dr. Hook for hatching eggs in egyptian fashion (New view II 683 n. 253) was spoilt. 5 Antlers found in an irish bog, 7 ft. 1 in. in span. Part of a fortress, excellently modelled by a preacher named Christner. Meeting room of the society; portraits, especially of Boyle and Hook; invention for enabling one man to work two oars, as well as two men could. Clock 10 given by bp. Seth Ward in memory of Laur. Rook, who died 1662. In the afternoon at Mareschall's, where my brother ground glass.

Pp. 552-3: 6 July, Sunday at noon, we attended the quakers' meeting at the Gatehouse, Westminster. They 15 have no regular church, but a mean room, which was crowded. Women preach here as seldom as at Amsterdam. Two old men spoke this time, very slowly and distinctly, so that I could understand all. The hearers all hung the head, as in Holland; but they used still more 20 singular gestures, and fetched sighs altogether terrible.

Pp. 553-5: 7 July, Monday morning, at St. James's. The stairs were hung with black flannel, the rooms with black cloth, by way of mourning for prince George. We saw a fine new clock by Ed. Cockey. The paintings are 25 all removed to Hampton-court and Windsor. We visited what remains of Whitehall, now converted into a chapel; the ceiling painted by Rubens, consists of nine panels, representing all manner of heathen stories. Afternoon again spent at Mareschall's. 30

Pp. 555-560: 8 July, Tuesday morning, we set off [with ten other Germans] for Epsom, famous for its salts and its races. Arrived at Epsom at 10 and found several inns unable to accommodate our horses. Company at the races; many women dressed as men, with feathers in their 35 hats; a very common sight in England, where you may see ten or a dozen galloping along the streets at once.

[Full description of the race and of the behaviour of the crowd during the race and in the evening].

Pp. 560-2: 9 July, Wednesday morning, we went to the wells. In the afternoon, finding that there was to be no more racing, we returned to town. Called at the country house of a rich flax-merchant, Cox. Gardens with trees cut into shapes of beasts, men, ships: parterre of box, forming a sun-dial: grotto. One of Mr. Cox's daughters rode with us to London; few of us could keep 10 pace with her.

P. 562: 10 July, Thursday. Letters. In the evening a comedy, 'the changes.'

Pp. 562-6: 11 July, Friday morning, drove first to the apothecaries' hall in Black Friars (New view of London 15 II 594), where drugs are prepared, not only for ships and hospitals, but for most retail dealers. We next went to the heralds' college (Chamberlayne, present state of England; New view II 690). Importance of the office, and of visitation. Liberality of the English, in freely opening 20 their archives. MSS. in the college. To St. Martin's le grand, to see a german goldsmith J. B. Herbst. Then to New street in Cheapside to the watchmaker Perigo [called Pingo p. 545]. He has found out a way of gilding steel. In the afternoon again with Mareschall, to grind glass.
25 [So also on the 12th].

Pp. 567-8: 12 July, Saturday morning, we saw first the library at St. Martin's in Castle street (New view II 642; Boyer's history of king William II 95). It is the neatest and most extensive, which I had yet seen in 30 London.* But we could scarce spend a minute there; for the master of the school, to which abp. Tennison, the founder, gave the library, had no time, and was not allowed to shew it to any, who had not received express permission from the 'abp. We passed on to Somerset house and its garden on the Thames. From a Dutchman, Nicolaus de Geus, who dwelt opposite, we bought some glass toys. My brother, who understands glass-blowing, would gladly have learnt the art of making such toys, which look just like porcelain. But he made a great 5 mystery of it.

* This noble library was dispersed by auction a few years since; a great discouragement to public spirit].

Pp. 568-9: 13 July, Sunday. At last we saw the queen in her chapel. She is somewhat copper-colored, and though we believe in Germany that she no longer drinks so much brandy or liqueurs, the English still talk 10 of the queen's 'cold Tea,' as she takes her dram out of a tea-cup. Strangers also think far better of her intellect than her subjects do; here we read, how all depends on the favorite, first the duchess of Marlborough, and now Mrs. Hill, who has ousted the other. 15

Pp. 569-574: 14 July, Monday morning, we drove first to Barber Surgeons' hall in Monkwell, or as it is commonly called, Mukel street (New view of London 11 596). It is the finest hall we have yet seen, 'repaired and beautified A.D. 1709.' Clock given by Henry Carter. 20 Various specimens, with the donors' names; e.g. an ostrich skeleton, given by Thomas Hobbes. Next we drove to Frame-work-knitters' or Stocking-weavers' hall (ibid. 605). It contains nothing remarkable, but the portrait of the inventor of the stocking-frame [Wm. Lee 25 of St. John's college]. Next we drove to St. Martin le Grand to Mistress Samon (?) famous throughout England for her wax-work likenesses, most as large as life, and clothed. Her work is much less delicate than that of Mrs. Braunin in Frankfort. Returning I got out at 30 Mr. Badman's in Paternoster Row, and asked the price of Mabillon 'de re diplomatica.' The good man asked only 30s., supposing no doubt that the new edition had superseded the old. Some years ago Wetstein asked ten 35 times the money. The first editions of books with plates are generally to be preferred; e.g. the figures in the separate, original editions of Golzius are admirable, but in the collected works the plates are so worn as to be useless.

P. 574. In the afternoon we drove to Hemstede [Hampstead], half a german mile. One of the nearest 5 medicinal springs. Many summerhouses have been built here; crowds drive over for diversion on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Dancing contre-dances (or rather country-dances).

P. 575: 15 July, Tuesday. Writing letters. Rain the 10 whole day.

Pp. 575-8: 16 July, Wednesday morning, we drove to Cotton's house near Westminster hall, to see the admirable bibliothecam MSct. Cottonianam (New view of London II 652 seq.). The librarian, still a young man, was very 15 courteous, and allowed us to look about for more than two hours. [Account of a few MSS.]. Knowing that the queen's library had been brought here from St. James's, till a special room could be built for it, we begged to be allowed to see it. Our guide, though he had the key,
 20 was loth to shew it, because Dr. Bentley is properly the librarian, who lives in Cambridge. However at last he led us into a small room, containing the best bound printed books. Of MSS. we saw nothing, because of Dr. Bentley's absence. I was troubled at not seeing the 25 famous codex Alexandrinus; however I hope to do so at Oxford, where Dr. Grabe has it, who is still at work on his edition. Drawers of coins, of which the lord chancellor has the key. Portraits, one of Buchanan, aet. 76, 1581. This afternoon I spent in some bookshops; my brother 30 this and the next at Mareschall's.

P. 578: 17 July, Thursday morning, we drove again to pastor Edzardi, from whom I again bought some english historical books. In the evening we saw a merry comedy, 'the old bachelor by Mr. Congreve.'

35 Pp. 578-582: 18 July, Friday morning, we drove to see Merchant Tailors' school. Of the library (New view of London II 701) scarcely 200 books are to be found; we were told, that many had been lost. Then through Cannon-street to the London-stone (ibid. I 13). Saw the W. India company's magazines under the Exchange, which were full of pepper in bags. Then to the Bank (ibid. II 594), a large building. Home by the Old Bailey 5 (ibid. I 60, II 706). Noise in the court; entrance fee 1s.; no soldiers, but only six javelin-men, to keep order, though the accused stand free at the bar. Sentence for petty thefts; branding with the letter T, or touching with the cold iron. Trial of a captain for killing his 10 lieutenant in the park; of an old man, for the violation of a girl of 15; of three irish gentlemen, who had robbed of his gold watch and purse a good friend who had treated them. The first was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to be touched with the cold iron; the other 15 four were condemned to death. Lastly the well-known bailiff George Purchase, commonly called 'the captain,' ringleader of Sacheverel's rioters. There was a vehement debate between the counsel, whether he was to be accused of 'high treason' or no, and he himself joined in, and 20 shewed himself very defiant. In England the only kind of torture known is this: if a criminal will not confess, he is placed in a chest, and one large stone after another thrown upon him, till at last he must be suffocated. In the evening we walked in the park. 25

Pp. 583-7: 19 July, Saturday morning, we drove to the apothecary [James] Petiver, in Aldersgate-street, a chief member of the royal society. As he has won such fame by his cabinet, we expected to see a learned man of fine presence, but found neither the one nor the other. He 30 could scarcely bring together a few words of latin. As soon as he receives an addition to his cabinet, he has an engraving made of it, and dedicates it to some one, with whom he has even the smallest acquaintance, and receives a present for his pains. His collections were in 35 no order; the best among them were the plants in many volumes; one packet had just arrived from Spain. He had also some fine insects, sent by Mad. Merian. He offers all strangers a copy of his Museum, but as he charges a high price, I begged him to excuse me. Introductions often prejudicial. On our return we got out

 5 at St. Dunstan's church, and called on Antram, a very polite young watchmaker, who speaks tolerable french. He shewed us his famous invention of a clock driven by heat, without springs. Then to School-lane, to a man whose sole occupation is to make barrels for telescopes
 10 etc. On our way back we stopped at Exeter-change, and saw at a goldsmith's a stone somewhat larger than a dollar, with an inscription deus spes; he asked 50 guineas for this so-called agate, professing that the inscription was natural. But the stone was marble, not agate, and the 15 inscription was no doubt an etching. At another goldsmith's we saw gems ancient and modern; buy we could not, for the worst costs at least a guinea.

Pp. 587-9. In the afternoon we took a boat to London's diversion, a square vessel anchored in the Thames, which 20 serves at once as a tavern and brothel. A woman danced holding two swords at her breast, two against her eyes, and three with the points in her mouth. We then went across the river to Cupid's garden, which deserves its name. Thence to Lambeth-wells; and thence to Foxhall
 25 [Vauxhall], and Spring-garden, which is full of alleys, covered walks and arbours. As we returned by the Thames, Peterborough-house was pointed out to us, now belonging to Mr. Coks. We were told that it had lately sunk the depth of one whole storey, without taking the 30 least harm.

P. 589: 20 July, Sunday afternoon, we went to walk in Lincoln's Inn fields, one of the largest open spaces in London, with fine alleys and a fountain.

Pp. 589-591: 21 July, Monday morning, we saw the 35 porcelain factory at Vauxhall. The ware is very coarse and heavy, not nearly so good as that of Frankfort or Hanau. Next we went to the glass-house, for mirror-glass, which is close by. Then to another glass-factory in Southwark. In the afternoon it was said that the queen would hold a court, which she has not done since prince George's death. But we waited long, and in vain. It is said that there is nothing to see but many foreign ministers 5 and ladies sitting for a quarter of a hour about the queen in dead silence.

Pp. 591-3: 22 July, Tuesday morning, we went to Westminster, to see the library of [John] Moore, bp. of Norwich. But when we reached the house, which was 10 small and mean, we found that he lived in the city, having been translated to Ely. So we drove back to Westminster-hall, to see the exchequer-office (New view of London II 659; Chamberlayne, present state of England 129). I brought away some of the old tallies. Doomsday book 15 and other records. In the afternoon we could not see Montagu house, because the duke was from home. Then we drove to Langecker (Long acre) to a Frenchman named Regnier, a seal-engraver. My brother bought some guineas' worth of engravings from him. In the afternoon 20 packed two trunks full of books and other purchases.

Pp. 593-4: 23 July, Wednesday morning, we drove to a sculptor's near Hyde-park, to see the fine statue of William III.; but were told that he had sold it for £600 to another sculptor at Bow. So we drove to the famous 25 mezzotint engraver [John] Smith, a poor-looking man, of about 50 years of age. My brother bought some of his works, with a stock of dry colours and pencils; I bought some portraits. They are dear, but very fine.

Pp. 594-8: July 24, Thursday morning, we drove 30 again to Petiver's. He expects two guineas of those to whom he dedicates a plate, as Dr. Karger and others complained. His collection of conchylia and insects is fine, yet less perfect and in worse order than that of Vincenz and others in Holland. His plants, in 12 volumes, 35 were the best part of his stores. He is charged with exchanging or appropriating the plants in the apothecaries'

hortus medicus. As it was 12 o'clock, and still two hours to dinner (for no one dines here before two), we went to the banqueting-house, to see the lottery. Precautions against fraud. [Full description of the machines for 5 shuffling and drawing the tickets, with two plates].

P. 598. In the evening to the comedy 'the recruiting officer,' a favorite piece. As an interscenum a song made against the duke of Marlborough in the army at Brabant, was sung by a troop of soldiers. Prince Eugene was ex-
10 tolled for his generosity, but Marlborough abused for his avarice; every verse ending with the burden: 'but Marlborough not a penny.' The duchess of Montagu, the duke's daughter, blushed scarlet. The clapping and cheering was such, that the actors' play was delayed near 15 a quarter of an hour.

Pp. 599-601: 25 July, Friday morning, we waited to see an execution; but it did not take place. In the afternoon we drove to Peterborough's-garden, four miles out of town, beyond Chelsea. Saw a fine tulip tree, higher than 20 a house, and as thick as a man's body. We also saw at Chelsea the garden of the earl of Radnor, governor of Chelsea, who had been arrested and deposed, for defalcation in his accounts. My lady, one of the handsomest women in England, resides in the house.

25 Pp. 602-4: 26 July. We set out for Cambridge, and came first to Epping (15 miles), then to Harlow (14 miles), where we dined; Newport (14 miles), close to which is a fine mansion Andilyne (Audley-end, see Délices d'Angleterre v 872 [52]), which we wished to see; but the owner does 30 not allow it to be shewn when he is in residence. Thence to Littlebury (3 miles), where, as it was only 5 o'clock, we saw the house built by a famous mechanician Winstanley, the inventor of the water-theatre in London, and of the lighthouse at Plymouth. The house is full of poor 35 paintings, most by Winstanley himself. There is a lift by which you can be conveyed into the cellar, and a chair, which runs backward into the garden, on a rail [an engraving of the chair is given. Fras. Burman also saw and described the house 21 July 1702, p. 26. A view of Audley End by Winstanley may still be seen in the house].

[Next follows the visit to Cambridge, as given in the 5 text].

Vol. III. p. 85: 14 Aug., Thursday morning, we set out, and at noon arrived at Gamke [Gamlingay], after a journey of 14 miles, where we dined. In the evening we reached Bedford (10 miles) where we slept. 10

15 Aug., Friday morning, we set out at 6, and dined at Newport-pagnel (8 miles): At 7.30 we reached Buckingham (10 miles).

Pp. 85-6: 16 Aug., Saturday, we drove to Bicester (7 miles); when half-way to Oxford (10 miles distant), 15 one of the fore wheels broke, and we were forced to walk the rest of the way. We found convenient lodgings at Adam Roussier's, a french Swiss, opposite the Sheldonian theatre.

Pp. 86-7: 17 Aug. Physic garden, ill-kept; finer yews 20 than I have ever seen; two full 30 ft. high, cut into the figures (1) Hercules and his club, (2) a man with a pike. Magdalen-college chapel, small and somewhat dark.

Pp. 87-93: 18 Aug., Monday morning. Without special leave you cannot touch a book in the Bodleian nor see 25 anything but what the under-librarians choose to shew you for a tip (Trinkgeld). But as it costs 8s. [9s. see Macray's Annals 133] and some trouble, most visitors are content with a superficial view. Every instant visitors come in, even, which is amazing, boors and women, who stare at 30 this library like a cow at a new gate, and make such a clatter, as to disturb every one else. We begged the head-librarian, Dr. Hudson, to procure us admission, which he readily promised to do. We at first set down his compliance to politeness; but found reason to suspect that it 35 was due to avarice, and that he hoped to receive a handsome present from us. In order to win the good graces of the under-librarian, Master [Joseph] Crabb, a poor, covetous man, and to give him his perquisite of a crown, we begged him to lead us round, that we might gain a general view of the distribution of the library.

5 [Then follows a full account: the rule prohibiting swords not observed; notice of the library in the travels of Monconys. Form of the library like H laid on its side].

Pp. 93-98: 19 Aug. In the morning we saw Queen's-college, which, when the building is complete, will be a 10 truly royal structure. MSS. Our guide shewed us a book said to have been written by the devil. Ambrosii ex comitibus Albonesii introductio in chaldaicam linguam, Papiæ 1539, where at f. 212 vo. are 'Ludovici Spoletani praecepta, sive, ut vulgo dicitur, coniuratio cum sub-
 15 scripta daemonis responsione.' The letters look like chinese. Then we saw the horn, mentioned by Bentham, p. 308. Then to New-college, where we saw the college arms, and those of England, and a sun-dial, all of clipped box-trees. Behind the chapel is an old square building, 20 like a monastery: in the middle is a garden, with cloisters all round, which are vaulted with irish oak, said to be proof against worms and spiders. Then to the Sheldonian theatre; it was found that printing injured the building, consequently most books are printed in a neighbouring 25 house. The Arundel marbles are exposed to the air, and to the tricks of boys. [Four years later they were removed to one of the rooms on the ground-floor, where they still remain, Macray's Annals 138-9].

Pp. 98-103. In the afternoon to the Bodleian, to take 30 the oath, but the proctor did not appear; indeed Englishmen generally having no politeness, are seldom punctual. Dr. Hartmann of Königsberg, son of the famous author de sucino, and other strangers, who had dined with us, came in, and begged us to go round the library with 35 them, probably in order that we might pay our share of the under-librarian's charge, 5s. So we went, in order to see what kind of profit could be got from hurrying round the rooms in this fashion. We did not touch a book, nor did under-librarian Crabb (an arch-ignoramus, who would rather sit in the taverns, than here in the library, if his living did not depend on it), say any more than 'here are theological books;' 'there,' pointing with his finger, 'MSS.' [See on Crabb, Macray's Annals 129 seq.; Commercii epistolaris Uffenbachiani selecta I 182, 209]. Geometrical instruments; globus armillaris, a quadrant, said to be of pure gold, maker's name Chr. Schiffler, Aug. Vindel. 1579. Some MSS. neatly written, or decorated, 10 were exhibited. Of some he said; 'they are 800 years old.' I asked him, 'why?' He could only reply: 'It is certain: Dr. Grabe says so.' He put on so desperately wise a look as he said this, that I could not help laughing. What the old MSS. may have been, I cannot say; for he 15 put them away in such a hurry, and shewed them with such 'fury,' as is past telling. Mr. Crabb also shewed us some autographs of qu. Elizabeth and Mary and of James I., a Koran, some chinese illuminated books. Then we saw 'the study' with some pictures and tapestry, 20 a great volume of engravings, an arm-chair of the wood of the vessel in which Drake sailed round the world, some chinese sticks, bows and arrows, a cylinder with figures. The marble, mentioned by Monconys, with the figure of a lizard, is the most remarkable of the curiosities. Gallery 25 with its pictures. Cabinet of coins (Ritterplatz II 83) given by the brothers Freke of Hannington, with which Laudi numismata have since been joined [Macray 88, 339]. Out of a drawer Mr. Crabb with much ceremony, as if it had been something sacred, brought out an old sword with 30 silver-gilt handle, said to have been sent by Leo X. to Hen. VIII. as 'defender of the faith.' It has a great crystal knob, which can be unscrewed, when there appears a winged hour-glass, with the word 'vigilate.' Mr. Crabb also shewed us, as something special, a gold chain with 35 a likeness, sent by the emperor to a poet laureate. But the main thing, the coins, Mr. Crabb did not shew, probably because he did not understand, and therefore did not care for them. However, he did open some drawers, and shewed us a crown and half-crown of Cromwell's with the legend round the rim 'has mihi

 5 nemo nisi periturus eripiet' (Evelyn, of Medals 119): also coins of a pound and half-a-pound in value. Lastly we were taken to the roof of the gallery, from which you have a good view of the city and neighbourhood.

Pp. 103-7: 20 Aug., we went in the morning with 10 under-librarian Crabb to the proctor Mr. Williams, in Exeter-college, to take the oath 'pro admissione ad bibliothecam universitatis.' He first gave me the oath to look over, then took a little greek testament from a bag, gave it open into my hand, and himself read the oath aloud to 15 me, while I kept two fingers of the right hand on the open book. After this I was for returning the book to him, but he guided my hand with the book to my mouth, to be kissed, which is a form usual in all oaths in England. Then the proctor gave us a 'schedulam' or 'copiam
 20 decreti senatus academici,' requiring the librarian to admit us. When each of us had paid 8s. and Mr. Crabb had taken the schedulam, we were allowed to visit the library from 8 to 11 in the forenoon, and 2 to 5 in the afternoon daily* (till 4 on Saturdays). As we were in Exeter-
 25 college, we inspected it. Lately the college, especially the library, has suffered from a fire, occasioned by a woman's carelessness. The books saved, some 200, lay in confusion in the chapel. Eagle in the chapel. In the Bodl. MS. A. 2 6 distinct. xi I found this question and 30 answer: 'Quare evangelium legitur super aquilam?' 'Ad designandum, quod evangelium et sacerdotium est supra imperium.' Then to Jesus-college, where we saw the MSS.; a poor brass watch, said to have belonged to James I.; a copy of Junius' latin bible, Genev. 1617, interleaved in 35 three volumes, with very numerous notes in the autograph of the famous bp. Williams.

• [So Burman, p. 29].

Pp. 107-9. In the afternoon I made my first regular visit to the Bodleian. I asked the way to the Baroccian MSS.; Mr. Crabb told me that he would bring me any MS. I required; I told him that I wished to go through the principal MSS. by the catalogue and make notes of each. At 5 last he agreed to go up with me, if I would give him a good present. So I was fain to open my purse, and give him a guinea. I preferred giving the profit to him, diesem armen Teufel, rather than to the head-librarian Hudson; for first, I must have given him more, and next, I should 10 have seen less; for he does not always come to the library, and does not stay to the end: whereas Mr. Crabb is poking about the whole time (see Commerc. epist. Uffenb. I 195 seq.).

Pp. 109-110: 21 Aug., in the morning I wished to 15 return to the Baroccian MSS.; but as Mr. Crabb was occupied with strangers, and had much besides to do, I turned over the register of donations (ibid. 199 seq.).

Pp. 110-118. In the afternoon at the anatomical school (schola in England is our auditorium). *Borrchi*us (epist. 20 ad Barthol. cent. IV ep. 92 p. 525) is quite right in his remark that it will not bear comparison with the anatomical theatre at Leyden. [Full description, and 4 plates, of the curiosities, some named by Bentham p. 327; e.g. two small, worm-eaten loaves from the siege of Oxford; 25 qu. Elizabeth's shoe without a heel; a hollow stick, filled with quicksilver, taken from one who attempted the life of Charles I.; the skeleton of a pygmy, 'credat Iudaeus Apella'; the sword with which James I. knighted the 'Sir Line beef'; map of China, made in the country with 30 a pen; the hand of a supposed Siren, dried; 'the devil's alphabet,' as the custos very simply called it; it is nothing but a tablet with indian characters; Joseph's coat, mentioned by Monconys, 'dans la suite de la seconde partie de ses voyages' p. 101]. The lowest of the librarians, 35 Tho. Hearne, still a 'scholar,' who is very diligent, and of much learning, has charge of the anatomical school, and shews it to strangers; but in these matters he is such an ignoramus, that he took a cast for the natural foot.

P. 118: 22 Aug. At the Bodleian.

Pp. 118-9: 23 Aug. We wished to see the Museum
 5 Ashmoleanum; but as it was market-day, all sorts of men and women from the country were there (for any one, as the leges which hang at the door, parum honeste et liberaliter, allow, may enter). So we put off our visit and went to Trinity-college. Fine italian chapel, newly 10 built, panelled with cedar inside. No organ.

Pp. 119-120: 24 Aug., in the afternoon, with Messrs. Grassy, two brothers from the Grisons, whose father some years ago procured for the allied troops leave to march through the Grisons: in return for this service the queen
 15 has granted the sons £80 a year for 3 years, to enable them to study at Oxford. They spoke english very well. We went with them to the brook mentioned by Borrichius, epist. ad Barthol. inter Bartholinianas 92 cent. IV p. 525. It is two english miles off, at a village called Iffly. It 20 does not petrify at all, but wood thrown into it becomes covered with a sandy crust, which crumbles under the fingers.

Pp. 120-1: 25 Aug., in the morning at the Bodleian. Dr. Hudson boasted that they had excellent duplicates for 25 sale, and sent Crabb with us to a poor room in the gallery, where some 400 books lay in wild confusion. We picked out some with great trouble, and laid them on one side, till Dr. Hudson should be pleased to fix their price. We had no time to examine Casaubon's MSS., which were in 30 the same room, but very ill cared for.

Pp. 121-129. In the afternoon saw the Museum Ashmoleanum. *Antony* Wood's* library below, to the left. Great iron cradle, mentioned by Bentham. It is strange that so much is made of this museum, as burgomaster 35 Reimers in Lüneburg has curiosities of twice the number and far greater value than one sees here. Antlers; caudae

* [Uffenbach says Thomas; but has the right name III 177].

setosae vaccarum; cornua Ammonis; stuffed reindeer; indian ass; turkish goat, with long, silky hair; indian plants, foreign snakes etc. 'ex dono . . . . Iacobi Pound
M.B..'; a great dens molaris more than a finger long and 2 in. thick, 'supposed to be one of the teeth of the danish gigant Warwick found by M. Brown near Pontfreat castle an. 1700,' (credat Iudaeus Apella); cabinet of precious stones, the most extensive I ever saw; an agate cut into the figure of St. George and the dragon; carved cherrystones; a runic calendar; an abacus indicus; ear-rings of colored straw, once used in Spain; various things turned in ivory; rosaries of crystal; amber containing flies and a spider; two gold chains given to Ashmole, one by elector
Fred. William of Brandenburg, the other by the king of Denmark; an indian writing book, with leaves of black paper; a horn, which grew at the back of the head of 'Mary Davies of Sanghall in Cheshire an. aet. 71, an. Dn.
 1668' [an engraving of this is given]; a cabinet of large conchylia; various pictures, one of John Tradescant; Andromeda and Perseus, in alabaster; a cabinet with materia medica and fossils; the petrified heel of a shoe; indian weapons and clothes; nails run together by the action of lightning. The silly fellow who shewed us the museum, who is sub-custos and a scholar, (for the custos himself, Mr. Parray [Parry], is too busy guttling and guzzling to shew it to strangers) seriously thought that a stone indian idol (or, as he called it, Brachmanus) was made of boiled rice, stained. We saw also foreign costumes; an indian lantern; the portrait of Ashmole.
 The catalogue is imperfect, but it would be well to print it, or make a better. As regards the lapides, the late learned and diligent custos, Lloyd, began an excellent list of them; but the present Proto-custos, Mr. Parry, is too lazy to continue it, though he is little inferior to Lloyd in knowledge both of natural history and of welsh, anglo-saxon, and other languages. But he is always in the taverns; else he might well do something, as he is still a young man between 30 and 40 years of age. The things in the museum might be better arranged and kept, though they are in better order than those in Gresham college. The wonder is, that they are as well preserved

 5 as they are, as every one, in true english fashion, handles them roughly, and all persons (even women) are admitted on payment of 6*d.*, who run about, lay hold of every thing, and will not be hindered by the sub-custos. The leges, as being privately printed, I ordered my servant
 10 to copy.

Pp. 129-130: 26 Aug. In the morning we were examining the Bodleian codices. In the afternoon in the library of Trin. coll., which has no MSS. I saw a vellum copy of 'Corpus statutorum universitatis Oxon. Oxoniae
 15 ap. Jo. Litchfield et Guil. Turner 1634' in fol. with many additions. Then to Wadham-college. Its garden; library, containing many books; the key to the MSS. was not forthcoming; chapel; altar-cloth; long alley in front of the college.

20 Pp. 130-6: 27 Aug. In the morning at the Bodleian. In the afternoon at Corpus Christi college. New buildings not in the Délices d'Angleterre, where the views are all taken from Loggan's Oxonia illustrata, 1675. Much building going on in Oxford; All Souls' lately new built,
 25 £20,000 having been given for the purpose. In the middle of the court of C.C.C. stands a pillar with various sun-dials and coats of arms, the projecting ornaments of which serve as a gnomon. Library well-stocked with books; a new room shortly to be built to receive them.
 30 Chapel; large new building behind, where the great yew-tree (Borrichius in epist. ad Barthol. cent. IV. Bartholinianarum ep. 92 p. 525) has been cut down. Alley leading to Christ Church, where we went to service, as it was just 4 o'clock. The cathedral; window by W. Price
 35 1696, the gift of Pet. Birch D.D. preb. Westm. sometime chaplain; stained glass in the other windows; epitaphs, mostly of students. [Edw. Pocock's, ob. 20 Sept. 1691, is given at length]. The library we could not see, for it was supper-time. Hall, exceedingly large and lofty, but otherwise mean and ugly; there was such a stench of bread and meat, that I was driven out; I could not eat or live in such a place. Our disgust was increased by 5 the coarse and filthy table-cloths, the square wooden trenchers and wooden platters to receive the bones. [See above, p. 356 l. 26]. So it is in all the colleges. Both socii collegiorum and students or scholars dine here; those of quality however dine in their rooms, but the cost is 10 excessive. Old court of the college; new court. At 7 o'clock Messrs. Grassy took us to a collegium musicum, which meets every Wednesday. The music was but poor, but they assured us, that in winter, when the best performers are in residence, it is much better. However the 15 magister artium, who played general-bass on a clavichord, said to have cost £18, did his part very well. The music lasted till 11, when the reckoning was called for, and every one paid his share: from us, as strangers, they would take nothing. 20

Pp. 136-141: 28 Aug. In the afternoon the Messrs. Grassy took us to their countryman Dr. Lavater of Zurich, a grandson of the famous divine and son of the prof. med. at Zurich, to hear the beginning of a cursus anatomicus. As he had only lately been licensed to lecture, and had no 25 corpse to dissect, he began with osteology. He lectured in english, which he speaks pretty fluently. Latin Englishmen could not well follow, partly from ignorance of the language, partly because of the difference in pronunciation. The regular hearers were about 12; the place, a small vaulted 30 room under the Ashmolean. When the lecture was over, we proposed to see the laboratory, and hoped to have everything explained to us by Dr. Lavater; but he excused himself, as not knowing the uses of the various instruments; he appears not to be so skilful in chemistry as in anatomy. 35 This laboratory originally was used by the royal society, and many fine discoveries were made here. But since the society has become great, and removed to the capital, it has decayed. Nor has the laboratory itself been maintained in the condition, in which it is described by Bentham p. 350 seq. The present prof. of chemistry, 5 Richard Frewin, does not trouble himself much about it, the operator, Mr. White (said to be a great debauchee) still less. Thus, though the stoves are in a tolerably perfect state, the finest instruments are almost all broken to pieces, and the whole place is filthy. And this in 10 England, where all studies, chemistry in particular, are supposed to be flourishing in the utmost perfection! Strange that Gottfried in London, by birth a German, and a venetian Jew, also in London, have far finer laboratories, than the royal society and the apothecaries. Next we 15 walked behind Magd. coll. Park and alley; large oak-tree, said to be as old as the college; deer. Strange statues (Délices d'Angleterre III 531). Pity that the monstrum or Brutum Dr. Sacheverell, member of this college, and now resident, does not take his place among these 20 grotesque figures.

P. 141: 29 Aug., in the morning we examined the Bodleian MSS.; in the afternoon we began to compare the Ashmolean MSS. with the printed Catal. MSS. Angl. The late proto-custos Lloyd is said to have supplied the de- 25 scriptions for this latter; their only fault is that they are too minute.

Pp. 141-2: 30 Aug., in the morning again at the Bodleian. In the afternoon in Ch. Ch. library, a good collection, in good order. Those of the college who were 30 with us, professed to know of no MSS. So we went into a shop, and bought some books, chiefly in english, such as are not to be bought in Germany or Holland. Latin books it would be folly to buy, for they can be bought in Holland for a third of the price which must be paid here. 35 The smallest 12mo. costs 18*d.* or 2*s.* The best is, that all books are neatly bound in calf. One is allowed to examine the books on the shelves; though most English- men are not so curious. Mr. Karger declares on his honour that he has seen an Englishman buy a yard of books, as they stood on the shelves, to fill up a gap of that length in his library. No books are bound in vellum, but all uniformly in calf. 5

Pp. 141-2: 31 Aug., Sunday. In the afternoon we attended service at Magd. coll., in order to see the notorious Dr. Sacheverell,* who is socius of this college; whom we had seen from our house the day before, riding in from the country. He travels about everywhere, 10 agitating the people, who come out to meet him by hundreds, especially the women; his journal is printed weekly in London like a newspaper, and sold dear. We had a good view of him during the whole service, and were surprised, that so well-made and well-favored a man 15 should meddle with such foul plots.

Pp. 143-4: 1 Sept., examining MSS. in the morning at the Bodleian, in the afternoon at the Ashmolean. [Transcript of an epitaph on Bacon in St. Michael's church at St. Alban's]. 20

Pp. 144-8: 2 Sept., it being a fine morning we ordered horses for Woodstock (6 miles), to see Blenheim castle, begun 5½ years ago, and reported to have cost £800,000, though it is little more than half finished; 800 workmen are employed upon it. The rooms are small [cf. Reliquiae 25 Hearnianae, 1869, II 47-8]. The bridge, the costliest and most useless ever built: water-works: tame fish, which swim up at call 'Come, poor fellows.' Lawns, mown three times a week in wet weather, and rolled daily. 30

Pp. 148-9. At 4 o'clock we returned, taking Godstow on our way (Délices d'Angleterre III 588). Fair Rosamond; subterranean passage a mile long between a monastery and a nunnery.

Pp. 149-153: 3 Sept., in the morning comparing the 35 Bodleian MSS. with the printed catalogue. In the after-* [See pp. 235-6; Letters from the Bodl. I 190, 201].

noon, first in Merton-college (Délices d'Angleterre III 577). The library is tolerably extensive; the MSS. stand among the printed books. Astronomical instruments; skeleton; portrait of Duns Scotus, a former member of the college,
 5 'verzweifelt hässlich.' Chapel: east window by W. Price, given by Alex. Fisher, sometime fellow, 1702. Tapestry; tombs of learned men [the epitaph of Ri. Lydall, M.D. warden, ob. 5 Mar. 1703-4, aet. 84, given at length]. Sun-dial by Jo. Bainbridge med. and math. prof., to which 10 a pillar of the building serves for gnomon. Garden. Next we went to Lincoln-college (Délices d'Angleterre III 555). Two courts; chapel.

P. 153: 4 Sept., in the morning we stayed at home, as it is a festival, St. Bart., which is kept throughout all 15 England, in memory of the massacre at Paris. Afternoon in the Ashmolean library.

6 Sept., in the morning at the Bodleian. In the afternoon we were to see the stones, kept in cupboards in the court of the Ashmolean; but Mr. Parry, who alone has 20 the key, did not appear. As the day was lost, and the weather fine, we went to walk in the alley behind Magd. coll.

8 Sept. Writing letters. In the afternoon Master Paullus, gardener at Woodstock, brought us a letter to his 25 father, at Marholz in Isenburg.

P. 153: 9 Sept. and following days. Morning busy with Bodleian, afternoon with Ashmolean MSS.

Pp. 154-5: 13 Sept., in the afternoon Mr. Parry had promised to shew us the stones; but as he was late, I 30 turned over the 28 (i. e. 1097-1034; not, as stated in the catalogue, 39) volumes which Ashmole used in composing his book. Among them are many transcripts of originals, some since printed in his 'history of the Garter,' some by Rymer. At last Mr. Parry came, and shewed us the 35 stones; such a collection I never saw. The collector [Edw.] Lhuyd has described them excellently in his [Ichnographia, Lond. 1699. 8vo. new ed. by Wm. Huddes-

ford, Oxon. 1760. 8vo.]. As only 125 copies of the book were printed, and it costs a guinea, and is now out of print, Mr. Parry, who helped Mr. Lhuys greatly in the collection, intends to publish an enlarged edition. The fossils were classified by genera and species. In the last cupboard was a large drawer full of antiquities, dug up in England; fibulae, lamps, sacrificial knives, fragments of a fine urn, representing a roman funeral.

P. 155: 14 Sept., Sunday, at home, because of a violent wind. 15 Sept. and 16 Sept., morning, engaged on MSS.

Pp. 155-7: 16 Sept., afternoon, took boat on the Thames, to see a race, 1½ m. from Oxford. Speed of english horses. Story of a thief who rode on one horse from London to York in one day.

Pp. 157-8: 17 Sept., in the morning at the library, where Dr. Hudson fixed the prices of the duplicates which we had selected: it was so high, that my brother only bought a few mathematical books. I was not a little angry at his often asking 10s. for a book, for which he afterwards would take 5s. or 6s. He is said to be very selfish, and to have made much money by dealing in books. He has made many enemies by his avarice, and is commonly called 'the bookseller.' He is not regarded as a man of much learning, nor in what I saw of him, did I find much. He seems very friendly, but has a very ugly trick of crying out 'he! he! he!' every instant, like the boors, so as to be heard all over the library. He does not attend very diligently to the library; the new catalogue has been chiefly made by the two sub-librarians Mr. Crabb and specially Mr. Hearne. This Hearne is a man of 30, and very mean to look at, but exceedingly diligent, and of good acquirements. He is only porter of the library, and shews the anatomy room, to which he sticks very close, because of the fees. From the library he has only £10, as he assured me. In the afternoon was the second race, but as our time was precious, and the wind high, we did not go again, but turned into Merton-college, to see the MSS.

Pp. 158-161: 18 Sept. After spending the morning in the Bodleian, we wished to devote the afternoon to the 5 Ashmolean; but the sub-librarian went to the races, it being the third and last day. We did not care to go again, as time was so precious; besides, it is enough to see such a sight twice, unless one is an Englishman and can take pleasure in overdoing the poor animals.
 10 Still we would have gone, if there had been this time, as usual, a 'smock-race,' where women run in gown and shift, and men in trowsers without shirt, for the prize of a shirt. This time there was no such race; nor any 'whistlers' this fair. On a stage in the market people
 15 come forward, and whistle against one another for a hat, or for a piece of money which is thrown to them: sometimes the one which can hold out longest, sometimes the one who whistles in the lowest, or again in the highest, key wins. Or a prize is given to him who can pull the 20 ugliest face; surely the maddest diversion in the world. In All Souls' coll. we found no one, at least no one who could or would shew us the library. So we went home, and my brother made a drawing of Mr. Roussier's bed. [A full description, and two engravings of this curiosity, 25 'contrived a double debt to pay, a bed by night, a chest of drawers by day,' is given in all seriousness].

Pp. 161-5: 19 Sept., in the morning at the Bodleian. In the afternoon saw Lincoln-college library, containing few books and those ill-arranged, as they are in most 30 college libraries. Could not see the MSS. Those given by Sir Geo. Wheler, preb. Durh., some time gentleman commoner, were in a separate case: no doubt they will be fine codices graeci, which he collected on his travels with Spon. As he who had the key of the MSS. was not 35 in the town, we went with Dr. Büttner, who arrived some days ago, to the hortus medicus. He brought an introduction to prof. Bobart, and as he has a great knowledge of botany, I thought we could not see the garden better than in his company. [On their way they met a funeral procession, which is described at length; a number of people followed the mourners, each with a piece of rosemary in one hand, in the other a pair of white gloves 5 wrapt in paper: these they receive from the house of mourning, at a cost of 18*d.* a pair to the relations of the dead. People of quality are buried at night by torch-light].

Dr. Bobart* was already at the hortus medicus. I was 10 amazed at the ugly features and insignificant appearance of this otherwise honorable and good man. His wife, a hideous old woman, was with him, but hideous as she is in her sex, so hideous, indeed uglier still, was he. A very long and pointed nose, little, deep-set eyes, a crooked 15 mouth with scarcely any upper-lip, a great, deep scar in one cheek, face and hands as black and coarse as those of the lowest field-labourer. Dress and hat in particular were also very mean. Such was the figure of Mr. professor, whom one would rather take for the gardener; and 20 in fact, he does nothing else but work constantly in the garden, and in botany itself is rather a good gardener than botanist. Still his diligence is commendable, both in the garden and the publication of the work of his predecessor [Rob.] Morison, a far more scientific man. He led us 25 round, and shewed us all there was to be seen; the plants were pretty numerous, but not comparable to those at Leyden or Amsterdam. Greenhouse. Mr. Bobart complained of the losses by frost two years before. When he shewed us an amygdalum nanam aegyptiacam flore pleno, 30 and related that when it first came in, Dr. Hermann†

* [A friend of Ray's. See Letters from the Bodleian, Lond. 1813, II 160-1].

† [Paulus H., born at Halle 30 June 1646, prof. of medicine and botany at Leyden 1680, where he died 25 Jan. 1695; in 1687 he published Horti academici Lugduno-Batavi catalogus. Lugd. Bat. 8vo.].

from Leyden was with him, and cried out with tears in his eyes: 'That is my plant.' And so it was in fact: for when he was bringing it home, with many other plants which he had himself with great pains collected in India during 11 years, the ship was taken by a french privateer, and the good man lost all. Some of these plants were afterwards sent to Mr. Bobart, who restored not a few to Mr. Hermann on learning that they belonged to him. Alga floating in a little stone basin. Mr. Büttner assured me that he only saw from 6 to 10 plants which were unknown to him and specially rare: I have forgotten their names.

P. 166: 20 Sept. Busy with the MSS.

21 Sept., Sunday, we did not go out because of the bad weather. Peculiarity of the english climate.

22 Sept. and 3 following days. Again searching the fine MSS.

Pp. 166-7: 24 Sept. Learnt from our host Roussier the way to clean bottles with a narrow neck and lackered furniture.

Pp. 167-171: 25 Sept. Saw St. John's-college. Courts, walks and garden. The books in the library are in tolerable number and well-arranged. The librarian, a brisk, lively young fellow, professed to know of no MSS. He shewed us first in hot haste, mit rechter Furie, some natural curiosities; fossils, a sheep with two heads and eight feet etc. But the chief curiosity was a bladder-stone of the size of a hen's egg in a golden box, bearing the inscription: 'This stone was taken out of the body of doct. John King lord bishop of London, descended from the ancient Kings of Devonshire, who deceased London 1621.' His arms, or those of his see, are below. Then we were shewn tolerably large stones, found together in an ox. A likeness of Charles I., drawn with a pen, the lines being verses from the psalms. Below was a latin inscription, stating that it was placed there by abp. Laud 1636. A breviary in 8vo. (Paris. Germ.

Hardoin 1530) said to have been qu. Mary's mass-book; we saw a similar one at St. John's college, Cambridge, etc. etc. A Wickliffe's bible given by Humphr. Haygat 'convictor' in 1620. Chapel; hall, 'small but tolerably clean, and did not stink so badly, as most of the others.' We 5 next went to Paradise-garden at the end of the town by a tavern; there are countless little cabinets partitioned by hedges, where the fellows (socii) drink in summer. There are fine fruit-trees and yews. I had never before seen the yew in fruit. 10

Pp. 171-3. At dinner we had a delicious piece of roast veal: and when I gave the preference to english veal above dutch, which is too coarse, as the calves are there killed too old, Mr. Grassy assured me that he had tasted far better in Italy, especially in Romagna. There 15 (as in Switzerland) the calves are fed out of leathern bottles, to spare the mothers: but in the Romagna eggs are first stirred up in the milk, which makes the calves very fat and well-flavoured. Then we saw All Souls' library. It is small and in a poor room. But as a col. 20 [Chr.] Codrington* has given the college £10,000 (a vast sum, which could have been spent better, than on a palace for these lazy socios, as most of them are) and his fine collection of books worth £3000, a new library is to be built. This Codrington is said to be a very able man; 25 for when king William came the first time to Oxford, and was to be received in the Sheldonian theatre, and the university orator chanced to be ill, no one (shame upon them!) being found among all the members of the university, who could make a speech, this Codrington arrayed 30 himself as a professor, and in the name of the university made the king an elegant latin speech. Codrington's new library is not yet in the college, but in a private house opposite. The MSS. were standing among the printed books, where I examined some of them.

* [Governor of the Leeward Islands; he increased Le Clerc's 'exigua supellex libraria,' as Le Clerc says in the dedication to his Hesiod, Amst. 1 Jan. 1700].

Pp. 173-7: 27 Sept., in the morning I examined a MS. of the latin gospels, with interlinear saxon version,
 5 'given by Mr. Rushworth,*' and is thought to be Bede's own book;' and the under-librarian solemnly asseverated that it was in Bede's own hand; whereas the scribe gives his name Macretol or Macretuil in the subscription. As it was just 11 o'clock, when I discovered this blunder,
 10 I must confess that I left the library this time in real anger. When we came home, our host Mr. Roussier had received various buckles, coffee-spoons, seals, etc. from Wells from Jonathan Parfitt, the first and true inventor of the so-called Wells-metal, which is like pure gold, and 15 as heavy; if you rub it with 'rotten-stone' (found often in England, so that it costs but 4*d.* to 6*d.* the lb.; known in Holland as 'engelsche steen') it takes a deep gold colour. The inventor has become very rich; he keeps 30 people always employed, and cannot execute orders in less than 20 two or three months; so great is the demand. In the afternoon again to the Ashmolean, to see the MSS.

P. 177: 28 Sept., kept at home because of the rain.

Pp. 177-9: 29 Sept., in the morning at the Bodleian; in the afternoon at the Ashmolean. I then wished to see 25 one or two things in Antony Wood's library, but the key was not at hand. So we went to Brasenose-college. The library is pretty numerous, but they professed to know of no MSS. though 16 are named in the Catal. MSS. Angl. We then visited the schools (auditoria). They are almost 30 all alike, tolerably large, but quite empty. The theological school is the best. Behind this is a hall for ceremonials, with raised benches all round; but the Sheldonian theatre now serves this purpose. In the school of history and grammar is Wm. Camden's portrait, with 35 an inscription stating that it was set up by Degory Whear, his first professor.

* [Macray 104].

P. 179: 30 Sept. Again in the Bodleian and Ashmolean.

1 Oct., in the afternoon we went into Magd. coll. library, which is tolerably large and bright, and furnished with a large number of books, principally theological 5 and medical; of the latter this is said to be the finest collection in Oxford. We could not obtain sight of any MSS.

Pp. 179-180: 2 Oct. St. Matthew's day, all libraries closed in the morning. We visited Mr. Zwinger, a grand- 10 son of the author of the Theatrum. As we spoke of Joh. Jac. Hofmann, historical professor at Bâle and lexicographer, he told us, that he died unmarried only three years ago, and left behind him 10,000 dollars. Of his shameful avarice he gave a specimen; in order to save 15 ink, he omitted commas and the dot over the i. When visitors detained him too long, he sent them a quotation about the loss of time. He scarcely ever left his house, only once passed the city-gate, and never once reached the Rhine bridge. Yet he is said to have been passion- 20 ately fond of chess, so as even to have given lectures upon it. He was also, which is surprising, a good poet.

3 Oct. Inspected Wood's MSS. in the Sheldonian theatre.

4 Oct. Saw Oriel-college. The library is small. 25

5 Oct. In the afternoon inspected New All Saints' church. It is regular and fine, adorned with stucco and with many coats of arms. The pulpit also is very stately.

Pp. 180-183: 6 Oct. In the afternoon we went first to 30 Pembroke-college, one of the poorest in Oxford. The library we could not see, as the keys were kept by some one who was out of town. Then we went with Mr. [John] Carswell,* [Savilian prof. of astronomy], to the Savilian library. This is one of the most honest, intelligent and 35 polite men that we met in all England, who spoke perfectly impartially of the state of the country, both in respect of learning and of its political constitution. We talked much with him, especially about mathematics. He asserted that when Halley was with the famous 5 Hevelius, he discovered that they could not see or observe anything with his telescope of 300 ft., and that his other telescopes were useless, because on account of their length, the centres of the lenses cannot be brought into a straight line. He asserted also that lenses of over great size were

* [Uffenbach calls him Math. Cassuel.]

10 of no use, and that neither Newton nor Marschall here in England could produce anything of value in this kind. He praised a telescope of 80 ft., which he had seen at Mr. Flamsteed's, who obtained the lens for it of Borello. Of [Rob.] Hooke, who is so famous in England, he thought 15 little; he regarded him as a good mechanician, but a charlatan withal, who made too much of his inventions. He did not approve Newton's invention of the small telescope, because the metal mirror was too liable to rust. When my brother asked, whether glass mirrors would 20 not serve the turn, he replied, that they absorbed too many rays. When we spoke of military architecture, he said, that hardly four men in England paid any attention to it, because the English think little of fortresses; to this island they are not so needful, and might be dangerous
25 as a focus of rebellion, in the present temper of the people. Civil architecture was pursued with some success. He mentioned, that Chr. Wren made the hanging floor, secured by screws, in the Sheldonian theatre. Of Wallis he said, that he had taken great pains to describe a 30 method of making a square floor without props, whereas the thing was already done in the tower of the university. He said that Wren had the charge of St. Paul's cathedral. He praised Halley's invention of the longitude, and said that none had advanced so far therein as he; adding that 35 it would not answer to search for the longitude through two telescopes by the course of the satellites, because on ship board only short telescopes could be used on account of the motion; now satellites could not possibly be observed through short telescopes; besides an accurate clock was required for the purpose, which could not be had in ships. True, Huyghens had taken great pains to invent a clock in situ horizontali perpetuo, but as yet without 5 success. Lastly he spoke of special instruments, which he had invented for applying the telescopes, but complained that he could take few observations because of the hilly site. He could not shew the instruments belonging to the college, not having the key; but assured 10 us, that they were of no great consequence, excepting some quadrants. Some wooden quadrants he did shew us, given by one Raimburg. Then we went into the Savilian library.

Pp. 183-4: 7 Oct., we went to see the fine library 15 bequeathed by col. Codrington to All Souls'; it occupied three rooms in an apothecary's house. There are said to be 8000 volumes, and to judge by the look, there may really be as many. They are mostly valuable new french, spanish and italian books. Just above these rooms, eleven 20 years ago, Mr. [Thos.] Creech resided, and hanged himself, as his favorite Lucretius did before him, whom he had edited with learned notes and translated into English. Some time before he had been expelled from All Souls' for his turbulence; he then took lodgings in this house. 25 When he had resolved to hang himself, he made the apothecary believe, that he was going to London; who supposed that he was gone, till he was found hanging by the girdle of his dressing-gown [see Reliquiae Hearnianae, 1869, II 242]. The host told us that Mr. Creech was 30 always greatly afraid of an upset when he had to travel by coach, and often fainted from terror of it; so that he generally travelled on horseback. So, when he gave out that he would go by coach to London, the host was greatly surprised. One would think that his reason for 35 fearing driving so much, was that he was minded to end his life, not by a fall, but swinging in the air.

Pp. 184-5: 8 Oct., at 7 a.m. we set out from Oxford with our host Mr. Roussier, and came, after a 9 miles' drive, to Benson [Bensington]; then to Anly [Henley], after another 9 miles of somewhat hilly road: here we 5 dined. Then, 7 miles further, Madyned [Maidenhead]; and after 5 miles more, between 6 and 7 p.m., we reached Windsor, and put up at the Siren.

Pp. 185-8: 9 Oct. In the morning we saw the castle. Poor knights. After dinner, we set out at 12 o'clock;
 10 but first at the end of the town stopped to see Cato's [sic for Eaton, i.e. Eton] college. All the scholars are together, in one large room. There are scarcely more than 50 books in the library. Then 5 miles to Colnbrook; thence across 'thieves' plain,' so called from the frequent 15 highway robberies, to Honsly [Hounslow] 5 m.; then to Brentford, 2 m.; Kensington, 5 m.; London 2 m., which we reached at 5 p.m.

P. 188: 10 Oct. Kept in doors because of the rain.
 11 Oct. Called on Dr. J. E. Grabe, but he was at 20 Tunbridge. 12 Oct., in the evening, at the Paris coffee-house, we made the acquaintance of a scholar, named Burg, from Breslau.

Pp. 188-9: 13 Oct., in the morning we first drove to pastor Edzardi's, from whom we bought some books;
 25 then to the Tower, where we bought at the mint some fine medals of the kings. Then to Thomas Moor's house, to enquire for Humphrey Adamson, sometime captain, now professor; but he was not in. We bought Halley's sea-charts for 9s., as the variations of the needle are there 30 given. Then to the Guildhall, to see the voting for lord mayor. In the afternoon we examined Mr. Campe's fine collection of ancient coins. For an Englishman he is very patient and courteous, and takes much trouble in shewing things to strangers; at the same time he has an 35 eye to his own profit.

P. 190: 14 Oct., in the morning we drove first to George Hickes in Ormond-street, famous for his excellent thesaurus linguarum septentrionalium.* He is a good, honorable man, some sixty years old, but talks very little. We spoke of various anglo-saxon MSS. and books; he was highly delighted when I told him of Mr. Dietrich von Stade and his intention of publishing Otfried. Then 5 we drove to the duke of Montagu's.

P. 191: In the afternoon we drove to a pencil-maker's, both to buy black and red pencils, and to see the process of manufacture.

Pp. 191-2: 15 Oct. In the morning we drove to the 10 mechanician Culpeppers, where we bought some instruments. Then to the Old Bailey to an optician, Patrick, where we saw barometers, among others Halley's ship-barometer.

Pp. 193-5: 16 Oct. In the morning we could not find 15 the shop of the mechanician Moxon, where we wished to buy some instruments and books. Then to Tothill fields, to see a contested election between gen. Stanhope and a brewer named Cross; violence; Stanhope charged with filthy profanity in Westminster Abbey. 20

Pp. 195-7: 17 Oct., in the morning called first on Mr. Beatel [Ad. Buddle of St. Cath. coll. see below 23 Oct.] in Grays' Inn to see his botanical collection, but he was out. Then went to Covent garden, to see more of the election. There were two great books, one for Stanhope, 25 one for Cross; in one of these each elector wrote his name. Then to the famous german chemist Gottfried in the Strand, where we made some purchases. In the evening in the Paris coffee-house a watchmaker offered for sale an agate with a cross etched upon it, which he 30 declared to be the work of nature: but baron von Nimtsch explained to us the art of etching and painting on marble.

* [On 8 June 1715 Uffenbach writes 'cultori Uffenbachianae bibliothecae augusto Jo. Henr. Maio fil.' (Commerc. epist. Uffenb. v 110); 'Hickesii thesaurus vere thesaurus est, diu a me desideratus exoptatusque, nisi ingens deterruisset pretium, sed cum ad tuam aeque ac meam, hoc est, litterarum rem conducatur, comparandum utique duxi, eo magis, quod raritatem operis, prelum vix umquam denuo subituri, aucturam olim pretium persuasissimum mihi sit.']

Pp. 197-9: 18 Oct., in the morning we drove to Lambeth, to see the archbishop's library, in a narrow 5 gallery round a square court: there are many valuable new books, bought by the present abp. Tennison. We asked about MSS., but the librarian could not shew them. At noon he asked whether we would go to the chapel to prayers, which are always read before dinner. So we
10 went. Afterwards we and the other strangers passed into a hall, through which the abp. and his people were ushered by a marshal into the dining-room. We followed and took our seats also. There were about 16 at dinner, chiefly english clergy. He keeps open table in this way
15 several times a week, and the clergy of town and country avail themselves of the occasion. We could well have spared some of these gentry this time, as they made it impossible for us to speak much with him. He is an old man, of very courtly manners; we were surprised 20 that at his age he sat bare-headed at table. He said but few words, and though the entertainment was tolerable, it was over in an hour and a half. The only toast was the abp's health. After dinner he asked us of our country, and who we were, and of some german scholars,
25 and so dismissed us. In the evening to the play: 'the changes' followed by 'the stage coach.'

19 Oct. Kept at home because of the rain. 20 Oct., in the morning called on Dr. Woodward, but in vain. In the afternoon to one James Hempel's, to see his new in-30 vention for casting seals.

Pp. 199-201: 21 Oct. Bought Charles Brown's writings, which, as atheistic, have occasioned great stir in England. In the evening baron von Nimtsch told us, that this Brown had conceived a passion for his deceased wife's sister, 35 and, when she refused him, wrote a defence of such marriages. When this did not convince her, he threatened to shoot himself before her face, which he did. Some thought, the pistol went off against his will: but others deny this, as Brown in his writings had openly vindicated suicide. Respecting Asgill* and his book, to prove that a man, if he had faith, might escape death, we were assured that it was not written in earnest, but to please 5 a lady, who set him the task, he having maintained, that anything in the world could be defended. Baron von Nimtsch denied that he was turned out of parliament because of this book; it was because of his debts; the book, which had been published seven years before, was 10 a mere pretence. The earl of Rochester's foul satire against Charles II. and his shameful comedy 'Sodom', are not printed with his other works; the former has never been printed, the latter is very hard to come by. It is astounding that so godless and abominable a theme 15 should not only have been elaborated by any man, but acted in the theatre in the grossest way before a king. However the general excesses and in particular the amours of this king, to which Rochester was always a party, are only too well known. 20

P. 201: 22 Oct., in the morning kept in doors because of the rain. In the afternoon visited Mr. Pauli, son of the famous court physician of Denmark; he gave us some good addresses, and promised to introduce us to the man who cracks glasses by shouting: cf. Morhof 'de scypho 25 vitro, voce humana fracto.'

Pp. 201-2: 23 Oct., in the morning we visited the famous Dr. Joh. Ernst Grabe,† a short, spare, plain man, * [John A. See Brydges, Restituta III 64].

† [See Bentley's Correspondence 151, 246, 613; Whiston's Memoirs of Clarke 32; Tholuck, Das akademische Leben u. s. w. I 34; ind. to Reliquiae Hearnianae. There is a critique on his ed. of the cod. Alex. in Mich. de la Roche, Memoirs of literature, 2nd ed. Lond. 1722 I 53 seq., 65 seq. Hickes speaks of him in the highest terms, Letters from the Bodl. I 221-2. Mill's notes on Hippolytus wrongfully ascribed to him, Fabricii Vita 150, 154. See further Calamy, Own Times, II 249; Macray's Annals of the Bodl. 149; Ammon, Gallerie merkwürdiger Personen etc. Erlang. 1833, p. 355 with a strong squint, from 40 to 50 years of age. He received us very politely, and greedily inquired after literary news from Germany. We begged him to shew us the famous codex Alexandrinus, which he promised to 5 do; but excused himself for this time, as he had a necessary engagement. He told us what trouble he had in procuring for foreigners access to the MSS. of the Bodleian. But since the student May had purloined some MSS., they had been much more strict. This he 10 said, when I complained of Dr. Hudson's jealousy of him.

P. 202. In the afternoon we saw the fine collection of plants at Mr. Beathel's or Buddel's [Buddle's, see above, 17 Oct.], a preacher residing in Grays Inn. He had some 20 large volumes, all in good order: the most 15 curious was one of mosses, some 300 kinds. He had a microscope with them, that we might the better see the structure: it is very admirable. A volume of 150 sorts of indigenous grasses was also well worth seeing. In the other volumes are not a few exotics. He is a 20 very gentleman-like and agreeable man, of about fifty.

Pp. 202-7: 24 Oct., set off at 7 a.m. for Hampton-court, taking on our way the duke of Somerset's opposite to Isleworth. Gardens and pictures of Hampton-court. The king of France offered £300,000 for Raffaelle's cartoons.
 25 Saw Richmond on our way back, and were in some fear of highway robbers, as the roads are very insecure.

Pp. 207-212: 25 Oct., in the morning we went to Kensington. Portraits by Holbein; barometer by Tom-pion; portraits of the four indian kings, who were in 30 London some time ago. Clock by 'Samuel Watson, now in London,' but made at Coventry, giving not only the hours, but the courses of the sun and moon according to the system of Ptolemy, and the courses of all the planets according to that of Copernicus. In the evening at the 35 coffee-house Mr. Kerger told us that the famous Jo.

seq.; Nicéron, Chauffepié, Chalmers, and the introductions to the O. T.]

Joachim Becher was the inventor of the art of water-works adopted here, but was ill-rewarded; once he lived in great repute and made much money, but lived a very loose life, so that he died quite poor, and his daughter was in service at a schoolmaster's in London. Speaking 5 of libraries, Mr. Kerger assured us that there were indeed many amateurs here, but they collected books without intelligence; he had seen with his own eyes a great lord draw a tape out of his pocket, measure off a row of books without looking at their titles or contents, and then bargain 10 about the price by the yard. Baron von Nimtsch said that the author of the 'true-born Englishman' and of the 'review of London,' had been put into the pillory, for the bitter satire therein contained against England. We were told that Mr. Hautsch from Nürnberg made steel red-hot 15 by hammering. We learnt also certain chemical experiments [described at length]. Mr. Benedetti shewed some choice medals. Baron von Nimtsch told us that the duke of Buckingham possessed many fine autograph sketches of machines invented by the marquis of Worcester. 20

Pp. 212-3: 26 Oct., Sunday afternoon, to Chelsea, to see lord Renlo's [Ranelagh's] house there, but as he was at home, we could not obtain admittance. Then to the medical garden of the London apothecaries; thence to the coffee-house noted for its rarities. 25

Pp. 214-9: 27 Oct., in the morning to Dr. Grabe's where we at last saw the codex Alexandrinus. [Described at some length; Dr. Grabe argued that it was written by Thecla from the mistakes in the division of words etc. He was busy with the third vol., the prophets; for the 30 second he was waiting for the codex Masianus, in the possession of a son of prof. Lente of Herborn. He himself copied the three volumes of the codex, and collated them in presence of three witnesses, that, in the event of his sudden death, they might certify the accuracy of his 35 copy. The proofs were corrected by his copy, the last revise by the original]. From Dr. Grabe we went to the Royal bagnio in Newgate-street, fitted up in the turkish fashion (View of London II 197). At the door were scales, and some lost 8 or 10 lb. weight while in the bath. Then in a print-shop we bought the 'Cryes of 5 London,' 74 leaves, for half a guinea. Next to the watchmaker Schulz from Breslau, who astonished us with the speed and exactness with which he drilled a hole in diamonds and rubies. Then we bought some gold-beater's skin, made of lambs' bladders; of great 10 service for healing wounds.

Pp. 219-221. In the afternoon to another watchmaker, Chr. Holfom [?], to see his new alarums. Thence to see the 'state-bed' worked by the nuns of Brabant for the elector of Bavaria; as it was not paid for, it was sold 15 here, and is now to be disposed of by lottery. It is valued, with the tapestry belonging to it, at £9000. In the evening we drove to the so-called latin coffee-house, near St. Paul's, to see a book-sale. This is very convenient; one drives out in the evening, drinks a cup of 20 tea or coffee, smokes a pipe, and can bid, when a good book turns up. I bought several, much cheaper than they can be had in the shops. We found Mr. Kerger there also, who explained the use of borax in glass-painting.

25 Pp. 221-3: 28 Oct., in the morning called again in vain upon Dr. Woodward. Then to Mr. Dandrige [?] to see his collection of insects. Each several butterfly or fly is glued down between two glasses. He shewed us also birds' nests with their eggs; also an 8vo. book, containing drawings of all the english spiders, 115 in number,
 30 with a short description in english; a great collection of plants in 12 volumes. A fine volume of fungi, drawn from nature, was at the painter's. 'At the sign of the sugar loaf in Salisbury court,' my brother bought, for 35 use in grinding glass, putty and emery, each 2s. a lb.; and 'lapp,' a coarse cloth, as thick as one's finger, very useful for polishing, 6s. a yard.

Pp. 223-6. In the afternoon at the mechanician Rohly's [?], whom we asked for Moreland's calculating instrument; he offered to make one for five guineas. They are said to be more convenient for long calculations than the bacilli Nepperiani. Rohly shewed us various object-glasses. He had two other convexo-concave lenses, which he intended to use for a reflecting telescope of Newton's; this invention of Newton's he praised highly, as if there were none like it. Then we went to the natural-philosopher [Francis Hauksbee [where they saw experiments on light, and on the air-pump; these last described at length, with a plate].

Pp. 226-8: 29 Oct., in the morning in Westminster, at Wesenbeck's from Augsburg, who casts portraits and seals in glass. Then to Mr. Pardin, a maker of watchmakers' implements; he is very reasonable, and will not abate of the price first asked. Then to the bagnio in St. James's. In the afternoon we tried to find Jackson, a mechanician, who has invented a coach that cannot upset etc., but he was at Cambridge. Again with Mr. Kerger at a book-sale in a coffee-house. Experiment of Hauksbee's on refraction. Baron von Nimtsch taught my brother various tricks in chemistry and magnetism, as how to make a solid glass out of spirits, oil and other liquids.

Pp. 228-231: 30 Oct., in the morning called on Dr. Woodward for the fifth time, and at last found him at home; but were shewn into an antechamber. When we had stood there a good quarter of an hour, he first sent his boy to ask our names: after another quarter of an hour the boy came back, saying, 'his master was still in bed, as he had sat up somewhat late the night before; it might be half an hour before he got up, if we could wait so long.' We left our interpreter and servant behind, with orders to summon us, when it was convenient to the man, and meanwhile drank a cup of coffee in the next coffee-house. When one of them came for us, we set off at once, but must again wait some half-hour in the antechamber. At last his boy called us and led us through two rooms to the precious Mr. Doctor. He stood stiffly up in his silk dressing-gown, and with an affected air and screwed-up eyes, asked who we were, and where we came from. But when we begged for a sight of his cabinet, he excused himself, saying that in half-an-hour he had to attend a consultation, which he could not possibly put off, and prayed us to come again the next afternoon at 3. When we were about to take leave, he begged us to stay awhile, and called to his lad, 'make haste,' intending, as we supposed, to offer us chocolate, according to his custom. For, as Dr. Kerger and others assured us, he presents it to all strangers, and that with such ridiculous fuss and ceremony, that one can scarce refrain from laughing. For till the chocolate comes, he keeps urging the boy with every variety of expression; a shouting to which, much to our disgust, we were forced to listen some half-hour. But this time we had not the honour to drink a cup with him; for though the boy brought a silver can and a cloth, it was only for shaving; and we were to be favored with the privilege of looking on. We had heard already of more than four foreigners, who had received the same treatment. But we excused ourselves, and said we would not detain him, and got away, though he several times begged us to stay. Thence to an optician, named James Praun [? Brown ?].

Pp. 231-3. In the afternoon we saw in Fleet-street a great baboon or ape, which performed all sorts of cunning tricks; danced very cleverly on the rope, threw itself into all sorts of postures, smoked tobacco etc. We saw also the monstrous artillery-drum which is so much talked of, said to have been taken from the French at Lisle. In the evening we were again at the sale and bought some books. We saw also book-ladders such as are commonly used in England, and are convenient for the small space they occupy. They consist of two half-cylinders, hollowed inside, so as to receive the steps;

when folded up they look like one pole. Their fault is want of steadiness. We met again Dr. Wilhelm Kerger, and learnt from him some optical experiments and the method of casting metal mirrors.

Pp. 233-5: 31 Oct., in the morning we drove to Stone-street, to see the fine collection of shells formed by the minister of the church in the Stock-market. 5

Pp. 235-7. In the afternoon we drove again to Dr. Woodward, and at last attained our end, to see his things. Yet he kept us waiting, as his way is, again a good half- 10 hour in his ante-chamber; and then complained that we were not quite punctual and had not come half an hour before. This is said to be the uncivil compliment, which this affected, learned charlatan pays to all strangers that come to him. He shewed us first all kind of precious 15 stones found here and there in England; then some minerals, and then petrefactions, his strong point. Not only was the quantity amazing, but the specimens were select and fine. Amongst others he shewed us shells filled and partly overgrown with stone of all kinds, even 20 the hardest flint. Specially curious was the collection in which he shewed us the whole growth of the conchylia from first to last. He had also many stones containing fossil plants of all kinds; shells covered with metals and ores, and partly also filled with them; amongst the rest 25 very many fine ammonites. He had a cabinet filled with ancient urns and vases. In another were great fossil snails and ammonites, yet not so large as those of Mr. Reimers which we had seen at Limburg. In another he had a good number of MSS., chiefly relating to the natural 30 history of England, which, as he professed, were mostly of his own writing. When he opened this, he said, 'now he would shew us, that he was not idle.' We did not at once catch the meaning of the word in english; and supposed he meant, according to the pronunciation, that 35 he was not etel (vain). As he made a great boast of these works of his, we could scarce hold from laughing.

Among these books was a volume, in which he had had all his conchylia tolerably well drawn. Again a fine herbarium vivum anglicanum of his collection, in which the plants were quite fresh and well preserved. In another

5 room he had a good store of conchylia of all sorts; and with them we saw a great curiosity, the Muscovy vegetable sheep, described at length by Adam Olearius in his travels. It was not a full span high, bright brown, and the wool not like proper, long, wool, but like the heads of reeds,

10 yet somewhat more woolly and longer-haired, so to say: this plant draws its nourishment through the feet, which serve it for roots. This is one of the greatest rarities which we have seen on our travels. Dr. Woodward shewed us all his things with such an affected air and

15 such screwing up of the eyes, that one cannot help laughing; though he suffers you to laugh as little as to speak, requiring every one to listen to him as an oracle, approve and extol all. You must listen to his opinion de diluvio et generatione antediluviana et lapidum postdiluviana, till

20 you are sick of it. He repeats whole pages of his works, accompanying them with running panegyrics. The maddest thing of all is, that he has many mirrors hanging in every room, in which he constantly contemplates himself. In all he does he behaves like a woman and a conceited fool.

25 He is a man between 30 and 40, unmarried, but criminis non facile nominandi suspectus. Very strange stories are told of him, and Mr. [Chr. Heinr.] Erndtel has very cleverly described him in his letter de itinere anglicano, at which he is very angry, and continually rails at this

30 German. This is supposed to be his reason for disliking the Germans, and throwing such obstacles in the way of their seeing his things, as we learnt to our cost.

Pp. 238-9: In the evening baron von Nimtsch told us of the prodigiously large and precious diamond, belonging

35 to an Englishman named Pitt. We wished to see it, but were told that it was impossible, as Mr. Pitt continually changed his name, and his residence when in London, for fear of being attacked or murdered for this diamond. It is said to be far larger than that of the duke of Florence. The baron has had it in his hands, and confirms the truth of the description which he allowed us to copy: 'Mr. Pitt's great diamond weighed, when 5 rough, 410 carats; but when it has been cut, it will weigh 135½ carats.' Observe: a diamond of 30 carats is worth £12,000; but if the weight rises to 32 carats, the value is far greater. If it exceeds 32 carats, the increase in value is out of all proportion to the increase in 10 size. A private person has offered £80,000 for this great diamond; but in truth it is almost priceless. The cost of cutting it would amount to £5000; the chips would be worth at least £8000. To break it into small pieces would cost £1400. It is about 1¼ inches in diameter. 15 At 8 o'clock p.m. when we came home, we found Dr. Pauli waiting for us, to tell us when we could see the Scotchman who breaks glass by shouting. He also told us how to gild steel.

Pp. 239-244: 1 Nov., in the morning we packed up 20 our books and goods in three bales, to send them to Holland. At noon we dined at the Blue Bell in Clare market. There a Scot, Cherbourn [Sherbourne?], of good family, well-made, with a very strong voice, singing a good bass, broke several double flint glasses by shouting. 25 [The process is described at length]. He is upwards of 40 years old, a loose liver and deep in debt; he speaks scotch, irish, english, dutch, german, italian, french and latin. Baron von Nimtsch declared that a danish captain, Drayer, who died here some time ago, could do it still 30 better. Our Scot also played the flute admirably, and imitated the sound of other instruments; he also played all sorts of juggling tricks. In the company was Mr. Meyer, M.D. of Stuttgart, who has been here some time. He is a learned, well-read man, and a good bibliographer. 35 He talked much of his mss., an old and valuable Statius, many letters of Casp. Scioppius, Andr. Schottus, Is. Casaubon and Chr. Forstner. He professed to have collected more than 4000 anonymi and pseudonymi, chiefly legal writers, very few of whom were in the new edition of Placcius. He is a man of about 40, but as I thought : vir beatae

- 5 memoriae, expectans iudicium. [This is commonly said to have been suggested as an epitaph for Joshua Barnes; but here it is quoted before his death]. Towards evening we went with Mr. Pauli, and a native of Holstein, named Fleischer, to a concert given by a Frenchman, Binet, land-
10 lord of the 'Romer tavern in Gerard-street.' There was a fine collection of musical instruments, and among them two large harpsichords, valued at £200 a piece, by two of the best makers in Antwerp, Hans Rucker and his son, called for distinction Jean. Mr. Fleischer played with 15 great execution, and sang both a bass and a very soft tenor; he nearly equals Nicolini. Afterwards in the coffee-house Mr. Kerger taught us how to reduce bas-reliefs and seals, an invention on which Wesenbeck professed to have laboured for nine years.

- 20 2 Nov., in the afternoon we went into the church in Covent-garden, which ranks next to St. Paul's among London churches; we could not guess why. In the portico the elections of members of parliament take place.

- Pp. 244-7: 3 Nov., in the morning took leave of Mr.
25 Edzardi and prepared for our journey. Then we drove to Mr. Benedetti's, and saw his antiquities, books and other curiosities. One thin volume in atlas fol. contained pen-and-ink drawings of sixty fortresses in the spanish Netherlands. It formerly belonged to the notorious 30 Hadrian Beverland, who notes that he gave 125 guineas for it. It was the work of Bernard de Gomme, born 1620, knighted by Charles I., engineer and quarter-master-general under Charles II. and James II., who died 23
Nov. 1685. Also catalogues, written by Beverland, one 35 of books, the other of coins; both intended for the press. Both the books and coins sold much below their worth: Mr. Benedetti shewed me a printed sheet, in which Bever-

land complains of being cheated, having received scarce £500 for his library, which was worth more than £5000. We would gladly have visited this Beverland, who lives at Fulham; but were told that he is quite distracted, and supposes that everybody is aiming at his life. He is said 5 to grumble most at his mistress, who had been a maid-servant with Is. Vossius, and for whom, as she had borne him a child, he was obliged to provide. We drove also to Boet, a Swede, in St. James'-street. He is the most famous émailleur in England; and with him young Zinck 10 from Dresden works.

Pp. 247-252: In the afternoon Mr. Campe took us to Dr. Hans Sloane, who received us very politely, quite otherwise than that puppy Dr. Woodward had done. He immediately addressed us in french, which is very unusual 15 for an Englishman; for they will rather stand dumb, than speak with a foreigner in any language but their own, though they may be very well able to do so. His Charleton cabinet; his own collections made in India. He had refused £15,000 offered for his stores by the 20 venetian ambassador. Animals and fishes, dry or in spirits of wine; shells; one cochlea terrestris, oviparous; corals; foreign costumes and armour; agates; gems and vessels of precious stone; coins; stuffed birds and beasts; edible nests; books of drawings by the best artists, of 25 animals, flowers, costumes, from all parts of the world. Some MSS. chiefly medical and modern. Owing to his great practice he has no time to spare; it is said he can make a guinea an hour; so we must regard it as very courteous in him to have give us from 2.30 to 7 o'clock. 30 Being a great traveller, he is very affable, especially towards Germans, and those who have some sympathy with his pursuits. Then we drove to Thomas Smith, who makes human eyes of coloured glass; an invention of his father-in-law's. Then we went to the Paris coffee-house, 35 partly to say good bye to baron Nimtsch and Dr. Kerger, partly to see the famous smith Honeyman [a mimic and ventriloquist]. We had still much to see in England; but did not care to spend the winter in the country, partly because of the unhealthy climate, partly because of the disturbances consequent on a change of ministers:

 5 nor would we stay longer, for fear of a rough passage.

Pp. 252-3: 4 Nov., in the morning we set out in a coach hired for £5. We dined at Brentwood; found Chelmsford in the ferment of an election; the mob shouting Child! Child! (the Tory candidate's name) and pelting
 10 us for lukewarmness in his cause. Spent the night at Witham.

Pp. 253-4; 5 Nov., in the morning we set out at 6 for Colchester, where we bought a barrel of oysters for 5s., dined at Manningtree, and reached Harwich at 4.30;
 15 where we put up at the Rotterdam. Foul winds kept us here 6 days; nothing to see, nothing to do, poor fare, and a terribly long bill, ein ganz entsetzlich Geld. Every day we spent 30s. a head, and should have starved, but for our barrel of oysters. The captain was in league with 20 the landlord. The second day we sent back our interpreter, Lamoral Henry, who had cost us half a dollar a day, with the returning coach.

Pp. 254-5: 10 Nov. In the afternoon, walking along the beach, we saw a field full of flint stones, in the shapes 25 of all manner of bones. Returning we saw a true english, or rather devilish sport. Some lords, waiting for the packet-boat, had promised two sailors a crown, if they would strip to their trousers and fight with fists. Their faces were running with blood, and their bodies were as 30 blue as an apron. Whenever they wanted to give over, the spectators tossed them a shilling, to keep them to it. This is a common pastime of passengers.

Pp. 255-9: 11 Nov., at 6 a.m. we put to sea; as we passed the fort in the dark, the guard fired at us: after 35 sailing about a quarter of an hour we ran aground, and did not get off for half an hour. A Swede who was with us said that on his way to England he had been 18 days on the passage. On 12 Nov. at 8 a.m. we came to anchor off Goeree, and stayed there, with nothing to eat but some old ship's biscuit, for which we had to pay dear; it was night before we landed at Helvoetsluys.

NOTES.

5

P.123 l.1. 27 July. New style. we. The two brothers with their interpreter and servant.

P.123 l.6. Délices d'Angleterre. Les délices de la Grande-Bretagne et de l'Irlande, par James Beeverel. Leyde. 1707. 120. 8 vols. The plates of the colleges are 10 taken from Loggan.

P.123 l.11. no better than a village. Edw. Ward's works, 2nd ed., II 235: 'As for the town itself, it was so abominably dirty, that Old-street in the middle of a winter's thaw, or Bartholomew-fair after a shower of rain, could 15 not have more occasion for a scavenger, than the miry streets of this famous corporation, and most of them so very narrow, that should two wheel-barrows meet in the largest of their thoroughfares, they are enough to make a stop for half an hour before they can well clear them- 20 selves of one another, to make room for passengers. . . . The buildings in many parts of the town were so little and so low, that they look'd more like huts for pigmies, than houses for men.' Evelyn's Diary, Sept. 1654 (ed. 1854, I 304): 'The market-place is very ample, and re- 25 markable for old Hobson the pleasant carrier's beneficence of a fountain. But the whole town is situate in a low dirty unpleasant place, the streets ill-paved, the air thick and infected by the fens, nor are its churches (of which St. Mary's is the best) anything considerable, in compare 30 to Oxford.'

P.123 l.12. Höchst. In Nassau, famous for Tilly's victory over duke Christian of Brunswick, 10 June 1622. Its population slightly exceeds 2000.

P. 123 l. 13. the inns. Ra. Thoresby (Diary 5 July 1714) lodged at the Red Lion, kept by Reyner, a York-shireman.

P. 123 l. 15. baron Nimtsch. Christoph. Gottlieb von Nimptsch, born 1661, in 1674 was sent on account of religious persecutions from Silesia to the court of Ernest the pious of Gotha as a page, set out on his travels 1678, spent 12 years in Rome, visited also Spain, France, Holland and England, and died unmarried in London after he had spent 9 years there (Zedler's Lexicon, XXIV 954).

P. 123 l. 20. Ferrari. See Gent. Mag. 1744, p. 282 col. 1. 21 May 1744. Died 'at the earl of Leicester's house, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury-square, Sig. Dominico Ferrari, doctor of laws, and fellow of the royal society, as well as a member of several learned foreign academies. He was a Neapolitan by birth, of an ancient family in that city, and practis'd as an advocate in his profession, with no less success than applause, 'till, by an accident, he became acquainted with a learned man of sir Tho. Coke's (now earl of Leicester's) retinue; by whose means, after serious consideration and conviction, he renounced his practice and the errors of the church of Rome, and became a member of that of England; and on his arrival here was appointed librarian to the noble family where he died. We hear that his body being open'd, a large stone of the size of a turkey egg was extracted, and that he left a valuable library to the earl. He was a gentleman of uncommon learning, inoffensive to all, and of a most agreeable and improving conversation.' To St. John's library he bequeathed a unique collection of early Italian and French books, some from Bullinger's library; they stand among the mss. in shelf O (Cowie's Catal. pp. 115-34); among them is Paleario's long-lost 'trattato del beneficio di Giesù Cristo crocifisso. Venet. 1543,' republished with a learned introduction and french and english versions by Churchill Babington, Cambr. 1855, who justly says (introd. lxxiv, lxxv): 'Ferrari was undoubtedly a man of learning, and a copy of the lexicon of Hesychius, full of his MS. notes, may be worth the attention of some future editor.' Each of the books in class O has the following book-plate :

---

IN grati animi testificationem, ob plurima Humanitatis officia, a collegio Divi Johannis Evangelistae apud Cantabrigienses multifariam collata, librum hunc inter alios lectissimos eidem collegio legavit illustrissimus vir, DOMINICUS ANTONIUS FERRARI, J.U.D. Neapolitanus, 1744.

Teste

J. CREYK. 15

---

It is greatly to be regretted that Ferrari never carried out the design which Courayer attributes to him : Histoire du concile de Trente . . par Fra-Paolo Sarpi . . , traduite . . par Pierre François Le Courayer. Londres, 1736. 2 vols. fol. pr. p. xi : 'Entr' autres pièces qui m'ont paru les plus curieuses j'ai fait usage d'un recueil d'actes qui commencent à l'ouverture du concile sous Paul III., et qui finissent à sa translation à Bologne, ramassez par un nommé L. Pratanus Nervius. Ces actes qui m'ont été communiquez par le Dr. Ferrari, et qui me paroissent très exacts et très fidèles, sont précédés d'un sommaire abrégé écrit avec beaucoup de liberté.' p. xii : 'Il y a plus à profiter dans la lecture d'un recueil de lettres des légats du concile sous Paul III. écrites pour la pluspart au card. Farnese, et au card. Camerlingue, que m'a fourni aussi le Dr. Ferrari. . . . Ce recueil aussi bien que celui de Philippe Musotti secrétaire du card. Seripand; . . . ces recueils, dis-je, contiennent quantité d'anecdotes dont plusieurs méritoient d'avoir place dans l'histoire. Le cardinal Pallavicin qui en avoit eu communication en a tiré bien des choses, mais toujours avec la précaution de n'en extraire que ce qui étoit favorable à ses vues. Il eût été plus avantageux au public de publier les recueils même, et je l'eusse fait avec plaisir

5 si le savant Dr. Ferrari, qui me les a communiqué et qui a ramassé beaucoup de ces sortes de pièces, ne m'eût fait entendre qu'il se propose de les publier lui-même et de donner cette collection au public lorsqu'il aura mis en ordre tout ce qu'il a déjà recueilli, et tout ce qui

10 se trouve dispersé ailleurs parmi ce qu'on a déjà publié de ce concile. . . . Plus j'ai eu occasion de consulter de ces sortes de pièces, et plus je me suis convaincu de la scrupuleuse exactitude de notre auteur; et pour le justifier contre la malignité de ceux qui l'accusent le

15 moyen le plus court et le plus simple seroit de rassembler le plus qu'il se peut de ses sortes de memoires pour se convaincre par leur lecture de la fidélité avec laquelle il les a suivis. Une telle collection ne peut être que très curieuse et très utile; et dans le dessein où est le

20 Dr. Ferrari de la publier aussi ample et aussi complète qu'il est possible, il sera très obligé à ceux qui auroient sur cela quelques memoires de vouloir les lui communiquer afin d'en pouvoir enrichir le public.' In 1710 Dominico Ferrari LL.D. Neapol. was incorporated at 25 Cambridge. Baumgartner Papers in Cambr. univ. libr. x 81, Tho. Baker to John Strype, Cambr. 30 Nov. 1714: 'In your life of archbp. Parker, p. 255, you give some account of one Petrus Bizarrus Perusinus, and say, you have a bundle of his letters (italian) in your possession.

30 That Italian was fellow of this college, for which reason I should be glad to see them, or any few of them that most concern himself. There is likewise an italian gentleman now with us (a very sincere convert, I verily think) who would be glad to know anything of the state of the 35 italian church then in England, or of any other Italians that came over then upon account of religion. If you have any thing of that kinde, that you are willing to communicate, I should take it as a particular favor, and could easily order Mr. Harwood to call for them at Mr. Wyat's, and would take care to return them very carefully and thankfully. But for ought I know, you may have parted with them, or may not be willing to lend them out, and then I have no more to say, but to beg your pardon for this trouble.' Ibid. 82. Same to same. Cambr. 21 Dec. 'I am to thank you for your letter by the post, and packet by the carrier, the latter whereof I shall take care to return in a short time. . . . My italian friend, Dr. Ferrari, 5 presents his humble service and thanks.' Ibid. 83. Same to same. Cambr. 4 Jan. [1714-5]. 'I return your papers, with my own and Dr. Ferrari's thanks. If you happen to meet with P. Perusinus's letters, I shall be glad of a sight of 'em, in the mean while, your extracts are 15 sufficient.'

P. 124 l. 8. the state of this university . . . very bad, See Uffenb. to Joh. Andr. Danz, 10 May 1713 (commerc. epist. II 293-4): since my return, 'mutato lares in Angliam transferendi consilio, omnis mea cura in bibliotheca in 20 ordinem redigenda novisque in itinere collectis accessionibus augenda fuit. . . . Quid de nuptiis dicam? Ridebis hominem tanto in libros Musasque amore flagrantem, ut innatum procreandi liberos stimulum restinguere atque neglegere aetatique degendae in Anglia quaerere locum 25 latebrosum Musisque sacrum instituerit firmissime. Nec mutassem animum, nisi clima, taetro a carbonibus fossilibus odore infectum, victus ratio, et denique pessimi, iuxta vetus de insularibus proverbium, hominum tum temporis plane furentium mores obstitissent. Unicum quod allicere 30 poterat, bibliothecae erant instructissimae, quos thesauros ipsi neglegunt, si paucos excipias, qui gentis gloriam attollunt atque conservant, exterosque inducunt, ut sibi persuadeant, Musas in hac insula sedes fixisse. Est igitur, quod mireris, tam paucos esse qui has colunt, ut vel in 35 una nostrarum academiarum plures eruditos viros, quam in latissima regione, reperias. Indigni igitur, quod tantis subsidiis instructi sint, quibus si nostri gauderent, melius uterentur.'

- 5 P.124 l.24. Notitia. Probably a loose sheet, if the title is truly given; cf. Cooper's Annals III 553. Chamberlayne. Angliae notitia, first by Edw. and then by his son John C., of which many editions appeared between 1668 and 1755.

P.124 l.25. H. L. Benthem's Engeländischer Kirch- und Schulen-Staat. Printed at Luneburg, 1694, 8vo.

- 10 P.124 l.31. the chapel. Restored in 1707 and 1708, under the direction of Roger Cotes (Monk's Life of Bentley I 205-9, where the large subscriptions of the master and fellows are given).

P.125 l.10 seq. Cf. pp. 356 l.26, 382 l.3.

- 15 P.125 l.15. the library. See a letter from Is. Barrow, soliciting subscriptions, 8 Febr. 1675-6, in Eur. Mag. Aug. 1789 p. 98, also in his Works, ed. Napier. Monk in Mus. Crit. II 696: 'The situation of the projected fabric was happily chosen, to complete the quadrangle of 20 Neville's court, the north and south sides of which had just been finished by the munificence of two old fellows of the college, Sir Thomas Sclater and Dr. Humphrey Babington. Barrow lived only to raise the subscription and to lay the foundations of this noble pile, which was 25 destined to be one of the architectural glories of Sir Christopher Wren.' Cooper's Annals III 566: 'It appears from a book still preserved in Trinity college library, that the building was begun 23 Febr. 1675-6, and finished
26 Febr. 1684-5, the total cost being £12,213. 16s. id.,
30 of which £11,709. 19s. 8d. was subscribed.' Rog. North's Life of Dr. John North, ed. 1826, 364-6: 'When the doctor entered upon the mastership of Trinity college, the building of the great library, begun by his immediate predecessor Dr. Barrow, was advanced about three quarters
35 of the height of the outward wall; and the doctor most heartily and diligently applied his best forces towards carrying it on; and besides his own contributions, most of his friends and relations, upon his encouragement, became benefactors; the particulars whereof will appear in the accounts of that noble structure. The tradition of this undertaking runs thus. They say that Dr. Barrow pressed the heads of the university to build a theatre . . . . Dr. Barrow assured them that, if they made a sorry building, they might fail of contributions; but if they made it very magnificent and stately, and at least exceeding that at Oxford, all gentlemen of their interest would generously contribute . . . But sage caution prevailed, and the matter at that time was wholly laid aside. Dr. Barrow was piqued at this pusillanimity, and declared that he would go straight to his college, and lay out the foundations of a building to enlarge his back court and close it with a stately library which should be more magnificent and costly than what he had proposed to them, and doubted not but, upon the interest of his college, in a short time to bring it to perfection. And he was as good as his word; for that very afternoon he, with his gardeners and servants, staked out the very foundation upon which the building now stands; and Dr. North saw the finishing of it, except the classes, which were forward, but not done, in his time; and divers benefactions came in upon that account; wherewith, and the liberal supply from the college, the whole is rendered complete; and the admirable disposition and proportion on the inside is such as touches the very soul of any one who first sees it.' 5 10 15 20 25

P. 126 l. 13. Henry Puckering, to whom Stanley's Aeschylus is dedicated. He was son of Adam Newton, prince Henry's tutor (Duport's Musae subsec. 222-3, where his son Henry's death is spoken of; cf. ibid. 229. He was member for Warwick, born in London, buried at Nottingham; Duport, 344, thanks him for the gift of a silver clock and inkstand).

P. 126 l. 17. folding-doors. Rather 'a double door,' eine doppelte Thüre. 35

P. 126 l. 29. the proverb, as translated by Erasmus

from (Gell. II 6 § 9): πολλὰ καὶ κηπουρὸς ἀνὴρ μάλα καίριον εἶπεν.

P. 126 l. 31. apographum. B x 3, a transcript made for John Whitgift, and bequeathed by him to the college
5 (see Scrivener's Cod. Bezae, x, xi): a grace passed 2 Mar. 1582-3 for lending the ms. to Whitgift 'quo illud describat;' the time was extended by a subsequent grace 10 Oct. 1583 (ibid. xiv).

P. 127 l. 1. Benthem. In the ed. of Leipz. 1732, p.
10 503, the error does not appear; in the pref. f. b 3 r<sup>o</sup>, an apology is made for it. The great Camden (in Scrivener xiii) seriously maintained that he had seen the true codex Bezae in Trin. library, but that it had since been lost; the codex Bezae shewn in the university library, he, like 15 Simonides, considered to be 'sequioris aevi.'

P. 127 l. 21. Ritterplatz appeared at Hamburg in 3 parts 12mo., 1701, '2, '4.

P. 128 l. 7. Christian Juncker published Vita M. Lutheri et successuum evangelicae reformationis historia 20 nummis 145 atque iconibus aliquot rarissimis confirmata et illustrata. Francof. 1699. 8vo., where this medal is engraved p. 24 tab. 2; the same in germ. Guldenes und silbernes Ehren-Gedächtniss des seeligen D. Martin Lutheri Nürnberg. 1706. 8vo.

25 P. 128 l. 10. Francesco Redi, an italian naturalist, born at Arezzo 18 Febr. 1626, died at Pisa 1 Mar. 1694 (Tiraboschi t. viii pt. 1 l. 2 c. 3 § 9). Ibid. pt. 2. l. 3 c. 3 § 11: 'Le poesie del Redi son per grazia e per eleganza vaghissime, ma sopra ogni cosa è stimato il suo Bacco in Toscana,
30 ditirambo a cui non si era ancora veduto l'uguale, e forse non sì è poscia ancora veduto.' The Bacco in Toscana, a panegyric of tuscan wines, with learned notes, first appeared at Florence, 1685, 4to.; Leigh Hunt published a translation in 1825. Prof. Huxley, in his address
35 to the British Association in 1870, seems to regard Redi as standing almost alone in his time as an experimentalist.

P. 128 l. 17. Clare hall. Evelyn's Diary Sept. 1654

(I 304, ed. 1854): 'Clare-hall is of a new and noble design, but not finished.'

P. 128 l. 23. the library. Ibid. I 303: 'Went first to St. John's college, well built of brick, and library, which I think is the fairest of that university. One Mr. [Edward] Benlowes has given it all the ornaments of pietra commessa, whereof a table and one piece of perspective is very fine; other trifles there also be of no great value, besides a vast old song-book, or service, and some fair manuscripts. There hangs in the library the picture of John Williams, archbishop of York, sometime lord keeper, my kinsman and their great benefactor.' Thoresby's Diary, 16 May 1695 (I 293-4): 'enjoyed our late vicar, the learned and obliging Mr. Milner's, good company, who shewed us the delicate walks etc. of St. John's college; but was yet more pleased with the curious library, where are some valuable manuscript hebrew bibles, delicately writ, and other old gilt ones, a book in the chinese character, the greek testament used by king Charles I. and a serious book richly embroidered by queen Elizabeth; the pictures of the excellent archbishops Grindal (?) and Williams, Sir Robert Hare, noted benefactors, and Mr. Bendloes, who bestowed several curiosities; variety of natural marbles so delicately placed and inlaid as to make curious prospects; we saw there also a little chameleon etc.'

P. 129 l. 5. a folio volume. The text is printed in Baker's History of St. John's, 1869, 338-342; the arms are described ibid. 1107-9.

P. 129 l. 19. mosaics. See Evelyn and Thoresby, just cited.

P. 129 l. 29. Cam. Les délices de la Grande Bretagne I 102: 'le nom de Grant-bridge, ou de Cam-bridge, c'est-à-dire, le pont du Cam.'

P. 129 l. 30. This bridge. The plan of this bridge has been lately bound up with the building plans of the 2nd court.

P. 130 l. 8. King's chapel.

1654, 1 304: 'I found the chapel is the title of three expectation, especially the roof all of which is spelt Key. Laughton's paper originally flatness of its laying and carving reads Athenian Mercury

5 with any in Christendom. The contour (which I went upon), weight and artifice, and in Loggan stones, is admirable. The lights are also is spelt Keys. one aisle lies the famous Dr. Collins, so celestial. The Boyle fluency in the latin tongue. . . The library is to be read on that

10 P. 130 l. 13. Tom. I. p. 109.

P. 131 l. 5. Catal. MSS. Angl. pt. II p. 162, w<sup>129</sup>.
7 MSS. occur.

P. 131 l. 26. Bp. Jo. Pearson's Adversaria Hesychiana were published at Oxford 1844, 2 vols. 8vo.

15 P. 132 l. 8. the Greek's Coffee house. Edw. Rud's Diary, Cambr. 1860, 15 Sept. 1710, p. 2: 'Mr. [Ri.] Laughton arrested the Grecian for abuseing him when he visited his coffee-booth at the [Sturbridge] fair.' Ibid.

7 Sept. 'Mr. Laughton the senior proctor hinder'd the musick booths from coming to the fair, by threatening that he would oblige them to sell in full measure. He also revived the statute [n. 47] for punishing lads 3s. 4d. who came to the fair without leave under their master's hand; and on the 9 he visited paper-mills.' On the 9th

25 of Nov. 1664, it was decreed by the heads (Stat. Acad. 494) 'that all in pupillari statu that shall go to coffee-houses without their tutors' leave shall be punished according to the statutes for haunters of taverns and ale-houses.' Rog. North, Lives of the Norths, ed. 1826, III

30 309, 310, speaking of John North, admitted in 1661: 'Whilst he was at Jesus college, coffee was not of such common use as afterwards, and coffee-houses but young. At that time, and long after, there was but one, kept by one Kirk. The trade of news also was scarce set up; for

35 they had only the public Gazette, till Kirk got a written news-letter circulated by one Muddiman. But now the case is much altered; for it is become a custom after chapel to repair to one or other of the coffee-houses (for there are divers) where hours are spent in talking, and less profitable reading of newspapers, of which swarms are continually supplied from London. And the scholars are so greedy after news (which is none of their business), 5 that they neglect all for it; and it is become very rare for any of them to go directly to his chamber after prayers, without doing his suit at the coffee-house; which is a vast loss of time grown out of a pure novelty, for who can apply close to a subject with his head full of the din of 10 a coffee-house? Cf. ibid. 293-4: 'And we may judge the time as well spent there [with the booksellers in Little Britain], as (in latter days) either in tavern or coffee-house; though the latter had carried off the spare hours of most people.' Cf. on London coffee-houses ibid. I 316-9. 15 In 1675 the duke of Monmouth, chancellor, asked (Cooper's Annals, III 569): 'Whether the coffee-houses be much frequented or not, by what sort and degree of men, and at what hour?' The heads replied: 'The coffee-houses are daily frequented and in great numbers of all sorts (the 20 heads of houses and other doctors excepted) at all hours, especially morning and evening.' Masters, Life of Baker, 108: 'Mr. Baker had for many years before his death been almost a recluse, and seldom went further than the college walks, unless to a coffee-house in an evening after 25 chapel, where he commonly spent an hour with great cheerfulness in conversing with a select number of his friends and acquaintance, chiefly upon literary subjects.' See an order of the v. c. against frequenting taverns 14 Dec. 1728 in MS. Baker XXXIII 475; and a decree of the 30 heads to the same effect 10 Mar. 1728-9 in Stat. Acad. 510. The regulations which passed the senate in 1750, and led to a violent controversy (Cooper IV 278-281), contain several enactments relating to coffee-houses.

P. 132 l. 12. British Apollo. John Dunton (Life, ed. 35 1817, p. xxvii n.) designed a work entitled: 'The querists. A satire on interloping. Dedicated to the British Apollo.'

P. 132 l. 16. Athenian Oracle is the title of three volumes selected from John Dunton's paper originally called Athenian Gazette and afterwards Athenian Mercury (see his Life 187-197, 206).

5 P. 133 l. 27. Kies college. In Beeverell, and in Loggan from whom his plates are taken, the name is spelt Keys.

P. 134 l. 7. Bentley's Folly of Atheism. The Boyle lectures for 1692, being the first lectures delivered on that foundation.

10 P. 134 l. 15. Catal. MSS. Angl. pt. II, pp. 107-129. See A catalogue of the manuscripts in the library of Gonville and Caius college, Cambridge. By the Rev. J. J. Smith, M.A. Cambridge, 1849. 8vo.—A list of the early printed books; and an index of the English books printed 15 before the year MDC. in the library of Gonville and Caius college, Cambridge. Compiled by W. R. Collett, M.A. Cambridge. 1850. 8vo.

P. 135 l. 23. Dr. Bentley. A few details may be gleaned after Monk's harvest. A Narrative of the life and 20 distresses of Simon Mason, apothecary. Birmingham, printed for the author. 8vo. (n. d. but after 1754) pp. 72-3 : 'Upon reading the account of Mr. Dresser's death, who was an apothecary of good business in Cambridge, I went to Dr. Mead, . . . and told him what a miserable situation
 25 I was reduc'd to; . . . and as there was a vacancy at Cambridge, there I would willingly go, if I could accomplish it, in hopes of better fortune: the Dr. readily said he would write to Dr. Bently. . . In the year 1740 I went to Cambridge, with letters of recommendation to Dr. Bently
 30 and several more gentlemen. . . The reception I met with from Dr. Bently, and the encouragement I receiv'd from many gentlemen in the university, town, and county.' Pp. 76-7: 'Dr. Bently was taken ill of a pleurisy, a day or two before I was set at liberty [from Cambridge castle], 35 who was pleas'd to accept the attendance of a brother I recommended in my absence; I waited on the doctor as soon as I had it in my power; Dr. Bently was then under the care of Mr. professor Plumtree; I was very much concern'd to find my best friend so very ill, fearing upon the account of his great age, it wou'd go very hard with him; and as he had enjoy'd such good health so many years, and no great friend to physick, he was not 5 so conformable as the professor and I could have wish'd; but however he was judiciously treated by Dr. Plumtree, and closely attended by myself, who was with him night and day 'till death depriv'd us of this great good man. This was another very unlucky circumstance now I had 10 lost my best friend, who did not only employ me for himself and family, but for a great many poor people that the world was not acquainted with. The charities he did with his right hand were not known to his left; his alms were done in secret that he might be rewarded openly. 15 This good gentleman every morning during his illness, order'd me half a guinea for my attendance, and besides his paying me handsomely for medicines, I had a present of a three pound twelve over and above; but these favours were not equal to those I receiv'd from his kind recom- 20 mendation. The sanction I had, under the umbrage of this great man, obtain'd me the respect and favours of many. . . . Of all the unlucky incidents of life, nothing cou'd prove more fatal than the death of Dr. Bently in less than a fortnight after [add my] coming out of gaol; 25 and when I had been but little more than half a year settled at Cambridge, and one month of that in prison. My great friend being dead, my interest lessen'd and my business declin'd.' Thos. Baker to John Lewis of Margate, Cambr. Jan. 22 (Gent. Mag., 1786, p.669; year not given, 30 but as the receipt of the life of Caxton, published in 1737, is acknowledged, no doubt 1737-8): 'I can send you no news from hence, unless you have a curiosity to hear of Dr. Bentley's health, of which you have had so much in the prints. He is really much better; so much so, as to 35 have been abroad twice or thrice in his coach this bad weather. He has received much benefit by blisters, and

- has been advised to pursue and promote such evacuations by issues; but that he will not submit to. So I doubt you may hear of a relapse, since he neglects proper remedies.' His conjectures on Hesiod were transcribed
- 5 by Heyne (Göttling's Hes., prae. fin. with n. of Jacobs); Heyne writes to Jacobs (Personalien, 307, 17 Mar. 1790): 'Bentley's MS. [on Homer] makes me half desperate. He has his whim too about the aeolic digamma.' His transcript of the cod. Boernerianus, which he kept
- 10 his hands (Marsh's Michaelis, II 676, 818, 820). The Bodl. has a Quintus Curtius, Hag. 1708, 8vo., with his MS. notes and collations; and also a defence of Bentley, unknown to Monk, by John Cumming, M.A., minister of the gospel at Cambridge: 'The scotch pope not infallible;
- 15 or animadversions on Mr. John Commins's remarks on Dr. Bentley's sermon preach't Nov. 5th, 1715. Lond. 1715,' 8vo. When Dr. A. A. Sykes kept his divinity act in 1726, he repeated 'Quid si, quid si,' being at a loss for words. On which Bentley took him up: 'Quid si, quid si, caelum
- 20 ruat?' On which Sykes replied: 'Tum tu, dignissime professor, sublimi feries sidera vertice' (Disney's Life of Sykes, 370-1). In Geo. Hardinge's Memoirs of Sneyd Davies, (Lond. Nichols 1817 pp. 249-250) is a saying of Bentley's on hearing a conjecture: 'Good, very good, and
- 25 sound; but that Hardinge is a King's-man, is he not? Those King's-men are bad fellows,—not one or another, but all of them—except Hardinge—and Hardinge is a King's-man.' Porson's application of the epigram about the Lerians is much better known. See another saying
- 30 of Bentley's in Wytttenbach, Vita D. Ruhnkenii, 1799, p. 239. On Ri. Bentley the son see Cole in Brydges, Restituta, IV 384. Richard Bentley's letter to Davies p. 411 ed. Wordsw., is also printed in John Hughes' Letters, ed. 2, III 169. H. R. Luard in 1860 published for the Cambr.
- 35 Ant. Soc. 'The diary of Edw. Rud, sometime fellow of Trinity college; to which are added several unpublished letters of Dr. Bentley.' A letter to Patrick Gordon vicar of Reading, dated St. James's 25 Sept. 1697, was in Kerslake's catalogue of Jan. 1859 art. 1577, and with it a letter from Jablonski to Bentley. Six of his letters to Burman were printed by Haupt in the Monatsbericht of the Berl. Akad. Oct. 1860, and thence by A. A. Ellis, in the app. 5 to Bentleii critica sacra. Cambr. 1862, pp. 163-180. Jacob Bernays has a paper on Bentley's correspondence in the Rhein. Mus., ser. 3, vol. VIII (1853) p. 1 seq., where he complains of the errors of Lennepe's lat. version of the dissertation on Phalaris; accordingly a germ. version by 10 W. Ribbeck was published at Leipzig in 1857. Epistolae Bentleii, Graevii, Ruhnkenii, Wytttenbachii selectae, annot. instr. Kraft. Altonae. 1831. 8vo. A letter to him by Edm. Elys in Dr. Hen. More's Letters, 1694, p. 49. See further the indices to Jo. Byrom's Diary (Cheth. Soc.); Reliquiae 15 Hearnianae; Thoresby's and Evelyn's diaries; Cambr. Chron. 31 Dec. 1768 last page; about his prelection, Whiston's Memoirs of Sam. Clarke, 101. He wrote Sir Nic. Pedley's epitaph at Huntingdon (Peck, Desid. Cur. Lib. XIV n. 8). Jas. Gronovius refused to send him Manetho (Fabricii Vita p. 209). J. A. Fabricius dedicated to him the Vita Procli, 1700 (ibid. 114). Küster (ibid. 283-4) had received a letter from him a few days before 7 Jan. 1706 (ibid. 283-4). He intended to publish Justin Martyr (Kemble's State Papers, p. 231). Hemsterhuis censured 25 the rashness of his Manilius (Ruhnken, Elog. Tib. Hemst., ed. 1789, p. 53). A Manilius with his MS. notes was in Jos. Cradock's hands (Ann. Biogr. 1828, p. 297). A correction of his in Florus recorded in Markland's Statius, praef. p. xiv. Many notices of him in Thesaurus epistol. 30 Lacroz. vols. I—III, see the ind. On him and Locke, see Uhlii Sylloge nova epistolarum, vol. III pt. 1, lib. 7, pp. 63, 186-9. Stillingfleet's Life has been falsely ascribed to him (Brydges, Restituta I 164). 'Bentley. Eine Biographie von Jacob Maehly. Mit einem Anhang Bentley'scher Anecdota zu Homer. Leipzig. 1868,' 8vo., is more accurate, let us hope, elsewhere, than in an appendix on english

- education, which states (p. 121) that each of our two universities has 24 professors, who give very few lectures, and those only on classical philology and mathematics 'and their appurtenances;' none, it appears, but graduates
- 5 are allowed to attend. Considering that Mr. Maehly's work was done to his hand by a former professor of this university, we might reasonably have expected him to make some inquiries before he served up again these stale libels. See a severe review of his book by Fr. Lüdecke
- 10 in the Gött. gel. Anz. 1869. st. 35. F. A. Wolf, Literar. Anal. I 1-95, 493-9, and F. Hand in Ersch u. Gruber IX 48-52, had already given some account of our Aristarchus. In the catalogue of the Cambridge library may be seen a full list of Bentley's works, collected and scattered. De
- 15 Koutorga, Examen de la dissertation de Bentley sur l'authenticité des lettres de Thémistocle. Paris, 1861, 4to. Hen. Wotton, the excellent Johnian editor of Clement (Cambr. Corn. Crownfield 1718, 8vo.), 'cuius editio summa laude digna est' (Hilgenfeld), acknowledges Bentley's help in
- 20 words rendered famous by the Phalaris controversy: Praef. CCVIII: 'Plurimum me debere fateor Reverendo admodum apud nos PROFESSORI REGIO, qui pro singulari sua humanitate et benevolentia me illi prorsus ignotum excipiens, non solum msti cod. licentiam mihi concessit;
- 25 sed et perhumane, si qua de re ipsum consuluerim, quid ipse senserit mecum communicavit.' Again n. on c. 50 p. 199, speaking of Bentley: 'Qui et ipse pro singulari sua, qua omnes excipere solet, humanitate, me monuit, non esse discedendum hoc in loco a fide msti codicis.'
- 30 See further H. Ahn: De Bentleio Miltoni editore. Bonn. 1859. 8vo.; Godofr. Hermann's Opusc. II 270. On his Manilius see Fr. Jacob, Manil. Berol. 1846 praef. vi-ix, xi, xiii (Burman and Dorville against Bentley), xiv, xv (Bentley adopted many of Withof's conjectures). Ri.
- 35 Bradley was chosen professor of botany at Cambridge 10 Nov. 1724 'by means of a pretended verbal recommendation from Dr. Sherard to Dr. Bentley' (G. C. Gorham, Memoirs of John and Thos. Martyn, Lond. 1830, 32).

P. 135 l. 24. has built himself an excellent house. See Monk I 148-150, 174-6.

P. 135 l. 29. panels. Ibid. 149, 150: 'In all the rooms wainscot was substituted for the antiquated and decaying tapestry. Here Bentley complied with the fashion of the day;* as he did likewise in the introduction of marble chimney-pieces and sash-windows. In the last particular only there seems to have been just ground for complaint; since these windows not only occasioned a great cost, but were a blemish to the Gothic character of the noble quadrangle. He alleged in defence of this alteration, for which his taste as well as economy were impeached, that there was already a want of uniformity in the court, no two sides being exactly alike, and that sash-windows were desirable, as giving greater light to rooms which were not less than 25 ft. in depth.' 5 10 15

P. 136 l. 3. to eject a fellow. Edm. Miller. See the whole controversy in Monk, I 242-6.

P. 136 l. 11. his extreme arrogance. Ibid. 379 n. from 'University loyalty considered. Lond. 1715:' 'many have therefore taken an antipathy against him as a man that's high-minded.' 20

P. 136 l. 23. Dr. Grabe. See pp. 400 l. 26.

P. 136 l. 27. Horace. See Monk I 157-9, 307-324; Bentley's Corresp. 194, 200, 219, 225: Bentleii Critica Sacra 167: Maehly 50-61, 130-5. A new edition is now (1870) in course of publication in Germany. 25

P. 137 l. 12. Velleius Paterculus, first edited by Beatus Rhenanus. From the ms., since lost, of the monastery of Murbach, printed by Froben at Bâle in 1520, fol. 30

P. 137 l. 14. Hesychius, first edited by Marcus Musurus, Ven. 1514, fol.

P. 138 l. 6. Clericus. On the 25 Febr. 1710-1 Uffenbach (Reisen III 559, 560) visited Clericus at Amsterdam. 'He is a man of about fifty, very polite, yet somewhat dry; from his writings I had expected to find him much 35

* 'Only the dining-room was wainscoted with oak.'

more brisk. He began, like ordinary people, by talking of the weather. When I led the conversation to England, he complained of the great laziness of Englishmen, and justly too; enjoying such large beneficia and noble libraries, they 5 produced very little in the way of learning; which is only too true, with a few bright exceptions. . . . His wife, an old, lean and very ugly woman, daughter of the famous Greg. Leti, sat with us, had a book before her, and joined in the conversation. For the rest he spoke chiefly on in-
10 different topics, and asked several times, whether Bentleii Horatius would come out soon; he believed ad graecas calendas. I did not care to say much in reply, because of the great quarrel between him and Bentley.’ Uffenbach to J. H. Maius, 10 Mar. 1713-4 (Commerc. epist. II 349, 15 350): ‘Certiores enim me fecerat [Lederlinus] editionem [anthologiae gr.], quam Clericus tam diu molitus fuit, vix amplius sperari posse. Quod eo probabilius videbatur, quod magnus ille Aristarchus, postquam a Burmanno et Bentleio tam male exceptus fuerat, manum de tabula sub-20 ducturus, animumque in graecis quicquam audendi abieciurus sit.’ On Bentley’s dispute with Le Clerc see Monk I 266-280; Maehly 49, 50, 129, 130; Bentley’s Corresp. 380, 402, 408, 410. The principal authorities for Le Clerc’s life are given in A. J. v. d. Aa, Biogr. Woordenb.
25 der Nederlanden, III 439-457. Wm. Cave published at Lond. 1700, 12mo., ‘Epistola apologetica adversus iniquas J. Clerici criminationes;’ and John Milner published at Cambr. 1702, 8vo., ‘Animadversions upon Mr. Le Clerc’s reflexions in his supplement to Dr. Hammond’s
30 paraphrase.’ On the other hand Le Clerc numbered among his friendly correspondents David Wilkins, Wm. Wake, Nat. Lardner, Wm. Nichols, Jas. Fraser, Peter Allix, Ra. Cudworth’s learned daughter Damaris lady Masham; he exchanged literary services with John Davies, 35 Pet. Needham, Jos. Wasse, Wm. Wotton.

P. 138 l. 8. the last pasquil. See Bentley’s jesting letter to Burman 19 Aug. 1710 (in Bentleii Critica sacra, 172-3): 'Video inter te et Io. Clericum bellum atrocissimum exarsisse, et legi gallicum tuum scriptum [Le Gazettier menteur], in quo hominem adeo depexum, adeo colaphis contusum dedisti, ut vix ipse credo se noverit. Neque hoc supplicio contentus alium libellum sub ficto Phileleutheri nomine in caput infelicis impegisti; de cuius vero auctore inter eruditos disceptari audio. Clericus tamen ipse per epistolam me eius libelli patrem esse insinuabat et rumorem illum etiam antequam liber prodiret per totum Belgium increbuisse narrat; unde et bibliopolae hic in Britannia passim sub meo nomine divendere solent. Scire igitur a te aveo an verum sit talem rumorem in Belgio esse sparsum, et unde is primum dimanaverit, a Clericone an a te, an ab ipsis lectorum iudiciis; deinde quid de opusculo illo sentiant litterati, Relandus, Cuperus, Perizonius, Kusterus aliique; an ab emptoribus avidè diripiatur, an magis in officinis librariis haereat et obsolescat; an paret aliquid Clericus quod reponat; et quaecunque de toto illo negotio scis ut me certiore facere velis. Clericus quidem id a me exigebat ut λακωνικῶς vel aiam vel negem: sed cum primo me insidiis et deinde minis (etiam ante libellum editum) aggressus esset, neque librum mea caussa agnoscere volui, nec illius caussa eiurare. Tu igitur, vir amicissime, fac ut quam primum poteris fuse mihi omnia narres, quae de illo libello in eruditorum coetibus apud vos iactantur.' Abr. des Amorie van der Hoeven, 'Dissertatio de Ioanne Clerico. Amst. 1843,' has thrown new light upon this matter. P. 81: Wm. Wotton to Le Clerc, Lond. 15 Oct. 1697: 'Cum a lectione incomparabilis tuae Artis Criticae fervens nuper discesseram, subiit mihi in mentem, Richardi Bentleii censuram epistolarum Phalaridis et fabularum aesopicarum tibi hisce in artibus versatissimo haud ingrati fore.' Pp. 82-3: Le Clerc in reply, Amst. 4 Apr. 1698: 'Coepti legere libellum . . . viri doctissimi Ric. Bentleii, cuius eruditionem eximiam iam miratus eram, cum legerem doctissimam eius dissert. ad Ioannem Male-

- lam*, et quae contulit ad exornandam nuperam editionem Callimachi. . . Velim scire, si liceat, quid vir doctissimus moliatur. . . An Hesychio donabit remp. litterariam? An fragmentis poetarum graecorum? Novi hominem harum
- 5 litterarum amantem, qui studiose collegit non modo fragmenta ampliora Menandri et Philemonis, sed etiam ramenta, ex plurimis omnium generum scriptoribus. Is averet scire num vir infinitae lectionis de iis edendis etiamnum cogitet, nam ipsi hoc consilium hactenus fuit
- 10 ut ea ederet, non modo auctiora, sed etiam emendatiora, quam sunt apud Stobaeum aut Grotium, eaque latina versione notulisque criticis et ethicis illustrata. Omnia affecta habet, nec editionem sustinet, nisi quia exspectat num aliunde ornamenti quidpiam operi suo accedere
- 15 possit. Vides, vir doctissime, ex hisce avidissime eum accepturum quid moliatur amicus tuus. Qui si consilium suum de edendis iis fragmentis mutasset, malletque iis quae collegit alios obstetricari, quod video illi placuisse in fragmentis Callimachi emittendis, non posset cum
- 20 homine gratiore et qui plûris faceret eiusmodi beneficium quae habet communicare. Quod si intellegat eum de iis edendis cogitare, fortasse exspectabit donec prodierint.' Wotton's next letter, pp. 83-5, Milton, 16 May 1698, is mainly taken up with Bentley's intended reply to Boyle:
- 25 'Proximis meis, quas, si rescripseris, brevi mittam, consilium amici nostri de fragmentis graecorum poetarum edendis uberius expositum habebis.' Wotton's next letter is dated Lond. 21 June 1698, pp. 85-6: 'Prioribus meis meo nomine ad tuam elegantem pariter et amicam epistolam
- 30 responsum dedi; nunc Bentleii nomine et iussu rescribo. Is quod de se tam magnifice et tam amice sentis gratias tibi agit maximas; quae illi tribuis sibi arrogare nefas ducit, licet se eo nomine obstrictum existimat pro virili laborare, ne tu cum ceteris omnibus qui illum apud vos
- 35 tanti facitis sua culpa spe vestra decideritis. De fragmentis poetarum edendis haec est eius sententia: si tute ipse istud opus moliris, quod nos ambo credimus, se tibi opem ferre semper fore paratissimum; si autem amicus tuus sit qui fragmenta ista Menandri ceterorumque sit editurus, modo iste amicus talis sit, pro quo ipse sponsonem dabis illum isti oneri haud futurum imparem, virum nempe quicum Bentleius noster se iungi non erubescat, nec tum quoque amici tui editionem appendice ornare gravabitur. Rogat autem te ut operis totius specimen seu conspectum huc transmittas, nam ex tuis non liquet num ethica solum vel potius omnia poetarum graecorum fragmenta quae ubicunque exstant in lucem 10 edere amicus tuus statuerit. Hoc enim si suum (vel tuum potius) sit institutum, Bentleio non vacat omnia illa quae ex graecis scriptoribus pridem collegit, et quae in scriniis suis indigesta latitant, in ordinem redigere et ad vos transmittere. Tanta enim et eorum et notarum quae 15 iis explicandis erunt necessariae erit copia, ut biennium integrum illis exscribendis et concinnandis non sufficeret. Si ethica solum spectes, ut ex tuis coniecimus, te tali appendice, quali Graevium nuper, libentissime donabit. Certo enim scit omnia sua ex tuis manibus accuratissime 20 fore proditura. Vides, vir eruditissime, quantus tui nominis cultor sit ille criticorum coryphaeus.' Le Clerc in reply 8th July 1698, after recommending that an epitome of the 'dissertation,' in latin or french, should be published abroad (p.87): 'Non dissimulabo amplius 25 me ipsum parata habere fragmenta illa, de quibus ad te scripsi. Sed intellexi tantum Λεψαυα duorum poetarum comicorum Menandri et Philemonis; nam de ceteris colligendis ne per somnium quidem umquam cogitavi... Horum collectione absoluta, statui, quam primum per 30 graviores occupationes liceret, edere graece et latine, hoc est prosa oratione conversa, omnia illa duorum comicorum fragmenta, et primum quidem ea quae pertinent ad certas comoedias, quarum nomina erunt ordine alphabetico digesta; deinde ea quae ex quo dramate petita sint non 35 constat. Omnibus subicientur notulae criticae atque ethicae. Praefigentur utrique elogia veterum, et Me-

- nandro quidem eius comparatio cum Aristophane a Plutarcho exscripta, quae utinam integra ad nos pervenisset! ... Si quid ad ea adnotasset amicus tuus clarissimus, quod ad eorum emendationem vel illustrationem spectat,
- 5 aut deprompsisset ex minus trito scriptore, vel in quo talia latescere suspicari non possem, id mecum communicari, nisi molestum esset, optarem, pollicererque omnia sub nomine inventoris summa fide editum iri. Ego quidem gloriolam ex hoc mustaceo non quaero, sed
- 10 vellem pulcherrimas et elegantissimas sententias cultissimorum comicorum adolescentibus legendas praebere, quibus nihil eiusmodi praelegunt nostrates critici.' Wotton in reply, 1 Nov. 1698: 'Litteras tuas humanissimas... ad Bentleium nostrum transmissi;... is te quam officio-
- 15 sissime salutatur, tibi que suppetias ferre se fore paratissimum perquam alacriter spondet. Responsum quod in Carolus Boyleum parat, sub prelo sudat, et ante Natalicia ut credo prodibit: opere perfecto ad te scribere, exemplar-que suae defensionis una cum epistula mittere statuit.'
- 20 Clericus in reply, Amst. 28 Nov. 1698 (p. 88): 'Avide expectabo responsum rever. et clariss. viri ad vehementem satiram, et si quid de poetarum illorum meorum comicorum biga commentatus sit aut collegerit. Si evolvit interpretes graecos Aristotelis, in quos numquam incidi,
- 25 et quos forte non legissem, si fuissent mihi ad manum, aut atticistarum lexica MSS. quae dicuntur esse in bibliothecis Angliae vestrae, atque in iis fragmenta nonnulla invenit, iis mecum communicatis me bearet.' Le Clerc to Bentley, Amst. 24 Oct. 1699 (pp. 88-9), after thanking
- 30 him for a present of the dissertation on Phalaris, and highly extolling it: 'Importuni illi adversarii (nam plures videntur esse, quamvis unus omnium nomine loquatur) tibi vacuum tempus posthac sinent quo possis remp. litterariam ditare sponte tua operibus, quae sine dubio
- 35 affecta habes. Voluisssem inter ea comparere fragmenta poetarum graecorum, verum accepi a viro rever. Gulielmo Wottono nostro te id consilii abiecis- Ab eodem in-tellexeris a me collecta esse fragmenta praestantissimorum comicorum Philemonis et Menandri; quae, quam primum erit aliquid otii, in lucem publicam emittam. At hoc opus multo ornatius prodiret, si quid ad eius splendorem conferre velles, ex iis quae in scriniis de hisce poetis 5 habes observata, et quae a te ausim petere, auctoribus viro reverendo quem memoravi, et optimo atque acutissimo viro Ioan. Locke, cuius amicitiam maximi facio, qui mihi spem fecere impetrandi a te, viro longe humanissimo, quidquid roga-rem.' Wotton to Le Clerc, 4 Apr. 10 1700 (p. 90): 'Quae a Bentleio nostro dudum efflagitasti, fragmenta nempe Menandri et Philemonis, habet penes se, iam parata. Necesse est ut illa iterum exscribat, et tunc ad te credo mittet. Sed viri promissorum non memoris aurem ut subinde vellas rogo: negotiis enim 15 obrutus, modo non sit monitus, diutius forsitan quam par est in schedis suis exscribendis cessabit; quamvis nollem ut a te resciscat, quod huius rei a me moneretur. Scribe igitur et audacter et crebro, modo propositum de edendis istis fragmentis non mutaveris. Tui enim studiosissimus 20 est Bentleius, ut qui maxime, et beneficio aliquo te suum reddere magno optaverit. Audivimus nempe te fuisse auctorem epitomes defensionis Bentleianae quam Bernardus vester Actis suis litterariis mensis Iunii anni praeteriti inseruit.' Jo. Davies to Le Clerc, Cambr. 26 Nov. O.S. 25 1709 (pp. 272-4): 'Menandri et Philemonis fragmenta te mihi missurum polliceris, et dubio procul in caussa fuit bibliopolae negligentia, cur destinatum munus haud acceperim. Ea tamen aliunde comparata perlegi, et tum ἀποσπασμάτια ipsa, tum tuae notae mihi vehementer 30 placuerunt. Attamen, ut ingenue loquar, tibi multis negotiis districto nonnulla videntur excidisse, quibus metri ratio prorsus repugnat.' Several corrections follow. 'Haec nullius fere sunt momenti; non tamen ea neglegenda censui: meas etiam, si videtur, observationes in 35 reliqua fragmenta tecum communicabo; nihil enim magis in votis habeo, quam ut omnia tua quam emendatissima

- videant posterii.' Ezek. Spanheim to the same, London
 10 June 1710 ('Ioannis Clerici vita et opera ad annum MDCXXI. Amst. 1711,' 237 seq.): 'A l'égard de Mr. B[ur- man], comme il m'envoya son Pétrone, . . . et qu'il m'y 5 consultoit sur quelques MSS. de Silius Italicus à Oxford, et d'ailleurs que feu Mr. Graevius, qui étoit mon bon et ancien ami, me l'avoit recommandé, comme son élève, je n'avois pû, que l'en remercier, sans d'ailleurs y faire aucune mention de sa préface . . . Du reste, j'avois vû 10 à regret la manière dont il vous attaquoit dans cette préface, et n'avois pas été surpris de voir de quelle manière vous y répondîtes, dans votre dernier tome de la Bibliothèque choisie. Pour le dernier écrit françois, que vous me marquez qu'il a publié contre vous, je 15 vous puis dire de bonne foi de ne l'avoir pas vû jusques-ici, ni appris qu'il y en eût chez nos libraires, qui correspondent en Hollande, et qui ont coûtume de me donner part des livres qu'il reçoivent. J'apprends cependant qu'il y en a un en ville, que quelque particulier 20 venu d'Utrecht y a apporté. Je n'ai pas naturellement, dont je me sais bon gré, beaucoup d'empressement pour les écrits, tels que vous me dépeignez celui-ci, et approuve là-dessus entièrement le parti, que vous voulez prendre de n'y pas répondre. Mais je vous avoue que 25 j'ai été encore plus surpris de ce que vous me touchez dans votre lettre d'un. . . * qui auroit envoyé des remarques à Mr. B[urman] contre votre Ménandre. Comme le soupçon et le préjugé que vous avez et ce que vous en dites pourroit tomber sur [Bentley], je veux espérer 30 qu'il se trouvera mal-fondé. Je vous puis dire au moins de bonne foi et en toute vérité, que dans le séjour de quelques semaines qu'il a fait ici, en ville, il n'y a guère et avant la reception de votre lettre, et qui m'a donné lieu de le voir deux ou trois fois; il ne m'a du tout 35 rien fait connoître de pareil. L'estime que j'avois pour [Bentley] venant en mon présent emploi en Angleterre, * [Supply Anglais?].

me fit accepter, avec joie, les offres de son amitié, et a l'entretenir depuis ce temps-là, aux occasions de ses voyages à Londres. Ainsi s'il étoit vrai qu'il fût effectivement l'auteur de ces remarques sur Ménandre, j'aurois souhaité de tout mon coeur qu'il eût pris quelque autre 5 sujet. Je n'ai pas sù d'ailleurs, qu'il y eût autant de liaison entre lui et Mr. B[urman] que d'en vouloir épouser la querelle contre vous. Je rends grâces à Dieu, parmi mes autres défauts, de m'avoir au moins préservé jusqu'à présent de la démangeaison d'attaquer ou d'insulter les 10 gens de lettres et de savoir, quelque sujet même, occasion, ou facilité, que j'y pussés trouver.' John Davies to the same, Cambridge, 23 July 1710 (Amorie v. der Hoeven, u. s. 274): 'Hoc ipso die Menandri et Philemonis exemplar compactum recte accepi; tibique, vir doctissime, 15 pro munere litterario gratias quam maximas habeo atque ago. Interim, ut verum fatear, mihi ex animo dolet tantas ob hoc opus procellas in te esse concitatas; spero tamen te animos non remissurum, sed eodem, quo hactenus, ardore rem litterariam promoturum. Si aliter res, 20 quod abominor, caderet, votis suis potirentur adversarii, qui scriptorum tuorum multitudini simul et eruditioni prorsus invident.' Same to same, Cambridge, 9 Nov. 1710 (p. 275): 'Famosum, quem memoras, Iac. Gronovii libellum festinanter perlegi. Antiquum obtinet scriptor, 25 et ita se gerit, ut contemptu puniendus, non accurata confutatione redarguendus, videatur. Virulentos libros semper sum aversatus, et mallet sane litteras nescire, quam homines eruditos, qui de rep. litteraria bene merentur, conviciis proscindere.' Same to same, Cambridge, 30 9 July 1719: 'Bentleius Suetonium ad antiquissimorum MSstorum fidem editurus est.' De Pauw's unhappy Emendationes (see Monk I 278) are alluded to by Bentley in a letter to Sike, undated, but written in 1711 (Corresp. 410-1): 'We expect to have the Amsterdam book by the 35 next occasion: but for the answer, I shall leave that to Burman; for I suppose I can do business semel, and

- need not give a second blow. I had a letter from Küster by the hand of a learned venetian nobleman, who told me the chat in Holland about Phileleutherus. And yet Küster himself, in his letter, pretends that the book is a
- 5 very shrewd book, telum a non vulgaribus lacertis tortum; sed de auctore diversae sunt sententiae. What is the meaning of this grimace? can he really doubt of the author? As if Mr. Burgh did not hear him and Hemsterhuis speak of the author without doubting.' Jac.
- 10 Perizonius to Bentley, Leyden, 9 June 1711 (ibid. 416-7): 'Quis, quaeso, apud vos ille est Philargyrius Cantabrigiensis, vel Oxoniensis potius, qui sua tela in armatum Phileleutheri corpus voluit potissimum vibrare, idque pro communi omnium philologorum et grammaticorum hoste
- 15 certissimo? Pudet me eorum pigetque, qui tantum odiis suis dant, ut communem causam destituant prodantque, immo labefactent et oppugnent. Habemus et hic, qui tibi per litteras blandiuntur, in sermonibus suis detrahunt, affectantes Clericum, quos ego certe pro genuinis liberalium disciplinarum, quas tamen profitentur, cultoribus
- 20 non habeo.' J. Wasse to Clericus, Aynho, 28 June 1724 (in Abr. des Amorie v. der Hoeven, 279): 'I sent you a specimen of our Bibliotheca, in which you must not take it unkindly, that I give your antagonist Dr. B[entley] his
- 25 due praises: the points you two great men differ'd about cannot affect the name and character you maintain in the learned world: they really are minutiae, and tho' I have corrected the verses in Plautus throughout, I dare not be positive I'm not often mistaken. I am sure Dr.
- 30 Hare is upon Terence, which Dr. B[entley] possibly may show (?). He was the person that determin'd the Dr. to write against you; Dr. Davies, Dr. Needham and myself knew nothing of it; and to my knowledge Dr. Bentley burnt the first essay of that work, because the stile was
- 35 too coarse and severe. If I cou'd see you together, you shou'd soon be good friends. The true reason of that pamphlett was, that the Dr. receiv'd informations the then government intended to appoint you co-library-keeper with him, which he imagin'd was a thing of your seeking, and therefor cou'd not bear it; and that there was an intention of that sort, a nobleman in the secret told me.'

5

P. 138 l. 12. J. Masson. See Bentley's Corresp. p. 377 l. 4, 400 l. 23.

P. 138 l. 13. a letter, dated Amst. 25 June N. S. 1710 (ibid. 397-9).

P. 138 l. 20. rejoined, in a letter dated Cambridge 1 10 July O.S. 1710 (ibid. 400-7. Cf. ibid. 266, 380, 408, 410, 435, 438).

P. 140 l. 5. the school. See the plate in Loggan or in Beeverell. l. 8. a small room; the 'consistory' was held under the east room of the present library. l. 15. the first, 15 the present south room, leading from the entrance staircase to the dome. l. 19. the second room, or 'little library,' where the east room now stands.

P. 141 l. 4. somewhere. Kipling (praef. xxii, xxiii) cites a letter from Beza to Walter Travers, Geneva, Oct. 20 1582: 'Misso superiore vere venerandae plane vetustatis Novi Testamenti graeco-latini codice, qui publicae bibliothecae consecraretur, ne litterulam quidem inde accepi, ex qua meam hanc voluntatem ipsis non ingratam fuisse cognoscerem.'

25

P. 141 l. 8. the copy of the letter. It is in MS. Baker x 406-7 = B 209, 210, and is printed by Scrivener, p. ii and Heywood and Wright, Cambr. univ. trans. I 352-3.

P. 142 l. 5. which we saw at Helmstädt, 14 Dec. 1709 (Reisen, I 226, where is a reference to Saubertus, 'variae 30 lect. text. gr. evang. S. Matt. Helmst. 1672,' 4to., p. 263 seq.; and J. A. Schmid, 'diss. de lectionariis vet. imprimis Chrysostomi,' the latter of whom gave the MS. an age of at least 800, Saubertus of 1000 years).

P. 142 l. 5. Genesis in bibliotheca Cottoniana, viz. Otho 35 B 6, which Uffenbach saw 16 July 1710 (Reisen II 575); most of it was destroyed in the fire.

P. 142 l. 8. ancient monuments of the church of Waldenses. Numbered Dd iii 25-38. xv 29-34. The latter series was long supposed to be lost, and often suspected to have been stolen by the Papists, until the 5 volumes were found in their proper place by the present librarian, Mr. Bradshaw. See Catalogue of the manuscripts preserved in the library of the university of Cambridge. vol. 1. Cambr. 1856. 81-99, 548-552; v 589. Mr. Bradshaw's description of Dd xv 29-34 is printed in Communi-
 10 cations to the Cambridge Antiquarian Society II 203-218, and in Dr. J. H. Todd's Books of the Vaudois, 1865, 210-223. Mr. Bradshaw's important correction of the received date of the Waldensian books has been accepted by several German critics.

15 P. 142 l. 14. five or six folio volumes. Uffenbach only saw a part of the collection.

P. 142 l. 20. Jean Leger's Histoire Vaudoise, or rather Histoire générale des églises évangéliques des vallées de Piémont. Leyde 1669. fol.

20 P. 142 l. 21. Chamberlayne is not a little mistaken, when he boasts of 14,000 volumes in this library. On the contrary he kept well within the mark. Dr. Richard Holdsworth's books, bequeathed in 1649, and those of Henry Lucas, bequeathed in 1664, 'together made up-'
 25 wards of 15,000 volumes' (Mr. Bradshaw in the Cambr. Univ. Gazette, no. 14, 10 Mar. 1869). To these must be added Bp. John Hackel's bequest of more than 1000 volumes in 1670, and many smaller gifts, and books bought on the Rustat account. It is to be hoped that Mr.
 30 Bradshaw may find time to collect and enlarge the series of articles on the library which he printed in nos. 9-15 of the Gazette. Mr. H. R. Luard, the registry of the university, printed for the syndics of the press 'A chronological list of the graces, documents, and other papers in'
 35 the university registry which concern the university library. Cambridge, 1870.' 8vo. some copies l. p. in 4to.; this forms a valuable supplement to Mr. Bradshaw's papers.

P. 142 l. 24. as far as I can judge by my own collection.
 In a letter to Jo. Andr. Danz, 10 May 1713, Uffenbach writes (Commerc. epistol. II 295): 'Utinam praesens oculis tuis perlustrare posses, quanta spolia (thesauros dicam, nam multo labore nec parvo sane pretio constiterunt) ex itineribus reportaverim. Praefiscine dixero, quattuor milia voluminum numerus excedit, omnium vero librorum meorum ad duodecim milia excrecit.'

P. 142 l. 27. Th. Erpenii. See p. 157 l. 29 n., 195 l. 21.

P. 142 l. 29. Cromwell. See p. 195 l. 23. 10

P. 143 l. 3. lexici arabici. See p. 157 l. 11.

P. 143 l. 4. Wm. Bedwell, rector of St. Ethelburgh's,
London, in the gift of the bp. of London, 8 Dec. 1601;
Wm. Bray succeeded 5 May 1632, on his death (Newcourt
 I 346). Vicar of Tottenham 8 Oct. 1607, in the gift of 15 the dean and chapter of St. Paul's; Wm. Wimpew succeeded 1 Sept. 1632 (ibid. 755). Bedwell owed this preferment to Lanc. Andrewes, then canon. Isaacson's Life of Andrewes, ed. Bliss (before his 'minor works,' Oxf.
 1854), xxiii, xxiv: 'Erpenius, to whom he tendered an 20 annual stipend, to have read and taught here the oriental tongues, wherein, long before his death, he himself had been well versed, as may appear by his commencement verses; the experienced professors whereof he much 'delighted in, and did much for them; as Master Bedwell, to 25 whom he gave the vicarage of Tottenham, if living, among others would testify.' He was a member of the West- minster company of translators of the bible, which undertook the first portion, to the end of Kings (Fuller-Brewer v 371). His publications may be seen in Watt and 30
Lowndes, or in the Bodl. catal. In Tanner MS. 74 f. 78 is a letter from him to his uncle, 29 June 1616, for money to carry on a law-suit. In 1616 he translated Salignac's Arithmetic. He also translated and enlarged the Geometry of Ramus, but it was not published till after his death, 35
Lond. 1636, 4to. The book was dedicated to Jo. Greaves by Jo. Clerke, who mentions Bedwell's MSS. in the Cambridge

- library. A translation had been published, more than 30 years before, by Thos. Hood, a learned friend of Bedwell's, who taught those arts in the Stationers' Chapel, Leadenhall Street. Another friend, named in the prefaces, was Hen. Briggs. Bedwell's album, with inscriptions by Grotius etc., was sold in Dawson Turner's sale MSS. art. 653. Wm. Robinson, History . . . of Tottenham, ed. 2, Lond. 1840, II 58: 'Within the rails of the altar, on the north side of the communion table, is the following inscription, in roman capitals: "Here lies interred the body of Margaret Clark, the wife of . . . Clark clerk B.D., they lived in wedlock 37 years, aged . . . , dyed December 20, 1663. Here lyes likewise interred in this chancel the body of Mr. Wm. Bedwell her father, sometime vicar of this church, and one of king James's translators of the Bible, and for the Easterne tongues as learned a man, as most lived in these moderne times; aged 70; dyed May the 5th, 1632.' In the first edition of Robinson's book, Bedwell's 'Description of Tottenham High-Cross' is reprinted. See both indexes to Robinson. Wm. Eyre writes to Jas. Ussher (Parr 11) from Emmanuel 24 Mar. 1607-8: 'Nondum aliquid efficere potui in arabicis, quod dignum sit opera: forsan si Christmanno muto magistro, aut Bedwello Londinensi vel potius Ambrosio tuo Dublinsiensi viva voce praeceptore uti liceret, aliquid efficerem. Sed non licet.' Hen. Briggs writes to the same (ibid. 12) in Aug. 1610: 'Mr. Bedwell is not well, and keepeth altogether at his t'other living at Tottenham.' Is. Casauboni epistolae, Roterod. 1709 fol. no. 344 pp. 183-4 (Paris 24 July 1603) is addressed to Bedwell. You may not know me even by name; but I have long known your name: 'cum multi viri docti istinc venientes et de ceteris tuis virtutibus et de peritia atque usu quem habes linguae arabicae, eximia quaedam et rara praedicarent. Atque hanc famam confirmavit non mediocriter eruditissimus hic Lago [Arth. Lake?] tibi probe notus et tuae in eo genere litterarum praestantiae μαρτυρὸς ἀξιόπιστος. Itaque certior ab illo factus de suo ad vos reditu, committendum non putavi, ut tempus aliud exspectarem adfectus adversum te mei expromendi. Diu namque est cum inire tecum amicitiam, eruditissime Bed- welle, percupio. Meretur tua singularis doctrina, ut omnes te ament et colant, qui virtutem ac litteras, quos 5 inter nomen nostrum ab ineunte aetate professi, sic vitam hactenus instituimus, ut eorum amicitia nihil antiquius duceremus, quos pietas eruditioni iuncta commendaret.

 Quod si benevolentia tua non indignos nos iudicaveris, de iis litteris, in quibus tu cum oppido paucis excellis, 10 frequentibus posthac epistolis tecum agemus.' Ibid. n.
 662, Th. Erpenius to Casaubon, Saumur 1 Apr. 1610
 (p. 343 b): I am expecting some arabic grammarians* from the most learned Bedwell, for he has informed me that he has three or four; I have not written to him for 15 6 months, when I wrote in arabic; I have been greedily expecting an answer every week: 'at frustra, ob adversam ipsius, quantum ex aliis intellego, valetudinem.'
 P.344: it may seem strange, but it is most true, that those papers which I have sent you alone, however im- 20 perfect, suffice to remove some thousands of errors from the dictionary of the most learned Bedwell. Ibid. n. 663, Casaubon in reply, Paris 8 Apr. 1610, p. 346 b: 'Bed- wellus, vir doctissimus, ita lente procedit, et cursum studiorum eum tenuit, ut quid de eo sperare queamus, 25
 nesciam.' Ibid. n. 711, Same to same, Lond. 4 Mar. 1611,
 p. 376 a: 'Bedwellus lexicon urget suum. O virum bonum, doctum et simplicem!' Ibid. app. n. 38, Erpenius to Casaubon, Paris 27 Sept. 1611, p. 661 b: here and there some words occur, whose sense I have not yet been able 30 to discover, with which the most learned Bedwell, who is of wider reading than I, will, I hope, easily supply you; some others there are, at which I guess; whether well or ill, no one can better judge than you and he. . . I forward the sheets of the most learned Bedwell, with my remarks 35 upon them, which I hope will not be unwelcome to you.

* Which he received; see dedication to his arabic grammar, 1613.

- You will see from them how dangerous it is to attempt anything in this language without a knowledge of grammar; you may keep them with the sheets themselves, till you have read them at leisure, and afterwards
- 5 deliver them to him; for my letter which is enclosed, bears no date. Or if you do not wish him to know that you have seen them, they may be wrapped in paper without a seal. P. 662 b in a postscript: 'Quaeso ne affinis meus aut quisquam alius ex te resciscat me Parisiis adhuc
- 10 esse: si quaerant an litteras a me acceperis, significare quidem id potes, sed velim similes eas Genevae scriptas esse mense Augusto: quin D. Bedwello scripsi me Genevae esse, ne per eum secretum hoc reveletur.' One would not choose the guileless Casaubon, of all men in the world,
- 15 as one's porter, to answer 'not at home.' On the 28 June 1612 Casaubon paid a visit to Bedwell (Ephemerides Is. Casauboni, Oxon. 1850, 934): 'Ad optimum Bedvellum hodie sum profectus cum uxore. Deus et illum et nos servet.' Casauboni epist. n. 820, Casaubon to Erpenius,
- 20 Lond. 9 July 1612, p. 478 a: 'Scito optimum virum Bedvellum iter istuc cogitare, ut lexicon τοῦ μακαρίτου Scaligeri inspiciat, si potest, et aliquam sui lexicī edendi rationem ineat. Ille te admiratione singulari prosequitur, ex illis notis, quas ad ipsum misisti in observationes suas
- 25 ad Alcoranum. Magno illum afficiam gaudio, cum te rediisse ei nuntiabo.' Ibid. n. 43, Erpenius to Casaubon, Middelburg 13 July 1612, p. 667 a: 'verbis meis . . . saluta . . . Bedvellum nostrum, quem quam primum litteris compellabo.' Ibid. n. 821, Casaubon to Dan. Heinsius,
- 30 Lond. 1 Aug. 1612, p. 478 a. b: 'Qui tibi has reddidit, amicus meus est; amicus de meliore nota, vir doctissimus et domini episcopi Eliensis [Andrewes] a multis annis οἶονεὶ πελάτης. Is cum multos annos in illustranda lingua arabica consumpserit, optavit priusquam sua ederet,
- 35 posse inspicere τὰ τοῦ μακαρίτου herois. Ea sola illi fuit causa suscipiendi huius itineris, hortatu τοῦ πάνυ Eliensis, qui nullis parcere cupit sumptibus, ut studiis litterarum consulatur. Ille vir magnus, a quo scis te amari et aestimari κατὰ τὴν ἀξίαν, petiit a me, ut huic communi amico aditum patefacerem per litteras ad tuam amicitiam. Speramus per te posse ipsi fieri copiam inspiciendi, quem servas, thesaurum. Quia vir simplex 5 est, probus et pius, putamus non eum indignum tua benevolentia et gratia. Neque dubitare debes, si quid illi hoc iter ad voti summam profuerit, fore memorem et τοὺς εὐεργέτας praedicaturum ingenue et candide. Nolo mihi fidem habeas; ipse experieris hominem non 10 minus ἄκακον καὶ ἀφελῆ, quam serio doctum in illis litteris, quas praecipue colit. Habetis istic Erpenium, cui meus Bedwellus (sic enim vocatur is, de quo ad te scribo) probe est notus . . . Tu, quaeso, et Bedwellum et Erpenium tua benevolentia complectere, et quibus poteris 15 cumque rebus adiuva.' Ibid. n. 823, same to Th. Erpenius, Lond. 1 Aug. 1612: You have with you our Bedwell; would that I could have accompanied him on his journey. I should have seen you and the friends whom I have in your parts; you above all, than whom 20 there is none more friendly to me, none whom I myself love more. Our Bedwell will inform you of our present state. Ibid. n. 829, same to Dan. Heinsius, Lond. 12 Aug. 1612, p. 484: I wrote to you a few days ago by the Englishman Bedwell, a minister of God's word, and doubt 25 not, σὺν Θεῷ εἶπεῖν, that he has delivered my letter to you. Ibid. n. 831, Casaubon to Etienne Hubert, royal prof. of arabic at Paris, Lond. 22 Sept. 1612, p. 485: 'Je vous conjure per omnia sacra Musarum, ut in incepto pergas, neque prius desinas, quin aliquid effeceris, quod 30 studia illa promoveat. Hic sunt nonnulli, qui non neglegunt. Sed unus est mihi notus Bedwellus in iis litteris longe ὑπείροχος ἄλλων. Quo nomine cum sit mihi carissimus, tamen propter mores longe est mihi carior. Est insitum huic nationi, ut sua amet, aliena ne admittat 35 quidem ad aliquam comparationem. Florentissima enim et ditissima sua collegia ipsis animos faciunt, ut omnes

- non vereantur prae se contemnere. Hoc vitio qui non laborant, inter Anglos sunt viri admirandi, ut noster Bedwellus, homo simplicissimus omnium, quos memini vidisse; alienus ab invidia, ab opinione sui et a studio
- 5 obtrectandi, quod hodie est ἐπιδήμιον morbi genus. Vidi eius thesaurum arabicum; sic namque iure appellavero: est enim magna libri moles. Is nunc Lugduni Batavorum alterum mensem agit, eo profectus auspiciis et sumptu viri maximi, domini episcopi Eliensis. Hic dignissimus
- 10 praesul [Lanc. Andrewes] non solum est doctissimus, sed etiam egregie favet litteris; itaque Bedwello pecuniam pollicitus est necessariam ad thesauri arabici editionem, et faciet; nam et potentissimus est, et, ut dixi, litterarum amantissimus. Ille unicus est Angliae phoenix, in omni
- 15 re moderatissimus, cuius vota, cogitationes et sermones ad litteras sacras et studium concordiae semper referuntur. Quemadmodum Gallia alterum cardinalem Perронium non habet, ita haec insula unico superbit Eliensi: non quod desint hic viri magni; sed aliis rebus sunt magni.
- 20 Ille si praestiterit, ut thesauro Bedwelli aliquando fruamur, incredibile dictu est, quantum illi simus omnes debitori. Sed vereor, ne Erpenius, qui iam est cum Bedwello, illius conatus retardet; non quod Erpenius id habet propositum, est enim vir optimus; sed si Bedwellus, qui illum valde
- 25 admiratur, intellexerit Erpenium serio cogitare aliquid simile, statim languescet eius impetus... Miror queri te de inopia characterum arabicorum; nam Lebbaeus, obsecro, in quem usum suos paravit? An ille non cogitat, τὸν βίον εἶναι βραχύον, τὴν τέχνην μακρὸν?
- 30 Quando igitur fruetur gloria, quam meretur ob nobile inceptum? Sin velit vendere, episcopus Eliensis lubens emet in gratiam Bedwelli. Sed maneat in Gallia decus illud.' Ibid. n. 833, same to Th. Erpenius, Lond. 24 Sept. 1612. I see that lack of type will hinder your efforts.
- 35 What our Bedwell will achieve here, I know not. If he could attain what he seeks, I would advise you to come hither. Ibid. n. 845, same to same, Lond. 22 Nov. 1612.

I was greatly troubled by a letter of Heinsius, giving a gloomy account of your health; but afterwards I was cheered by a conversation with our Bedwell, who gave a happier report. Ibid. n. 843, same to Hugo Grotius, Lond. 26 Nov. 1612, p. 507 b: If I had more leisure, I would answer in 5 detail your last letter, which our Bedwell brought. Ibid. n. 846 postscr. Lond. 1 Dec. 1612 'Stylo Gallico': 'De Bedwello ago tibi gratias: ille nobis narravit tuam humanitatem.' Ibid. n. 895, same to Jo. Meursius, Lond. 2 June 1613, p. 536 a: 'Attulit mihi Bedwellus noster, vir clarissime, litteras tuas.' Parr's Letters of Ussher, n. 46, p. 78, John Selden to Ussher, 24 Mar. 1621-2: 'I should before this have returned your Nubiensis geographia; but Mr. Bedwell had it of me, and until this time, presuming on your favour, he keeps it; nor can we have 15 of them till the return of the mart.' Fas. Ussher to Ludov. De Dieu, Dubl. 9 June 1632 (ibid. 462): 'Arabici psalterii tria habui exemplaria, satis antiqua: quorum unum D. Londinensi episcopo [Laud], academiae Oxoniensis dignissimo cancellario, cum aliquam multis aliis codicibus 20 MSS. nuper a me donatum est: alterum quod D. Gulielmo Bedwello commodaveram, eo iam vita functo vix est ut recuperari a me posse sperem.'

P. 143 l. 4. Arnold. The very interesting letters of Christ. Arnold to George Richter give a lively picture of 25 the state of learning and religion in England in the year 1651. The passage cited is in p. 485 (not 405) of Richterus Redivivus, sive Georgii Richteri I. C. eiusque familiarium, epistolae selectiores. Norimbergae 1686. 4to.: 'Celebris ille apud Anglos philologus sacer, Bedwellus, 30 eidem bibliothecae Lexici Arabici volumina septem, conscripta manu sua, una cum typographia arabica legavit.'

P. 143 l. 9. George Hickes. See p. 395 l. 36. On the 23rd of March 1709-10 J. H. Eggeling of Bremen gave into Uffenbach's hands (Reisen II 205) a packet of his dis- 35 sertations for Hickes. This indefatigable scholar, politician and nonjuring bishop deserves a full biography. John

Lewis of Margate (see the list of his works in the app. to Masters, Hist. C. C. C. C. 102) wrote in 1744-5 an account of his life and writings, which was afterwards in the hands of Sir Peter Tompson. Short accounts of him may 5 be seen in Wood, in the General Dictionary of Birch and Bernard, Biogr. Brit. suppl., Chaufepié, Chalmers, Europ. Mag., Dec. 1792, p. 413. See also the indexes to Reliquiae Hearnianae, Pepys, Luttrell, Kennett's Reg. and Chron., Thoresby's Diary, Burnet, Letters from the Bod-
10 leian (1813), Thesaur. epist. Lacrozianus, Secretan's Life of Rob. Nelson, Anderdon's Life of Tho. Ken, Bohun's Autobiography. Various particulars of him may be found in Kennett's Life 12 seq., 34, 47 seq., 160; Nelson's Life of Geo. Bull 439, Birch's Tillotson, D'Oyly's Sancroft, Monk's 15 Bentley I 427 seq., Waterland's Works, Lathbury's Nonjurors, Fabricii Vita 157. Many of his letters are preserved; e. g. to Charlett in Europ. Mag. Jan. 1796 p. 10, Febr. 1796 p. 103, May 1797 p. 329; others to and from him in bp. Nicolson's Correspondence, in Zouch's Works, 20 ed. Wrangham, I 106, and in Sir H. Ellis, Letters of eminent literary men and Orig. letters, ser. II. He relates some interesting passages of his life in the biographical preface to his friend Dr. Wm. Hopkins' Sermons 1708, 8vo. (see MS. Cole xxvii 273-4): On the 2nd of Oct. 1712
25 he gave letters of ordination to Laur. Howell (Hist. Reg. 1717 p. 121). On his gift to Sion College see Reading's State of S. C. p. 45. Edm. Calamy in his Own Life II 337-8 gives this character of him (on occasion of his death) 15 Dec. 1715: 'He was one of eminent learning, 30 formerly dean of Worcester, and after the revolution a nonjuror; and never could be prevailed with to take the oaths, either to king William, queen Anne, or king George; though we are told [in the Life of Bp. Kennett] that "he once intended and designed it." He at length ran to 35 that height, that he was encouraged by some of the deprived bishops to assume the title of suffragan of Thetford. After their decease he made himself the principle of orthodox unity and Jacobite loyalty, condemning the established church of England as schismatical, the civil government as tyranny and usurpation, the bench of bishops and all other clergy as of invalid orders, their ministrations of the sacraments as null and void, and their very prayers a sin! Of what extravagance is not a man capable if he is left to himself! The titles of most of his numerous works are in the Bodl. Cat., Watt and Darling; see too index to Tanner MSS. Add his translations of Fénélon's Télémaque, 1707; of the whole works of Thomas a Kempis, Lond. Rivington. 1717. 2 vols. 8vo. (in conjunction with Rob. Nelson). He revised Susanna Hopton's Meditations and devotions, 1717. 8vo. See too John Bowdler's Life, 12, 14, 70. His brother John was also a sufferer for conscience sake. See Calamy's Account 248, Contin. 1536, Ingledeu's Northallerton 292, Whitaker's Richmondshire. 'Troublous times, or Leaves from the notebook of John Hickes, an ejected nonconformist minister 1670-1, transcribed by Jane B. Cranch, 1862.' 8vo. He was executed for his share in Monmouth's rebellion (Calamy 20 Acc. 762, Burnet I 650 fol. ed., Luttrell I 357).

P.143 l.10. a little 12mo. Dd xii 59 (Catal. I 499). See Notes and Queries, ser. 2, I 112. The book is exhibited in the shew case.

P.143 l.15. coins. Removed some years ago to the 25 Fitzwilliam museum. Roger Gale of Scruton left his coins to the library (Stukeley's Carausius 153).

P.144 l.1. St. Mary's. See 'Historical and architectural notes on Great St. Mary's church. By S. Sandars, M.A. Together with the Annals of the church. By 30 Edm. Venables, M.A. 1869.' No. X of the 8vo. series of publications of the Cambr. Antiq. Soc.

P.144 l.3. there were none. There were some in the vestry. See MS. Harl. 6127, n.7.

P.144 l.6. in his museum. 'Mr. Baker lived up one 35 pair of stairs, in the 3rd court on the south side' (Cole in Baker's History of St. John's, 1869, p.569 l. 26).

P. 144 n.*. For 128 read 127.

P. 144 l. 6. Baker preparing Athenas Cantabrigienses.

See p. 195 l. 20. In the Baumgartner papers (Cambr. univ. libr.) IV 129 is a letter from Dr. A. Charlett to John

5 Strype, in which he expresses his delight that a Cambridge man 'gives us hopes to see their antiquitys.' On the 18 Apr. 1710 Thos. Baker (ibid. x 24) asks the name of 'somebody that had made collections concerning the university of Cambr.'

10 P. 144 l. 19. Reflexions upon learning, wherein is shewn the insufficiency thereof in its several particulars, in order to evince the usefulness and necessity of revelation. Lond. 1699. 8vo. Also ibid. 1700, 1708 (4th ed.), 1714, 1738, 1756. In all there were 8 editions. See Masters
15 14-18 for the praise of John Boswell, M.A. vicar of Taunton and the censure of Fortin.

P. 144 l. 24. the portrait Jo. Fischeri. Given to Baker by Lord Weymouth. Rob. Jenkin to Baker, Long Leet
25 July 1709 (Masters 23): 'His lordship will send bp.

20 Fisher's picture to London, to have a copy taken for you there, by a good hand.' Same to same 17 Oct. 1709 (ibid. 24, 25): 'Bishop Fisher's picture is now copied, and so well done, that his lordship has been thinking of parting with the original to you, but the painter told him, the 25 boards upon which it was painted, if any accident should happen to it in the carriage, could not be put together again, so as not to blemish the picture. The copy cost £10, by which you may guess it is not ill done. And indeed, as it has hit the likeness, so it is as well (if not 30 better) finished than the original... P.S. Mr. Francis Roper of St. John's college was very desirous of a copy of this picture likewise, but the painter's stay was so short, it could not be procured.' Same to same, 17 Nov. 1709 (ibid. 26): 'You will receive the original picture of bishop 35 Fisher, which I hope will come safe to you. The copy is well done, and has a great likeness, but represents him at least ten years younger, which I suppose was the reason that the painter omitted the age, which you will find to agree with the face and with the inscription.' Same to same, 3 Dec. 1709 (ibid. 26-7): 'I am glad that the picture came safe, and that you approve of it. His lordship is very well disposed, and I am sure would be very willing to gratify you in any thing else, if his library could afford any materials for the great work which you have in hand,' i. e. Athenae Cantabrigienses. Masters (ibid. n.) seems to be wrong in identifying this picture with that bequeathed by Baker to Dr. Newcome (ibid. 135: 'my founder's picture for himself or college'); Baker's founder was strictly Hugh Ashton; and Cole (Baker's History of St. John's college 556 l. 33) says that he thinks Baker had a picture of Ashton, 'taken probably from his monument, either here or at York, and which I have seen, either at St. John's college lodge, or at Dr. Zach. Grey's.' The best of the two pictures of Fisher in the college, 'reckoned to be done by Hans Holbein, . . . as all who have seen it, and know his style and manner, judge it to be his, has Ætatis 74 upon it' (Masters). 5 10 15

P. 144 l. 28. Queens' college library. See the catalogue 20 by T. H. Horne, Lond. 1827. 2 vols. 8vo.

P. 145 l. 7. Thomas Gale included Demetrius Phalereus in his Rhetores selecti. Oxon. 1676. 8vo. See accounts of him in Biogr. Brit., Collier, The general dict. of Birch and Bernard, Chauffepié, Chalmers, Nichols' Lit. Anecd., Evelyn, Pepys, Knight's Colet; cf. a slight account by Joseph Moser in Europ. Mag. Febr. 1797, 102-4. He received a piece of plate, when master of St. Paul's school, for writing the inscription on that 'tall bully' the Monument. He gave to Trinity college arabic MSS., included in a catalogue by Mr. E. H. Palmer, which has just [1871] appeared. He was a friend of bp. Ri. Cumberland's (C.'s Sanchoniatho 420), and of Pet. Dan. Huet (P. D. H. Comment. de rebus ad eum pertinentibus, Hag. Com. 1718, 315): 'Circa haec tempora venit ad me officii causa Eduardus Bernardus Anglus, quem pauci hac aetate aequiparabant eruditionis laude, modestia vero pene nulli. Excipio 35

tamen Thomam Galacum, Anglum alterum, quem utraque dote, et modestiae et doctrinae, non Bernardo tantum, sed omnibus hominibus, quos quidem noverim, antefendum puto. Is me nec de facie sibi notum, humanitate, benignitate, omnibus officiis provocavit et ad amorem sui pellexit. Atque ea sane in me constant illius beneficia, quae, nisi turpiter ingratus esse velim, nulla ex animo meo dies oblitterare possit.' Nichols, Lit. Anecd. IV 542: 'A great number of Huet's letters to Dr. Gale were in the possession of his eldest son Roger.' He resigned the greek professorship 19 Oct. 1672 (MS. Baker XXXI 265). Luttrell 22 Mar. 1697-8 (IV 358): 'The lords heard and repealed the judgement given for the king and Dr. Gale to hold a living of £400 per ann. in Yorkshire, and gave it to Mr. Peirce the patron.' He intended to edit Juvenal (Henninius, Juv. f. * * * * 2 vo). Koch (Antonin. Liberal. viii) complains of his carelessness; not without reason, as is known to those who have used his collection of our national chronicles. Thoresby's Diary 20 I 360, II Apr. 1702: 'At church, where the vicar told me the sad news of the death of my kind friend, the dean of York (Dr. Gale), which is a public loss, both as he was a very religious and truly pious divine, and as he was one of the most learned men in the Christian world; myself 25 can abundantly testify the former, to whom he most affectionately bewailed the growing prophaneness of the nation etc.; and the great applause the learned part of the world has given to his works, is an undeniable testimony of the latter.' Ibid. 15 Apr. (pp. 360-1): 'Walked to York. . . 30 Afternoon, at the funeral of my excellent and dear friend, Dr. Thomas Gale, . . . who was interred with great solemnity; lay in state, 200 rings (besides scarfs for bearers, and gloves to all) given in the room where I was, which yet would not contain the company; yet was the lamentation greater for the loss of so learned, pious, and useful 35 a person, whose death was deservedly lamented by persons of all denominations. . . . Was invited to sup at the deanery; was kindly received by both the sons; was somewhat revived to see so much of the dean in Mr. [Roger] Gale.' Cf. ibid. 296. Several of Gale's letters are printed in Thoresby's Correspondence. His pedigree may be seen in Thoresby's Ducat. Leod. 203-4 (or ed. 5 Whitaker 203), where Gale's great services are acknowledged. Cf. Burke's Landed Gentry. His epitaph in Hearne's Fordun v 1371; Drake's Eboracum 514-5, see also p. 565 and the index. A catalogue of his MSS., since given by his son Roger to the library of Trinity college, is 10 in the Catalogus MSSorum Angliae III 185. A copy of Bale with his MS. notes is in the Royal Institution (Lowndes). He with several bishops and divines approved the plan of a concordance drawn up by Aug. Plumsted, who lost his Trinity fellowship for nonconformity (Calamy, 15 Contin. 808). Some bibliographical references in Grässe, Literärgeschichte III (2) 1007 n. 43.

P. 145 l. 15. Fras. Tindal of Qu. has verses in Genethliacum Acad. Cantabr. 1631 p. 75.

P. 145 l. 22. King's college, the old court, on part of 20 the site of which the western portion of the N. and S. sides of the university library stands. The western gate still remains.

P. 145 n. *. tom. I. p. 109.

P. 145 l. 27. a legacy. Cf. 181 l. 1 seq. From Matt. 25 Parker. See Masters, Hist. C.C.C.C. 91, 92.

P. 145 l. 28. to another college. Caius, if six folios, eight quartos and twelve books of smaller size should at any time be lost: from Caius they are to pass to Trinity Hall, and from Trinity Hall to Corpus again. 30

P. 145 l. 29. three keys. One lodged with the master, and the other two with the keepers of the Billingford hutch.

P. 145 l. 32. John Davies. See pp. 256 l. 22, 432 l. 25, 434 l. 12, 23 and 30, 435 l. 32. He was born in London 35 22 Apr. 1679. His father was a merchant, and his mother a daughter of Sir John Turton justice of the King's Bench.

- He went from the Charterhouse to Queens', where he was admitted 8 June 1695. B.A. 1698-9. fellow of Queens' 7 July 1701. M.A. 1702. proctor 1709. LL.D. 1711, in which year he was collated by that great patron of letters,
- 5 bp. John Moore, to the living of Fen Ditton [cf. MS. Cole XIX 103a] and to the 5th stall at Ely where he was installed 24 Sept. Elected president of Queens' 23 Mar. 1716-7. D.D. 1717, when George I. was at Cambridge; king's chaplain 5 Nov. 1717 (Hist. Reg.). He died 7 Mar.
- 10 1731-2 and was buried in the middle of the college chapel, where is an inscription on him (Biogr. Brit. Gent. Mag. 1732, p. 678). J. A. Fabricius to La Croze (Thesaur. epistol. Lacroz. I 137), Hamburg 29 Apr. 1732: 'Cantabrigia tristis nuntius affertur, clarissimos viros Petrum
- 15 Needhamum in Aeschilo et Io. Davisium in Tullii officii illustrandis occupatum fato proxime concessisse' (cf. Fabricii Vita 335). Jo. Chr. Wolf to same (ibid. II 257) Hamburg 2 Oct. 1733: 'Cl. Dornvillius heri mihi nuntiavit, cl. Th. Bentleii aedes, una cum bibliotheca eius, quam
- 20 altera pars inscriptionum Asiaticarum, scholia in Homeri Iliadem ἀνέκδοτα et Davisii in Ciceronis de officiis libros annotationes ornarunt, ita periisse, ut ipse aegre vitam servarit.' Cf. Monk's Bentley, ind., Bentley's Corresp. 411, 553, 781. A letter from Davies to dean Moss, about
- 25 chapter business, 21 July 1725, in Nichols, Lit. Illustr. III 520. Some slight notices in Lit. Anecd. see the index. He occurs among the subscribers to Knight's Colet. Abr. des Amorie van der Hoeven, Diss. de Jo. Clerico, Amst. 1843 (p.98) speaks with enthusiasm of this stedfast friend of Le
- 30 Clerc's: 'Amicum certum in re Menandrea tragico-comica admodumque incerta se probavit. . . Davisium illum, si cum plerisque eius aequalibus studiorumque sociis compono, non possum non amare et praeprimis magni facere. Sagacitate Bentleio, doctrinae copia aliis inferior fuerit,
- 35 quamquam in his quoque suas habet laudes meo praeconio maiores; at quam humanus est, quam candidus, quam modestus! Macte, Clerice, tali amico! Quibus bene-ficiis se ornarint invicem notum est. Ut cetera taceam, Clerico ad patres apostolicos notulas misit Davisius, huic ad Ciceronis philosophica suas donavit Clericus.' In a letter from Davies to Le Clerc (ibid. 272-4), Cambridge 26 Nov. O.S. 1709: I thank you for your friendly com- 5 mendation of my Caesar and Minucius Felix. I propose soon to republish Minucius with new emendations. Same to same, Cambr. 23 July 1710 (a few days before Uffenbach's visit): 'Fidem datam iam tandem absolvo, tibique, vir doctissime, Severi quae dicitur, Aetnam ex vetustissimo 10 codice descriptam mitto. Quamvis iste MS. innumeris mendis scateat, sunt tamen lectiones bene multae ex quibus melior et emendatior reddi possit Severus; ne dicam in hoc apographo tres quattuorve versus esse qui in editis non comparent. Sed de hisce rebus tu optime iudicabis; 15 et spero me secundam Pedonis et Severi editionem brevi visurum; nam Londini certe adeo rara erant exemplaria, ut ne unum quidem nancisci potuerim, cuius orae varias lectiones ex MS. collectas adscriberem.' This is MS. Kk v 34 in the university library, which is fully described by 20 Prof. Munro in his ed. Cambr. Deighton, Bell and Co., 1867, 8vo., pp. 28, 29: 'This codex is so much superior to all other existing codices both in age and in merit, that not only have I grounded my text mainly on it, but as in duty bound have noted the minutest discrepancies of spell- 25 ing.' Davies to Le Clerc, Cambr. 9 Nov. O. S. 1710 (u. s. 274-6): Thank you for your conjectures on Cic. Acad. and Fin.; pray send others on the other philosophical books. 'Brevi recudentur Tusculanae, et eodem tempore prodibunt libri de Nat. Deorum; sed agmen ducet Minucius 30 Felix, plurimis in locis, nisi fallor, emendatus.' I have read the libel of Jac. Gronovius, which is only worthy of contempt. I am glad that your Pentateuch is reprinted; the additions should be issued separately. I am told that you are editing Orosius; a new edition is much wanted; 35 so also of Plato; nor does the Oxford Xenophon satisfy scholars. 'Homerus Barnesianus praelum relinquit. In prolegomenis videbis Dionis Chrysostomi orat. LIII meis notis emendatam; quae breviores sunt, quia spatiis iniquis fui conclusus. Ideo autem publicas feci, ut viderent homines eruditi, nobilem illum philosophum simul et oratorem multis vitiis etiamnum laborare, et, si qui sint quibus praesto sunt MSS. codices, illi limatius edendo sese accingerent.' Barnes in the preface to his Iliad, says of these prolegomena: 'quae... ego singulari libro super hac re [the history of Homer] paraveram, nec pauca, nec 10 contemnenda, cum malorum hominum [such as Bentley] artificio vilipendantur, ne in huius editionis detrimentum converti possint, ultro praetereo.' When rid however of the Aetnaean labour of the Homer, and when the times are somewhat more propitious to my labours (when the 15 queen will accept my dedication), 'emittere statui librum illum, quem et ausim nunc vocare thesaurum eruditionis hactenus reconditum.' The prolegomena never appeared; we see why Bentley chose to make Davies the medium of his chastisement of Barnes (see Monk I 293-6). Davies

 20 to Le Clerc (u. s. 276), 1 Oct. O. S. 1718, sending notes on Barnabas and Clement, and offering many emendations on the Clementines. Thanks for procuring from Salvini a collation of the Florentine MS. of Maximus Tyrius. The Cambridge editor of Clement is not Wm.
 25 but Hen. Wotton. 'Juvenis est e non-iuristarum partibus; adeoque non mirum est, si bonis omnibus [e. g. to Bernard and Le Clerc] sit infensus.' Same to same (ibid. 276-7), 14 May O. S. 1719: Sends emendations on the first nine Clementine homilies; will soon do as much for the 30 other ten. Salvini puts a monstrous price on his MS. of Maximus Tyrius, 'adeo ut isto auxilio mihi prorsus sit carendum, nisi forte librum pro decem libris sterlingicis mihi traderet.' I thank you for the compliment you have paid me in the Biblioth. anc. et nouv. [see xxi 247, xxiii
 35 254]; 'laudes enim a viro laudato profectae semper sunt acceptissimae novamque languentibus animis induunt alacritatem.' I shall return to Cambridge [from London] in June. In an english P.S., 16 May: 'I heartily thank you for the care and dexterity you have us'd in treating with Mr. Salvini. The terms he now proposes I readily comply with, and have sent my servant with £3 to Mr. Guiger, with which summe I desire you will buy such 5 a piece of holland as it will purchase; but I think it will be time enough to send it him, when you have receiv'd the collation.' Same to same (ibid. 277-8), Cambr. 9 Jul. [? 'a. d. ix Jul.'] 1719: Sends emendations on the remaining Clementine homilies: 'Ea omnia, aut eorum partem, 10 pro libitu tuo vel reicias vel edas. Id modo a te peto ut quaecunque spongiam mereantur omnino deleas.' Hudson's Josephus is all but printed. The greek ecclesiastical historians [Reading's ed.] are very nearly ready at Cambridge. I have in hand Cic. Acad., which I shall soon 15 send to press. Our friend Wasse promises Lactantius; but I am surprised that I hear nothing of Diodorus Siculus, as he long ago made an agreement to edit it for the Wetsteins. Same to same (ibid. 278-9), Ely, May 1728. 'Tis some years since I heard from you. I hope 20 you received my Cic. de legibus last year. My bookseller has now delivered my Cic. Fin. to Smith, Wetstein's son-in-law, for you. 'Prout ab ineunte adolescentia te colui, sic senectuti proximus animum non muto; nec umquam possum, si probe me geram, mutare, quum reputem quan- 25 tum tibi debeant cum omnes litterae, tum praesertim sacrae. Commentarios tuos in utrumque Foedus diligenter et plus semel evolvi, ac, nisi fallor, a reliquis interpretibus haud dubiam reportasti palmam. Hoc et in ceteris V. F. libris te praestitutum confido, quos sub 30 praelo sudare laetus audiui. A Deo O. M. enixe peto ut vegetam tibi senectutem det, quo diutius orbi Christiano prosis. Ecclesiasticam certe tuam historiam ad metas quas proposuisti perductam lubentissime viderim, ut et opus de Incredulitate latine versum, notisque, forsán et 35 nonnullis capitibus, auctum: scis enim quam petulanter in ipsam religionem Christianam invadant e nostratibus

- nonnulli; nec, ut opinor, in partibus transmarinis eiusmodi funesta desunt exempla.' J. A. Fabricius (Vita 56, 57) supplied him with collations of Cic. Tusc. and Caesar.
 His commentaries have since been reprinted (e.g. those 5 on Cicero by Rath and again by Moser and Creuzer) and are the result of independent reading. Yet cf. Madvig's judgement (Cic. Fin. praef. LII, ed. 2): 'Davisii opera . . .
 fere consumpta est in locis Diogenis et Sexti Empirici
 patrumque Christianorum ibi ascribendis, ubi unum ali-10 quod non ignotum decretum apertis verbis positum erat.'
 See ibid. x-xii a severe censure of Davies as a verbal critic. 'Usus est octo codicibus, . . . sed usus est cum supina quadam neglegentia. Non iam hoc dico, tantum hic illic inspectos et commemoratos esse codices, ubi 15 aliquid animus pupugisset, tanta inaequalitate, ut modo et, ac, quae codicibus adhibitis permutet, modo in foe-dissimis mendis eos non curet; sed primum, etiam ubi codices inspexit, saepe tantum eos inspexit, quos casus obtulerat. . . . Saepe in mendis typographicis superiorum 20 corrigendis parte codicum utitur, cum deberet omnibus . .
 Multis locis, ubi tantum duae scripturae sunt, utrique unum et alterum assignat codicem, ceteros omnino dubios relinquit . . . Saepissime codices permutavit et permultis locis de scripturis plane falsa prodidit.' Like most 25 scholars of his time Davies paid much attention to patristic studies. Gisbert Cuper to J. A. Fabricius, 5 Febr.
 1709 (Uhlii Sylloge nova epistolarum I 468): Gronovius is about to publish, or has published Minucius Felix, 'aemulatione accensus, ut ferunt, Davisii, qui eundem publicavit
 30 in Britannia magna, et non infeliciter emendavit subinde.'
 Cf. Jo. Christ. Wolf to La Croze (Thesaur. epist. Lacroz. II 50): 'Cl. Gronovii scriptum recentius conspectum tibi esse non dubito, quo uno impetu in eruditissimum Bent- leium huius in Tuscul. quaest. Ciceronis emendationes loco 35 movere conatur, Clericum item, et, qui iram eius nova Minucii Felicis editione promeruit, Davisium etiam evo-luit bilem, novumque adeo professoris humanitatis, ab

humanitate vel naturae quodam ductu abhorrentis, exemplum constituit.' Notes and emendations communicated by Davies to Gottl. Schelwig were printed in the Theophilus of J. C. Wolf, Hamb. 1724.

P. 146 l. 5. Ciceronis de natura deorum. With emendations by John Walker, published at the university press, 1718, 1723, 1733, 1744.

P. 146 n. * tom. I. p. 110.

P. 146 l. 8. Ri. Laughton. See p. 279 l. 35. B.A. 1684-5, M.A. 1691, D.D. by mandate 1717. In the 10 Cambr. MS. Oo vi III (3) is his speech as senior proctor in the bachelors' schools. He has verses in Acad. Cantabr. affectus 1684-5 f. I 3, and in Lacrymae Cantabrigienses 1694-5 f. N 2. A sermon preach'd before the king at King's college chapel in Cambridge. By Richard Laughton D.D. 15 and fellow of Clare. 2nd ed. Cambridge, Corn. Crownfield, 1717. 8vo. Appointed king's chaplain 5 Nov. 1717 (Hist. Reg.). In 1717 he was a candidate for the mastership (Monk's Bentley II 13); nominated 11th, installed 14th Nov. 20 1717 prebendary of the 8th stall in Worc. cathedral (Le Neve-Hardy III 86). Died 28 July 1723 (ibid.) Whiston (Life 257) to abp. Wake: 'In the summer of the year 1710 I came from Cambridge, in company with Dr. Laughton of Clare hall, who was then tutor to a relation of your 25 grace's [Martin Folkes esq. now president of the Royal Society] and with several of his pupils, members of the same college, to wait on your grace, who at that time was bishop of Lincoln, at Bugden; and to desire your permission for printing your Translation of the smaller epistles of Ignatius . . . together with my own translation of the 30 larger epistles, in my Primitive Christianity reviv'd.' Colbatch in his commemoration sermon at Trinity 17 Dec. 1717 speaks of Laughton's fame as a tutor (Monk's Bentley II 30, 31): 'We see what a confluence of nobility and gentry the virtue of one man daily draws to one of our 35 least colleges.' In a paper (by Wm. Whewell) on the introduction of Newton's philosophy into Cambridge (Mus.

Crit. II 517-8): 'In 1709-10, when Mr. Laughton of Clare hall, a zealous Newtonian, was proctor, instead of appointing a moderator, he discharged the office himself; and by the most active exertions, stimulated still farther

5 the progress of mathematical science. He had previously published a paper of questions on the Newtonian philosophy, apparently as theses for the disputations. He had been tutor in Clare hall from 1694. . . Mr. Laughton's [lectures] had probably been on Newtonian principles for 10 the whole or the greater part of his tutorship; but it is certain that for some years he had been diligently inculcating those doctrines, and that the credit and popularity of his college had risen very high in consequence of his reputation.' In a 'Speech on the Royal Society Nov.

15 19, 1772, recommending mathematics as the paramount qualification for their chair, by Sir Wm. Browne F.R.S.' (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. III 322): 'Mathematics had just begun to gain ground in the university of Cambridge in the year 1707, when I was admitted a student there at 20 the age of 15, principally by the encouragement of Dr. Laughton, a noted tutor in Clare-hall, who then had Mr. Martin Folkes under his tuition, and happened, as has often been the case, to be soon surpassed in his own new doctrine by the great genius of this pupil. He had pub-

25 lished a sheet of questions for the use of the Soph schools, on the mathematical Newtonian philosophy; and when proctor, . . . most zealously promoted disputations on them there, to the great credit and reputation of the disputants, he himself chusing to moderate in them, instead

30 of appointing a moderator as usual. Sir Isaac Newton's Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy or Knowledge, a book originally but of ten or twelve shillings price, had risen so high above par, that I gave no less than two guineas for one, which was then esteemed a

35 very cheap purchase.' The same Sir Wm. in 'A new year's gift. A problem and demonstration on the xxxix articles. 1772' (ibid. 328): 'This problem and demonstration, though now first published, on account of the present controversy concerning these articles, owe their birth to my being called upon to subscribe them at an early period of life. For in my Soph's year, 1711, being a student at Peterhouse, . . . just nineteen years of age, and having performed all my exercises in the schools (and also a first opponency extraordinary to an ingenious pupil of his, afterwards Dr. [Fras.] Barnard, prebendary of Norwich) on mathematical quaestions, at the particular request of Mr. proctor Laughton of Clare-hall (who drew me into it by a promise of the senior optime of the year), I was then first informed, that subscribing these articles was a necessary step to taking my degree of B.A.' Ri. Laughton was an intimate friend of Bentley's, and is the Laughton to whom foreign scholars send their compliments in Bentley's Corresp. 236, 15 239, 259, 375, 443. Bp. Monk thus introduces the famous scene in the Rose tavern (I 286-8): 'As proctor he had been indefatigable in repressing the licence of the young men, and restoring the ancient discipline of the university: in particular he had put down some clubs, and constantly 20 dispersed the parties at taverns, which according to the practice of that day used to be kept up till a late hour. He had likewise curbed the licentiousness of the tripos, and forbidden any personal reflexions on the senior members of the university; whereby it was foretold that the 25 spirit of that exercise would be altogether destroyed, sub-lato iure nocendi; a prediction which we may observe, by the bye, has not been verified by the result. Mr. Laughton had supplied to Dr. Bentley a testimony under his hand to the good conduct and good discipline which he had ob- 30 served among the students of Trinity; a document which the latter took care to insert in his Letter to the bishop of Ely. But it unfortunately happened that this valuable member of the university was a violent party-man, and appears to have suffered such feelings to overpower all 35 sense of discretion.' See 'The university of Cambridge vindicated from the imputation of disloyalty it lies under on the account of not addressing; as also from the malicious and foul aspersions of Dr. B[ent]ly, late master of Trinity college, and of a certain officer, and intended reformer in the said university. Written by the author

5 [Styan Thirlby]. Cur omnium fit culpa, paucorum scelus?
London: Printed and sold by A. Baldwin, near the Oxford-Arms inn, in Warwick-Lane. 1710. 8vo. (pp. 21-22):
 'The proctor's complaint to the vice-chancellor. Burlesqued.
 by RICHARD LAUGHTON, A.M. fellow of CLARE-

10 HALL. On the third of July, one thousand seven hundred and ten, I found a company of universitymen at the Rose, about a quarter of an hour past ten at night, who insulted and affronted me, and the fellow-commoners and scholars that were with me, in a most abusive manner:

15 they often set up a loud laughter in derision of me when I spoke to 'em, and especially when I mention'd the execution of my office. They call'd the gentlemen and scholars I had with me the black-guard. And when we were gone down, there was a chamber-pot, or something

20 of that nature, thrown out of their window at us, and loud laughing in their chamber when it was done. One of these persons was Dr. P[as]k, of Clare-hall, who appear'd to have drunk to great excess, by the tone and accent of his voice (which was very different from what it is when

25 he is sober) and by the difficulty he found to speak and go as he us'd to do. He call'd the company that was with me my myrmidons, and rose up, as well as he could, to thrust 'em out of the room by force. There was likewise Mr. S—ll (?) of Christ-college, and Mr. Ch[apma]n of

30 Emmanuel, who once or twice by way of affront drank Dr. Sacheverell's health to me. There was also Mr. M[iddlet]on, of Trinity-college, who call'd one of the scholars that were with me coxcomb, and told him in a threatening manner, that he wou'd take care of him. There was

35 likewise Mr. G[oo]ch of Caius-college, who joyn'd in the laughing and affronts that were put upon me, and Mr. T[illot]son, of Clare-hall, who was sitting without either gown or cassock, tho' he be in priest's orders. I requir'd 'em to go home to their colleges, which they refus'd to do, and said they wou'd stay as long as they pleas'd: after which I went to visit some other places and return'd to 'em a second time about eleven a-clock, requiring 'em again to go home, which they refus'd as before. I went then to visit another part of the town, and at my return to 'em, about twelve a-clock, requir'd 'em a third time to be gone; but was forc'd to leave 'em there (some of 'em indeed then saying they wou'd drink up their wine and then go) at that time of the night. And the two last times I was with 'em, I was treated in a very rude and abusive manner by them, as at the first. This has oblig'd me to demand satisfaction of these men for the affront they have put upon me in the execution of my office. And that justice may speedily be done, according to the statute, upon this house which entertains such rude and disorderly persons. R. Laughton. M. A. fellow of Clare-hall and senior proctor.' Thirlby adds some particulars (ibid. 25-27): 'Mr. Laughton comes into a publick room, where gentlemen are drinking, but with the strangest attendance that ever was seen; a rout of staring boys at his heels, and one bearing a staff going before him; he hems, shrugs his shoulders twice or thrice (which by the by, I must confess, is generally allow'd not to proceed from lowliness), and tells 'em, amongst other compliments, that he will not go before 'em. As hearty a topeing speech, as any sophister in Cambridge cou'd have made. Upon this Mr. M[iddlet]on of Trinity college, as he 'is a very gentle, well bred man, drew him a chair and desir'd him to sit down, telling him, since he intended to honour 'em with his company, and stay as long as they did, he might probably be tir'd with standing. Dr. P[as]k at the same time pray'd him to dismiss his guards, accounting it unreasonable that any one man shou'd introduce such a great number of impertinent umbræ. This put the proctor into a violent passion, and the gentlemen into as violent a fit of laughing. They must needs be very much surpriz'd at the oddness of this behaviour. Yet they still continued to be civil to him, and accordingly one of 'em drank to him, but it happening to be Doctor Sacheverell's health, 5 which instead of mending the matter, made it much worse, . . . he flung out of the room in a greater rage than before. I suppose the proctor don't much insist upon their laughing, for certainly no one ought to be blam'd for what he can't help, and besides, as Mr. Bickerstaff says, who can 10 forbid an english gentleman to screw his face into what figure he pleases? It wou'd be easie, tho' very tedious to prove, that their whole demeanour to him was as respectful and inoffensive, as the particulars I have instanc'd in; but these being the things he seems chiefly to ground 15 his resentment upon, 'tis plain enough from this, that a man, who will be affronted at such undeserv'd civilities as these, will be affronted at any thing. After all, I can't much blame the proctor for giving that account of it he has; the goodman I verily believe, fansied himself ill 20 used by 'em; which may be owing partly to the effect, his continual painful watching for our good and reformation might have had upon his brain, and in some measure to the great reason he had to expect no other usage from 'em, because he knew most of 'em look'd upon themselves 25 to be very much wrong'd by his putting down the musick club; tho' Mr. proctor humbly conceives, that they have so little grounds to be disobliged at that action of his, that they are rather beholding to him for not doing it sooner; since they can't deny, but that he had as much 30 authority to do it ten years ago, as the day he did it. Mr. proctor had been a long time assur'd, that this musick club was an idle, trifling thing, not such a one as a man of letters wou'd expect to find in an university, (viz.) he shrewdly suspected, that the Harmonica were not read, 35 nor the nature of sounds studied, and he knew very well that, tho' they had been a society almost as long as the Greshamites, they had not made any considerable progress towards the solving any of the innumerable difficulties in the theory of musick. All this he long knew, and out of his especial grace and clemency deign'd to bear with, till he found they began to divide into parties and factions, and carry matters so high, as to separate; then he thought 5 it was high time to take some notice of 'em; discord being a thing very absurd in a musick-meeting, and by no means to be encourag'd, and he effectually put an end to it, by destroying both sides. Neither did he do this, till they were arriv'd to such an height of impudence, as to strike 10 up in his presence, and to try, whether that musick, of whose miraculous power they had read and felt so much, and which Pindar says, τὸν αἰχματὸν κεραυνὸν σβεννύει, wou'd mollifie his rage. But this they found had a quite contrary effect. To think his grave philosophical soul 15 cou'd be soften'd by the charms of effeminate musick, was an unpardonable affront, and he resented it so highly, as to prosecute 'em with much greater vehemence than before, and never rested, till he had triumph'd in their ruin.' In the dedication to Geo. Sewell of Peterhouse, B.A. 1709-10, 20 we read: 'I don't know whether you want to be inform'd, that the word, gentleman, in Clare-Hall, by Mr. proctor's particular order, signifies a fellow-commoner, and nothing else.' In the body of the tract p. 15: 'The heaviest charge of all is still to come, for which we are indebted 25 to a magistrate in the university, that sets up for a reformer, who (not content to have abus'd the nation with an account of a wonderful reformation, brought about by his diligence, courage, and application) to magnifie his work farther by the difficulty of it, has by the help of 30 his friends and manifesto's publish'd every where the vast opposition and discouragement he has met with in the execution of his office, from all orders and degrees of men amongst us; from doctors of divinity, batchelors of divinity, masters of arts, under-graduates, butchers, whores 35 and drawers; we being all, it seems, a stubborn and perverse generation, a generation hating to be reform'd.'

Pp. 16, 17: 'The heads are many ways oblig'd to him, and chiefly for giving 'em frequent opportunities of exercising a certain christian vertue call'd patience; as also for putting down the tripos in effect, by taking care, there
5 shou'd be neither wit nor scandal at it; which must needs have been done purely out of a tender regard to their reputations; for what some report, that he did it to secure himself, is so far from being probable, that it's plain, if he had consulted his own advantage only, he wou'd have 10 encourag'd rather than suppress'd it, if it be true that Carmen amat, quisquis carmine digna gerit. Since he had done nothing thro' the whole course of his reign, that did not highly deserve to be celebrated there. Yet for all these benefactions, most of 'em received him so coldly, 15 when he comes with his black book full of complaints, that he wou'd certainly never come to 'em of that errand agen, unless it was to plague 'em. The under-graduates too, who have the greatest obligations imaginable to him, are no less ungrateful. 'Tis a currant opinion with most
20 of 'em, that his extraordinary pains in discovering and punishing vice (tho' perhaps augmented by the natural inclination all base minds have to tyrannize) are chiefly taken to gain himself the name of a man of ancient and severe manners. But they hope the world is too old to 25 let this trick pass upon it, this pretence to virtue having been in all ages of all others the most common, neither is any more easily put on, or more easily seen thro', than severity to the vitious. That those actions, he wou'd fain have imputed to a religious care to do his duty ex-
30 actly, are done partly to gratifie his own ill humour, partly to get pupils, and partly out of the vexation it gives him, to see the youth of the university indulge themselves in all those innocent, elegant pleasures of life, which both his poverty and want of taste made him at that age a 35 stranger to. That these or some other such (equally unjustifiable, and therefore conceal'd) were the true motives, that put him upon acting the reformer, they say, is clear from the reasons he publickly gives out, which are so directly opposite to the whole tenour of his life and actions, that it's impossible he shou'd ever have thought of 'em, any otherways than as things that sounded well.' P. 18: 'Tis reported too that he declares, he fancies himself oblig'd in conscience to do what he does. This impudence, they say, wou'd be utterly inexcusable, if it were not something lessen'd by the commonness of making that the pretence for the worst of actions, in all ages. However, as it is, 'tis impudence enough in him to pretend conscience for any thing, when he has so little claim to it, as to confess, that he went to chappel with a firm resolution to receive the sacrament (very well prepared, no doubt) and there refus'd it only because it was administer'd by Mr. Green, and that not from any exceptions he had to the validity of his orders, or any thing of that nature, but purely from an inveterate, mortal hatred of his person.' P. 18, 19: 'But that our representatives shou'd debauch and seduce to the tavern one doctor of laws, several young batchelors of divinity, and masters of arts, and then assist and abett 'em in affronting and rebelling against their high and mighty, lawful governour, the proctor; and shou'd come down from London on purpose to do this too, this is unsufferable. 'Tis evident they cou'd come hither with no other intent. They may say indeed, if they please, that they came to strengthen and confirm their interest; but this Mr. proctor will never believe, he knows too well that is made altogether needless by their own singular merit, and the hearty affections of the far greater part of the university to their persons and principles. And for pleasure they cou'd never chuse to come to a place where they must expect to be insulted at the caprice of an officer, made only for a bugbear to affright naughty boys; one that practises less civility, if it be possible, than he understands. But, whether these gentlemen meant any ill in coming down and taking Dr. P. and the rest to the tavern, we'll be so charitable, as not absolutely to determine; tho', you see, we have just grounds for a strong suspicion that they did. This is most certain, that their coming was the fatal occasion of a very ugly accident, that happen'd out in 5 the town of Cambridge, in the county of Cambridge, on the third day of July O.S. betwixt the hours of ten and twelve in the night, in the year of our Lord 1710. You have here a full account of it, in a woful complaint (alias manifesto) made by the senior proctor to the vice-chancellor, and, for the credit of the composer's eloquence,

10 and the sobriety of the university, sent to several of the bishops.' The somewhat tedious fun ends with this advertisement (p. 33): 'All gentlemen that design to send their sons to Cambridge, are desired to commit 'em to 15 Mr. Laughton's care, otherwise they will unavoidably be ruin'd in their principles and morals, and God knows what.' In 1719 A. A. Sykes, in 'The case of Dr. Bentley further stated and vindicated, in answer to a second part of the Full and impartial account of the late proceedings
20 in the university of Cambridge against Dr. Bentley,' reprinted Laughton's 'complaint,' in order to discredit Conyers Middleton the prosecutor, and Thos. Gooch the judge, who brought about Bentley's degradation (Monk's Bentley II 71, 72, Disney's Life of Sykes 83-87). Conyers
25 Middleton, who left behind him in MS. 'Dr. Laughton's account of finding Dr. Middleton at a tavern' (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. v 420), published in 1719 a reply to Sykes: 'Some remarks upon a pamphlet, entitled, The case of Dr. Bentley farther stated and vindicated, etc. Wherein 30 the merit of the author and his performance, and the complaint of proctor Laughton, are briefly considered.' London 8vo. price 4d.; (also in his Misc. Works, 1752, vol. III). In pp. 15-21 he gives an exact account [of the business at the Rose: 'But to demonstrate once for all 35 what a want of discipline and good order there is in the university, our author makes here a discovery to the world, that the present vice-chancellor Dr. Gooch, who is so severe upon the professor, and Dr. Middleton the prosecutor of him, are after all the only persons who deserve the censures and animadversion of the university. This is supported by the complaint of a proctor, dated July 3d, 1710, now printed with much pomp, and subscrib'd Rich. Laughton, proctor senior. The account I had received of this old story's being reviv'd and publish'd here, was the only reason that could make me read or regard any thing that S[y]kes had wrote; it was to come at this, that gave me the patience to wade through all the dirt which he had thrown in the way to't; it is not in the power of S[y]kes to give me the least uneasiness or disturbance. Men' moveat cimex Pantilius? He can raise no passion of mine but that of mirth or contempt: but Dr. Laughton indeed has something to stake upon a controversy, has some reputation to lose, if indecently or unjustly he attacks that of others; which I shall easily prove to be the case of this complaint of his, false in many passages of it, and misrepresented in all. How will he justify to the world the dispersing, as he will own he did, among bishops and other great men, many written copies of this manifesto? Where the story, as he has represented it, could have no other possible effect, than to bring scandal upon the university, gain reputation, perhaps preferment to himself, and injure others probably in both. But to examine this account of his a little more particularly. One of the persons whom he found in this company at the Rose, appear'd, he says, "to have drank to great excess by the tone and accent of his voice, etc." This he pretends to have observ'd at his first coming amongst them, when yet at their parting about two hours afterwards, the whole reckoning amounted only to eighteen pence a piece, out of which, besides what was given away, some part was reserved and carried off unspent. Another, he tells us, "was sitting indecently without either his gown or cassock on, tho' he be in priest's orders:" would not any man imagine from this description of his, that this clergyman had strip'd himself to his wastecoat to drink with more ease and coolness in a warm summer's evening; yet there was nothing more in it than this, that having been to take the air on horseback, he came into company just as he 5 alighted from his horse, in a riding habit, and with boots and spurs on. When the proctor first drew up this complaint in writing, he found it proper to pass over in silence such of the company, whose names would effectually have demonstrated his rudeness; and in this printed

10 edition of it, the names, for some special reasons, are dwindled only to two, viz. Mr. Gooch of Caius-college, and Mr. Middleton of Trinity-college. One of these is at present vice-chancellor of the university, whose character is too well known in the world to want any vindication;
15 who has join'd the accomplishment of a gentleman to those of a scholar; who with all the proper gravity and severity of the one, knows how to practise and allow every liberty which becomes the other; whose magistracy has taught us what difference there is between discipline
20 and pedantry, reformation and ill manners. The other, who from this representation of him, might pass probably enough for a haunter of taverns, a lover of wine and debauch, has always been remarkable and exemplary in the university for the strictest temperance and regularity
25 of life. These are the rude and disorderly persons he complains of; these are the men whose ill lives, according to Master S[y]kes, are a reproach to us. But these gentlemen are however much oblig'd to him for the opportunity he has given of informing the world, that 30 they had the honour to be found by him at this time in company with the present earl of Anglesey, who was then the shining ornament of the house of commons, as he has since been of the house of lords; a person much more distinguish'd by his great parts and abilities, than 35 by his high birth and quality; whose friendship and conversation have always been the ambition and delight of the greatest and politest in the kingdom; and whose name and education amongst us will be remember'd to all posterity as the honour and glory of this university. There were besides in this company some others of great quality and character; the honourable Mr. Windsor, member of parliament for the university; Sir J. Cotton, 5 bar. member of parliament for the town, with doctors and masters of arts. This was the company when this zealous reformer came bolting into the room, about ten at night, with as much authority and as little ceremony, as if he had surpriz'd a club of sizers or freshmen; he requir'd 10 them to be gone, declar'd he would not stir, till he had seen them pay their reckoning; brought all his young scholars in upon them, and encourag'd the sauciness and rudeness which some of them offer'd to the company; such treatment of persons of such distinction had never 15 before been practis'd or heard of in the university. And it had been strange if an insult so unusual had not been resented by the company with a just contempt and indignation; it was out of pure opposition to him that they stayed till the late hour he mentions of twelve a clock, 20 and did not break up till they had receiv'd three visits of the same kind from him. They were not however provok'd to shew any other incivility or disrespect to his person, than that of laughing at him pretty heartily; and tho' he complains of this as an affront to his office, he 25 must thank himself for it, 'twas impossible to be help'd; 'twas but the natural and necessary effect of the great pains he took to make himself ridiculous. We all remember a late professor in our schools, who when himself had made the jest, used to thunder at the scholars for 30 rudely laughing at things so serious. This gentleman had a fair occasion of reforming some abuses, and abolishing some dirty perquisites of his office, which too justly give offence to grave and good men: but 'tis charity only, and not reformation that begins at home; and his want of 35 scruple here is enough to make us suspect that his business was to chuse such a part, as would make a noise in the world, would bring him credit, without loss, and would give people such notions of the university, and himself, as to think it unsafe to trust their children there, but under his government and direction. There needs no other 5 proof of the absurdity and impertinence of this complaint, than the confession which Mr. S[y]kes has made, that it was never yet redressed. Dr. Roderick, the late provost of King's, was at that time vice-chancellor, a known lover of discipline, and steady friend to the revolution;

10 and tho' he was very tender of discouraging whatever look'd like reformation; yet he express'd himself, I know, very severely upon the trouble and disturbance this proctor gave him in this and many other of his complaints.' Diary of Edw. Rud. edited by H. R. Luard, Cambr. 1860,
15 p. 2, 1710, Sept. 7: 'Mr. Laughton the senior proctor hinder'd the musick booths from coming to the fair, by threatening that he would oblige them to sell in full measure. He also reviv'd the statute [47 of the university statutes] for punishing lads 3s. 4d. who came to the fair
20 without leave under their master's hand; and on the 9 he visited Paper-mills. . . 15. Mr. Laughton arrested the Grecian for abusing him when he visited his coffee-booth at the fair.' Dr. Flexman's Life of Dr. Benj. Ibbot, before Ibbot's Thirty-six discourses on practical subjects, Lond.
25 1776, p. iv: 'He was admitted of Clare-hall . . . 25 July 1695, under the tuition of the Rev. Mr. Laughton, a gentleman justly celebrated for his eminent attainments in philosophy and mathematics.' The account of Laughton in Jo. Chambers, Biographical illustrations of Worcester-
30 shire, is very slight.

P. 146 l. 23. an Arian book. A mistake on the part of Uffenbach or of his editor for Arminian. Lawrence Womock, afterwards bp. of St. David's, was author of: 'The examination of Tilenus before the triers, in order to 35 his intended settlement in the office of a publick preacher in the commonwealth of Utopia, whereunto are added the tenets of the Remonstrants, with an essay on the theses of

Mr. Thomas Parker. Lond. 1658.' 12mo. The last page of the book is numbered 283, but the paging is most irregular.

P. 147 l. 7. Augustinus de bono coniugali, and others. Given by Clemens Gregorie 1640. The other MSS. were 5 given by John Heaven, D.D., sometime fellow, vicar of New Windsor and fellow of Eton college, installed canon of Windsor 12 Mar. 1661; died 23 June 1670; whose monument and epitaph are in St. George's chapel Windsor (Wood-Bliss, Fasti Oxon. II 271). 10

P. 147 l. 9. John Covel or Covell was son of Wm. C. of Horningshearth, Suff.; born 1638; educated at Bury school, under Thos. Stephens; admitted to Christ's coll. 31 Mar. 1654, B.A. 1657-8. M.A. 1661. Life of Is. Milles, Lond. 1721, 18-9: 'Dr. Covel was another, of 15 whom Mr. Milles never spoke without the greatest commendation and respect. He used to say, he had the repute of one of the gentlest, and best temper'd, and most obliging youths he had ever heard of. And being a little acquainted with him, he found him such. He is 20 still alive, though very old.' Life of abp. John Sharp, Lond. 1825, I 13-4: 'the plague in 1665 and 1666 being at Cambridge, he, as many others did on that occasion, removed to the neighbouring villages, first to Sawston, . . where he boarded, together with Mr. Covel of his own 25 college and others who removed their pupils.' In 1670 he went, as chaplain to Sir Dan. Harvey, to Constantinople. In the dedication (p. 3) of his Account of the present Greek church. Cambridge, Corn. Crownfield, 1722, to James duke of Chandos, he says of the Turkey Company: 30 'during the space of seven years (under those two ambassadors Sir Dan. Harvey and Sir John Finch) I have owed to them a very handsome subsistence.' Cf. ibid. pref. i-viii. In a letter from Edw. Browne to Jo. Strype, Constantinople 17 Mar. 1676-7, he speaks of Covel as 35 about to return home (Baumgartner MS. I 90 Cambr. univ. libr.). D.D. and Lady Margaret's preacher 1679: 'a

- person noted for polite and curious learning, singular humanity, and knowledge of the world' (Baker's catalogue of the Lady Margaret's preachers, after the pref. to The funeral sermon on Lady Margaret, Lond. 1708). Presented by bp. Gunning to the sinecure rectory of Littlebury, to which he was instituted 5 Mar. 1680; presented to the college rectory of Kegworth 31 Oct. 1681, which he held to his death (Nichols, Leicestersh. III 856, 859); installed chanc. of York 9 Nov. 1687, on the nomination of the king sede vacante. Elected master of his college 7 July 1688; v. c. in 1688-9 (Cooper's Annals IV 9) and 1708-9. Cambr. MS. Mm vi 50: The fellows of Christ's to some nobleman, announcing Cudworth's death and imploring his assistance with the king on Covel's behalf, 26 June 1688. 'The society elected him immediately on the death of Dr. Cudworth, in order to prevent a mandate taking place, which they heard had been obtained of king James; and when the king was told whom they had chosen, he assented to their choice. But it is thought, that if the election had been more free, Dr. Covel would not have been so successful' (Chalmers from MS. Cole xx 72). Died 19 Dec. 1722 and was buried in the college chapel, where is an inscription to his memory (Biogr. Brit., Chalmers). One secret, which Covel jealously kept to himself, has been divulged by Mr. Singer. In 1681 he was 'made one of the chaplains to the princess of Orange, . . . and on that account resided at that court, till, for some cause or other, which he never would mention to his most intimate friends, he was dismissed his attendance at three hours' warning, and came over to England' (Chalmers). In Singer's Clarendon Correspondence, Lond. 1828, 4to., I 163-7 is a letter from the prince of Orange, Dieren 22 Oct. 1685, sending a letter of Covel's to Skelton which he had intercepted, and in consequence summarily dismissed him: 'Vous serez, sans doute, surpris qu'un homme de cette profession peut estre un si grand fripon.' Covel's letter is dated Dieren, 1st Oct. 1685: 'Your honour may be astonished at the news, but it is too true the princess's heart is ready to break; and yet she every day . . . counterfeits the greatest joy, and looks upon us as dogged as may be. We dare no more speak to her. The prince hath infallibly made her his absolute slave, 5 and there is an end of it. I wish to God I could see the king give you some good thing for your life, for I would have it out of the power of any revocation; for I assure you I fear the prince will for ever rule the roast. . . . I wonder what the devil makes the prince so cold to you. 10 None but pimps and bawds must expect any tolerable usage here. I beseech God preserve the king many and many years.' Lord Rochester in reply to the prince (not dated): 'I . . . cannot but be much troubled at the occasion of Dr. Covel's being sent away in that manner from 15 your highness' service.' MS. Tanner xxviii 309, Covel to Sancroft, 29 Dec. 1688; begs him to prevail on the prince of Orange to pardon him. Cambr. MS. Mm vi 50 n. 32; Covel to the princess of Orange, on his expulsion from her court, Hague,  $\frac{1}{2}\frac{4}{4}$  Oct. 1685. n. 44: Dr. Owen Wynne, 20 secr. to ld. Shrewsbury, writes from Whitehall 23 Febr. 1688-9 that the king would admit Covel, with the body of the university, to kiss hands, but would have been more content were the compliment paid by another. See ibid. n. 84 and 85 the speeches made by Covel to the king. 25 Mm vi 50 art. 46 is a letter from Sancroft to Covel, Lambeth, 26 Febr. 1688-9, expressing his willingness to assist him 'for the quitting some old scores between him and the court.' Three of Covel's letters to Sancroft, relating to his election as chancellor, are printed in D'Oyly's 30 Life of Sancroft, ed. 2, 241-4. Several other letters to Sancroft in Tanner MSS. vols. xxviii, xxxi, xxxii; one (xxviii 364) 1 Mar. 1688-9, when he declined the chancellorship of the university. A notice of him ibid. xxxv 32. Covel has verses in Lacrymae Cantabrigienses 1694-5 35 f. Bb seq. In Cambridge university library MS. Mm vi 50 is a transcript of a large part of Covel's correspondence

- from 1662 to 1722, relating to his residence on the continent and in the east, to the eventful year of his vice-chancellorship, to the imprimatur on a book in which John Locke was charged with Socinianism, to the sale of
- 5 Covel's MSS. to Edward lord Oxford for £300 (27 Febr. 1715-6), and to proposals for the sale of his other collections. A very large number of eminent names appear in this correspondence, which deserves to be printed; indeed Mr. Dawson Turner was preparing it for publication.
- 10 MS. Harl. 4200 Statutes of York cathedral, in Dr. Covel's hand. Others that belonged to him 5537, 5620, 5633 (a reply from Nectarius patriarch of Jerusalem to papal pretensions, Gr. lat.; translation finished by Covel 1681-2), 5715, 5739, 5773-8. Dan. Duckfield gave him MS. Harl.
- 15 5521 9 May 1702. Mention of Covel ib. 3777 n.178. 3778 n. 27-31, 36-39. 3779 n. 21-30, 87-93 (letters from Tho. Tudway Mus. D. to Humphr. Wanley about the sale of Covel's library, which had cost him about £1000, to lord Oxford; 'hints about the doctor's intrigues with
- 20 some Greek mistresses)', n. 94-96, 98, 99 (Wanley to Tudway on same subject, beating down Covel's demand of £400), 3780 n. 44-5 (from C. Christian, a seal engraver, about Dr. Covel's collection), n. 59-76 (correspondence between Covel and Wanley about terms of sale), 3782
- 25 n. 44.
- P.147 l.12. over eighty. No, 72 or 73.
- P.147 l.18. an english ambassador. On Sir Dan. Harvey of Surrey see Wm. Lilly's Life, 1774, 129 seq.; Manning and Bray I 402. Cambr. MS. Mm vi 50 n. 4
- 30 Sir Elias Harvey to Covel, informing him of his being appointed chaplain to the embassy at Constantinople, of which Sir Dan. Harvey was head. Lond. 17 Mar. 1669. Ibid. n.9. Draft of a letter in Covel's own hand to Wm. Harvey; 'about my lord's death and my trouble.' Constantinople, 17 Oct. 1672. Ibid. n.10. To the same, on the same subject, the former having miscarried; begs the residue of Sir Elias Harvey's medals. n.11. From Mrs.

Anne Hill, assuring Covel of Lady Harvey's favour, 16 Apr. [1673].

P. 148 l. 8. a testimonium. 'Dominus Guil. Josephus Grelot, quem probe novi quando Constantinopoli una commorati sumus, mihi monstravit Parisiis tabulas quasdam propria sua manu delineatas, nempe urbium Constantinopoleos, Galatae, Chrysopoleos, vulgo Scutari, item templorum sanctae Sophiae aliorumque quorundam ab imperatoribus Turcicis fabricatorum. Ego sane ne amici officio deessem, aut veritati ipsi asserendae, non possum non laudare imprimis viri ingenium, industriam ac diligentiam; nec minus affirmare, quod, in quantum mihi videtur, et fideliter et accurate et ad amussim, quod aiunt, facta sunt omnia. Ita testor JOH. COVEL.' In a letter to John Locke, Christ's coll., 27 Apr. 1681 (Cambr. MS. Mm vi 50 n. 27) Covel says that he had not heard from M. Grelot.

P. 148 l. 10. where Dr. Covel is mentioned. 'Je diray seulement en abrégé l'estat présent où elle [Constantinople] est aujourd'huy, après en avoir donné un petit plan dans ce qui suit, et une idée assez parfaite dans le petit dessein que j'en ay mis cy-après; et le tout en attendant que Monsieur Covel gentilhomme Anglois en donne au public un fort beau, fort grand et fort exact qu'il a entre les mains, avec les curieuses et sçavantes observations qu'il a fait pendant près de dix ans qu'il a demeuré en Grèce.'

P. 148 l. 13. Pericopae evangeliorum. MS. Harl. 5598. It is not in modern gr.

P. 148 l. 15. cod. membr. gr. in 12. Cited as Paul. 31. Apoc. 7 in critical editions of the N. T. MS. Harl. 5537 or Mill's MS. Covel 2. See Catal. of Harl. MSS. III 274-5; the MS. contains an annotated transcript of a lexicon preserved in it, and this note by the transcriber: 'Viro venerando Iohanni Covello S.T.D. collegii Christi apud Cantabrigienses praefecto, quod proprium ipsi erat red-dens, observantiae gratique animi, ob humanissime praestitum ad istas antiquitatis reliquias accessum, quaecunque monumentum, benevolae recordationis gratia reliquit

Iohannes Fridericus Burg Vratislaviensis. Cantabrigiae d. 12 Decembr. 1710. See Griesbach, Symbol. crit. II 148, 184.

P. 148 l. 17. codex evangeliorum. See p. 119 l. 27 seq.

- 5 Mill's Covel I, MS. Harl. 5776. 4to. F. H. Scrivener, A plain introduction to the criticism of the N. T. Cambr. 1861, pp. 150-1: 'brought from the east in 1677 with 4 other MSS. of the gr. T. by Dr. John Covel . . . This book was presented to Covel in 1674 by Daniel, bp. of
- 10 Proconnesus. The last verse is supplied by a late hand, the concluding leaf being lost.' In Mill's Prolegomena CLXIII, CLXIV, five MSS. of Covel's are described: 'Provectos paulo ultra ad cap. XI Matthaei egregie nos locupletavit amicus noster eruditissimus, Ioan. Covellus S. T. P.
- 15 quinque MSS. exemplaribus, quae ex oriente paulo ante secum advexerat.' See Marsh's Michaelis, ed. 4, II 735. Letters from Mill to Covel about these MSS. Mm vi 50 (Cambr. univ. libr.) art. 33 f. 85 (Oxon. 22 Jan. 1686-7); art. 36 f. 87 (Oxon. 24 May 1687). In a letter from Mill
- 20 to Is. Newton, St. Edm. hall, 7 Nov. 1693 (in Brewster's Life of Newton, 1860, II 374): 'May I presume to beg your favour to transcribe any one single page in the greek [of cod. Bezae], and to point it exactly according to the copy, 'twill be a mighty obligation. My most humble
- 25 service to . . . Dr. Covel. He put an arabic charm in my hands, which I have not yet returned. The next return of the carrier he shall surely receive it, with a translation of some part of it. I hope our common friend Mr. [John] Laughton is well. Pray give him my thanks for
- 30 all civilities.'—Newton in reply, Trin. coll. 29 Jan. 1693-4 (ibid.): 'I have sent you not only my old collations so far as they vary from yours, but also some new ones of Dr. Covel's two MSS.; for I have collated them anew, and sent you those readings which were either omitted in your
- 35 printed ones, or there erroneously printed. In collating these MSS., I set the readings down in the margin of your book, and thence transcribed them into a sheet of paper, which you will find in your book at the end of the Apocalyps, together with my old collations, and a copy of a side of Beza's MS. The collations I send you of Dr. Covel's two MSS. you may rely upon; for I put them into Mr. [John] Laughton's hand with the two MSS., and he compared them with the MSS. and found them right . . . I could not observe any accurateness in the stops or commas in Beza's MSS. You may rely upon the transcript of something more than a side of it.' 5

P. 148 l. 21. biblia hebr. MS. Harl. 5773-5. ib. 3780 n. 63: Covel to H. Wanley 1712-3: His hebrew MSS. highly valued by a learned rabbi of Upsala. Daily using his gr. MSS., which are creditably noted by Dr. Mills. 10

P. 148 l. 24. historia. MS. Harl. 5632.

P. 148 l. 27. historia. MS. Harl. 5742. 15

P. 148 l. 28. Sgyropuli. MS. Harl. 5740.

P. 149 l. 4. Simeonis. MSS. Harl. 5630 and 5783 seem both to have belonged to Covel. Another copy ibid. 5574.

P. 149 l. 8. correspondence. MS. Harl. 6943 contains 20 letters to Covel in modern gr., fr., ital., lat., as well as engl., mostly from foreigners. MS. Lansd. 353 contains his correspondence with the Greek and Armenian clergy at Adrianople, Philippopoli and Jerusalem in 1673 and 1675, in modern gr. One main subject of his correspondence when in the east was the belief of the orientals with respect to transubstantiation, on which Arnauld and Claude carried on a brisk controversy. A full account of this matter is given in the pref. to his book on the Greek church; cf. some letters in Cambr. MS. Mm vi 50 n. 13, 15-17. Perhaps his curiosity may have given rise to the report that he had become a papist, 1678 (ibid. n. 22, 23). 25

P. 149 l. 22. Poran. MS. Harl. 4256: 'The Bramin's Poran in five books.' By the same John Marshall, ib. 4252: 'A journal to the East-India, in the ship Unicorn;' 35 4253 1: 'A dialogue between John Marshall and Muddoodum Raurre, Bramin, at Callumbusar in Bengal, 18

March 1674-5;’ ibid. n. 2: ‘An account by Muddoosoodum Raurre, from a Hindoo book on the creation;’ 4254 and 4255: ‘John Marshall’s memoranda concerning East India, from 11 Sept. 1668 to 1 Jan. 1671-2;’ 7199: ‘Continuation of Muddoo Soodon Rauzzo Bramin’s account of the Hindoos’ book called Serebangabut Porans, translated by John Marshall, and brought from Leber D. le 29 May 1677.’ In a letter to Wanley 1712-3 (ib. 3780 69) Covel classes the Porans, translated by one of his pupils, amongst 10 his choicest treasures.

P. 150 l. 5. a certain bishop. Probably John Moore.

P. 150 l. 17. a hebrew inscription. In Cambr. MS. Mm vi 50 n. 102, 103, 105 are letters from Chas. Ellis, Castle Ashby 26 Aug. and 26 Sept. 1696, and one from Is.
 15 Abendana, Oxf. 9 Oct. 1696, with conjectures on this inscription, which is given on f. 187, where it is said that Id. Oxford purchased the pot from Covel’s executors, and sent it to Oxford, to be explained by Jean Gagnier.

P. 150 l. 30. Giovanni Pietro Bellori, born at Rome
 20 1615, died 1696; he had the charge of the library and antiques of queen Christina of Sweden, and received from Clement X. the title Antiquario di Roma. His numerous archæological works are still valued.

P. 151 l. 7. nummis. See a latin letter to him from 25 [John] Masson, Oxford, 19 Aug. 1702, on some gr. coins (MS. Harl. 6941 n. 6; cf. n. 5 and 7).

P. 152 l. 22. As his wife dined with us, we did not converse upon serious matters. Describing to a friend his tour in the Low Countries in the summer of 1718 (Vita
 30 p. xcvi), Uffenbach names as one of the obstacles to learned intercourse and purchases of books ‘societatis, quam inieram, seria abhorrentis nexus.’ His wife was with him.

P. 152 l. 25. Trinity chapel. See The true state of 35 Trinity college. Lond. 1710 (one of several replies to Bentley’s letter to the bp. of Ely, see Monk I 259, 260) p. 60: ‘The chappel was fine enough too for devotion;

plain, neat and elegant, without those glaring ornaments, which are apt to draw off the eye from the Creator to the creature, which now make it more like a Roman oratory, a chapel of the Lady of Loretto, than a place of worship for protestants.' Bentley had boasted (The present state of Trinity college, Lond. 1710 p. 60) of 'the college-chappel, from a decay'd antiquated model, made one of the noblest in England.' 5

P. 153 l. 4. Trinity library. See The true state of Trinity college, p. 59: 'Dr. Barrow, before he began that necessary ornament of our college, the new library, rais'd such a bank of subscriptions, as enabl'd him to carry on the building without oppressing the fellows, who had constantly (as I have heard them say) half a dividend every year, though the charge of that fabric was treble to the sums laid on by Dr. B.' 15

P. 153 l. 14. Grinling Gibbons. See Walpole's Anecdotes and ind. to MSS. Ashmole and to the diary of Gibbons' patron Evelyn. Thoresby's Diary I 366: 'Mr. Etty the painter, with whose father . . . the architect the most celebrated Grinling Gibbons wrought at York, but whether apprenticed with him or not, I remember not well.' 20

P. 153 l. 16. John Laughton. See p. 116 l. 14, 140 l. 23, 176 l. 9, 327, 328, Cooper's Annals IV 2, Brewster's Life of Newton, ind. He supplied the list of Trinity MSS. for the Catal. MSS. Angliae, and subscribed to Strype's Parker. His name occurs as assisting research in MS. Baumgartner III n. 7-16 and 21; his MSS. X n. 73 and 75. Diary of Edw. Rud, ed. by H. R. Luard, Cambr. 1860, p. 8: 1712. 'Sept. 4. Mr. Laughton dyed about 6 this morning, at his niece Jenkins' house at Woodlayes near Rotheram.' 30
The John Laughton rector of Godeby (Nichols' Leicestersh. II 197-8, III 926, IV 753-4) was of Emman. B.A. 1694-5, M.A. 1698.

P. 154 l. 5. Augustine Lindsell of Clare, tutor of Nic. Ferrar (see ind. to Two lives of N. F. Cambr. 1855), afterwards bp. successively of Peterborough and Hereford. He

- was a friend of Laud and of Cosin (see ind. to Laud's works, to Cosin's correspondence printed by the Surtees society, and to the Surtees book on the Durham High Commission 1858). Laud records that he was cut for the
- 5 stone 9 a.m. 27 Apr. 1624 (Diary in Works III 152). Sir Hen. Bourghier to Ussher (Parr's Ussher's Letters, n. 54, p. 86), Lond. 28 Apr. 1623: 'Our good friend D. Lyndsel was cut on Munday; and is yet (God be praised) well after it: there was a stone taken out of his bladder about
- 10 the bigness of a shilling, and rough on the one side.' Ri. Montagu in his reply to Selden p. 144 commemorates his learning, and profited by it: see pref. to Greg. Naz. in Iulianum invectivae duae, ed. R. Montagu, Etonae. 1610, 4to.: 'Porro vir doctissimus Richardus Thomson [of Clare
- 15 also, one of the translators of the Bible], et Augustinus Lindsel amicissimus, suas huc symbolas contulerunt: hic enim Castigationes Iulii Gabrielii ad omnes ep. et orat. e Vaticanis membranis ad me misit, editas illas apud Plantinum, sed Parisiensibus non visas: . . . ille autem
- 20 suum cod. communicavit, cum scriptis collatum in Italia.' Also in the notes on Photii epistolae, Lond. 1651, Montagu records conjectures of Lindsell's, see p. 46 sect. 14 and 15, p. 64 sect. 35, pp. 115, 143. Sir Hen. Bourghier to Ussher (Parr n. 138 p. 406): 'I doubt not but your grace
- 25 hath heard of the greek library brought from Venice by Mr. Fetherston, which the earl of Pembroke hath bought for the university-library of Oxford; it cost him £700; there are of them 250 volumes. Dr. Lindsell, now dean of Litchfield, tells me that it is a great treasure, far ex-
- 30 ceeding the catalogue. He likewise tells me that there are a great number of excellent tracts of the greek fathers, never yet published; besides divers ancient historians and geographers; and particularly, that there is as much of Chrysostom, as will make a volume equal to any of those
- 35 published by Sir H. Savil.' Ant. Walker's Life of Jo. Bois (Peck Desid. Cur. bk. VIII pp. 52-3 ed. 1 = 337-8 ed. 2): 'He did often, at the request of divers of his worthy friends, peruse bookes by them sent to him; not only noting them in the margent, but writing larger notes upon them . . . At the request of Dr. Lindsel . . . he took great pains with a greek manuscript, entitled Βαρθολαῖμ καὶ Ἰωαννᾶς [ascribed to Joann. Damasc., first printed in Boissonade's Anecd. gr. 1829. IV] which should have soon after come in print, with the bishop's and his joynt labours upon it. But the bishop being so prevented by death, that he could neither see it printed himselfe, nor take order for the restoring of it (for he was found dead 10 in his study in 1634 [6 Nov.] . . . there were three whole years lost and buried, unless it had pleased my lord's grace of Canterbury [Wm. Laud], who had the supervision of his bookes, to keep them from imminent danger of utter perishing.' Lindsell was a friend of John Gregory's (Lloyd's 15 Memoires 88), who, with Thos. Triplet, helped him to collate the MS. for his edition of Theophylact on St. Paul (Lond. 1636). He was also a friend of the papist Davenport or Franciscus a sancta Clara (Prynne's Canterb. Doome 426-7, 448), which accounts for his falling under 20 Prynne's lash (ibid. 167, 353, 359). Meric Casaubon to G. J. Vossius, Canterbury 22 Febr. 1635 (i.e. 1634-5, in his letters, printed after his father's, pp. 7, 8, or in Clarorum virorum ad G. J. Vossium epistolae p. 138 b) speaks of Lindsell, whom he had lost a month or two before, in 25 the highest terms: 'sanctitate et integritate vitae praesul, etiamsi olim vixisset, admirandus. Vix est ut tantam eruditionem in tanta modestia, tanta obscuritate (etsi iampridem toto hoc regno celeberrimae famae fuerit) latere potuisset quisquam credat . . . Nullum genus est eru- 30 ditionis, in quo non ita excelleret, ut tota vita nihil aliud egisse videretur. Nullus liber antiquus aut recens, latinus, graecus aut hebraicus, nullus fere gallicus, italicus aut hispanicus, qui quidem alicuius momenti fuerit, quem notum non haberet, totumque ita excussisset, ut pro re 35 nata suam de eo sententiam apud amicos docte pariter ac copiose proferre non posset. Hic ante quattuordecim plus minus annos, cum libellum, quem contra patrii nominis infamatores edideram, legisset et probasset, antea sibi penitus ignotum ita complecti coepit, ut deinceps non aliter de me sollicitus esset, quam si propiori aliquo naturae vinculo ipsi coniunctissimus fuisset. Nullum officii

5 genus est, quo mihi commodare potuit, quod inexpertum reliquerit. Nam et studia mea qua consulendo saepissime, qua docendo non raro adiuvit; et fortunas meas aliquando tenues non ipse modo sponte sua liberalitate sub-
10 levavit, sed et ab aliis ut sublevarentur sua apud magnos viros auctoritate, nunquam a me ne minimo quidem verbo sollicitatus, effecit. Ille denique fuit, qui benignissimum dominum ac patronum . . . Cantuariensem archiepiscopum (in tanto dignitatis fastigio meritis quam loco 15 longe celsiorem) primus mihi conciliavit; ut omnia prope ipsi debeam, tanquam fortunae meae fabro et architecto praecipuo, quaecumque mihi felicia postea contigerunt. Sed ut ad studia redeam, assiduus hic mihi ἐργοδιώκτης erat, et temporis acti severus exactor, pensis etiam inter-
20 dum impositis, quae pro ratione sive virium mearum, sive otii et temporis, maxime congrua iudicaret. Paucos ante mortem annos totus in eo fuerat, ut graecorum veteris ecclesiae scriptorum quaedam ἀνέκδοτα, magno aere non ita pridem e diversis Europae Asiaeque locis comparata
25 et huc allata, quam emendatissima cum latina interpretatione in lucem emitteret. Me quoque (magis id quidem amori erga me suo indulgens, quam umeris meis confisus) ad partem tam gloriosi propositi vocarat, mandata mihi veteris graeci codicis, qui commentationes in partem Psal-
30 morum Chrysostomo vulgo adscriptas continet, interpretatione. Quae quidem eo facilius a me suscepta quod dies ad perficiendum data, nec alia condicione imposita quam si per alias occasiones liceret. Alia quippe erant plura, seu maioris ea momenti, seu quod acceptiora futura essent, 35 praelo designata, priusquam harum usus esset. Neque iam quicquam restabat, quam ut typographus primo quoque tempore ad opus accingeretur, cum supremum diem obiit praesul illustrissimus. Sed Deo laus, quod ille [Laud] superstes, diuque sit superstes oro, quo vivente nunquam patrono cariturae sunt in Anglia meliores litterae; cuius potissimum auspiciis et prudentissima administratione, ut eo perductum negotium illud, quo perductum 5 diximus cum praesul illustrissimus obiit, omnes hic agnoscimus; ita et in cura providentiaque eius, nulli non pari negotio omniumque hactenus difficultatum feliciter victrici, spes nobis non exigua, tot conatus et labores ob intempestivam praecipui instrumenti iacturam incassum 10 non futuros.' Many notices of Lindsell, and some of his letters, are in the state paper office (see the Calendar 1628-34)

P.154 l.5. See accounts of Meric Casaubon in Acta eruditorum latina, Wood, Nicéron, Senebier's Hist. litt. de 15 Genève, Biogr. Brit., the Gen. Dict. of Birch and Bernard, Chalmers; letters to him in Grotii epistolae, n. 630, 669, 941, 1139, 1243, 1332; his letter to Grotius in Epistolae celeberrimorum virorum . . . ex scriniis litterariis Jani Brantii. Amst. 1715, 8vo., p.146; letters to him from his 20 father ibid. p. 288, and in Casauboni epistolae n. 648: notices of verses of his ibid. pp. 549a, 553a; 22 letters to him from G. J. Vossius in Vossii Epistolae, Lond. 1690, and 3 from him to Vossius ibid. among Clarorum virorum ad G. J. V. epistolae, where he says (p.129b) that the 25 bookseller made a good profit on his Antoninus, every copy having been sold in a few months. His letters and prefaces are printed at the end of his father's, ed. Almeloveen; in one to J. F. Gronovius 20 Apr. 1660, he complains bitterly of the conduct of his only remaining son 30 John, the same to whom he inscribes his De verborum usu. Some letters passed between him and Evelyn (Diary etc. II 246 sq., 251, 285, 4to. ed., or III 220-5, 246, ed. 1854). Wm. Laud to G. J. Vossius, 3 Jul. 1632 (Works VI 299): 'Casaubonus a morte reverendissimi Wintoniensis 35 [L. Andrewes] in meam clientelam transiit. Ego patris nomine et suo quae potui feci, ut liber a curis studiis

- indulgeret. . . Alia et maiora facturum sum, quum facultas adsit, et erit opportunum.' Laud gave him the vicarage of Minster 4 Oct. 1635, and that of Monkton 25 Oct. 1635. He was ejected, but his wife was allowed fifths for Minster
- 5 (MS. Baker XXVII 425, Walker's Sufferings 8); on the restoration he resumed possession of both livings (Calamy, Continuation, 548, 555-6; Jo. Lewis, Thanet, 37, 41, 66-9). Christ. Arnold to Geo. Richter, Lond. 'a. d. 7' Aug. 1651 (Richter Redivivus p. 485): 'Mericus Casaubonus, in rure amoeno et suburbano degens, per litteras mecum sermones miscet.' P. Du Moulin dedicates to him, as to a neighbour, book II of his Poemata (Cambr. 1670); in bk. III p. 11 seq. ('schola morbi'), he speaks of Casaubon's great sufferings. His book on enthusiasm was
- 10 translated by J. A. Fabricius: 'De enthusiasmo precatatorio ex anglico latine versus,' at the end of Jo. Frid. Mayer's book De pietatis ecclesiae veteris, Hamb. 1696. 4to. Gottfr. W. Leibnitz commends Casaubon's tract against the new philosophy in a letter to Huet, Hannover 1679 (Uhlii
- 20 Sylloge nova epist. I 655): 'admonendi sunt homines exemplo egregii operis tui, religionis interesse, ut vera eruditio conservetur; idque praeclare monuit vir doctissimus, Mericus Casaubonus, . . . scriptis non ita dudum sermone anglico libellis eruditus, in quibus non sine caussa male
- 25 ominatur pietati, si naturae tantum indagandae dediti, antiquitatis studium et bonas litteras neglegamus.' In his Comment. de quatuor linguis, Lond. 1650, as in several others of his works, Casaubon gives many particulars of his life (pp. 127-132, coming of the family into England;
- 30 his first acquaintance with anglo-saxon MSS.; 140-144, he induces Wm. Somner to study the language; great progress which he has made). In the pref. to Somner's Canterbury and especially in that to his Dictionary (§§ 1, 5, 18) Casaubon's encouragement is duly acknowledged; cf.
- 35 Worthington's Diary 1 62. See further Prynne's Canterb. Doome 79.

P. 154 l. 6. Hacketianis. The life of John Hacket by

Thos. Plume was reprinted, with some additions, by M. E. C. Walcott in 1865.

P.155 l.20. Armachano. Jas. Ussher.

P.156 l.6. in bibliotheca Leicestrensi cod. MS. N. T.
This MS. (known to critics as Act. 31, Paul. 37, Apoc. 14) 5 is described in F. H. Scrivener's Plain introduction to the criticism of the gr. T. Cambridge, Deighton and Bell, 1861, pp.151-2; a collation is given in the app. to Scrivener's ed. of the cod. Augiensis.

P.157 l.9. gave me a leaf. Uffenbach forgot the 10 design on his own book-plate; a mouse nibbling a book, denoting those (commerc. epist. Uffenb. II 279), 'qui libellos, immo pretiosissima saepe opera, mutuo ipsis benevole data, male habent ac corrupta reddunt, vel plane retinent.' 15

P.157 l.11. Bedwelli. See pp.438-444. Bedwell was enrolled among benefactors for presenting his arabic lexicon, 27 Oct. 1640 (Grace Book Z in the registry p.398).

P.157 l.29. Erpenii. Thomas van Erpe, born at Gorinchem 3 or 11 Sept. 1584, was encouraged by Scaliger 20 to study the oriental languages, for which purpose he visited the libraries of London, Oxford, Cambridge, Paris, Milan, Heidelberg, Venice etc.; appointed extraordinary professor of oriental languages (except hebrew) at Leyden 9 Febr. 1612-3, though Andrewes used great efforts to 25 induce him to settle in England. Among his pupils were Sixtinus Amama, Adolf Vorstius and Jac. Golius. He set up an arabic press, and had the letters cast at his own cost; after his death it passed into the hands of Is. Elsevier. He died 13 Nov. 1624, and was commemorated in a 30 funeral oration by his friend G. J. Vossius (Opera IV 84-91; see many authorities in A. J. van der Aa, Biogr. Woordenb. der Nederlanden, Haarl. 1859, IV 210-3). James Ussher to Sam. Ward, Lond. 16 June 1626 (Parr's Ussher's Letters n.98, p.342): 'I have dealt with your chancellor 35 very effectually for the erecting of your library, to which he is of himself exceeding forward: I have procured him

- to send unto Leyden for all the printed hebrew books of Erpenius his library; which, together with his manuscripts which he hath already, he purposeth to bestow upon your university. I have also persuaded him to send
- 5 thither for the matrices of the syriack, arabick, aethiopick, and samaritan letters, and to bestow them likewise upon you.' Same to same, London, 23 June 1626 (ibid. n.99, p.343): 'Since I wrote unto you last, I have received intelligence from Leyden, that all Erpenius's printed books
- 10 are already sold; and his matrices of the oriental tongues are bought by Elzevir the printer there; so that you now must content yourselves with his manuscripts only, which are a very rare treasure indeed, and for which your university shall rest much beholden unto your chancellor.'
- 15 Ward to Ussher, Sidney coll. 27 June 1626 (ibid. n.100, p.344): 'I received your lordship's last letter of the 23rd of this month, and do perceive thereby that Erpenius's printed books and his matrices of the oriental tongues are already sold.' Jo. Ball's Life of Dr. Jo. Preston (in Sam.
- 20 Clarke's Lives of 32 English divines, 1677, p.108): 'His next retreat was to Lincoln's Inn; for now he said, the duke was chancellor, and would endeavour to ingratiate himself and be a benefactor, and had brought [? bought] Erpenius's manuscripts, and did verily intend to found a
- 25 library; and so it would be easie, and in his power, to out him of the colledge and university.' Jos. Mead to Sir Martin Stuteville 24 Mar. 1626-7 (Birch's Court and times of Charles I., I 208, Heywood and Wright, Cambr. univ. transactions II 352, MS. Baker XXXII 388): 'We
- 30 talk here of a magnificent library which our great chancellor will build, and bestow no less toward it than £7000 presently. All the houses between Caius college and St. Mary's must be pulied down to make room. I wish he might never do worse deed; but I doubt, I doubt.' See
- 35 the certificate delivered to the duke at Wallingford house 29 Jan. 1627-8 respecting the houses and ground between Caius college and the Regent walk, where he proposed to build the library (Heywood and Wright, ibid. 359-361). John Cosin offered the university £500 on 2 Febr. 1668-9 towards resuming the contemplated building (MS. Baker xxx 454). Sir Hen. Wotton, Life and death of George Villiers (Harl. Misc. ed. Park, VIII 619; Reliquiae Wottonianae, 1685, p. 223 = p. 16 of the original ed., Lond. 1642, 4to.): 'Here it were injurious to overslip a noble act in the duke, during the employment [when he went to the Hague to pawn the crown jewels 1625]; which I must, for my part, celebrate above all his expenses: 10 there was a collection of certain rare manuscripts, exquisitely written in arabick, and sought in the most remote parts by the diligence of Erpenius, the most exquisite linguist; these had been left to the widow of the said Erpenius, and were upon sale to the Jesuits at Antwerp; 15 liquorish chapmen of such ware. Whereof the duke getting knowledge, by his worthy and learned secretary, Dr. Mason, interverted the bargain, and gave the poor widow for them £500; a sum above their weight in silver, and a mixed act, both of bounty and charity, the more laudable, 20 being out of his natural element. These were they, which after his death were as nobly presented, as they had been bought, to the university of Cambridge by the duchess dowager, as soon as she understood (by the aforesaid Dr. Mason) her husband's intention; who had a purpose like- 25 wise, as I am well instructed, to raise in the said university, whereof he was chancellor, a fair case for such monuments, and to furnish it with other choice collections from all parts of his own charge; perchance in some emulation of that famous treasury of knowledge at Oxford, 30 without parallel in the Christian world.' Cf. Hor. Walpole's Works, Lond. 1798, 4to. I 241. MS. Baker XXXIII 213, 214: 13 June 1632, Latin letter from the university to the duchess of Buckingham; thanks for the gift of oriental MSS. and condolences on her husband's murder. Ibid. 35 214-5, no doubt sent with the above. English petition from same to same, for the library of Erpenius. Ibid.

215, the duchess in reply. The MSS. are not yet in her hand. Ibid. XLI 247 v<sup>o</sup> is a latin speech to the senate on its receiving the library. Mr. Bradshaw in Cambr. univ. gazette, n. 13, 3 Mar. 1869, p. 101: 'To this day the people
5 of Leyden cannot understand how the transaction was managed; they say that a large instalment of the purchase money had been paid by the corporation, but yet that by some means the manuscripts were never delivered, and that they have reason to believe that some of them are 10 at Cambridge, and some perhaps elsewhere in England. True it is that they are all here, and we know whose liberality we have to thank for them; indeed, among them are some of the most valuable books which the university now possesses.'

15 P. 159 n. *. Tom. I. p. 120.

P. 159 l. 26. Edm. Castelli notae. These are now being examined by Mr. R. L. Bensly for Prof. Payne Smith's lexicon. Edmund, a younger son of Rob. Castell esq. of East Hatley, Cambs., was born there, matriculated as a 20 pensioner of Emm. 5 July 1621, B.A. 1624-5, M.A. 1628, B.D. 1635, D.D. by mandate 1660 (Wood's Fasti II 83; note on Pocock's Life, ed. 1816, p. 213; see the long list of eminent men who had the same honour on the same day
5 Sept. 1660 in Kennett's Reg. and Chron. 251). He gave 25 £20 to Emm. chapel (MS. Baker VI f. 87 v<sup>o</sup> = B 95; Blomefield's Collectan. Cantabrig. 118, Cooper, Memorials of Cambridge II 363). He was admitted fell. comm. of St. John's 27 Oct. 1671, the master acting as his tutor and surety. He held the livings of Hatfield Beverell or 30 Peverell, to which a successor was appointed on his resignation 16 Apr. 1638; of Wodeham Walter, to which a successor was appointed on his resignation 15 Nov. 1670; and lastly of Higham Gobeon, to which he was appointed by Geo. visc. Grandison. (Kennett in Wood-Bliss, Ath. Ox.
35 III 883, who gives extracts from the bishop's registers; Newcourt II 318, 685; Nichols, Liter. Anecd. IV 693, where he occurs rector of Wodeham Walter 1 Mar. 1658-9;

installed into the 9th prebend of Canterbury, 13 Nov. 1667, the stall which Is. Casaubon had held (Le Neve-Hardy 156). Pocock's Life 214 n.: 'Together with the prebend, the king gave him a dispensation of absence in order to attend his arabic lecture at Cambridge, where he became the first settled arabic lecturer, by an instrument under the hand of Sir Tho. Adams the founder, dated June 20, 1666, after a 13 years' vacancy of that lecture, which during Mr. Wheelocke's life had been voluntary only. His lectures were heard at first with great applause, but in a few years were so much neglected, that being then easy, and disposed to be pleasant, he put up this affix upon the school-gates: Arabicae linguae professor cras ibit in desertum.' See a paper signed by the heads of colleges, 9 May 1636, in which they thank Tho. Adams for his design of founding the professorship in perpetuity (Todd's Life of Brian Walton I 236-7). Grace in MS. Baker XXV 248: '17 Apr. 1667. Cum rev. vir Dr. Castle, linguae arabicae apud vos professor, lexico orientali edendo incumbens, Londini diutius manere necesse habeat, quo minus praelectiones suas obire possit: Placeat vobis, ut illud praelegendi munus bona vestra cum venia pro hoc termino omittatur.' Bulstrode Whitlock has preserved an order made at the grand committee for religion, 16 Jan. 1656-7, which produced no lasting result, owing to the dissolution of the parliament (Memorials, p. 654, ed. 1732): 'Ordered, that it be referred to a sub-committee to send for and advise with Dr. Walton, . . . Mr. Castell, Mr. Clarke, . . . Dr. Cudworth, and such others as they shall think fit, and to consider of the translations and impressions of the Bible, and to offer their opinions therein to this committee; and that it be especially commended to the lord commissioner Whitlock to take care of this business. This committee often met at my house, and had the most learned men in the oriental tongues to consult with in this great business, and divers excellent and learned observations of some mistakes in the translation of the Bible in english; which yet was agreed to be the best of any translation in the world.' Leonard Twells to Zach. Grey 26 Nov. 1734 (Nichols, Lit. Anecd. I 466), asking for help in his life of Edw. Pocock: 'I shall be under a 5 necessity of mentioning Mr. Whelock, Dr. Castell, and Mr. Thorndike.' Life of Pocock, Lond. 1816, pp.212-4: 'The first discouragement they [the editors of the Polyglott] met with, was the death of Mr. Abraham Wheelocke [Sept. 1653], the professor of the arabic and saxon tongues in 10 the university of Cambridge, which happened just before the first tome was committed to the press; so that they had not the least use of him in that work; his province was, jointly with Mr. Castell, to correct the syriac and arabic at the press, but his room was filled by Mr. Hyde.'

15 P. 220: 'On the 12th of May 1658 Dr. Walton sent Mr. Pocock the remaining parts of the Polyglott Bible, which he had not before presented him withal, as also those manuscripts and books which he had lent them, except the Aethiopic Psalter, which Mr. Castell desired either to 20 buy or borrow.' Pp. 224-5: 'grafts' on the Polyglott, viz. a 7th volume, and 'a lexicon to the oriental languages of the Polyglott edition, known by the name of the Hep-taglott lexicon, carried on chiefly by the very learned and indefatigable Dr. Castell, and published by him several 25 years after. In both these learned designs Mr. Pocock's assistance was desired, and readily granted.' Ibid. 279-280: 'This year [1669] was farther remarkable for the publication of Dr. Castell's lexicon in seven languages, after ten years' immense labour: towards which Dr. Pocock
30 had contributed, by lending three aethiopic mss. and ten aethiopic ms. liturgies. We shall hear him hereafter complaining how ill rewarded all his learned pains were, which he had expended on this lexicon. I shall only add that at the time of his death he had a large number of the 35 copies on his hands; as appears from this circumstance, that in his last will he bequeathed 100 sets of them to Dr. Compton, then lord bishop of London.' Pp.287-8:

'From two of Mr. Bernard's letters this year [1671], I find the professor was much urged by his friends to publish his chiliads of arabic proverbs, which had lain by him finished for the press between 30 and 40 years; the encouragement he had to proceed in it seemed at this time not inconsiderable. Dr. Castell had promised to secure a hundred books for Cambridge, and a still greater proportion might be depended on in Oxford.' Pp.290-2: 'By several letters written from Dr. Castell, in March of the next year [1672-3], I find that our professor intended then an edition of his arabic chiliads of proverbs, and that in order thereto he printed and dispersed a specimen of the work. Dr. Castell earnestly pressed the perfecting of that piece, and, to encourage it, frequently repeated his promise of becoming responsible for 100 copies. From one of his letters it appears also, that Dr. Pocock was then thought to be preparing something of the Rabbi Tanchum and Maimonides's More Nebochim for the public . . . But of all these Dr. Castell urged most the publication of the arabic chiliads, as most grateful to all the truly learned, offering to leave no stone unturned to effect the vending of the edition: "Not," adds he, "of the proverbs only, but as to the other Jewish authors also, having a very high esteem and value for them, especially Rabbi Tanchum," offering at the same time himself carefully to correct the errata. The same learned arabic professor of Cambridge was at this time labouring to purchase the Golian library for his university; a private person of his acquaintance being willing to venture about £700 for it. But the executors hoping to make a more advantageous sale, refused the offer, of which they dearly repented afterward, being compelled more than 20 years after to sell them by auction, and probably to less advantage; at which time Dr. Edward Bernard made a journey into Holland, and bought the choicest of them for Dr. Narcissus Marsh, then archbishop of Dublin.' P.309: 'In July of this year [1675] our author received from Dr. Castell his thanks and compliments for the present of our english liturgy, most elegantly transfused, as he expresses himself, into arabic. The reader will pardon me for observing on this occasion, that this very learned gentleman, by con-

5 versing almost constantly with the eastern writers, seems to have made their lofty ways of expression habitual to him, so as not to have been able to forbear them, even in his epistolary style.' John Whiston in Nichols, Liter. Anecd. I 506: 'Dr. Castell's library was purchased by

10 Mr. Hollings of Shrewsbury; whose grandson, counsellor Hollings, sold most of it to me.' Nichols ibid. IV 28-9: 'I have the original receipt of Dr. Wm. Saywell, vice-chancellor of the university of Cambridge, dated April 7, 1686, for 38 MSS. in hebrew, arabic, ethiopic, coptic, to

15 each of which the effigies of Dr. Castell was affixed, or his name inscribed: all which were given to the university by the doctor's last will; with an undertaking from the vice-chancellor to Mrs. Mary Crisp, sole executrix, to redeliver the same, in case the university should not think fit to

20 give such security as would indemnify her against debts which the personal estate might not be sufficient to satisfy; —a similar receipt from Dr. John Balderston, master of Emmanuel college, for 111 printed hebrew books;—another from Dr. Humphrey Gower, master of St. John's

25 college, for a silver tankard, weighing 26 ounces, value 7*l.*; —and an express bond to the same purpose from Dr. Henry Compton, bishop of London, for 20*l.* the sum appraised by Robert Scott and Robert Littlebury, as the value of "all Dr. Castell's Bibles, and other oriental parts of

30 holy Scripture, (30 folio volumes, amongst which was the Polyglott Bible, the interlineary Bible of Arias Montanus, those of Buxtorf, David Wolder, Castalio, Vatablus, Luther's dutch Bible, the Antwerp latin Bible 1542, spanish, italian and french Bibles, Munster Bible, Tindal's english

35 translation, Wheelock's persian Gospels, Beza's New Testament 1582, etc. etc.—8 quartos, hungarian and polonian Bibles, Marshall's greek and saxon Gospels, saxon Psalter, the roman Psalter in arabic, Ulfilas's Gospels, an old latin Bible in MS., an arabic MS. etc.—and 14 octavos, a turkish and an ethiopic New Testament, ethiopic, russian, armenian, and nubian Psalters, Erpenius's Pentateuch, with the Prophets, in MS.; the Catholic Epistle of St. John, an arabic MS. etc. etc.) and 66l. 6s. 8d. more, as the value of “100 copies of his Heptaglott Lexicon,” all which were bequeathed to the bishop by Dr. Castell's will.—March 6, 1685-6, valued and appraised what books are given to my lord of London (including 100 Lexicons compleat, 2 vols.) at 242l. 10s. Per me, EDWARD MILLINGTON.” Richard Ecclestone, by the order of the bishop of London, signed a receipt “for 100 perfect copies of the Lexicon; and for Bibles and other oriental parts of holy Scripture, in number 52.” The rest of his books were sold by auction at the Eagle and Child, opposite St. Benet's, Cambridge, 30 June 1686, by Edw. Millington (a copy of the catalogue, with prices marked in some cases, is in the library of St. John's). 23 of his letters to Sam. Clarke were sold among Dawson Turner's MSS. art. 102. Some are transcribed in MS. Baker XXXVI from Hearne's collection. E. Castell to Sam. Clarke, 2 Dec. 1658 (p. 353): requests a final answer whether he will, with Huish, join in the lexicon. Bedwell's MS. received some time since [by a grace, 25 June 1658, Bedwell's lexicon had been lent to Castell on a bond for £1000, Grace Book H p. 179; on 1 Mar. 1658-9 he gives a bond of £2000 to secure Clarke, Nichols, Lit. Anecd. IV 693], ‘Resolve we now must instantly either to go on with it, or wholly to cast it off.’—No date (pp. 349, 350). Petition of Edm. Castell, Al. Huish and Sam. Clarke to the lord protector, desiring the same protection for their projected lexicon, as the promoters of the Polyglott and Critici sacri have enjoyed [communicated by Baker to Twells, and by him printed in Edw. Pocock's Life, Lond. 1816, pp. 209, 210].—Castell to Clarke, 2 Mar. 1659-60 (p. 350): Roycroft will shortly send for Clarke's nephew. Recommends ‘Mr. Holder's son, a Charterhouse schollar, . . . invincibly ad-

- dicted to a studious life, for a sizarship.'—Same to same, 20 Jan. 1662-3 (p. 348): Hopes shortly to get up into his working room again, having been for nearly two months kept to his bed by the luxation of his thigh. Has in his
- 5 will made over the materials of his lexicon to Clarke, who had offered to complete it. Has been unable to procure for Pocock a good account of the late grand seignior's death. Desires 3 or 4 copies of Abulpharagius in quires.—Same to same, 17 July 1667 (pp. 347-8): Mr. Denham sends a
- 10 MS. and letter for Dr. Pocock. Dr. Busby desires Clarke's and Pocock's emendation of hebrew, chaldee, arabic etc. papers.—Same to same, 23 Dec. 1669 (p. 349): Bp. John Fell of Oxford promised to write to the v. c. that every college at least may 'take off one of my lexicons. Hard
- 15 usage after above £12,000 expens, upon such a work, and so many disasters I have encountred in it, my copies should now all ly upon my hands.' Dr. Heilin never a subscriber. Cannot sell first parts of the Heptaglot without the second.—Same to same, 1673 (Nichols, Liter.
- 20 Anecd. IV 694-5), returning Pocock's three aethiopic MSS. —Same to same, St. John's college, June 1673 (ibid. 695): has received Jo. Milner's Coniectanea, 'truly a most excellent essay . . . Mr. Milner honours me too much in mentioning my contemned name in his learned and ela-
- 25 borat work . . . The number (you may believe me) is very small here in the university, that at all regard this kind of literature; I feel it to my cost, if God be not better to me than man, to my utter ruine and of my family. . . . If he [Rob. Hitch, dean of York] could help me off with
- 30 any more of my copies (of which I have at least a thousand still) it would be a very unparallel'd favour, for now I find none that regard the work or author, of those that once fed me with better promises.' Towards the end of his life his fortunes mended as he purchased a small estate
- 35 at Hexton, Herts, 19 Dec. 1684, for £300 (Nichols, Liter. Anecd. IV 695-6). Brian Walton to Jo. Lightfoot, 2 Jan. 1653-4 (Lightfoot's Works, ed. Pitman XIII 348 from MS.

Lansd. 1055): 'The samaritan copy which we follow is that of the Paris Bible; and though we have divers MSS. of the samaritan text which are made use of, yet I cannot yet light on any other samaritan version. I believe you may find instances in them which may be liable to question, 5 and so does Mr. Castell in his copies; but our resolution is to vary as little as may be from the printed copies, unless in palpable typographical errors (of which there are great store in all the language of the Paris Bibles); and as for other things, to take notice of them, and to 10 give account once for all . . . . Mr. Castell hath gone over most of Genesis already. Same to same, 23 Febr. 1653-4 (ibid. 349): 'Mr. Castell presents his best respects to you.'—Same to same, 24 Apr. 1654 (ibid. 350-1): 'I thought fit to send you another alphabet of the Bible, which you 15 shall however review, and withal<sup>e</sup> to desire that you would send up, as soon as you can, the book of Numbers, with your notes thereupon, or as far as you have gone, because Mr. Castell will shortly read it; for the workmen will this week be out of Exodus, and Leviticus will hardly hold 20 them a month. And Mr. Castell would gladly have yours returned some time before they begin in Numbers. They print near seven sheets a week. . . I have advised with Mr. Castell and others about your manner of translating... Gen. 1 2 . . . Mr. Castell remembers his service to you.'— 25 Same to same, 14 June 1654 (ibid. 351): 'humble and hearty thanks from Mr. Castell and myself.'—Same to same, 24 Jan. 1654-5 (ibid. 353): 'Mr. Castell told me of your intention to draw up something about the samaritan version, to be published with the rest; which I am glad 30 you have taken into your thoughts.'—Same to same, 23 Oct. 1655 (ibid. 356): 'We are now entered upon the prophets, and should be glad if you would accommodate us with the syriac copy of the prophets in the public library, for which Mr. Castell will join with me in what 35 sum you shall appoint.' On the 7th Nov. 1655 (ibid. 357) Walton acknowledges the receipt of this MS.—Same to same, 4 Nov. 1657 (ibid. 363): 'Mr. Castell and Mr. Clarke remember their service to you.'—Edm. Castell to Lightfoot, Dunsmore house, 2 Dec. 1657 (ibid. 387-8), sending a specimen of his lexicon: 'Without your cognizance and 5 approbation in a work of this nature I would not willingly engage. For above the moiety of those years I have lived to, I must confess, I have at times been meditating and doing somewhat in tendency to such a work. Providence has now, with the assistance of so able and excellent a 10 coadjutor as Mr. Clarke, singularly and indeed eminently experienced in the same studies, made some overture for the production of what we have both for not a few years been in travail with, but, sir, not without your obstetricant hand, which we therefore submit to your arbitrement, ac-

15 cording as you shall think fit, either to stifle or give it life. If you shall choose the latter, our earnest and joint suit to you then is, you will do us the favour to signify what you find corrigible or changeable in the whole platform.'—Same to same, no date, but evidently next in 20 order (ibid. 368-371): 'Your approbation only of what we presumed to communicate to you, was the highest pitch our ambition durst aspire unto; but, sir, you have given both us and it your applause;—a sufficient salve against all the fastenings and morsures of those Theonine teeth we
25 must expect:—and this you have done with such ample abounding encomiums, as not to acknowledge your singular respect and favour to us in them, would be the worst of ingratitude; so to believe any such merit in ourselves, would be as inexcusable and unpardonable arrogance . . .
30 We have, most worthy sir, since my last to you, by some great masters of words and languages, been induced to make some alteration in our first intendments, having persuaded us to take into ours all the arabic words in Golius's lexicon; without which (they conceived) it would 35 not be perfectly useful for that tongue, amongst all the oriental the most copious and principal, and for assoiling the difficulties in the hebrew, confessedly, by the grandest rabbies, of most avail. The doing this arising to a very great augmentation of sheets, far above what we proposed or promised, forced thereupon we were to enhance the price from forty to fifty shillings, but at two several payments, as in the enclosed paper you will find; which to 5 as many as we have yet imparted it, gives a very good resentment: we trust it will likewise do so to you; else for my part, I shall really wish not done our change.

 But if what you read please, suffer us then, I beseech you, to request this favour at your hands, that both in your 10 college, to the fellows and students there, so far as you shall judge it convenient, and elsewhere, within the line of your interest, not of small extent (as, by the means and letter of Dr. Reynolds, Mr. vice-chancellor of Oxford hath done it in that university), you will be pleased to honour 15 and encourage our labours, and alleviate by subscriptions that great and vast charge we must necessarily undergo, in promoving what in you lieth, both among the learned nation, and the favourers of it, this engaged work of ours, by your favourable recommendation of it,—no otherwise 20 than as your own judgement shall suggest to you the usefulness of it is like to prove, not for the biblical versions only, but for all other authors in any of the seven languages, in which many hundreds (I may say more, some thousands) of words, never yet extant in any printed 25 lexicon, will be found, many with reference both to the authors and places in them. It is not indeed for a letter, but a large preface, to lay this forth duly in all the particulars of it.'—Same to same, no date (ibid. 370-1), asking advice respecting 'sundry other pieces homogeneous to 30 this biblical work . . . by several hands recommended to us' to employ the presses used about the Bible.—Sam.
Clarke to same, Dunsmore house 18 June 1658 (ibid. 401-2): hopes that his promotion (to the offices of superior beadle of law and architypographus at Oxford) may not hinder 35 the work which he has undertaken with Castell, who
 'Bedwelli lexicæ vestigia premit.'—Same to same, Merton

- coll. 3 Nov. 1659 (ibid. 403-4): Dr. [Brian] Walton approves my proposal of editing the Targum on Chronicles [cf. ibid. 476-7], but does not think subscriptions will aid the sale, 'prout id D. Castellus in suo lexico edendo expertus est, qui tamen imperterritus pergit, ac illud ad finem perducere proposuit, quamvis omnia sua in eo excudendo consumere cogeretur.' I give you an account of my engagements, 'ut liqueat me a D. Castello non secessisse, ut proposito nostro remoram obicerem, sed ea
- 5 secessione] opus felicius procedere, quam eo tempore cum coniunctis operis eam promovebamus.' Kennett, Reg. and Chron. 493, from MS. minutes, 10 July 1661: 'in inferiori domo convocat. Post preces finitas lecta est petitio Doctoris Castell, et subscriptio facta per nonnullos.' Castell
- 15 to Lightfoot, 22 Febr. 1663-4 (Lightfoot as above, 366-7): 'Reverend and ever honoured sir, I this day received by your nephew your very kind letter, full stored with encouraging expressions to a much-dejected spirit; together with 4*l.* for one copy of the Heptaglot Lexicon, and 2*s.* for
- 20 the stitching it up. Truly, sir, I am even heartily ashamed I did not prevent you with the free tender of it, which was really in my thoughts to have done, had I not been traversed with so many sad disasters. Two partners I had at the first, to share with me in the charge and labour
- 25 of that I am yet upon, who were both taken off by other offers. After them the printer for some years was joined with me, who knew divers ways how to lessen the expense. But at length, seeing no hopes at all of any gain, he likewise, after no small trouble and loss of time, renounced
- 30 his partnership. Another able person, that fully promised me his assistance in the same way, was discapacitated by an extraordinary loss that befel him. Thus destitute and forsaken I am by all; though called to this unhappy destructive undertaking by letters and promises from the
- 35 very highest persons both in church and commonwealth; to what little effect I am afraid to write. May I only add this without offence? a debt of near 1000*l.* I have already contracted, upon the account of this work; for which also I have now lately sold an estate in land, to the value of above 100*l.* per annum, which will be all, and more than that comes to, exhausted by this consumptive undertaking. Sir, it was this insupportable burden, under which I yet 5 sadly groan, that pressed down my willing hand, ready to have reached forth itself in an humble proffer to you, whose worth and works, so transcendant to the vulgar way of writing, all the learned world doth and ought highly to esteem; and in this work now upon me, I have 10 and shall (as does become me) sundry times with honour mentioned, by whom and which, I must confess, I have profited not a little. And if it shall please God to prolong my days, any time after this sore labour finished, it will be, next to heaven, a very grand happiness to me here, 15 the voisinage of your Munden to my Higham, whereby we may have the intercourse of some good society. Sir, I crave your acceptance of a small present put up in your bundle, an ethiopic lexicon, confession, and corollary to their liturgy, which I was at the charge to print, being sent 20 me by the author; which, with my humble service to you, and hearty prayers for your continued and encreased welfare and prosperity, that you may live long to build and bless the church of God with your excellent and most learned labours, shall conclude me alway, sir, your very 25 real and redevable servant, EDMUND CASTELL. I am now upon my remove to Sion college, where I hope to be fully settled within a week or two.—Same to same, 14 Mar. 1663-4 (ibid. 367-8): ‘Reverend and ever right dearly honoured sir, Your most affectionate and friendly 30 letter I could not read, without a sympathy suitable to what I there found, eyes impregnant with tears; that in these three kingdoms there should be one found (* * for such a second has never yet appeared to me) who has manifested such a sentiment of my ruined and undone 35 condition. I must only except my honourable and most singular good lord the bishop of Exon [Seth Ward], who

(considering the smallness of his diocese) has done very strange and incredible things in procuring me about four-score subscribers, since the printing of the last papers, which is above threescore more than all the three kingdoms besides have done. Sir, I doubly thank you for obtaining me Sir Thomas Brograve's subscription, the great eminency and voisinage of so noble a person to your Munden and my Higham, signified by your letter, besides the benefit that accrues by the addition of his noble and worthy name. Would there come in but a sufficient number of subscribers, after the exhausture of above 100*l.* lands per annum, sold to carry on this work, to pay my debts, and perfectly to accomplish the same, it would be a great joy and satisfaction to me. Sir, I have sent the volume according to your direction, craving the continuance of your prayers (wherein to my power I reciprocate), I take my leave in the quality of, sir, your very redevable and really devoted servant, E. CASTELL.'—Same to same, Sion college, 16 Aug. 1664 (ibid. 371-3): 'That real sympathy I read in your so favourable and most affectionate lines, and that free and noble bounty I experience in your munificent and generous actions, is no small encouragement to me in my deserted and despised condition; only because this luxuriant age is, and will be, ignorant of this necessary part of theological knowledge. Yet, had I not been called by the highest powers, with promise of assistance and support, to this ruining and destructive undertaking, there had been less cause of my expecting any thing from them: but instead of being aided by them, to be exprobrated with a scornful cui bono?—as if all my twelve years' hard labour was but for the wind,—this is the very worst and bitterest pill to swallow, they could have given me. But the truth is, one Dr. Lightfoot is more to me than ten thousand such censors. Besides some few others amongst ourselves, I have a Golius, a Buxtorf, a Hottinger, a Ludolfo, etc. in foreign parts; that, both by their letters and in print, have not only sufficiently, but too amply and abundantly for me to communicate, expressed their over-high esteem of that, which finds but a prophet's reward here in its own country. Reverend and most noble sir, you have laid an unutterable obligation upon me by the gift of this learned and much longed- 5 for work you have now published; and very highly honoured me, and enriched my poor library with an addition so excellent and delightful—that truly, when I first received it, I could not contain myself from reading it quite through, notwithstanding the importunacy of my 10 public engagement, and the clamour of all the workmen, correctors, compositors, pressmen, etc. to all whom I turned a deaf ear, till I had satisfied my eye with the entire perusal of it. This one thing alone troubles me—I have nothing as yet to retaliate; but, sir, you shall find 15 I will not bury your favour and bounty in the sand. All your extant works I keep continually obversant before my eyes, which will not suffer me to be forgetful of the author. Renowned sir, I made bold to beautify and embellish this worthless contemned work I am upon, with the oriental 20 lustre of your eminent and deservedly most famigerous name: for which presumption I intended to crave your pardon, and behold! I am prevented, not with your absolution only, but with a grateful acceptance. Sir, I will never be ashamed to confess by whom I have profited. 25 All that would understand that clear light, together with the mysterious hidden use and benefit, which the most ancient records of the Jews bring unto holy writ, must confess themselves, above all others, deeply indebted to your elaborate and incomparable writings, who have fetched 30 more out of these profound and rich mines, than any of the best seers in this or the precedent ages, have been able to discover. There is but one, that famous professor at Basil, venerable Dr. Buxtorf, that has done any thing like you, who in almost all his letters to me, fails not 35 to mention your name.'—Same to same, Sion college, 22 Sept. 1664 (ibid. 373-4): 'Since my last to you, and the passage I inserted out of one of professor Buxtorf's letters to me, I had brought me the last week the sad tidings of his sudden death, about the beginning of this instant. Some friends and relations of his have not a little importuned me for a few verses in some one or other of our languages. I had an only brother died just at the same time: my great unmerciful work would neither suffer me to be present at his death or burial; and which is much worse, he has devolved a most immense burden of all his debts and encumbrances, very great and intricate, upon me. Yet if possible, I am willing to do something, though far short of the merit of so eminent and illustrious a person; but I durst make no promise of this, in the least measure. Sir, if your occasions would conveniently permit you to pen some few in hebrew, or latin, or any other language, it would strongly induce me, in some one that you omit, to add likewise a few of my effete muse, which, to a kindly birth, requires always secessum scribentis et otia.'—Same to same, Sion college, 15 Nov. 1664 (ibid. 374-6): 'Next to the divine, I meet with no lines like yours, that so sweetly refresh and delight my soul, when quite wearied with labour and unreleased cares, which very scarcely, from any other, find either pity or resentment. At the mere sight of your letter, before ever I open it, cor mihi rite salit,—when I come within to view it, every word I read seems to me to proceed rather from your breast than from your brain. . . . Only, sir, one thing in all your writings I receive, does really shame me, that you so much extol him whom others everywhere avile, and whose own conscience tells him he is altogether unworthy to bear your books after you. . . . Truly, sir, I am even heartily abashed that my rude abortive verses, who was myself born iratis Musis, should appear within the same leaves with the reverend Dr. Lightfoot's most unparalleled heroical strains; for verily, sir, I speak it in the truth of my heart, I have never yet met with any epicedium in all my life, that hath so pleasingly affected me . . . Sir, though I perish, it comforts me not a little to see how holy writ flourishes.' He then gives a list of armenian, turkish, gothic, lithuanian, and other versions in the press.—Same to same, 13 June 1666 (ibid. 376-7): 'Sir, I thank you for the civilities you shewed me when I was last with you, which I then well hoped would not have been the last; but the contagious dismal condition of the season, and some disastrous accidents which befel me, would not suffer me to enjoy the overtures I then proposed of my most hearty and impetuous desires. I hope, if I outlive this work, to me very destructive—leisure and convenience will both be then more propitious to me. Sir, Mr. Paget, one of your fellows, was with me on Monday last, and signified to me your great favour in accommodating me at your lodgings, when I went down to commence the arabic lecture. I intend upon Saturday next come se'nnight, the 23d instant, to take my journey for it. In regard of the sickness breaking out again in Cambridge, it will double your kindness to me, to have so commodious and secure a place. My purpose is, to go down in the running coach; else I could not have contained myself from a turn to Munden. Young professor Buxtorf, who has been here this fortnight or more, presents his humble service to you. A lodging is procured him not far from Sion college; the next day he came to town, we were told you also was come hither. Oh, how joyfully did we then both go to enquire for you! but, after all enquiries, could find no more of truth, but that your son had been in town very lately. He hath a most passionate desire (as I also have) to see you.' In this letter his wife is mentioned for the first time.—Same to same, Sion college, 22 June 1666 (ibid. 378): 'Sir, I am in a very great dubitation what is fittest for me to do; the measure to steer my cynosure by must be Sir Thomas Adams, what he will desire of me. The interest of the university, after above a twelvemonths' delay in this affair, will indubitably require me to speed without any demur the inchoation of the lecture; unto which as I am of myself very propense, so I find some others also forward to add unto the bent of that resolution, which, until it be late this night, cannot have its plenary determination.’—

- 5 Same to same, Sion college, 20 July 1666 (ibid. 379): ‘That my gratitude hath been so slow paced in its return for so noble a favour as the comfortable and convenient accommodation of your lodgings, let there not, I beseech you, be thereupon created any unkind suspect; just as
- 10 I have been putting pen to paper, I have been sundry times unhappily diverted. Chiefly by this business which occasioned my going to Cambridge, it cannot be imagined how great a trouble it has put me to in running to, and waiting upon so many offices, overburdened with so great
- 15 a work as daily oppresses me. The king’s hand, and Sir Thomas Adams’s seals to all his writings, were obtained and effected (which was in sum the settlement) before my going down. Since, I had only the broad seal to procure; but with how great difficulty and delayed protraction!
- 20 almost whole days lost in little better than fruitless attendances, for it is not yet done. . . . Not a little troubled I was I should be just gone that very morning you came to London: but hackney coaches make stay for none; and had I not taken that day, I could not have begun the
- 25 lecture till Michaelmas, and my journey would have been quite lost; which delay, after so great endeavours, would have been no small dissatisfaction to Sir Thomas Adams, who hath all along so greatly laboured for a more speedy accomplishment of this affair.’—Castell to Lightfoot, from
- 30 Mr. Roycroft’s, a printer, in St. Bartholomew’s close, 8 July 1667 (ibid. 380-2), introducing the younger Buxtorf, ‘come out of a far country to sit at your feet.’ Last week I sent copies of my speech at the opening of the arabic lecture for you and for each of the fellows of the college. You
- 35 will forgive my lodging last time in the town, ‘and not in the college, where you had taken so much care for my good reception. . . . Sir, my humble request now is, that seeing I must (cum bono Deo) be at Cambridge again next term, and intend to have my wife and a servant also there with me (not aged only, and much decayed with this destructive work, very heavily still incumbent on me, but so often limb-battered and bruised and broken as I have 5 been, I dare not adventure myself in the winter time, without some careful help); my wife and servant I would willingly should continue there at Cambridge till about Lady-day, that so the term after (if God give me life and leave) I may again, when I go down thither, have their 10 help; before which time I hope this tedious work will be completely finished. My request is, I may clearly understand whether it may be no ways incommodious to your own occasions, nor incongruous to the rights of the college, to borrow one room only in your lodgings, which can be 15 best spared for so long a time; linen, bed-clothes, and all other necessities, wherever I am, I purpose to send down. . . . Sir, could I be yet once emancipated out of this cruel slavery, under which I have for fifteen years together been a very unknown sufferer, I know no man under heaven 20 whose vicinity would make my life more patiently tolerated (it is for me to speak or dream of comforts here) than to be near one that has in him so much of heaven as you have (heaven the only thing I look and long for), and that I may, whilst here, attest and approve myself with 25 clearest demonstrations, sir, your ever most faithfully avowed servant.'—Same to same, 5 Aug. 1667 (ibid. 382-4): 'Sir, since my last to you, I have encountered with many counter-buffs of infelicities: first, in my great work, which I was promised should be carried on at the press with 30 such diligence and speed, that I well hoped about Michaelmas term it would have been nigh or wholly finished. Now I have been waiting here almost five months, and but one sheet yet printed, who was told before I came up, I should have four or five sheets printed weekly. By 35 this means I shall be forced to make it a full winter work, having now lost all the best part of the year. The blame for which was wholly in the printer, till about a month since, in which time I have run through much trouble and charge, by being bound for my elder and only brother, and for a debt which he paid sundry years before his 5 death, but took not up the defeasance of a judgement he had before acknowledged. I was willing to have paid the debt 250*l.* over again, in case the party would have staid till my work was done, or that I was able; which she would not; but just after the ships were fired at 10 Chatham, she commanded me to be arrested, and cast into prison, a time when the greatest bankers and goldsmiths in London would not pay to any the least mite of principal or interest. By this disaster, I have been since the 11th of last month impeded: no sooner at some 15 liberty, but I made known immediately my adverse condition to the highest of ecclesiastical power, without compassion or relief. Sir, these sad traverses of Providence compel me to alter my intended purpose of wintering my family, I mean a small part only, and mostwhat myself

20 (with your favourable concession most freely granted, for which I can never enough express myself sufficiently thankful) at your most delighted-in Catharine-hall, where, could I have enjoyed your most beatific society, no paradise under heaven would more have sweetened the extremity
25 of those sorrows and labours I have, now fifteen years together, sustained in the tormenting purgatory of this cruel undertaking,—with which I am still oppressed, and in which I have buried above one hundred and forty pounds land of inheritance, per annum, besides considerable 30 sums of money I had before-hand when I began the work, and am now by it cast into very huge and vast debts:—all which signified (and that not seldom) to those above, hath not yet obtained me to the value of five shillings per annum. Sir Thomas Adams's foundation 35 and gift was upon no account of theirs. I comfort myself with this, I have in heaven a better Master, and upon earth so reverend, noble, and most happy a Mæcenas as your honoured self. The bountiful, generous, and most free proffers you have so kindly made me of your lodgings, is one of the chiefest inducements to make my life here desirable to me; which I cannot but often reflect upon with much comfort . . . Sir, my gratitude, service, and 5 most sincere affection are all so deeply obliged unto your excellent goodness, it is impossible but die I must in a greater and more grievous debt to you, than to any or all those pecuniary creditors to whom I am so deeply engaged, who I hope may all in time receive their just satisfaction, 10 which as I now, and shall ever acknowledge, cannot be given to you.'—Same to same, 20 Aug. 1667 (ibid. 385-7): 'Most precious and dear sir, I cannot often enough champ and ruminate upon those rich cordials, I lay continually before my eyes; your letter is indeed semper ante oculos: 15 I cannot suffer it to be out of my sight; so replenished it is with soul-cheering and supporting encouragements, enough to turn the prison and dungeon I was in, into a most delightful paradise. When in that dark vault, I well hoped that my misery was at the lowest; yet it 20 pleases the wisdom of my greatest sovereign Master to exercise me with superadditions to my former sorrows. After seven foreigners, and as many englishmen, whom at a very great rate I had salaried to be assistant to my work, all which, but one, above a year since, are dead or gone 25 away; that one, the most faithful and diligent, trained up by me to some good skill in all the languages, in the very flower of his age (about his thirtieth year), since my last to you, was suddenly cropt by the hand of death, so as I have not so much as one collaborator now left to act 30 with me. And instead of his help, promised me gratis, in regard of some considerable kindnesses I had done him, a great deal of trouble and care is already fallen upon me, by the mean condition in which he died. A city minister, he was burnt out of his living; my wife took his child 35 into the country which puts me still to a further loss. Nor find I that his condition, though very well known to those above, no more than mine, is any whit regretted by those that have the greatest power in their hands, whose hearts I beseech God to open. This is the true cause I made no sooner return to your last: this accident in the

5 interim intervening. . . Dr. Buxtorf did, in his lifetime, send me a collection of chaldee and rabbinic words, which he had more lately taken notice of; whom I promised (as I did divers others of the like quality with him), that the first letters of their names should be affixed to every word

10 they sent me, and some farther mention made of them in the preface to my work. My caballistic and rabbinic books (excepting what I lost by the fire), are most at Higham Gobion, fourteen miles from you, where my wife is, and will make both Sir Thomas [Brograve] and your honoured

15 self most heartily welcome, if you would be pleased to grace her with a visit. My study door shall stand wide open to give you entrance, and every book you there find, most truly at the service of you both;—take them and use them at your pleasure. A good quantity I have at

20 the Charter-house, but could never yet get any time to catalogue them: some very choice books there are, but lie all in confused heaps. But the greatest part of my library is in Essex, to which I have been a long stranger... Sir, neither your reverend worthy self, nor your venerable

25 society, shall have no cause to chide me for balking Catharine-hall, when I go next to Cambridge. With your good leave, I fully purpose to make bold with your lodgings, where my time must be short: the presses will groan for me, as I shall for your most ambitiously coveted

30 presence, whilst I shall be under your roof, if possibly such a felicity might be attained.'—Same to same, 8 Jan. 1667-8 (ibid. 388-9): 'After many dismal and most disastrous and intervening letts and obstructions, which have too long kept me off from my intended journey to Cambridge,

35 I am now fully resolved,  $\sigma\upsilon\nu$  Θεῷ, to be there upon the 16th instant, viz. Thursday next week,—but myself only and a servant. Our journey to Canterbury in November last (upon occasion of a prebendary befalling me), hath so wearied out my wife, she takes no pleasure to think of travelling any more this winter. My tarriance there I intend to make about a fortnight, that I may read at least two, and if I can three, lectures before my return, 5 and then so fall amain, with all possible speed and diligence, upon my printing work again, which I hope, if my printer hinder not, half a year's time will completely finish. Sir, it cannot be expressed how happy I should account myself, if your occasions would contemporize, that we 10 might both meet at the same time in your Catharine-hall. I dare not think of taking any other lodging, were I assaulted with never so vehement importunities. Sir, the date of my bonds and imprisonment is, I trust, now upon expiring, and the hope of liberty once more begins to dawn 15 upon me; in which comfort I am sure your experienced goodness will most really share with me, as your sympathy was above others most cordial in my sufferings; whereby you have very deeply and indelibly obliged my heart to a co-affection with your honoured self, in whatever con- 20 dition does betide you, unto an answerable likeness and equality. And truly, if what I have at Canterbury, had befallen me at Ely, though to a less value, I would have apprized, and congratulated my felicity, as incomparably much greater.'—Same to same, 14 Jan. 1667-8 (ibid. 389, 25 390): 'Your most civil, favourable, and elegant excuse you make in your kind letter, would justly deserve I should freely present you with this first volume of the lexicon;—I much deceive myself, if not the hardest labour ever the english presses (to add no more) have in so little 30 a time groaned with. God grant that it may be but so profitable to the public, as it hath been to me at once most difficult and chargeable; whereof one great reason hath been (which I must not promulge, however it wrings me) the want of such assistants as would be really συν- 35 εργοί: amongst very many I have had, I have but one foreigner only, whom I can call so: this hath incredibly increased and aggravated the charge to me. Notwithstanding, if you will accept of it, if I may know by what safe expedient I may best do it, I will freely send you one. I am sure it cannot come into the hands of one 5 more able to judge of it, or that will do it with more candour. After your most mature perusal, I earnestly beg your censure with the same liberty, as to one you had never seen nor before heard of. Though every language will have a copious accession of words or significations

10 more than any other yet extant, the arabic above all others will very much excel: therein, therefore, I crave your more severe scanning; but withal your gentle admonition of what you find amiss, either through the corrector's fault or mine. I keep by me a collection of
15 some which I have myself observed, and reserve for an appendix.'—Same to same, 23 Sept. 1668 (ibid. 390-1): 'The next week after the term begins, about the 13th of September, I fully purpose to take my journey for Cambridge, which to me will be but a dark place, if not illustrated
20 with the resplendent sun of your soul-rejoicing presence. My stay there, in regard of my work, must be short. I am stopped at present for want of paper, which before my return from the university, I hope I shall not fail to be furnished with. I have (cum bono Deo) brought the 25 Heptaglot Lexicon now within two sheets to its period: only an appendix, grammars, and the epistle or preface, remain to be added.'—Same to same, 12 Febr. 1668-9, from Mr. Roycroft's in Great St. Bartholomew's close (ibid. 391-2): thanks for the entertainment which he had received at Cath. hall in Lightfoot's absence, and congratulations on his preferment. 'Sir, after my repeated thankfulness, with my veriest humble service to your most 30 justly honoured self, I beseech you will be pleased to present the same likewise to all your venerable society, to whom, for cohonestating, with their much refreshing
35 presence, the fresh and yet infantine lecture so lately conferred upon our university, I am bound to return them both my own and the founder's most grateful acknowledgment of our joint obligations. And truly Sir T. Adams, the donor, is not a little glad when he hears his donation, (which he thought sometime elevated) to be now at last entertained with good respect; for I constantly let him 5 know at least every great name that frequents it, and whereabouts the number is of the meaner audience; which encouragement verily he most justly deserves, if but for this reason (not that he covets praise, unto which I know no man more angrily and infestly averse, but), for that 10 some of his own flesh and blood (as I am told) want that for their necessary sustenance (by accident of the late dreadful fire), which he, so freely and but a little before it, had most firmly, and for ever settled upon our university: and whom would it not grieve to give away his 15 estate from such near collops of himself, to the advancement of that learning which himself lives to see neglected? But, blessed be God, with us it is not so, I hope, nor ever will be.'—Same to same, 9 June 1669 (ibid. 393-4):

'Since the finishing of my great work I have been more 20 harassed with tedious trotings up and down between the engraver, the roller, ruler, and binder, to get copies prepared and made fit to be presented, that really it hath been a greater trouble for the time, than the composure of it was when most grievous and oppressive. It was but 25 this last week, that I could obtain the archbishop of Canterbury's book to be in readiness for him. That over, my very next care was, how to find to, and convey safely the remaining parts of this so often and most unhappily interrupted work, unto your most worthy self; for which 30 cause I write these lines. In a word, I may understand from you what expedient you will be pleased to direct me to, which shall he readily laid hold of, with no less speed than cheerfulness, in hope your gentleness and candour will cover all my many defailances and inadvertencies. A seventeen years' drudgery for the public I 35 have now undergone;—of fourteen or fifteen, I at first salaried at not easy rates,—to be subservient in this work in my aged years, and extremely decayed eye-sight. Thus left, and for no small time, quite destitute, without so much as one to be aiding to me. Sir, if I knew how 5 you would have these volumes bound (which is generally desired by all, in the same mode with the Bibles), I would do my best to have yours likewise done up suitably.

 I purpose for Cambridge about, or a little after, the middle of this instant, where I shall continue to usurp 10 upon your most favourable concessions, in the use of your lodgings, as formerly, in case I may not trespass against your occasions for them; especially in regard of the now approaching commencement. I will come myself alone, and my page.’—Same to same, 5 July 1669 (ibid. 394-5): 15 ‘These are to let you know how boldly I have trespassed upon your goodness and favour. I wrote to you about a month since, of my intentions (with your leave) to be here where I now am, with my desire to know by what expedient I might send you the remaining part of 20 that work I have to so little purpose been labouring about for so long a time. I would gladly have had both the volumes bound up handsomely for you, if I could tell how to come by your first part. This morning I made offer of one copy of the lexicon, bound up, to your 25 library, requesting it may be accepted as a poor pledge of those thankful acknowledgments, with which your excellent self, and this honourable society have eternally obliged me.’—Same to same, 20 Aug. 1669 (ibid. 395-7), after some questions on passages of the O.T.: ‘But, most 30 eminently worthy sir, to the business about your copy, which it was my earnest desire might have been the second I ever gave out, and yet, I know not how, I am still ἀέκοντί γε θυμῷ behind with it, when many hundreds have received their’s. You write, Sir Thomas Brograve 35 (to whom, I beseech you, my humble duty and service) being a second time here in London, took out your copy, and sent it to Mr. Roycroft’s. I cannot yet hear what is become of it; but most fully resolved I am, to make up your copy as entire and every way perfect as any whosoever: sure I am, my work could never have been so entire as it is, without you. All pretenders to the oriental tongues must confess their great obligation to you. Therefore, noble sir, let me have your first part, and but send me word how your Bibles were bound, and you shall not fail to have these suited accordingly. I must not, honoured sir, let pass the preamble of your letter, wherein truly you make me much ashamed in using such an apology to me, who, if I should write letters every week in the year, though you should answer never a one of them, your real favours and civilities I experience in one month, outvie all that ever it is possible for me to do within the compass of Nestorean years. Sir, I was fully purposed to have wintered it with my family at Cambridge, and had fully agreed upon Mr. Wheelock's house, that I might have been as near to your royalty as I could. My swarm somewhat encreased, I was forced to look out a larger hive, not larger rooms than you have designed me—that were arrogance to desire; but when two or three chambers would have sufficed me as I was formerly, I cannot contain my number now within those bounds. But disappointed I was and am, not only of that promise about Mr. Wheelock's house, but of some other places I had viewed; no account being sent me, though I had more than once desired it, concerning the one or other. So, as I must now go down alone with my servant, to read my lectures in the term; where my abiding, with your wonted leave and goodness, will be in your lodgings; and if half a chaldron of coals might be laid in upon my account (it will be but a part of the term I can be there), I will repay it with all possible gratitude, the first opportunity I can meet with; and I hope to come down myself thither, where your company, incomparable sir, would make that place to me like one of the heavenly mansions.'—Same to same, 24 Sept. 1669 (ibid. 398): 'I now send you back your bound volumes (wherein your name ought to have shined in the front of them, who have given the most orient splendour, if there be any such in them, unto all that is printed, and may therefore most justly be called yours),

 5 which, if they be done according to your mind (wherein I have not been wanting to my power, writing out the clause in your letter concerning it, that it might continually be obversant* to the binder's eyes), I much rejoice: if otherwise, upon sending up one of your Bible volumes,
 10 he shall more exactly fit it to your mind. Sir, I return you my very humble thanks, for giving order about laying in some winter fuel for me in your lodgings, and that you are so graciously pleased to accommodate me with the use of them: the sight of your honoured presence there, would 15 be a sun more joyful to my heart, than that in the firmament to the world.'—Same to same, from the Charterhouse,
 24 Oct. 1670 (ibid. 399, 400): 'My greatliest and most highest honoured master, father, and patron, for all these you are at once to me: think not, I beseech you, that 20 I am so removed away from your Catharine-hall with my goods, but that there is still left in me (with your good leave and liking), animus revertendi whenever I shall be in Cambridge solo con guerro y ombra, with none but myself and my servant. Coming now thither with a
 25 more numerous family,—without injury both to yourself and to some others in the college, I easily find I could not be sufficiently accommodated neither for rooms, nor beds for my occasions.—I must not abandon such a parent, who for so many years hath afforded me freely a good
 30 patrimony in such large and ample apartments:—such a master, by whom I have been taught and instructed so long sine pretio: such a patron and landlord as hath suffered me to live rent-free in so noble a structure, the space of a Nero's quinquennium; only with this difference, 35 he grew worse afterward, but your beneficence (like those blessings Job received from God), is greatest at last; for all

* [Pitman reads observant.]

which what I have, I most heartily give Monnoye de cordeliers (as the french proverb phrases it), my most humble duty and service to your most honoured self firstly, and in the chiefest place; next, to your whole honourable society, for all the many civilities I have from time to time received. Sir, I was last week with Dr. [Hez.] Burton [fell. Magd. Cambr., incumbent of St. George's Southwark; see Lightfoot's Works XIII 464] who presents his service to you, and if you come upon any occasion to London, is very ready to join his interest with yours, in mentioning my condition by the public service; in which I have now spent near twenty years in time, above twelve thousand pounds of my own estate, and for a reward left, in the close of the work, above eighteen hundred pounds in debt; almost a hundred letters written by me in five months' space since the convocation house last arose, unto the bishops, who passed a vote, they would help me off with my copies amongst their dignified clergy and others that thought fit to recommend it: to all which letters, only one of their lordships returned me an answer, and but five copies amongst them all hath been yet taken off. A petition I lodged in my lord Arlington's hands above a year ago, to his majesty, whose chaplain I have been almost seven years, that a jail might not be my reward for so much service and expense, unto which by virtue of his majesty's letters I was commanded. This veritable condition Dr. Burton is very desirous should be effectually made known to my lord keeper, like as I have more than once made it known to not a few other lords. If I must perish for all my pains and work, with so much difficulty effected, Fiat voluntas Domini.—Same to same, 12 Dec. 1670, 'from my lodgings at Mrs. Salmon's house in St. Andrew's parish, Cambridge' (ibid. 400-1): thanks for a present of his Horae on St. Luke: 'If all the sacred or secret arcane letters of the holy writ were but so glossed upon and explicated throughout; oh! how empty a thing would all the critical learning of precedent ages be, in comparison of your elucidations.' All these letters were sent to Jo. Strype by John Duckfield, Lightfoot's son-in-law and executor (ibid. 473). On 1 July 1659 Castell wrote in latin to Jos. Hill of Magd., sen. proctor, who had helped to procure for him the use of Bedwell's lexicon (Nichols, Liter. Anecd. iv 693-4, who also refers to a letter from Castell to Tho. Greaves, 1658, Donation MS. Brit. Mus. 4162 14). John Worthington to Sam. Hartlib (Diary I 226), 25 Oct. 1660: 'I have enclosed Dr. Castell's paper about the Lexicon. He is a laborious honest man. I wish he be not undone in his estate by his great and unexpressible labours about this work.'—Same to same, Dec. 1660 (in reply to a letter of 10 Dec. ibid. 243-4): 'Dr. Castell writes to me, that he thinks Petraeus is yet in Holland, and that he hath seen Petraeus his new ethiopick piece, viz. Ruth, an homily of S. Chrysostom, and the 4 first chapters of Genesis in ethiopick, which was lent him by an ambassador to peruse; I am heartily sorry for Dr. Castell's difficulties. I hear that for the carrying on of his great work, he has been forced to sell part of his estate, viz. £20 per annum; and he writes that he shall be constrained to dispossess his family of the whole estate which his ancestors left him, except the work be encouraged with more subscriptions, or by the generous beneficence of some great persons. And is there no Mæcenas in this part of the world? None that has the sense and relish of what is of more universal influence for the encrease of knowledge, and deriving it to those of different tongues and nations? None that considers the unwearied pains and unconquerable industry of such laborious persons, who waste their health, their estate, their all, for the good of others? I have written and spoken to some of my acquaintance concerning this particular, desiring them to recommend it, as they have interest.'—Sam. Hartlib to Jo. Worthington, 20 Dec. 1660 (ibid. 255): 'I have heard no more of Petraeus but what you write, nor can I advise anything for helping of Dr.

Castell.—Jo. Worthington to Sam. Hartlib, 9 Sept. 1661 (ibid. II 21-24): 'By another enquiry of Mr. Beal's, viz. what Dr. Walton hath undertaken in this kind, it may seem that he hath not as yet heard of the design, which is not pursued by Dr. Walton, but by Dr. Castell (some- 5 time of Emmanuel college), whose labours about the Bibl. Polygl. were not inferior to any one's. He and Mr. Clerk, (an assistant also in the great Bible,) persevering in their endeavours to do yet more good, about three years since printed some proposals for the printing of 10 grammars and lexicons for the languages in the great Bible. In Cambridge they found good acceptance (and Dr. Castell professeth he received nowhere so much encouragement for the work as there), and when some number of subscribers had paid the first sum, they began 15 to open the press. But Mr. Clerk is called to an office in Oxford. Dr. Castell yet resolves to go on cum bono Deo, and with the assistances of such persons as were fit for the work, and patient, he hath finished all the first tome; the other tome, now in the press, and the grammars, will be 20 finished as soon as may be with convenience. That which hath retarded the work has been the paucity of subscribers (besides the unfaithfulness of some that subscribed). Dr. Walton was more active, and had many active friends; he had also some benefactors that contributed to that 25 great work. Dr. Castell is a modest and retired person, indefatigably studious, (and for many years his studies were devoted to these eastern languages,) he hath sacrificed himself to this service, and is resolved (for the glory of God and the good of men) to go on in this work though 30 he die in it, and the sooner for the great pains it requires—so great that Petraeus and some others that were engaged by him to assist, were forced to desist, as being unable to endure such herculean labours. I never see Dr. Castell, nor think of him, but his condition affects 35 me. He hath worn his body in the unexpressible labours which the preparations of such a work for the press require. He hath been forced to sell some of his no great temporal estate to procure money for the paying off the workmen at the press, the money subscribed falling short, and there being such a scarcity of persons so nobly affected

 5 as to contribute. God preserve him in health, that he may lay the headstone. God raise up some that may move others of ample fortunes to ennoble themselves by encouraging a work of so universal and diffusive a good. God reward him in the comforts of this life also. Persons
 10 deserving highly for their endeavours of the public good would have found not less encouragement in the heathen world. Such a one at Athens would have had the favour of the Prytaneum. Would such places were erected in Christendom ! In this Lexicon Polygl. it cannot be ex-
 15 pected that the observations upon a word should be so large as in dictionaries which are for some one language ; yet is not the Lexicon Polygl. thin and bare, like a lank nomenclator. It was one particular of my advice that they would do more than express the word and its latin,
 20 that they would confirm the signification by good authorities quoted ; and that for the arabic words they would have a special respect, as to the arabic version of Scripture, so to the mahometan's Bible, the Alcoran, besides the respect to Avicen. It may be hoped that sometime the
 25 original arabic of the Alcoran may be printed, which would better direct and enable christians to deal with mahometans. Erpenius hath discovered an excellent method of printing in that specimen he printed relating to the story of Joseph. Hottinger hath, in print, engaged
 30 himself to the world to print it, with a version. I do not like starved lexicons. When the signification is confirmed by good testimonies, (as in Buxtorf's Talmudic Lexicon), and when fit apothegms, proverbs, observations, etc., are pertinently brought in under such a word, the reader better 35 remembers the signification, and reads with more delight. The arabic in this Lexicon Polyglotton will take in all or most of Golius his late Arabic Lexicon printed at Leyden in folio. For the better advancing of this work we lent them a treasure out of our university library, viz. about eight or nine volumes MS. of Mr. Bedwell (who taught Erpenius), being a large Arabic Lexicon composed by him, the fruit of many years' labours, which he devoted 5 to our library. The care for the Persian Lexicon and Grammar doth chiefly lie upon Mr. Seaman.—Worsley, cited by Sam. Hartlib in a letter to Jo. Worthington, 24 Sept. 1661 (ibid. 44): 'The Lexicon Polyglotton, he will see what it is by the printed papers, the supervisor of 10 which is, for his care, ardency, assiduity, and intolerable labour and pains thereof, never sufficiently to be commended.'—Sam. Hartlib to Jo. Worthington, 14 Febr. 1661-2 (ibid. 109): 'O what shame is it that laborious Dr. Castell is not better encouraged nor rewarded.'—Jo. 15 Worthington to Sam. Hartlib, 24 Febr. 1661-2 (ibid. 114): 'I do (as you) resent Dr. Castell's condition and merits.'—Same to Dr. Geo. Evans of Jes. coll. Cambr., 24 Jan. 1665-6 (ibid. 202): 'Dr. Castell returns to London tomorrow, and to his work. If there were any great care 20 for the encouragement of the studious, and the advancement of learning, he would have been before this in better circumstances, and his work would have more subscribers.'—Same to John Lightfoot, 13 Febr. 1665-6 (Lightfoot's Works, xiii 433, these letters to Lightfoot have escaped 25 Mr. Crossley): 'Dr. Castell is returned to London, and is preparing for his great work. I have been speaking with him about procuring a Maimonides for me; but I tell him I cannot buy books as formerly; but I have some hebrew books to change, a Zohar in folio, etc. (which is a scarce 30 book). He tells me that M. Athias the Jew is dead of the plague, by whose means he was used to procure such books.'—Same to same, 12 June 1666 (ibid. 436): 'Dr. Castell intends to go down to Cambridge the week before the commencement, and read an arabic lecture.—Same 35 to same, 17 July 1666 (ibid. 437-8): 'In June last I sent you a letter, which Dr. Castell, with his, sent to you. . . .

- Dr. Castell is now in Tsadi.—Edw. Bernard to Jo. Lightfoot, St. John's, Oxon., 5 Mar. 1673-4 (Lightfoot's Works xiii 453-4): 'My service to Dr. Castell. . . Pray is there any hope of your soon purchasing the Golian books?'—Jo. Lightfoot to E. Bernard, Much-Munden, 29 Apr. 1674 (ibid. 455): 'As for the Golian library, I do not perceive any progress with us about it; and I have not seen Dr. Castell since I received your letter.'—Same to same, no date, but June or the beginning of July 1674, as the next is in reply to it (ibid. 457): 'The business about the Golian library begins to have some life in it again, through the importunity of Dr. Castell and the zealous forwarding of the vicechancellor [John Spencer]. Dr. Castell, who is but just now parted from me, presents his dear remembrances to you, and desires you to do the like for him to Dr. Pocock and Dr. Marshal.'—E. Bernard to Jo. Lightfoot, St. John's, Oxon., 8 July 1674 (ibid. 458-9): 'Dr. Marshal, who presents his love to you, is very much concerned that the Golian affair be prosecuted, and will do his utmost to bate down the price, and effect that very much desired purchase; nay, he professes to me his readiness to come over to Cambridge and explain all that he knows of the business. . . . My humble service I commend to the reverend and learned Dr. Castell, congratulating his zeal and the likely success of it, for the procuring Golius's books.'—Castell to Jo. Spencer, master of C.C.C., Higham Gobin, 16 Aug. 1664 (Nichols, Liter. Anecd. iv 25-6): 'Reverend and most highly honoured sir, on Saturday the 9th instant, I received a letter from Dr. Marshall, rector of Lincoln-colleg, Oxford: that very day, the generality heerabouts began the harvest: that much adoe I had, having no hors of my own, to borrow one til Tuesday following: then I set forth to carry you the said letter: about the mid way from my hous to Cambridg I met with Mr. Broughton coming to mee with an expres from you, assured mee that my journey would bee to no purpose in reference to Golius's library; you had told him, there could be nothing at present don about it : whereupon we both returned back to my hous : to him I have deliverid the letter ; requesting after it is read, that he may receive it again of you. Sir, it is now about, or above six years since I began to intermeddle in 5 this affair, with no other aim but only to serve the university, in which tho I have spent not a few hundred, yea thousands of pounds, yet from it I never received the least kerm of pecuniary profit ; my professorship received from another hand, in settling which had I not been active, it 10 is more than probable, it would scarce have been effected by our noble founder ; it has put mee to a far greater expens, then the stipend amounts to : nevertheles, after the great work of the Bibles and heptaglot was finished, no one thing has run more in my thoughts, and more 15 than so, then how to farther any way our academical interest. Formerly I procured towards the purchase of this unparelled inestimable treasure, no less than a thousand pounds, without any charg to the colledges, excepting 3 persons only, the rest was promised by bishops, 20 deans, and dignified men. The miscarriage of the attempt, I have made known. Since, it is no small grief to think, how this once apprized gem is now depreciated ; a discouragement to any such kind of benefacture. However (most honoured sir), tho I have no thanks at al for the 25 precious time, tedious jaunts, and to mee no easy charg in prosecution of my real intentions, I humbly beseech you (most worthy sir) that Dr. Marshall, a head in Oxford, unto whom, by your appointment, in a letter sent him from Cambridg, a promise was made, that some recom- 30 pence should be given him, for his forwardnes, pains, and charge, against the guise of the place in which he is, in offering so willingly to advance an emulous concern. Sir, this I hope you wil deem very just and equitable, that I be not damnified by this so reasorably engaged 35 promise. Sir, vouchsafe mee your pardon but this once : if I sin this offense any more, I will crave your severest

- punishment without any mercy upon, reverend sir, your veriest real and most redevable servant, EDMUND CASTELL.' Wm. Sancroft, as we might expect, was a liberal friend to Castell. MS. Tanner 145 f. 61, benevolence voted to
- 5 him by the chapter of St. Paul's.—Castell to Sancroft, 5 Aug. 1669, sending a copy of his lexicon (ibid. 44 f. 143).—Same to same, 11 July 1676 : loss of part of the impression by fire (40 f. 11).—Same to same, Sept. 1678, with a book (314 f. 12).—Same to same, 28 Oct. 1678 : losses
- 10 and misfortunes in printing the lexicon (39 f. 121 ; to the same effect 33 f. 36).—Same to same, 10 Dec. 1678 : thanks for his munificence (39 f. 144).—Same to same, 24 Nov. 1679 : unsuccessful couching of a cataract in his eye ; completion of Job Ludolf's History of Aethiopia (38 f. 103).
- 15 —Same to same, 15 Mar. 1679-80 : losses by his literary labours ; copies of the Heptaglott on his hands (38 f. 135).—Same to same, 13 Apr. 1680 : chequered fate of his lexicons (37 f. 12).—Same to same, 1 and 15 Sept. and 18 Oct. 1680 : on the chalice at Higham Gobion (130 ff. 1,
- 20 35, 36).—Draught of a letter on Castell's behalf by Sancroft (37 f. 11).—Dr. John Balderston, master of Emm., to Dr. John Eachard, 24 Oct. 1681 : abp. Sancroft wishes to get subscriptions at Cambridge for Castell's book (36 f. 150).—Castell to Sancroft, 3 Febr. 1681-2 : steps taken
- 25 by him at Cambridge to promote the printing of a work of Dr. Loftus's (36 f. 226).—Same to same, 22 May 1682 : visits London to have his eye couched for the third time ; his poverty and distress (314 f. 95).—Same to same, in latin, 3 Oct. 1682 : account of his labours as professor (35
- 30 f. 98).—Same to same, 10 Nov. 1682 : his pecuniary losses ; reasons for non-residence on his prebend (25 f. 125).—Same to same, in latin, 18 Dec. 1682 : complains of poverty and neglect (35 f. 148).—Same to same, in latin, 27 Dec. 1682 : declines a subscription proposed by the bishops on
- 35 his behalf (35 f. 153).—Same to same, 20 June 1683 : recommends Nic. Aspinall as Lambeth librarian (34 f. 54).—State of his affairs (37 f. 61).—His widow, Elizabeth, to

Sancroft, 25 Jan. 1685-6 and 21 June 1686, begging him to dispose of her husband's lexicons (31 f. 248 and 30 f. 64). —Castell to bp. Hen. Compton 1685 (Nichols, Liter. Anecd. iv 696): 'It is now not a few monthes since I presumed to importune your fatherly goodnes on my behalf, when I had no other friend that would appear for me, in your lordship's writeing a letter to our diocesan, my lord bishop of Lincolne; to salve no irremissible irregularity. After I had brought up a young scholar for about five years or more in university learning, intending to make him my curate, I suffered him to preach but three times in my parish, in which I have but five houses. By your lordship's signall and singular favour, I waded out of that trouble, though with no small difficulty. It cost me little less than 300 miles rideing, in which I saw not the least foot of land all the while I was upon my horse, and was in that journy infested with such mischances so dangerous, I could not get clear of them till about three weekes ago; which, amongst other obstacles, hath been the cause of this delay in returning your lordship my deepliest engaged gratitude, which yet I neither can nor will acquitt myself of by my words or writing.'—Same to same, Higham Gobyn, 11 May 1685 (ibid. 696-7): 'When I first importuned your most excellent lordship, it was in a most negotious juncture of time, your honour just ready to enter into your coach; yet this hindred not, but your goodness was pleased to go up straitway, and write a letter to the lord bishop of Lincolne on my behalf, who was then in a molested and deserted condition, whereby I was forthwith relieved; which grace and favour of your lordship so alarmed all the faculties of my soul, that I resolved the highest act of gratitude in my power to atchieve, I would fully demonstrate. The noblest and richest treasure I have in this world, I account my library; and the pearl of price therein, that which hath the most and best of God in it, His pure and holy Word, superior whereto impossible it is either for men or angels to aspire or imagine : though one in this our age (and I suppose but one), of whom your lordship once spake to me, hath with great labour thought to elevate that sacred authority, concerning whose opinions were my deemings of any value, 5 I must so far close with him as to think (and perhaps not without good reason) that if all the antient translations, but especially orientall, for which he so much pleads, were in some learned man's possession, who perfectly understood them all, he would have more advantages, not 10 onely for the expedite and ready, but for the certain and most infallible sense of the text, than if he had all the fathers, hebrew, greek, latine, etc. ; all the schoolmen, commentators, and criticks whatsoever ; and that because the waters are allways clearest in and about the fountain.

 15 . . . My lord, I have sent some few more of these books in present ; and bequeath all the rest at my death (which cannot be long, haveing already attained the utmost period of the mosaicall determination), and should have accompanied these, but that both my profession in the university 20 and pastoral cure in the country doth necessarily require the use of them.' Castell's anticipation was verified ; he died the same year, and lies buried in his church (see his epitaph ibid. 27-8, and in Hearne's Tho. de Elmham 427 ;
 and the inventory of his goods, 6 Jan. 1685-6, ibid. 697-9).
 25 His will, dated 24 Oct. 1685, proved in the prerogative court 8 Jan. 1685-6, at Cambridge 29 June 1686, is transcribed in MS. Baker XXVI 268-271, and an extract in Baker's letter to Hearne, Cambr. 13 Aug. 1727, printed in Hearne's Elmham 356-7 : 'My body I commit to the 30 earth, whereof it was made, to be buried in the chancell of the parish church of Higham Gobyon, near the monument there erected by me in my lifetime, by my executrix.'
 his niece Mary Crispe. 'Item, I give all my manuscripts in hebrew, syriack, samaritan, ethiopick, persian and 35 arabick unto the university library of Cambridge, upon condition my name be inscribed upon every one of them.
Item, all my printed hebrew books, that consist of hebrew only, I give and bequeath to the library in Emman. college, on the same condition. Six bequests: one to his godson Edmund Crispe of all his books at Higham Gobyon not otherwise disposed of; another to bp. Compton, of 100 of his lexicons, with all his bibles and all other oriental parts of holy scripture; to St. John's his silver tankard [valued in his inventory at £6. 10s. Nichols, Liter. Anecd. IV 699], upon condition that his name be set upon it. For an account of Castell's Lexicon, see his own statement in Nichols, Liter. Anecd. IV 30-2, Hen. Jo. Todd, Memoirs of Brian Walton, 1821, I 163-179, Tanner MSS. 37 f. 23, 45 ff. 75, 274. Walton in the pref. to the Polyglot speaks of a specimen as already published in 1657: 'cuius specimen luculentum nuper impressum ediderunt.' Nichols, Liter. Anecd. IV 27: 'It is supposed that about 500 of his lexicons were unsold at the time of his death. These were placed by Mrs. Crisp, Dr. Castell's niece and executrix, in a room in one of her tenant's houses at Martin in Surrey, where for many years they lay at the mercy of the rats, who made such havock among them, that when they came into the possession of this lady's executors, scarcely one complete volume could be formed out of the remainder, and the whole load of learned rags sold only for £7.' After the title of the Lexicon Heptaglotton, Lond. Tho. Roycroft, LL. Orientalium typographus regius 1669, fol., is a portrait by Faithorne, which has given him a place in Granger. Then a dedication to Charles II. He presents to the king not one star only, like that which appeared to the Magi, but septem stellarum plaustrum, like Charles Wain. 'Ego iam secunda viae M. T. aulam ingressus sum cum munusculo meo, levidensi nimis, quia T. C. nihil a subdito offerri queat magnum. Interim venia (uti spero) mihi dabitur usurpandi illud sacratissimi ac plane regii vatis, Domino meo regi victimas me neutiquam immolaturum gratuitas; sed (si fas dicere) care quidem emptas. Non enim qui plurima dedit, sed cui paucissima sunt relicta, qui ἔλαον τὸν βίον, quicquid facultatem habet, in Dei principisve sui conicit donaria, is demum a supremo mundi iudice laudata maxime. Hoc puto innotescit omnibus scilicet quibus ego notus sum, nihil esse quod mihi parentes reliquerunt (patrimonium aliquando satis commodum atque amplum), nihil quod in anteacto vitae meae tempore laboribus meis atque sollicitis acquisiveram curis (accessio minime contemnenda) quod non integrum in offertorium hoc iam olim impenderim. Annus iam agitur decimus septimus, ex quo relicto rure paterno, immanibus

 5 hisce atque tremendis ausis (talìa fuerunt certe) non sine M. T. consensu, quum primum specimen huius operis sub eius initium ob oculos fuit positum; necnon litteris insuper quam plurimis, a viris magni nominis, qua in ecclesia, qua in rep., domi forisque ad me missio, (quarum
 10 magna pars, uti etiam bibliothecae meae, cum multa suppellectile et tricenis Lexici Heptaglotti exemplaribus, in flammis periit Londinensibus) me submisi invitus admodum, animoque (quod testabitur  $\delta$  Καρδιогνώστης) multum horrescente; quodque satis superque noverunt illi omnes
 15 summi viri, qui me promissis tum auxilii tum etiam remunerationis ad istaec non pellerent tantum, sed vi quadam urgenter impulerunt. Mihi vero, in molendino hoc per tot annorum lustra indesinenter occupato, dies ille tanquam festus et otiosus visus est, in quo tam Bibliis
 20 Polyglottis quam Lexicis hisce promovendis sexdecim aut octodecim horas dictum non insudavi. Mitto privata quae corpori in curriculo huius operis contigerunt mala, membrorum contractiones, luxationes, contusiones; quodque prae omnibus hisce gravissime dolet, oculorum lumen
 25 perpetuis atque indefessis vigiliis tantum non ademptum: item alia magis publica, bellum nationale, pestem saevissimam et miserandum urbis huius incendium; quibus omnibus diutius multo ut protractum fuit hoc ante languens negotium, ita supra modum ingravescebant simul
 30 onera mea et impensae . . . Sunt tamen praeter haec omnia, aliae insuper (nec paucae nec parvae) quibus gravatus fui infelicitates, quas satius atque consultius puto silentio contegere, quam non sine periculo in publicum proferre.' The letters of the king, abp. Sheldon, and the bps. were all printed, some more than once; yet they altogether brought in only £700 towards a work, 'in quo millenas multo plures infaustus exhausti; praeter plurima 5 atque ingentia valde, quae contraxi debita.' Of this £700

 bp. Seth Ward raised £400 in a fortnight. Three years ago I was appointed chaplain in ordinary to the king;
 a year ago, prebendary of Canterbury; very lately I was excused residence, partly because of another office which 10
 I held at Cambridge, 'in quo laboris multum, emolumenti mihi adhuc vix quidquam; . . . partim ob corpus tot tamque diris vexatum casibus, ad itinera omnino nunc ineptum.' Then follows a royal letter, signed Wm.
Morice, Westminster 18 Dec. 1660 (this date must be an 15 error), commending the lexicon, of which one volume had appeared ('quum plane nobis innotuit, . . . quod unum . .
 eiusdem [Lexici] volumen non sine maximis ipsius sumptibus et expensis, adsisistentibus aliis quibusdam personis ad promovendum istud opus voluntarie subscribentibus, 20 iamdudum publicaverit'), to the munificence of persons of honour and learning, who might assist the work by subscribing for one or more copies, or in other ways. Then follows a circular from Gilb. Sheldon to the bishops, Lambeth 10 Dec. 1663, sent with proposals for the lexicon; 25
 the dignitaries and more richly beneficed clergy, and other religious and learned persons, should be invited to subscribe. Few arguments are needed on behalf of a work so serviceable to learning and religion. 'Dolorem insuper pudoris calcar ingerere, ad instigandum quemlibet in hoc 30 negotio. Cui si deessemus, ad ecclesiae nostrae non modo, sed et regni opprobrium, ne dicam infamiam, cederet universi: si quidem personam rei litterariae publico bono tam strenue incumbentem, sub tam insigniter honorandi operis mole subsidere eoque opprimi sineremus.' Then 35 follows the testimony of 25 english, 1 scotch, and 3 irish bishops, recommending the book, of which the first part had been some time printed, to biblical students, and to all whose business took them to the east. Its service in ascertaining the meaning of hebrew words, of oriental sentences and proverbs. ‘Liturgiae orientales quam plurimae una cum omnibus tam excusis tam MSS. auctoribus, quos vel emere, mutuari, vel alias conducere, domi forisve D. Castellus ullo modo potuit, hic usurpantur. . . Concor-

5 dantiarum instar esse potest magnis nostris Bibliis, Avicennae, Talmudi, parti saltem eorum non exiguae, Alcorano,
10 aliisque ritualium et philosophiae scriptoribus, qui in linguis istis extant. . . In quibus non minimum posita fuit difficultas et retardatio operis, una cum sumptuum et expensarum augmento, ad summum auctoris detrimentum.’
They sign this appeal, ‘ut institutum hoc tam utile, tam-
15 que in omnibus supra modum publico usui commodum, non sit auctori damnosum (quod veremur, idque multum, sed prout meretur, debitum sortiatur proportionatumque profectum.’ Then follows the preface. ‘In septem linguis impressa sunt ante decennium Biblia Polyglotta.
20 Labore autem nostro haud levi in iis edendis vixdum exantlato (ob quem, Honorarium illud quod in praefatione Waltoniana dicor accepisse, in illud ipsum opus non refundebam tantum omne, sed mille plus minus libras, ad promovendum illud, partim ab aliis sollicitando 25 procurabam, partim ipse donabam ultro) cum ecce ad aliud novum difficilius longe nec unquam antia a quopiam per omnia temptatum opus impense vocor. Hoc autem ex quibus, quot, quantisque auctoribus satis diligenter perlectis contextum est, omnibus ut clarius constet, nomina
30 eorum hic in limine contexam.’ Then follows a list of the authorities, and of the friends who supplied them, e.g. Buncle, Sam. Clarke, Edw. Pocock, Mich. Wansleben, Theod. Petraeus, Dudley Loftus, Jo. Marshall, Job Ludolf, Thos. Greaves. ‘Mortalibus quippe mos iste inolevit 35 (heu nimis inveteratus) antagonistis suis falsa audacter affingendi; hoc nos Judaeis facimus atque Mohammedomis; atque idem nobis illi. . . . Et quidem pace doctiorum, hoc mihi videtur extra dubium ; neminem esse qui harum linguarum vel unam assequi queat perfecte et accurate, qui non intellegat omnes. . . Socios quidem habui in hoc opere, sed perexiguo tempore mecum in illo commorantes, nescio an dicam immensitate laboris plane exterritos. 5 Quos diutius retinui, hi fuerunt ; D. M. Murray Grypswaldensis, vir non minus doctus quam admodum ingenuus, cui per septennii fere spatium arabicas meas concredideram collectiones ; D. Gul. Beveridgius, vir in secretioribus hisce litteris egregie versatus, per dimidium illius temporis 10 curabat syriacas ; prout in aethiopicis per idem tempus operam impendebat suam D. M. Wanslebius, qui ad perpoliendum eius in iisdem ingenium in varias orientis oras longa atque periculosa suscepit itinera. Per plures annos, iam aetate proventus, et una cum patrimonio satis com- 15 petenti exhaustis etiam animi viribus, oculis caligantibus, corporis variis in hoc opere con fractis et dislocatis membris, relictus sum solus, sine amanuensi aut vel correctore ullo, venia ideo apud candidos lectores (uti spero), ob παρορματα si quae occurrunt, aliquanto dignior.' The 20 list of benefactors 'in tanto tamque longo plurimorum annorum decursu non multorum quidem, . . . qui opus hoc neglectum, et casibus non paucis duris ac durissimis languescens nimis, donaris suis amplis atque munificentia perbenigne excitarunt ac promoverunt,' consists of Charles 25 II.; John e. of Bridgwater, Geo. Villars visc. Grandison ; Edm. Fortescue, Norton Knatchbull, Tho. Rich, baronets ; Fras. Theobald kt. 'harum etiam lingg. callentiss. ;' abp. Gilb. Sheldon ; bps. Jo. Cosin, Matt. Wren, Rob. Sanderson, Geo. Morley, Hen. King, Edw. Reynolds, Wm. Piers, 30 Seth Ward. 'Est adhuc honoratissimus unus vel alter alius, quos intra velum latere iubet prudentia et rerum ratio. Optimus Maximusque omnium bonorum Remunerator honoratissimis hisce atque vere generosis viris eorumque posteris in sempiternum retribuat quaecunque in 35 thesaurum hunc verborum ipsi revera effuderunt, animitus oro et obtestor.' Even advertisements in Castell's hands learn pathos. Lond. Gaz. 3 May, 1669. 'The long expected, often and many wayes most unhappily obstructed and interrupted, work of the Heptaglot Lexicon, compiled by Dr. Edmund Castell, is now fully finished : and all the 5 subscribers to it are desired to send for their several copies due in arrear to them, from Tuesday the 11th instant, and so every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday weekly, unto a ware-house in the Charter-house, London : where they shall be delivered out from 8 of the clock in the morning

10 until 12, and from 2 in the afternoon till 6.' Ibid. 27 Dec. 1669 : 'Doctor Edmund Castell, the author of the Heptaglot Lexicon unto the Polyglot Bibles, a work wherein he has laboured 18 years now current, expended also and buried in this service not so little as 12,000 pounds,
15 besides that which has been brought in either by benefactors or subscribers, after all this, hath with divers of his servants at a very great charge attended the space of three-quarters of a year upon a warehouse he hath in the Charterhouse, London, for the delivering out the sub-
20 scribers' copies ; who, though publick notice has been many times given them, come in for them very slowly : the said doctor, therefore, desires all concerned persons whatsoever, either to come or send for their books between this and Lady-day next ensuing at farthest ; the doctor
25 not being in a condition to continue this charge any longer.' Grässe says that 4 copies are known on large paper. Of the 3 copies in St. John's library one is on l. p., and bound in the red Turkey morocco, in which bp. Moore delighted. The syriac portion was improved
30 by J. D. Michaelis in 1788, and the Hebrew by J. F. L. Trier in 1790-2. See Paulus, Memorabilien, I 82 seq. ; J. Chr. Wolf, Biblioth. hebraea ; Lorsbach, Archiv f. d. Morgentl. Literatur, II 1794 ; Baumgarten, Hall. Biblioth. VIII 405. Tho. Hearne in Lelandi Collectan. VI 80 :
35 'More deplorable than this is the fate of the learned Dr. Edmund Castell, who after many years spent in compiling his Heptaglott Lexicon, to the ruining of his health and fortune; when the work was finished and published he met with a very poor reward for his incredible and indeed Herculean labours. Himself observes in a letter I have under his own hand, that he had spent above £12,000 upon that work, and makes bitter complaints that after such a vast expense, and so many disasters as he had encountered with in it, the copies should all lye upon his hands.' He also published 1. 'Sol Angliae oriens auspiciis Caroli II. regum gloriosissimi. 1660.' 4to, containing verses by Castell in the seven languages of his lexicon. 10

2. Oratio in scholis theologicis habita ab Edmundo Castello S. T. D. et linguae arabicae in academia Cantabrigiensi professore, cum praelectiones suas in secundum canonis Avicennae librum auspicaretur, quibus via praestruitur ex scriptoribus orientalibus ad clarius ac dilucidius enarrandam botanologiam SS. scripturae, partem, opus a nemine adhuc temptatum. Lond. 1667.' 4to. Dedicated to Sir Tho. Adams. There remain among the Tanner MSS. 478 f. 21: 'heptas praelectionum arabicarum in varia Vet. Test. loca.'—448 f. 4: 'Liturgia aethiopica; seu formula celebrandi SS. cenam a S. Iohanne evang. ac suis usurpata, lat. sermone donata per Edm. Castellum;' and f. 17: 'Consecratio SS. cenae ab ipsis apostolis usurpata: lat. reddita per Edm. Castellum.' Cambr. MS. Dd vi 4 contains Castell's notes upon oriental versions of the Bible, and 25 copies of letters in his hand, chiefly written in cypher, being his correspondence 1651-72; p. 404 is a letter of introduction to Golius given by Caesar Calandrinus to Castell; pp. 273 seq.: a letter from Waterhouse to S. Adams, requesting his aid to relieve Castell from pecuniary 30 difficulties. Other note-books of Castell's Dd vi 63, xi 139, xii 15. There is in the Bodleian, 'orient. 344,' a coptic lexicon by Thos. Edwards, M.A., of St. John's (?) Cambridge, who was living with Castell when bp. Fell took him to Oxford, to fill the gap caused by the death 35 of Dr. Marshal of Linc. coll. (Macray's Anna's of the Bodl. 150).

INDEX

INDEX.

- Abendana, Is., 477 l. 15.
 Adams, S., 530 l. 29.
 Adams, Sir Thos., 502 l. 34, 503 ll. 15, 27; 505 l. 34, 510 l. 2, 530 l. 18.
 Adamson, Humph., 395 l. 27.
 Addison, Jos., 236 l. 35.
 Adelred, 360 l. 4.
 Aelian, 19, 251.
 Aggas, Rob., 357 l. 17.
 Albemarle, Duke of, 216 l. 22.
 Aldine Greek Authors, 137 l. 10.
 Aldrich, Dr. H., 323 l. 18.
 Allingham, Wm., 53, 273.
 Almelooven, T. J. van, 211 n.
 Alstedius, 211 l. 1.
 Amburst's Terrae filius, 212 n. l. 4, 237 l. 8.
 Andrew alias Spycer, Rich., 242 l. 34.
 Andrews, Edw. and Marg., 230 l. 22.
 Andrews, Bp. L., 438 l. 18, 441 l. 32, 443 l. 10.
 Anglesey, Earl of, 467 l. 31.
 Anne, Q., Embassy to, 312 l. 21, 368 l. 7, 372, l. 2.
 Anstey, Chr., 22, 30 l. 8; 98, 237 l. 18, 257.
 Anstey and Ansty families, 259, 260.
 Antram, watchmaker, 371 l. 5.
 Appian's Roman Hist., 106 l. 20.
 Apuleius, 207 l. 9.
 Aristotle, 205 l. 15.
 Arlington, Lord, 514 l. 22.
 Arnold, Chr., 143, 193 l. 17, 195 n, 444.
 Ascham, R., 19 l. 22, 254 l. 10.
 Asgill, John, 216 l. 11, 398 l. 3.
 Ashley, Rob., 356 l. 35.
 Ashmole, E., 380 l. 13, 385 l. 16.
 Ashton, Dr. Chas., 286 l. 35, 295 l. 18.
 Ashton, Hugh, 448, l. 11.
 Aspinall, Nic., 521 l. 34.
 Astronomicis tubis, lenses for, 169 l. 10.
 Athenae Cantabrigienses, 144 l. 16, 447 l. 2.
 Athenian Gazette, Mercury, Oracles, 132 l. 16, 178 l. 22, 421.
 Athias, Mr., 518 l. 31.
 Audley, Lord, 115 l. 12.
 Audley House, 115 l. 8, 324-5, 373 l. 28.
 Babington, Churchill, 412.
 Babington, Dr. Humph., 415, l. 23.
 Bacon, Fr., Ld. Verulam, 189, l. 5.
 Bacon, Nich., 181, l. 15.
 Badman, bookseller, 350 l. 14, 356 l. 4, 368, l. 31.
 Bahlull, Bar., 195 l. 15.
 Bailo, Crist. Val., 150 l. 15.
 Bainbridge, Dr. John, 385 l. 9.
 Baker, Thos., 100, 140-7, 170 l. 22, 181 l. 6, 193-5, 222 l. 11, 234 l. 24, 260 l. 26, 261 l. 11, 285 l. 13, 294-297, 325 l. 33, 331 l. 32, 413, l. 26, 420 l. 22, 422 l. 29, 446-8.
 Balderston, Dr. John, 491 l. 22, 521 l. 21.
 Balton, dutch minister, 313 l. 3.
 Barecroft, Dr., 106, l. 29.
 Barlow, Bp. Thos., 217 n., 522 ll. 7, 28.
 Barnard, Dr. Francis, 458 l. 8.
 Barnes, Joshua, 120 l. 12, 168 l. 15, 195 l. 2, 338, 407 l. 5.
 Barrow, Dr. Isaac, 279 l. 18, 415 l. 15, 478 l. 10.
 Bath, 29 l. 5.
 Bathurst, Ant., 201 l. 5.
 'Battels,' paying, 208 l. 9.
 Baylie, S., 207 l. 2.
 Becher, J. J., 400 l. 1.
 Bedae libro (the Vedas), 150 l. 7.
 Bede's gospels, 391 l. 5.
 Bedford, Hilkiab, 287 l. 13.
 Bedford, 374 l. 10.
 Bedwell, Wm., 143, 438, 484, 492 l. 23, 518 l. 4.
 Beeverel, Jas. Del. d'Angleterre, 410.
 Behn, Mrs. A., 307 l. 11.
 Belfour, John, 272 l. 14.
 Bell, m. of Lynn School, 265 l. 5.
 Bell, Beaupré, 295 l. 20.
 Bellori, G. P., 150, 477.
 Benedetti, Fr., 360 l. 24, 365 l. 9, 400 l. 17, 407 l. 26.
 Benlowes, Edwd., 418, ll. 7, 4.
 Bennett, Dr. Thos., 325 l. 36, 326 l. 4.
 Benoit, Mistriss, 349 l. 13.
 Benthem, H. L., Eng. K-und Schules Staat, 124, 127, 141, 375, 415.
 Bentley, Dr. Rich., 116 l. 20, 134-5, 152, l. 20, 181 l. 6, 194 l. 1, 249 l. 28, 256 l. 18, 311 l. 12, 312 l. 6, 317 l. 15, 318 l. 14, 323 l. 36, 326 l. 10, 329 l. 11, 332, l. 7, 369 l. 20, 421-36, 458 l. 29, 465 l. 17, 477 l. 34, 478 ll. 5, 10.

- Bentley, Thos., 451 l. 19.
 Bensington, 395 l. 3.
 Bernard, Edw., 211 l. 11, 448 l. 25,
 490 l. 1, 519 l. 1, 5, 8, 16.
 Berry, Dr. Rich., 291, l. 20.
 Bettenham, Jas., printer, 204 n.
 Beveridge, Wm., 8, 11, 72, 73, 77, 232,
 290, 528 l. 9.
 Beverland, Hadrian, 407 l. 30, 408 l. 3.
 Beverley, Thos., 237 l. 21.
 Beverley Rectory, 212 n. l. 7.
 Bicester, 374 l. 14.
 Bignell, Stephen, 237 l. 12.
 Billers, John, 266 l. 27, 267 l. 6, 295
 l. 15.
 Binet of Romer tavern, 407 l. 10.
 Birch, Dr. Peter, 381 l. 35.
 Birkett, Dan, 187 n. l. 4.
 Bizarrus. See Perusinus.
 Blackley, Mr., 248 l. 4.
 Bleau's globe, 177 l. 4.
 Blechynden, Rich., 216 l. 28.
 Bobart, Prof., 387 l. 37, 338 l. 10.
 Boet, émailleur, 408 l. 9.
 Boileau, 34, 65, 288 l. 9.
 Bonet, Thos., 281 l. 18.
 Bonwick, Ambrose, 7—112, 201—308.
 Bonwick, Philip, 34 l. 20, 35 l. 8, 44
 l. 10, 62, 70 l. 9, 97 l. 6, 101, 110, 268, 285.
 Bonwick family, 201, 222, etc.
 Bookham, Great, 69 l. 8, 289.
 Book-ladders, 403 l. 34.
 Book-plate, Uffenbach's, 484 l. 10.
 Boothby, Sir Wm., 267 l. 31.
 Borello, 393 l. 13.
 Bosanquet, Hen., 259 l. 25.
 Bosville, Thos., 268 l. 4.
 Boswell, John, 447 l. 15.
 Boulter, Archbp. Hugh, 202 l. 13.
 Bovilly of Paris, 365 l. 7.
 Bowker, John, 265 l. 7.
 Bowyer, Wm., sen., 203 l. 18.
 Bowyer, Wm., 203 l. 2, 205 l. 4, 221
 l. 17, 225 l. 29, 229 l. 19, 230 l. 1,
 261 l. 11, 289 l. 20, 291 l. 27.
 Boxhorn, M. Z., 211 l. 4.
 Boyle, Rob., 271 l. 4, 272 l. 30, 366
 l. 9.
 Brabant, nuns of, 401 l. 13.
 Brackenbury, Mr., 260 l. 33.
 Bradley, Langley, clockmaker, 353
 l. 11.
 Bradshaw, Hen., 437 l. 6, 487 l. 3.
 Brahmins, 149 n, 150 l. 8.
 Brailsford, John, 237 l. 31.
 Branthwait, Mr., 324 l. 21.
 Brasier, Jo. B., 206 l. 5.
 Brassey, Dr. 245 l. 9.
 Braunin, Mrs., of Frankfort, 368 l. 30.
 Brentford, 395 l. 16.
 Brentwood, 349 l. 4, 409 l. 7.
 Brereton, Mr., 303 l. 7.
 Bridge, Mr., 248 l. 7.
 Bridgewater, Duchess of, 359 l. 17.
 Bridgwater, John E. of, 528 l. 26.
 Briggs, Hen., 439 l. 5.
 British Apollo, 132, 178 l. 22, 420.
 Brograve, Sir Thos., 507 l. 14, 511
 l. 34.
 Brome, Edmund, 267.
 Brome, Edmund, 20, 30, 31, 53, 253,
 265 l. 3, 267.
 Brooke, Rob., 245 l. 4.
 Broughton, Mr., 519 l. 35.
 Brown, Ambr., 205 l. 17.
 Brown, Charles, 397 l. 31.
 Brown, Jas., optician, 403 l. 26.
 Brown, M., 380 l. 6.
 Browne, Edw., 470 l. 34.
 Browne, Thos., 23, 62, 64, 222 l. 2, 261, 285.
 Browne, Sir Wm., 457 l. 16.
 Buchanan, Jas., 369 l. 28.
 Buckingham, Duke of, 195 l. 21, 349
 l. 20, 400 l. 19.
 Buckingham, Cath. Duchess of, 158
 l. 10.
 Buckingham, 374 l. 12.
 Buddle, Ad., 396 l. 21, 399 l. 12.
 Bull-baiting, 357 l. 11.
 Bullingham, Nic., 232 l. 4.
 Buncle, 527 l. 32.
 Burcester Priory, 242 l. 34.
 Burg, Mr., 352 l. 26.
 Burgersdijck, F. P., 19, 53, 251, 269.
 Burman, F., 138 l. 9, 424 l. 3, 427 l. 18;
 Travels in England, 311—324;
 Cambridge, 115—120, notes 324—388.
 Burnet, Bp. G., 185 l. 21, 186 l. 10,
 218 l. 26, 322 l. 36, 323 l. 11.
 Burnet, Thos., 320 l. 5.
 Burrell, Mr., 295 l. 12.
 Burton, Dr. Hez, 514 l. 6.
 Bury Fair, 239 l. 35.
 Buschmann, watchmaker, 351 l. 28.
 Bussiere, J. de, 19, 253.
 Butler, Jacob, 250 l. 17.
 Büttner, Dr., 387 l. 35, 389 l. 9.
 Buxtorf, Dr., 499—501, 507 l. 5, 517 l. 32.
 Byam, Hen., 20, 253.
 Byng, Sir George, 354 l. 24.
 Caesius, Guil. (Bleau), 117 l. 7.
 Caius, Dr. J., 143, 198.
 Calandrinus, Caesar, 530 l. 28.
 Calvin, 179 l. 14.
 Cambridge. Visits: F. Burman, 115—
 120. Uffenbach, 123—198.

Cambridge. Allhallows (All Saints)

- Ch. 99 l. 25, 109 l. 29, 308.
 — Earnwell Abbey, 239 l. 31, 243 l. 20.
 — Batecurry (Petty Cury), 152 l. 18.
 — Billingsford hutch, 450 l. 32.
 — Christ's, 180, 193. Music Club, 133 l. 3.
 — Clare, 128 l. 17, 146 l. 6, 196 l. 14, 417 l. 37.
 — Coffee Houses, 58 l. 22, 284. Dockerell's, 284 l. 32. Greek's 132, 178
 l. 17, 419. Kirk's 419 l. 34.
 — Commencement, 115 l. 18, 325 ll.
 21—328.
 — Corpus Christi, 117, 145, 180—6,
 195 l. 28, 450 ll. 25—33.
 — Emmanuel, 166—9, 524 l. 1.
 — D.D. creation, 326 l. 6—328.
 — Gonville and Caius Coll., 133—35,
 421 l. 5, 450 l. 27.
 — Jesus, 190, 215 n. l. 19.
 — King's, 116 l. 25, 130 l. 8, 145 l. 23,
 153 l. 1, 419, 450 l. 20.
 — Magdalene, 139, 144 l. 26.
 — Paper Mills, 469 l. 21.
 — Pembroke, 176—8.
 — Peterhouse, 169—70.
 — Queens', 144 l. 25—145, 448.
 — Red Lion (Reyners'), 411 l. 4.
 — Rose Tavern, 458 l. 17—466.
 — St. Cath., 179.
 — St. John's, 13 l. 18, 17 l. 22, 116
 l. 13, 128 l. 22—130, 171 n. l. 11,
 193 l. 16, 196 l. 13, 239 l. 9, 411
 l. 32, 418 l. 3, 524 l. 6, 529 l. 27.
 Clock-keeper, 94, 95, 101, 290.
 — St. Mary's Ch., 61 l. 13, 62 l. 2,
 144 l. 1, 446.
 — St. Michael's Ch., 117 l. 13.
 — Schools, 140 l. 5, 436 l. 13.
 — Sidney, 159—63.
 — Sturbridge Fair, 19 l. 1, 239—51,
 419 l. 18, 469 l. 15.
 — Trinity, 116 l. 18, 117 l. 10, 124
 l. 28, 131, 135 l. 17, 152 l. 20, 153
 l. 4, 180 l. 12, 190 l. 28, 196 l. 12,
 448 l. 30, 477—48.
 — Trinity Hall, 163 l. 16, 450 l. 30.
 — University Library, 117 l. 21, 140
 l. 4—143, 153 l. 15, 186 l. 13, 437
 l. 1, 438 l. 12—444, 484 l. 19—487,
 523 l. 35.
 Cambridgeshire roll, 1593, 163 l. 5.
 Camden, Wm., 328 l. 14, 357 l. 22, 391
 l. 34.
 Campani, Giuseppe, 363 l. 4.
 Campe, Mr., 353 l. 36, 363 l. 6, 395
 l. 31, 408 l. 12.
 Candler, Mr., 267 l. 5.
 Cannon, Dr. Rob., 256 l. 11.

- "Careless Husband, The," 359 l. 14.
 Carswell, Prof. John, 392 l. 34.
 Carter, Edm., 250 l. 13.
 Carter, Henry, 368 l. 20.
 Casaubon, 321 l. 14, 439—43, 482 l. 14.
 Castell, Edm., 159 n. l. 3, 487—530.
 Castell, Eliz., 521 l. 37.
 Castellio, Seb., 253 l. 16.
 Caviac, traiteur, 354 l. 34.
 Chained books, 361 l. 25.
 Chales, De., 56 l. 1, 279 l. 18, 284.
 Chamberlaine, Jas., 249 l. 14, 267 l. 13.
 Chamberlayne's Pres. state of Eng.,
 124, 141, 2, 7, 185 l. 12, 190.
 "Changes, The," 367 l. 12.
 Chapman of Emmanuel, 459 l. 29.
 Chardin, Sir J., 148 n. l. 3.
 Charlett, Dr. A., 447 l. 4.
 Charles I., 129 l. 12, 215 n. l. 3, 220
 l. 26, 270 l. 37, 378 l. 28, 389 l. 34,
 418 l. 20.
 Charles II., 115 l. 12, 163 l. 8, 215 n.
 l. 11, 524 l. 27, 526 l. 2, 528 l. 26.
 Chauveau, Mr., 321 l. 31.
 Chelmsford, 349 l. 4, 409 l. 8.
 Chelsea, 316 l. 9, 349 l. 25, 350 l. 34,
 400 l. 21.
 Chesterton, 246 l. 31.
 Cheyne, Geo., 54 l. 1, 277.
 China, map of, 378 l. 30.
 Christner, 366 l. 8.
 Chrysostom, 65 l. 12, 142 l. 4, 286 l. 20.
 Chubb, Thos., 308 l. 17.
 Cicero 53, 54, 146 l. 5, 275, 456 l. 8.
 Clarendon's History, 19 l. 21.
 Clark, Margaret, 439 l. 10.
 Clericus, 138 l. 6, 426—7.
 Clerke (or Clarke), John, 280 l. 6, 438
 l. 37.
 Clarke (or Clerke), S., 54 l. 1, 195 l. 2,
 277 l. 7, 279 l. 21, 282 l. 8, 333 l. 4,
 496 l. 33, 527 l. 32.
 Cluverius, 211 l. 3.
 Coaches, 66, 115, 288, 324.
 Cocceius, 323 l. 33.
 Cock, Chas., 204 n.
 Cock-fighting, 355 l. 7.
 Cockey, Ed., clockmaker, 366 l. 25.
 Codex Alexandrinus, 136 l. 20, 399 l. 4,
 400 l. 27.
 Codex Bezae, 117 l. 22, 126 l. 31, 141
 l. 2, 156 l. 4, 184 l. 2, 417 l. 3,
 436 l. 19.
 Codex Masianus, 400 l. 31.
 Codrington, Col. Chris., 390 l. 21, 394
 l. 17.
 Coffee houses, see London, Cambridge.
 Coins, 69, 70, 127, 129, 143, 147, 151,
 170, 176, 188, 194, 224, 5, 296, 359,
 376, 395, 446.

- Coke, Sir Thos., 411 l. 23.
 Coks, Mr., 371 l. 28.
 Colchester, 348 l. 32, 409 l. 13.
 Collier, Jer., 53 l. 9, 271.
 Collins, Dr., 419 l. 8.
 Colnbrook, 395 l. 13.
 Communion, Weekly, 238 l. 1.
 Compton, Bp. H., 318 l. 23, 334 l. 21,
 489 l. 37, 491 l. 27, 522 ll. 3, 22.
 Confucius, 150 l. 3.
 Congreve's 'Old bachelor,' 369 l. 34.
 Constantinople, 147 l. 19.
 Convocation, 323 l. 16.
 Cooke, Kath., 243 l. 9.
 Cooke, Thos., 295 l. 37.
 Cooke, Winefrid, 230 l. 28.
 Cooper, Hen., 237 l. 27.
 Cooper, Wm., bookseller, 249 l. 18.
 Cosin, John, 486 l. 2, 528 l. 29.
 Cotes, Roger, 195 l. 5, 415 l. 11.
 Cotton, Sir John, 468 l. 5.
 Courcelles, E. de., 270 l. 7.
 Covell, Dr. J., 119 l. 27, 147—48, 169
 l. 18, 194 l. 6, 470—76, 477 l. 17.
 Cowie, B. M., 171 n.
 Cowley, Ab., 307 l. 24.
 Cowper, Wm., Lord, 256 l. 9.
 Cox, flax merchant, 367 l. 6.
 Crabb, Jos., 375 l. 1—379, 386 l. 31.
 Craig, John, 277 l. 31.
 Cranmer, Archbp., 358 l. 28.
 Crashaw, W., 173 n.
 Creech, Thos., 211 n. l. 15, 394 l. 21.
 Crenius, T., 253 l. 35.
 Crete, 162 l. 6.
 Crick, Northants, 216 n. l. 7.
 Cries of London, 401 l. 4.
 Crisp, Edm., 524 l. 3.
 Crisp, Mrs. Mary, 491 l. 18, 523 l. 33,
 524 l. 17.
 Crocker, medaillieur, 354 l. 25.
 Crokenham, 332 l. 30.
 Cromwell, O., 142 l. 29, 195 l. 23.
 Cromwell, Thos., 244 l. 5.
 Croon, Mr., 302 l. 30.
 Cross: election, 396 l. 19.
 Crossley, M., 518 l. 26.
 Crossthwaite, Dr., 330 l. 4.
 Crouch, Caesar, 249 l. 24.
 Cudworth, R., 272 l. 29, 298 l. 15, 301,
 304 l. 37, 488 l. 29.
 Culpepper, 396 l. 11.
 Cumberland, Bp. R., 211 n. l. 17, 276
 l. 21.
 Cumming, John, 423 l. 13.
 Curcellaeus, S., 53 l. 4, 270.
 Custom House officers, 348, l. 19.
 Cutts, Sir John, 248 l. 6.
 Cuylenburgh, Mr., 322 l. 7.
 Cyprian, Mr., 322 l. 12.
 Dandridge, Mr., 401 l. 26.
 Davies (or Davis), John, 145, 256, 450.
 Davis, Mary, 380 l. 17.
 Dawes, Archbp. Wm., 202 l. 12.
 Dawkins, 237 l. 33.
 Dearing, 257 l. 26.
 Deck, Norris, 235 l. 36.
 Defoe, D., 249 l. 37, 400 l. 12.
 Delaune, Dr. W., 16, 237.
 Demosthenes, 54, 278 l. 6.
 Denmark, King of, 380 l. 14.
 Denmark, George, Prince of, 257 l. 30.
 Deptford, 162 l. 6.
 Derham, Dr. W., 65 l. 10, 272 l. 11,
 286 l. 3.
 Des Cartes, 270 l. 16, 280 l. 10.
 Devizes, 29 l. 40.
 Dickenson, 205 l. 13.
 Dieu, Lud. de, 444 l. 17.
 Dionysius, 19, 251.
 Dockerell's Coffee Ho., 284 l. 32.
 Donaldson, J. W., 255 l. 26, 300 l. 25.
 Dort, Synod of, 161 l. 42.
 Douce, Dr., 312 l. 33.
 Dover, Mr., 324 l. 21.
 Downes, John, 237 l. 24.
 Dowsing, Rev. Mr., 258 l. 10.
 Drake, Sir F., 376 l. 22.
 Drayer, Capt., 406 l. 30.
 Dresser, Mr., 421 l. 22.
 Dryden's S. Martin Mar-all, 361 l. 37.
 Duncan, 252 l. 12.
 Duncomb, Wm., 273 l. 31.
 Duns Scotus, 385 l. 4.
 Dunton, J., 223 l. 17, 232 l. 26, 420
 l. 35, 421 l. 1.
 Duplock, S., 224 l. 4.
 Duport, Dr., 273 l. 1.
 Durer, Albrecht, 152 l. 6.
 Dutch envoys, 318 l. 3, 319 l. 14, 322
 l. 5.
 Dwyer, Mr., 267 l. 9.
 Dykvelt, Baron v., 313 l. 9, 322 l. 35.
 Dymmock, Roger, 165 n.
 Eachard, John, 195 l. 2, 521 l. 22.
 Echard, L., 53, 106 l. 15, 276.
 Eddistone lighthouse, 324 l. 29.
 Edmondson, Dr. Wm., 30, 266, 325 l.
 23, 326 l. 4.
 Edward I., 360 l. 3.
 Edward VI., MS., 143 l. 11.
 Edwards, Th., 530 l. 33.
 Edzardi, Pastor, 357 l. 27, 359 l. 1,
 369 l. 32, 395 l. 24, 407 l. 25.
 Eggeling, J. H., 444 l. 34.
 Elizabeth, Q., 129 l. 4, 360 l. 3, 376
 l. 18, 378 l. 26, 418 l. 21.
 Ellis, Charles, 477.
 Ellis, Sir John, 280 l. 21, 282 l. 14<sup>1</sup>

Elton, Nich., 244 l. 18.
 Ely, 244 l. 14.
 Elys, Edm., 424 l. 14.
 Episcopus, 270 l. 25.
 Epping Forest, 324 l. 23, 373 l. 26.
 Epsom, 366 l. 31.
 Erasmus, 20 l. 22, 126 l. 29, 416 l. 27.
 Erlych, John, 243 l. 3.
 Erndtel, C. H., 405 l. 27.
 Erpenius, 20, 142 l. 27, 157, 195 l. 21,
 253 l. 33, 440 l. 12—442, 484, 517
 l. 27, 518 l. 4.
 Eton, 395 l. 10.
 Etty, Mr., 478 l. 20.
 Euclid, Tacquet, 55 l. 30.
 Eugene, Prince, 363 l. 22, 373 l. 10.
 Euin, Mr., 295 l. 12.
 Euripides, 53, 274.
 Eustachius, 20, 53, 254 l. 9, 271 l. 11.
 Evans, Dr. Geo., 518 l. 18.
 Evans, Thos., 357 l. 25.
 Evelyn, John, 248 l. 27.
 Evremond, St., 364 l. 28.
 Evremont, S., 362 l. 25.
 Eyre, Wm., 439 l. 20

 Fabricius, J. A., 256 l. 12, 424 l. 21.
 'Fair Quaker of Deal,' 353 l. 3.
 Fairclough, R., 298 l. 34.
 Fairs. See Sturbridge Fair (Cam- bridge), Maidstone.
 Faithorne, 524 l. 26.
 Fanshaw, Lord, 356 l. 23, 357 l. 15.
 Farmer, Rich., 251 l. 2.
 Fasciculus prae. logic., 19 l. 15.
 Feilde, Thos., 291 l. 14.
 Fell, Bp. J., 234 l. 34, 493 l. 12, 530
 l. 34.
 Fenelon, 34 l. 17, 53 l. 24, 54, l. 27, 275
 l. 24, 278.
 Ferrar, Nich., 107 n., 478 l. 35.
 Ferrari, Dr., 123 l. 20, 124 l. 27, 128
 l. 14, 130 l. 1, 133 l. 2, 140, l. 25,
 175 l. 25, 181 l. 6, 194 l. 1, 411.
 Fetherston, Mr., 479 l. 26.
 Finch, Sir John, 470 l. 32.
 Fisher, Alex., 385 l. 6.
 Fisher, Bp. J., 144 l. 24, 447 l. 35,
 448 l. 16.
 Flamsteed, J., 351 l. 3, 393 l. 13.
 Fleischer, 407 l. 9.
 Fletcher, Thos., 235 l. 9.
 Folkes, Martin, 456 l. 26, 457 l. 22.
 Fontenelle, 106, 307.
 Fordham, Wm., 338 l. 3.
 Fortescue, Sir Edm., 528 l. 27.
 Fôx, Eliz., 306 l. 15.
 Foxcroft, Mr., 304 l. 9.
 Foxton, Wm., 246 l. 20.
 Francke, Ch., 245 l. 11.

Frankfurt, 198 l. 1.
 Frear, Mr., 232 l. 6.
 Free, Dr. John, 251 l. 25.
 Freeman, Sir Geo., 205 l. 17.
 Freke of Hannington, 376 l. 27.
 French, Jeremiah, 299 l. 1.
 Frewin, Rich., 373 l. 5.
 Frome, 29 l. 22.
 Fulham, 318 l. 23.
 Fulthorpe, Chas., 260 l. 33.

 Gagnier, Jean, 477 l. 18.
 Gale, Roger, 256 l. 14, 446 l. 25.
 Gale, Thos., 145, 448.
 Gamlingay, 374 l. 8.
 Garrick, David, 259 l. 19.
 'Gazette,' 419 l. 35.
 Geneva, 124 l. 3.
 George, Prince, 355 l. 24.
 Geus, Nich. de, 368 l. 2.
 Gibbons, Grinling, 153, 478.
 Gibbons, Dr. Thos., 325 l. 26.
 Gibbons, Dr. Wm., 212 l. 9.
 Gibson, Dr. Edm., 313 l. 12.
 Gilbert, Dr., 313 l. 4.
 Glanville, 307 l. 10.
 Glass, Painted, 158 l. 25.
 Glass factory, Southwark, 372 l. 2.
 Gnospius of Dantzig, 357 l. 33.
 Goad, Dr. John, 207 l. 4, 213 l. 12, 214 l. 5, 216 n.
 Godbytte, 247 l. 29.
 Godstow, 384 l. 31.
 Goeree, 410 l. 2.
 Goffe, Stephen, 288 l. 37.
 Gog-magog's-hill, 324 l. 33.
 Golan library, 490 l. 27, 519 ll. 6, 19, 37.
 Golius, 517 l. 37, 530 l. 29.
 Gomme, Bernard le, 407 l. 31.
 Gooch, Thos., 459 l. 35, 465 l. 22, 467
 l. 11.
 Gordon, Patrick, 423 l. 37.
 Gosse, 334 l. 20.
 Gottfried, 383 l. 12, 396 l. 27.
 Gouge, Thos., 300 l. 34.
 Gower, Humphry, 22, 27, 120, 238
 l. 13, 257 l. 17, 264 l. 28, 334 l. 14,
 491 l. 24.
 Grabe, Dr. J. E., 136 l. 23, 369 l. 25,
 376 l. 13, 398 l. 28, 400 l. 26, 426.
 Gramm, of Lüneburg, 359 l. 22.
 Granville, Dennis, 238 l. 1, 264 l. 29.
 Grassy, Messrs., 379 l. 12, 382 l. 12,
 390 l. 14.
 Gravesend, 324 l. 13, 350 l. 36.
 Greaves, John, 438 l. 36, 527 l. 34.
 Green, Mr., 464 l. 15.
 Greene, Chas., 120, 337.
 Gregory, Clemens, 470 l. 5.
 Gregory, John, 480 l. 15.

- Gregory, David, 277 l. 28, 319 l. 17,
     320 l. 20, 321 l. 23.
 Gregory, Mr., 257 l. 11.
 Grelot, Wm. Jos., 148 l. 6, 474 l. 3.
 Grey, Miss, of Stockton, 259 l. 23.
 Grey, Zach., 296 l. 17, 448 l. 16.
 Griffin, Edw. Lord, 354 l. 23.
 Griffith, John, 210 l. 14, 206 l. 11.
 Grindal, Archbp., 418 l. 22.
 Gronovius, Jas., 424 l. 20.
 Grossellières, Mesdemoiselles, 353 l. 19.
 Grotius, H., 53, 272, 254 l. 7, 444 l. 4.
 Ground-ivy-tea, 290.
 Guest, John, 207 l. 26.
 Gunning, Bp., 31 l. 15, 238 l. 10, 263.
 Gunning, Hen., 268 l. 2.
 Gunpowder plot, 324 l. 8.

 Hacket, Bp. John, 126 l. 10, 132 l. 3,
     154 l. 6, 427 l. 27, 483 l. 37.
 Halifax, Lord, 126 l. 10, 361 l. 14.
 Hall, John, of Durham, 257 l. 1.
 Hall, Bp. Jos., 20 l. 11, 320 l. 9.
 Halley, Edm., 315 l. 23, 316 l. 1, 322
     l. 13, 393 l. 4, 395 l. 28, 396 l. 13.
 Hamel, Dr., 324 l. 4.
 Hamilton, Sir Wm., 252 l. 34.
 Hammond's New Test., 65, 106 l. 16, 287.
 Hampstead, 369 l. 4.
 Hampton Court, 322 l. 8, 366 l. 26,
     399 l. 21.
 Hardinge, Geo., 423 l. 22.
 Hare, Sir Rob., 418 l. 23.
 Harlow, 373 l. 26.
 Harnar, 320 l. 4.
 Harriot, Thos., 321 l. 1.
 Harris, Rob., 289 l. 4.
 Harrison, Thos., 161 n.
 Hartlib, S., 301 l. 17 to 303, 518 ll. 8, 16.
 Hartmann, Dr., 375 l. 32.
 Harvey, Sir Dan, 470 l. 27, 473 l. 27.
 Harvey, Sir Elias, 473 l. 30.
 Harvey, Wm., 162 l. 11, 355 l. 4.
 Harvey, Wm., 108, 307.
 Harwich, 348 l. 19, 409 l. 14.
 Harwood, Mr., 414 l. 2.
 Hasperg, Mr. Secretary, 355 l. 21.
 Hawksbee, Fr., 362 l. 3, 402 l. 19.
 Hautsch of Nürnberg, 400 l. 15.
 Hayes, Anne, Thomas and P., 306
     l. 10.
 Haygat, Humph., 390 l. 3.
 Hedley, Surrey, 8, 18, 32, 53, 57, 63,
     66, 70, 71, 203, 225.
 Hearne, T., 295 l. 29, 378 l. 36, 386
     l. 31.
 Heaven, John, 470 l. 6.
 Heberden, Dr. W., 224 l. 17, 289 l. 21.
 Hebrew inscription, 150 l. 17.
 Heereboord, 253 l. 9.
 Heilin, Dr., 493 l. 17.
 Heinsius, D., 441 l. 29—442, 444 l. 1.
 Helmstädt, 142 l. 5.
 Hempel, Jas., seal-caster, 397 l. 29.
 Hemsted, Tobias Rustat, 215 n.
 Henley, John, 250 l. 10.
 Henry VIII., 244 l. 7, 376 l. 32.
 Henry, Lamoral, 409 l. 21.
 Henshaw, Bp. Jos., 54 l. 31, 278 l. 15.
 Herbert, 237 l. 28.
 Herbert, George, 187 n.
 Herbst, J. B., goldsmith, 367 l. 21.
 Hermann, Dr. P. H., 388 l. 31.
 Hesiod, 422 l. 5.
 Hesychius, 137, 412 l. 4, 426.
 Hevelius, 393 l. 5.
 Hickes, G., 143 l. 9, 158 l. 19, 196 l. 16,
     395 l. 37, 444.
 Hickes, John, 446 l. 14.
 Hierman, Rob., 242 l. 27.
 Hierocles, 21 l. 26, 53 l. 25, 256 l. 20,
     268 l. 31, 275 l. 25.
 Hill, Mrs. A., 368 l. 15, 474 l. 1.
 Hill, Wm., 251 l. 10.
 Hitch, Robt., 493 l. 29.
 Hobbes, 53 l. 31, 276 l. 17, 368 l. 22.
 Hoadly, Bp., 333 l. 3.
 Hochstetteri oratione, 197 n.
 Höchst, 123 l. 13, 198 l. 1.
 Hoffmann, J. J., 392 l. 12.
 Holbein, 144 l. 25, 399 l. 28, 447 l. 20.
 Holdsworth, Dr. Rich., 437 l. 23.
 Holfom, Chr., watchmaker, 401 l. 11.
 Hollings, of Shrewsbury, 491 l. 10.
 Holmes, Geo., 360 l. 13.
 Hone, Rich., 250 l. 15.
 Honeyman, 408 l. 37.
 Hood, Thos., 439 l. 2.
 Hoock, Dr., 366 ll. 4, 9.
 Hook, Robt., 393 l. 14.
 Hooker's Eccles. Pol., 106 l. 21.
 Horace, Bentley, 136 l. 27.
 Horsley, East, 201 l. 8.
 Horton, 1 hos., 298 l. 9, 299 l. 4.
 Hottinger, 517 l. 29.
 Hounslow, 395 l. 15.
 Howell's Epistles, 53, 276.
 Hubbard, Goody, 231 l. 19.
 Hubert, Etienne, 442 l. 27.
 Hudson, John, 251 l. 24, 256 l. 22, 319
     l. 33, 374 l. 33, 378 l. 9, 379 ll. 24,
     28; 386 l. 17, 399 l. 10.
 Huet's letters, 449 l. 9.
 Hughes, John, 65, 286.
 Hurd, Bp., 249 l. 34.
 Huyghens, 394 l. 4.
 'Hydaspes,' 350.
 Hyde, Mr., 489 l. 14.
 Hygiasticon, 230 l. 35.

- Ifily, 379 l. 19.
 India, Mareschall in, 149 l. 15.
 Ink powder, 357 l. 9.
 Ireland, Rich., bookseller, 224 l. 6.
 Islington, 319 l. 11.
 Italy, sketches of, 127 l. 26.
 Jablonski, 424 l. 3.
 Jackson, Laur., 109, 222 l. 4, 237 l. 29, 308.
 Jackson, mechanical inventor, 402 l. 17.
 James I., 139 l. 9, 188 l. 11, 376 l. 19, 377 l. 33, 378 l. 29.
 James II., 219 l. 25.
 James, Dr. Hen., 120 l. 2, 325 l. 25, 332.
 Jebb, Dr. John, 254 l. 34.
 Jenkes, Hen., 270 l. 10.
 Jenkin, Dr. Rob., 28 l. 20, 31 l. 19, 222 l. 4, 261 l. 3, 262 l. 34, 263 l. 33, 265 l. 29, 325 l. 28, 326 l. 2, 447 l. 18.
 Johnson, Rich., of Nottingham, 291 l. 13.
 Johnson of Darnton Sch., 260 l. 32.
 Jones, Edward and Mary, 230 l. 21, 27.
 Josephus, MSS., 156 l. 22, 321 l. 21.
 Juncker, Chr., 128 l. 7, 417.
 Jurdaïne, Ignatius, 289 l. 10.
 Justin Martyr, ed. Thirlby, 269 l. 32.
 Karger. See Kerger.
 Kemp, Edw., 239 l. 25.
 Ken, Bp. Thos., 10 l. 20, 28 l. 27, 59 l. 3, 67 l. 10, 234 l. 36, 265 l. 30, 266 l. 1, 285, 288 l. 21.
 Kennett, Bp., 236 l. 4, 295 l. 31.
 Kensington, 395 l. 16, 399 l. 28.
 Kentte, Wm., 243 l. 17.
 Kettlewell, John, 20, 253.
 Kerger, Dr. Wm., 352 l. 14, 372 l. 32, 399 l. 35, 404 l. 2, 407 l. 17, 408 l. 36.
 Kidder, Bp. Rich., 217 l. 10.
 King, Bp. Hen., 528 l. 30.
 King, Bp. John, 389 l. 30.
 King's librarian. See R. Bentley.
 Kirk's coffee house, 419 l. 34.
 Knatchbull, John, 287 l. 56.
 Knatchbull, Sir Norton, 65, 287, 528 l. 27.
 Kuster, Dr. L., 116 l. 23, 328, 424 l. 22, 435 l. 4.
 Lake, Arth., 439 l. 35.
 Lake, Edw., 11 l. 10, 18 l. 27, 26 l. 19, 38 l. 30, 45 l. 64, 48 l. 18, 68 l. 29, 70 l. 12, 92 l. 21, 102 l. 14, 104 l. 9, 105 l. 1, 235.
 Lambeth, 211 l. 10, 305 l. 8, 313 l. 11, 317 l. 16, 322 l. 31, 397 l. 4, 521 l. 34.
 Lambeth-wells, 371 l. 24.
 Laney, Dr., 295 l. 18.
 Larkin Scholarships, 297 l. 34.
 Latomus, Mr., 354 l. 35.
 Laud, Archbp., 444 l. 19, 480 l. 13.
 Lauderdale, 305 l. 31.
 Laughton, John, 116 l. 14, 153, 176, 327, 329, 419 l. 19, 475 l. 29, 478.
 Laughton, Dr. R., 117 l. 4, 140 l. 23, 146 l. 6, 176 l. 9, 194 l. 22, 275 l. 7, 279 l. 35, 456, 475 l. 29, 476 l. 5.
 Lavater, Dr., 382 l. 22.
 Leatherhead, 225 l. 27.
 Lecapenus, Geo., 147 n.
 Le Comte, Florent., 158 l. 28.
 Lee, Wm., 368 l. 25.
 Leedes, Edward, 254.
 Leedes, Sam, 254 l. 31.
 Leger, John, 142, 437.
 Leicester, Sir Francis, 262 l. 11.
 Lemons, Mistress, 123 l. 16.
 Lente, Prof., of Herborn, 400 l. 32.
 Leo X., 376 l. 31.
 L'Epine, Margarita de, 350 l. 7, 359 l. 20.
 Leti, Greg. 427 l. 8.
 Leuwencron, 355 l. 19.
 Levinz, Dr. Rich., 208 l. 22, 211 l. 14, 212 l. 16 of n.
 Levinz, Wm., 216 l. 13.
 Lewis, John, 295 l. 22, 444 l. 37.
 Lightfoot, 499 l. 33, 501 l. 34, 518 l. 24, 519 ll. 1—17.
 Lindsell, Aug., 154, 478.
 Littlebury, 123 l. 2, 324 l. 25, 373 l. 31.
 Livy, 210 l. 34.
 Lloyd, Edw., 380 l. 32, 383 l. 24, 385 l. 36, 386 l. 3.
 Locke, John, 276 l. 30, 299 l. 10, 473 l. 4.
 Lodge, H., 266 l. 36.
 Loftus, Dudley, 521 l. 26, 527 l. 33.
 Lomeierus, 171 l. 10.
 London. Apothecaries Hall, 367 l. 14.
 — Apothecaries hortus medicus, 373 l. 1.
 — Banqueting house, 373 l. 3.
 — Barber-Surgeons' hall, 368 l. 17.
 — Bedlam, 355 l. 34.
 — Bethlehem, 324 l. 5.
 — Bishopsgate, 324 l. 19.
 — Bridewell, 356 l. 9.
 — Christ's Hospital, 363 l. 27.
 — College of Physicians, 355 l. 1.
 — Cottonian Library, 119 l. 23, 142 l. 6, 316 l. 22, 369 l. 13.
 — Covent Garden, 396 l. 24, 362 l. 19.
 — Cries of London, 401 l. 4.
 — Cupid's Garden, 371 l. 23.
 — Custom house, 354 l. 32.

- London. Drapers' Hall, 349 l. 34.
 — Drury Lane, 353 l. 2.
 — Dutch church, 312 l. 37.
 — Exchange, 349 l. 35, 353 l. 2, 370 l. 3.
 — Exeter change, 391 l. 10.
 — Exchequer office, 372 l. 13.
 — Frame-work Knitters' Hall, 368 l. 23.
 — Gray's Inn, 355 l. 16.
 — Gresham Coll., 313 l. 25, 365 l. 14.
 — Guildhall, 355 l. 36, 395 l. 30.
 — Haymarket Theatre, 350 l. 4, 364 l. 31.
 — Heralds' College, 367 l. 17.
 — Houses of Parliament, 322 l. 30, 361 l. 11.
 — Hyde Park, 364 l. 35, 349 l. 31.
 — Inner Temple, 356 l. 37.
 — Latin Coffee House, 401 l. 17.
 — Lincoln's Inn Fields, 319 l. 13, 371 l. 32.
 — Little Britain, 356 l. 1.
 — London Bridge, 356 l. 15.
 — Medical College, 324 l. 4.
 — Merchant Taylor's School, 8 l. 10, 12 l. 6, 16, 34 l. 21, 201 l. 20, 202 l. 4, 216 n., 369 l. 36.
 — Middle Temple, 356 l. 25.
 — Mile End Green, 318 l. 27.
 — Monument, 314 l. 20, 317 l. 12, 363 l. 26.
 — Mint, 322 l. 26, 354 l. 30.
 — Montagu House, 372 l. 17.
 — Old Bailey, 370 l. 5.
 — Painter-stainers Hall, 357 l. 16.
 — Paris Coffee House, 351 l. 35, 360 l. 25, 396 l. 29, 408 l. 35.
 — Paternoster Row, 350 l. 13.
 — Romer Tavern, Gerard Street, 407 l. 10.
 — St Bartholomew's Hospital, 363 l. 31.
 — St James' Palace, 366 l. 22; Chapel, 353 l. 20; Park, 353 l. 25.
 — St Martin's Library, 367 l. 27.
 — St Paul's Cathedral, 318 l. 6, 353 l. 7.
 — Savoy, 318 l. 36.
 — Sion College, 445 l. 26, 498 l. 27, 362 l. 9.
 — Smithfield, 363 l. 32.
 — Somerset House, 367 l. 34.
 — Spring Gardens, 371 l. 25.
 — Tothill Fields, 396 l. 17.
 — Tower, 313 l. 36, 354 l. 10, 359 l. 31, 395 l. 25.
 — Westminster, 350 l. 3, 372 l. 9, 366 l. 15.
 — Westminster Abbey, 361 l. 22, 316 l. 3, 364 l. 7, 396 l. 20.
 — Westminster Hall, 361 l. 32.
 — Whitehall, 349 l. 36, 366 l. 27.
 'London cuckolds,' 357 l. 8.
 'London's diversion,' 371 l. 18.
 'Love for love,' 354 l. 36.
 Loveday, Mr., of Norwich, 267 l. 12.
 Luard, H. R., 437 l. 32.
 Lucian, 20, 254.
 Lucretius. Creech, 211 l. 15.
 Ludolf's Aethiopia, 521 l. 14, 527 l. 33.
 Luke, Dr. John, 120, 338.
 Luther, 128 l. 1, 358 l. 18, 417 l. 18.
 Lutwyche, Thos., 229.
 Lynn, 28 l. 14, 244 l. 13.
 Macretol, or Macretuil, 391 l. 8.
 Magnet, 169 l. 9.
 Maidenhead, 395 l. 6.
 Maidstone fair, 249 l. 11.
 Malaicae linguae lexicon, 150 l. 9.
 Mandeville, Dr. J., 11, 12, 235.
 Mannington, 348 l. 29, 409 l. 14.
 Mapletoft, Dr. J., 305 l. 9.
 Margaret of Richmond, 128 l. 28, 129 l. 2.
 Marlborough, Duke of, 348 l. 12, 349 l. 20, 373 l. 8; son, 130 l. 24; daughters, 359 l. 16.
 Marsh, Bp. Francis, 301 l. 19, 302 l. 8.
 Marsh, Archbp Narcissus, 490 l. 35.
 Marshall, J., 149 l. 15 and n., 150 l. 10, 360 l. 12, 361 l. 35, 366 l. 30, 367 l. 24, 369 l. 30, 393 l. 10, 476 l. 36, 477 l. 3, 518 ll. 16, 18, 30; 520 l. 28, 527 l. 33, 530 l. 36.
 Martial, 53 l. 15.
 'Martin Mar-all,' 361 l. 37.
 Martyr, 231 l. 18.
 Mary, Q., 216 l. 20.
 Mason, Chas., 224 l. 3.
 Mason, J., 477 l. 25.
 Mason, Simon, 422 l. 20.
 Masson, J., 138 l. 12, 436.
 Masters, Rob., 448 l. 8.
 Mead, Dr., 421 l. 24.
 Ménard, dutch minister, 313 l. 3.
 Mercati (or Marcatti), 152 l. 16.
 Meredith, Roger, 337 l. 23.
 Merian, Mad., 371 l. 1.
 Meryfield, jr., Geo., 206 l. 16 and n.
 Meursius, J., 449 l. 9.
 Mews, Bp. Pet., 211 l. 9 and n. 213 l. 1.
 Meyer, Dr., of Stuttgart, 406 l. 34.
 Michaelis, J. D., 529 l. 30.
 Mickleham, 201 l. 12, 207 l. 30, 209 l. 9, 210 l. 6, 211 l. 7, 225 ll. 26, 28; 226 l. 28.
 Middleton, Conyers, 459 l. 32, 460 l. 29, 465 l. 21—467.
 Miller, Edward, 426.
 Millington, Edw., auctioneer, 211 l. 13 of n., 241 l. 2, 246 l. 12, 492 l. 11.

Mills, Dr., 118 l. 1.
Mills, Is., 334 l. 26, 337 l. 3.
Milner, John, 418 l. 15, 493 l. 23.
Milton's Paradise Lost, 53 l. 15.
Missale, 127 l. 23.
Molière's 'Etourdi', 362 l. 2.
Monconys, 376 l. 24, 378 l. 34.
Monck, J. H., 415 l. 17.
Montagu, Duchess of, 359 l. 16, 373 l. 12.

Montagu, Duke of, 372 l. 17, 396 l. 6.
Montagu, Rich., 479 l. 11.
Moore, Bp. J., 255 l. 25, 256 l. 11, 265 l. 17, 279 l. 24, 282 l. 10, 283 l. 19, 299 l. 16, 323 l. 36, 372 l. 9, 477 l. 11, 529 l. 29.
Moor, Thos., 395 l. 26.
More, Hen., 272 l. 29, 276 l. 30, 300 l. 18, 301 l. 31, 304 l. 25.
Moreland, Sir S., 142 l. 24, 402 l. 2.
Morgan, Bp C., 279 l. 36.
Morice, Wm., 526 l. 15.
Morison, Rob., 388 l. 25.
Morley, Bp. Geo., 528 l. 30.
Moscow's painting, 152 l. 15.
Moses du Soul (Solanus), 328 l. 4.
Moxon, mechanician, 396 l. 16.
Muddiman's news-letter, 419 l. 36.
Murray, M. (Grypswald.), 528 l. 6.
Musaeus, 54 l. 79, 20 l. 20, 278 l. 2.
Music Clubs, 133 l. 3, 461 l. 31.

Needham, Gervase, 250 l. 31.
Needham, Peter, 256 l. 6.
Nelson, 11 l. 14, 20 l. 2, 30 l. 17, 45 l. 24, 46 l. 27, 53 l. 19, 58 l. 1, 73 l. 5, 92 l. 21, 99, 102 l. 17, 104 l. 25, 253 l. 18, 268 l. 29, 294 l. 15.
Neocorus. See Kuster.
Nipperiani, Bacilli, 361 l. 32, 402 l. 5.
Newcome, John, 55, 278, 448 l. 10.
Newcomen, Thos., 233 l. 10.
Newport, 324 l. 25, 373 l. 27.
Newport-pagnet, 374 l. 12.
Newton, Adam, 416 l. 29.
Newton, Sir Isaac, 279 l. 18, 280 l. 28, 282 l. 24, 314 l. 22, 319 l. 17, 322 l. 26, 323 l. 30, 365 l. 24, 393 l. 10, 402 l. 7, 457 l. 2—458, 475 l. 20.
Newton, Lancelot, 98 l. 30, 222 l. 4.
Nicholas, Edw., 206 l. 3.
Nichols, John, 205 l. 6, 221 l. 15.
Nicolai (or Nicolini), of Haymarket Theatre, 350 l. 6, 407 l. 16.
Nimptsch, Baron, 123 l. 2, 352 l. 7, 357 l. 34, 362 l. 37, 365 l. 6, 397 l. 1, 398 l. 8, 400 l. 11, 402 l. 21, 405 l. 33, 406 l. 29, 408 l. 36, 411.
Norfolk, Duke of, 365 l. 37.
Norfolk hebre * inscription, 150 l. 18.

Norris, John, 256 l. 24, 257 l. 1.
North, Lord, 245 l. 36, 246 l. 4, 334 l. 27.
North, Dr. John, 415 l. 31, 419 l. 30.
Northampton, 243 l. 22.
Norton. Mrs. Sarah, 225 l. 17.
Norwich stuffs, 241 l. 33.
Notitia acad. Cantab., 124, 415.
Nourse, Peter, 266 l. 28

Oath, Scholars', 23 l. 24.
Okeham school, 232 l. 6.
Only, Nic., 319 l. 18.
Orange, Prince of, 207 l. 12.
Orchard, Arth., 257 l. 25.
Ormond, Duke of, 359 l. 27, 364 l. 37.
Ovington Estate, 215 n; Rectory, 295 l. 13.
Oxenden, Prof. G., 120, 337.
Oxford, Earl of, 231 l. 9, 262 l. 18, 477 l. 17.
Oxford, 117 l. 31; Burman, 319—21; Uffenbach, 374—95.
— All Souls, 320 l. 16, 381 l. 24, 387 l. 21, 390 l. 19, 394 l. 16.
— Anatomical School, 378 l. 37.
— Ashmolean, 379 l. 5, 382 l. 31, 384 l. 18, 385 l. 16, 387 l. 5, 391 l. 21, 392 l. 1.
— Balliol, 320 l. 16.
— Bodleian, 319 l. 23—321, 374 l. 25, 375 l. 29, 378 l. 1, 379 l. 3, 381 l. 1—385, 387 l. 4, 391 l. 3, 392 l. 1, 399 l. 8, 479 l. 27.
— Brasenose, 391 l. 26.
— Christ Church, 319 l. 27, 381 l. 33.
— Corpus Christi, 381 l. 21.
— Exeter, 377.
— Hortus Medicus, 388 l. 10.
— Jesus, 377 l. 32.
— Lincoln, 387 l. 28.
— Magdalen, 320 l. 13, 374 l. 23, 383 l. 15, 392 l. 3.
— Merton, 385 l. 1.
— New All Saints' Ch., 392 l. 26.
— New, 320 l. 12, 375 l. 17.
— Oriel, 392 l. 25.
— Paradise Garden, 390 l. 6.
— Pembroke, 392 l. 31.
— Physic Garden, 374 l. 20.
— Queens', 319 l. 34, 375 l. 8.
— St. Edmund's Hall, 319 l. 34.
— St. John's, 320 l. 15, 389 l. 21.
— Savilian Lecture R., 321 l. 23; Library, 392 l. 34, 394.
— St. Mary's Ch., 320 l. 8.
— Schools, 391 l. 29.
— Sheldonian, 319 l. 30, 375 l. 22, 391 l. 33, 392 l. 23, 393 l. 28.

- Oxford, Trinity, 319 l. 13, 379 l. 9, 381 l. 13.
 — University, 320 l. 16.
 — Wadham, 381 l. 16.
- Packington, Lady, 234 l. 29.
 Paget, Mr., 502 l. 13.
 Paisible, flutist, 359 l. 22.
 Paley, Wm., 250 l. 32.
 Paper-mills, Camb., 469 l. 21.
 Pardin, watch-maker, 402 l. 14.
 Parfitt, Jon., of Wells, 391 l. 13.
 Paris, Dr., 258 l. 19.
 Parker, Matt., 450 l. 25.
 Parker, Bp. S., 272 l. 30.
 Parker's Laws of Nature, 276 l. 26.
 Parry, 380 l. 25, 385 l. 19, 28.
 Parsell, Thos., 237 l. 16.
 'Parviso,' 208 l. 31.
 Pask, Dr., 459 l. 22, 460 l. 33, 464 l. 37.
 Patrick, Bp. S., 10, 18, 234, 238, 302 l. 36, 303 l. 16, 329.
 Patrick, optician, 396 l. 12.
 Pauli, Dr., 398 l. 22, 406 l. 17, 407 l. 8.
 Paulus, gardener, Woodstock, 385 l. 24.
 Pauw, De., 434 l. 32.
 Pearson, J., 256 l. 28, 304 l. 31.
 Pedley, Sir N., 424 l. 19.
 Pembroke, Earl of, 360 l. 37, 479 l. 26.
 Pepusch, music director, 350 l. 11, 359 l. 19.
 Perne, And., 245 l. 29.
 Perronium, Cardinal, 443 l. 17.
 Persius, 53 l. 27.
 Perusinus, Petrus Bizarrus, 413 l. 27, 414 l. 14.
 Petavius, 211 l. 3.
 Peterborough's garden, 373 l. 18.
 Petit, S., MSS. 321 l. 20.
 Petiver, Jas., 370 l. 27, 372 l. 31.
 Petraeus, 515 l. 15, 36; 516 l. 32, 527 l. 33.
 Phileleutheri Lipsiensis, 138 l. 10; 428 l. 6.
 Phillips, J., 148 n.
 Piedmont, 142 l. 10.
 Piers, Bp. Wm., 274 l. 30, 528 l. 30.
 Pietro, viol di Gamba player, 359 l. 27.
 Pindar, 19 l. 17, 53 l. 9, 253, 271.
 Pingo (or Perigo), watchmaker, 365 l. 11, 367 l. 22.
 Pitkarn, Mr., 321 l. 26.
 Pitt diamond, 405 l. 35.
 Pliny's Letters, 19, 53, 253, 275.
 Plumtree, Prof., 422 l. 1.
 Plutarch's lives, 19 l. 23.
 Plymouth lighthouse, 373 l. 34.
 Pocock, Edw., 489 l. 4, 490 l. 16, 493 l. 11, 519 l. 16, 527 l. 32.
 Poley, Edm., 255 l. 8.
- Poley, Hen., 254 l. 27.
 Poole, Matt., 300 l. 29.
 Poran, 149 l. 22, 476.
 Pound, Jas., 380 l. 3.
 Porson, Prof., 423 l. 28.
 Praun, Jas., 403 l. 26.
 Prayer-book, 1662, 360 l. 1.
 Price, W., 381 l. 34.
 Prideaux, Humph. 211 n. l. 11.
 Prior, Matt., 256 l. 11, 260 l. 35, 291 l. 19, 329 l. 16.
 Psalms, Hebrew, 19 l. 12, 53 l. 17, 106 l. 18.
 Puckering (or Pickering), alias Newton, Sir Hen., 126 l. 13.
 Puffendorf, 53, 270.
 Puranas, The, 149 n.
 Purchase, Geo., 370 l. 17.
 Puy, Claudius du, 363 l. 9.
- Quaker's meeting, 366 l. 15.
 Quare : watchmaker, 351 l. 30.
 Quendon-street, 324 l. 25.
 Querists, The, 420 l. 36.
 Quintilian, 19 l. 21, 54 l. 20, 278 l. 6.
- Radnor, Earl of, 373 l. 21.
 Raimburg, 394 l. 13.
 Raleigh, Sir W., 211 l. 2.
 Ramus, 438 l. 35.
 Ranelagh, Lord, 400 l. 22.
 Raphael, 152 l. 12, 399 l. 24.
 Ray, John, 53, 198 l. 85, 272.
 "Rediit," 294 l. 19.
 Redi, Fr., 128 l. 10, 417.
 Reflexions upon learning, 144 l. 19.
 Regnier, seal-engraver, 372 l. 19.
 Reigate, 201 l. 3.
 Reimers, Mr., 379 l. 35, 404 l. 29.
 Reiser, Ant., 161 n.
 Reyner of Red Lion, 411 l. 4.
 Reynolds, Bp. Edw., 528 l. 30.
 Reynolds, Wm., 298 l. 12.
 Rhenanus, Beatus, 137 l. 13.
 Rhodes, Dr. J., 206 l. 24, 208 l. 23.
 Richard, King, 165 n.
 Rich, Sir Thos., 528 l. 27.
 Richmond, 322 l. 9, 399 l. 25.
 Richter. See Arnold.
 Ritterplatz, 127, 141 n., 142 l. 27, 195 l. 19, 417.
 Robins, Francis, 237 l. 23.
 Robinson, Mr., 257 l. 25.
 Rochester, Earl of, 299 l. 11, 472 l. 13.
 Rochester, 208 l. 24.
 Roderick, Dr., 469 l. 7.
 Rohault, 55 l. 31, 65 l. 10, 277 l. 7, 279—284, 286.
 Rohy, mechanician, 402 l. 1.
 Rook, Laur, 366 l. 11.

- Roper, Francis, 17, 23 l. 4, 24, 31 l. 24, 32 l. 30, 35 l. 21, 37 l. 13, 41 l. 17, 44 l. 15, 55 l. 27, 60 l. 11, 62 l. 24, 64 l. 25, 71 l. 20, 94 l. 15, 95 l. 23, 96 l. 18, 99 l. 21, 100 l. 20, 101 l. 5, 102 l. 7, 221 l. 34, 222 l. 11, 260, 263, 285, 447 l. 30.
- Rosa, Salvator, 159 l. 13.
- Roussier, Adam, 374 l. 18, 387 l. 23, 389 l. 18, 391 l. 11, 395 l. 2.
- Rowe, Nic., 257 l. 2.
- Roxburgh, John, Duke of, 277 l. 20.
- Rubens' paintings, 366 l. 28.
- Rucker, Hans, harpsicord maker, 407 l. 13.
- Rudston, Dr. John, 217 l. 13.
- Rumford, 349 l. 5.
- Russell, Dr. John, 321 n.
- Russel, Lord, 323 l. 34.
- Rustat, Tobias, 214 l. 21.
- Rutherford, Thos., 272 l. 3.
- Rymer's Foedera, 357 l. 2, 359 l. 36, 385 l. 34.
- Sacheverell, Dr., 12 l. 15, 235, 236 l. 6, 370 l. 18, 383 l. 18, 384 l. 8, 459 l. 29, 461 l. 4.
- Sacheverell family, 236.
- Saffron Walden, 324 l. 32, 325 l. 4.
- Sagg, Sir W. S., 232 l. 15.
- St. John, Sir Walter, 302 l. 37.
- Salignac, 438 l. 34.
- Sallust, 53, 275.
- Salmon, Mrs., 514 l. 32.
- Samon, Mrs., 368 l. 27.
- Sancroft, Archbp., 521 l. 5—522 l. 1.
- Sanderson, Rob., 53 l. 4, 270, 528 l. 29.
- Sanderson, Thos., 234 l. 2.
- Sandlow, Mrs., 353 l. 4.
- Sarbievius, M. Casimir, 11 l. 17.
- Sarpi, Paul, 412 l. 18.
- Saunders, Dr., 260 l. 3.
- Sawyer, Edm., 226 l. 5.
- Scheyon, violin master, 359 l. 26.
- Schooten, Fras, 321 l. 7.
- Schulz, watchmaker, 401 l. 6.
- Sclater, Sir Thos., 415 l. 22.
- Seaman, Mr., 518 l. 7.
- Selden, John, 444 l. 12.
- Seller, Abednego, 30, 267.
- Seneca, 19 l. 13.
- Shakespeare's Othello, 364 l. 32.
- Sheldon, Archp., 526 ll. 2, 24; 528 l. 29.
- Sheppard, Domner, 318 l. 28.
- Sherbourne, 406 l. 23.
- Sherlock, Dr. Thos., 325 l. 27.
- Short, Dr. Thos., 281 l. 21.
- Shorting, Dr., 237 l. 23, 257 l. 23.
- Shorton, Rob., 296 l. 26, 297 l. 1.
- Sinker, Dr. Rob., 155 n.
- Slingsby, Sir Hen., 233 l. 33.
- Sloane, Dr. Hans., 365 l. 22, 408 l. 13.
- Smith, George, 297 l. 4.
- Smith, John, engraver, 372 l. 26.
- Smith, Jos., 206 l. 24.
- Smith, Dr. Thos., 119 l. 20, 257 l. 24, 277 l. 4, 295 l. 36, 316 l. 22, 317 l. 4, 328 l. 14, 331, 357 l. 22.
- Solanus, 328 l. 64.
- Somers, John, Lord, 365 l. 34.
- Somerset, Duke of, 126 l. 9, 399 l. 22.
- Somner, Wm., 196 l. 18.
- Southampton, Earl of, 170 l. 27.
- Southwark glass factory, 372 l. 2.
- Spanheim, Ez., 169 l. 23, 317 l. 33, 319 l. 9, 322 l. 36, 324 l. 13, 433 l. 1.
- Spencer, Dr. John, 519 ll. 13, 26.
- Spon, 387 l. 34.
- Spycer, Ri. Andrew alias, 242 l. 35.
- Stade, Dietrich von, 396 l. 4.
- Stanhope, General, 396 l. 18.
- Stephens, Thos., 304 l. 17.
- Stevens, Wm., of Rotherhithe, 162 l. 4.
- Stillingfleet, Edw., 272 l. 30, 300 l. 33, 424 l. 33.
- Stokys' almswomen, 246 l. 27.
- Strada, F., 206 l. 21.
- Stratford, Dr. W., 316 l. 17, 323 l. 22.
- Strerii, M., 206 l. 20.
- Strype, John, 223 l. 16, 295 l. 24, 447 l. 5.
- Stubbs, Philip, 7 l. 20, 201 l. 27.
- Stubbs, Samuel, 225 l. 15, 230 l. 8, 231 l. 22.
- Sturbridge fair. See Cambridge.
- Sudbury, 245 l. 22.
- Suetonius, 19 l. 19, 53 l. 20, 253, 275 l. 20, 297 l. 20.
- Suffolk, Earl of, 247 l. 33.
- Suicer, J. H., 65, 285.
- Suidas, 116 l. 23, 329 l. 8.
- Swaart, Widow, 350 l. 24.
- Sydenham, Sir P., 295 l. 22, 332 l. 31.
- Syke, Dr. Hen., 197 l. 19, 256 l. 13, 352 l. 31.
- Sykes, Dr. A. A., 423 l. 17, 465 l. 17, 466 l. 9, 467 l. 27, 469 l. 6.
- Tacitus, 19 l. 21.
- Tacquet, 55 l. 30, 278 l. 25, 307 l. 12.
- Talbot, Prof. James, 120 l. 10, 338.
- Taverner portrait, 357 l. 19.
- Taylor, Dr. Brook, 277 l. 32.
- Templer, Dr., 263 l. 1.
- Tenant, Mr., of Ely, 268 l. 3.
- Tenison, Archbp., 305 l. 7, 317 l. 16, 318 l. 33, 367 l. 31, 307 l. 6.
- Tentzel, 141 n., 143 n., 194 l. 8.
- Terence, 106 l. 162.

- Theobald, Fr., 304 l. 14.
 Theocritus, 20 l. 30, 254 l. 13.
 Theognis, 20 l. 30, 254 l. 13.
 Theobald, Sir Fr., 518 l. 28.
 Thirlby, Styán, 53 l. 3, 269, 286 l. 32, 459 l. 5.
 Thomas à Kempis, 19 l. 31, 53 l. 18, 128 l. 30, 253.
 Thomas of Elmham, 164 l. 1 and n.
 Thompson, Peter and Jas., 258 l. 7.
 Thomson, Rich., 479 l. 14.
 Thoresby, 295 l. 28, 418 l. 13, 449 l. 19.
 Thornhill, Jas., 351 l. 1.
 Thriploe, 31 l. 7.
 Thurlin, Thos., 264 l. 37.
 Thwaites, Edw., 251 l. 21.
 Thynne, Mrs., 29 l. 4, 266 l. 14.
 Thynne, Thos., 266 l. 11.
 Tillotson, Jo., 300 l. 32, 459 l. 37.
 Tindal, Fr., 145 l. 15, 450.
 Tompion, barometer maker, 399 l. 28.
 Tompson, Sir Peter, 445 l. 4.
 Took, Benj., 223 l. 21.
 Tothill, Mr., 217 l. 15.
 Tothill fields, 396 l. 17.
 Travers, Wm., 436 l. 20.
 Trevor, Sir John, 267 l. 13.
 Trier, J. F. L., 528 l. 30.
 Triplet, Thos., 480 l. 14.
 Trumpington tavern, 240 l. 25.
 Tuckney, Dr. Ant., 300 l. 28, 306 l. 2.
 Tudway, Thos., 473 l. 17.
 Turkey, 150 l. 14, 152 l. 3.
 Turner, George, 363 l. 37.
 Turner, Mr., 237 l. 17.
 Turner, Bp., 238 l. 10.
 Turner, Dr. Thos., 101 l. 10, 297.
 Turton, Sir John, 450 l. 37.
 Tyrrell, John, 53 l. 30, 276, 280 l. 8.
 Uffenbach, Z. C., 273, 414, 444, 477;
     Travels in England, 348—410; at
     Cambridge, 123—198; notes, 411—
     517; Epist., 132, 153; Life, 341.
 Upton, Jas., 251 l. 29.
 Ussher, Archbp., 277 l. 2, 439 l. 20, 444
     l. 11.
 Vaudois. See Waldenses.
 Vauxhall, 371 l. 25.
 Veda, The, 150 n.
 Velleius Paterculus, 137 l. 12, 426.
 Verdon, Thos., 222 l. 11.
 Villars, G. Visc. Grandison, 528 l. 26.
 Vincent, Nath., 295 l. 21.
 Vincenz, 372 l. 35.
 Virgil, 19 l. 10, 53 l. 7, 117 l. 7.
 Volder, Burchard, 314 l. 23, 315 l. 30.
 Vischer, print-seller, 361 l. 3.
 Vossius, Is., 53 l. 10, 148 l. 26, 408 l. 7.
 Wagstaff, Dr. W., 96 l. 27, 291.
 Wain, Chas., 524 l. 30.
 Wake, Hen., 265 l. 18.
 Waldenses MSS., 142 l. 23, 437.
 Waller, Edmund, 291 l. 15.
 Waller, John, 181 l. 10, 183 l. 10, 184
     l. 12, 185 l. 8, 10; 186 l. 9, 275 l. 4.
 Wallis, John, 298 l. 2, 320 l. 20, 393
     l. 28.
 Walton, Brian, 488 l. 17, 497 l. 1, 516
     l. 3, 528 l. 12.
 Wandering Jew, 194 l. 10.
 Wanley, Humph., 231 n., 295 l. 29,
     473 l. 17, 477 l. 8.
 Wansleben, M., 527 l. 32, 528 l. 12.
 Warburton, Wm., 204 l. 30.
 Ward, Edward, 240 l. 11, 410 l. 12.
 Ward, Ald. Sir John, 13 l. 23, 237.
 Ward, Samuel, 160 l. 6.
 Ward, Bp. Seth, 366 l. 11, 498 l. 37,
     526 l. 7, 528 l. 30.
 Warren, Rich., 207 l. 13, 208 l. 8, 256
     l. 34.
 Wase, Chr., 223 l. 24.
 Wasse, Jos., 275 l. 18, 435 l. 21.
 Waterhouse, 530 l. 29.
 Waterland, 325 l. 24.
 Watson, Samuel, clockmaker, 399 l. 30.
 Wells, Edw., 251 l. 22.
 Welsh common prayer, etc., 301 l. 3.
 Wendy, Lady Lettice, 272 l. 31.
 Wesenbeck of Augsburg, 402 l. 13, 407
     l. 18.
 West, Francis, 237 l. 13.
 West, Mr., 31 l. 9.
 Westerreich, locksmith, 363 l. 21.
 Wetstein, Hen., 368 l. 34, 285 l. 29.
 Weymouth, Lord, 29 l. 3, 265 l. 31,
     266, 447 l. 18.
 Wharton, Hen., 211 n. l. 4.
 Whear, Degory, 391 l. 35.
 Wheelocke, Abr., 489 l. 8, 512 l. 17.
 Wheeler, Sir Geo., 387 l. 31.
 Whewell, Wm., 271 l. 5, 272 l. 8.
 Whichcote, Benj., 99 l. 13, 103 l. 3,
     294 l. 3, 297.
 Whichcote family, 306.
 Whincup, Dr. John, 233 l. 1.
 Whincup, Dr. Thos., 8 l. 18, 12 l. 1, 232.
 Whiston, Wm., 53 l. 3, 106 l. 22, 120
     l. 9, 178 l. 28, 236 l. 22, 250 l. 29,
     269 l. 25, 278 l. 24, 287 l. 17, 307,
     338.
 Whitby, Dan., 53 l. 2, 269.
 White, Mr., 383 l. 6.
 White, Bp. Thos., 217 n. l. 9.
 Whitfield, Geo., 235 l. 3.
 Whitford, David, 278 l. 4.
 Whitgift, John, 417 l. 4.

- Whitlock, B., 488 l. 23.
 Whitlock, John, 298 l. 15.
 Whole Duty of Man, 10 l. 19, 11 l. 14,
     20 l. 1, 47 l. 1, 53 l. 19, 220 l. 30,
     234, 253.
 Widmore, R., 361 l. 26.
 Wildman, Dorothy, 230 l. 27.
 Wilkins, John, 276 l. 29, 299 l. 16, 300
     l. 5.
 William, King, 219 l. 15, 312 l. 36.
 William III., 372 l. 24.
 William, Elector Fred, 380 l. 14.
 Williams, Bp., 129 l. 9, 316 l. 6.
 Williams, Abp. J., 132 l. 2, 239 l. 13,
     361 l. 30, 418 l. 12.
 Williams, Mr., of Exeter Coll., 377,
     ll. 5, 10.
 Wilson, Robt., 295 l. 4.
 Windsor, Hon. Mr., 468 l. 4.
 Windsor, 321 l. 33, 322 l. 1, 366 l. 26,
     395 l. 7.
 Winny, Mrs., 230 l. 36.
 Winstanley, Hen., 324 l. 26, 355 l. 27,
     373 l. 35, 374 l. 3.
 Winter, Cornelius, 299 n. l. 4.
 Winterton, R., 251 l. 5, 254 l. 14.
 Wit, J. de, 323 l. 4.
 Witham, Pet., 160 n. l. 4.
 Witham, 409 l. 11, 349 l. 1.
 Wolfe, Michael, 248 l. 32.
 Wolfenbüttel, Prince of, 355 l. 23.
 Womock, Lawrence, 469 l. 32.
 Wood, Ant. A., 144 l. 17, 379 l. 32,
     391 l. 25.
 Wood, Thos., 363 l. 36.
 Woodford, 324 l. 24.
 Woodstock, 320 l. 18, 384 l. 22.
 Woodward, Mr., 231 l. 7.
 Woodward, Dr., 365 l. 27, 397 l. 28,
     401 l. 26, 402 l. 25, 404 l. 8, 403 l. 14.
 Worcester, Marquis of, 400 l. 20.
 Worsley, 518 l. 7.
 Worth, Archdeacon, 330 l. 26.
 Worthington's diary, 239 l. 15, 299 l. 8,
     301—6, 518 ll. 8—36.
 Worthington, Mrs., 305 l. 1.
 Wotton, Sir Hen., 251 l. 7.
 Wotton, Hen., 425 l. 17, 453 . 25.
 Wray. See Ray.
 Wren, Sir Chr., 393 l. 27, 415 l. 26.
 Wren, Dr., 365 l. 31.
 Wren, Bp. M., 528 l. 29.
 Wulfe, 247 l. 15.
 Wyat, Mr., 414 l. 2.
 York, Duchess of, 217 l. 17.
 Yorkshire cloth, 241 l. 33.
 "You Man of Kent," 350 l. 28.
 Zinck of Dresden, 408 l. 10.
 Zwinger, Mr., 392 l. 10.

PUBLISHED BY THE

Cambridge Antiquarian Society.

INDEX TO THE REPORTS AND ABSTRACTS OF PROCEEDINGS. Including Subjects and Authors of Communications and Publications, 1840—97. 8vo. 3s. 6d. net.

CAMBRIDGE.

THE DUAL ORIGIN OF THE TOWN OF CAMBRIDGE. By ARTHUR GRAY. With 2 plates. 1908. 4to. 3s. 6d. net.

CAMBRIDGE GILD RECORDS. Edited by MARY BATESON. With Preface by Archdeacon W. CUNNINGHAM. 1903. 8vo. 7s. 6d. net.

CAMBRIDGE OUTSIDE TRUMPINGTON GATES before the Foundation of Peterhouse. By Dr H. P. STOKES. Map and Plate. 1908. 8vo. 5s. net.

GREAT ST. MARY'S CHURCH. Historical and Architectural Notes by S. SANDARS; together with the Annals of the Church. By E. VENABLES. Folding Plan and 4 Illustrations. 1869. 8vo. 3s. 6d. net.

— ACCOUNTS OF THE CHURCHWARDENS, 1504—1635. Edited by J. E. FOSTER. 1903. 8vo. 21s. net.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH. Register of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials. Edited by Dr J. VENN. 1891. 8vo. 5s. net.

DIARY OF ALDERMAN S. NEWTON, 1662—1717. Edited by J. E. FOSTER. 1890. 8vo. 5s. net.

QUEENS' COLLEGE. History, 1446—1662. By W. G. SEARLE. 2 vols. 1867—71. 8vo. 16s. net.

CORPUS CHRISTI COLLEGE. Josselin's Hist. Coll. C.C. et Beatae Mariae. Edited by J. W. CLARK. With Folding Plan of Rooms. 1880. 8vo. 2s. net.

— THE SOURCES OF ARCHBISHOP PARKER'S Collection of MSS. at Corpus Christi College. By Dr M. R. JAMES. 1899. 8vo. 5s. net.

ST RADEGUND'S PRIORY. By ARTHUR GRAY. With Plan and Illustrations. 1898. 8vo. 5s. net.

GONVILLE AND CAIUS COLLEGE. Annals, 1563—1648. By JOHN CAIUS. Edited by Dr J. VENN. 1904. 8vo. 15s. net.

TRINITY COLLEGE. The Riot at the Great Gate of Trinity College, February 1610—11. Edited by J. W. CLARK. With 1 Plate. 1906. 8vo. 2s. 6d. net.

- TRINITY COLLEGE. Biographical Notes on the Librarians of Trinity College on Sir Edward Stanhope's Foundation. By Dr R. SINKER. 1897. 8vo. 3s. 6d. net.
- THE CHAPLAINS AND THE CHAPEL OF THE University (1256—1568). By Dr H. P. STOKES. With 5 Plates. 1906. 8vo. 5s. net.
- DIARY OF EDWARD RUD ; to which are added several letters of Dr. Bentley. Edited by Dr. H. R. LUARD. 1860. 8vo. 2s. 6d. net.
- CORRESPONDENCE OF PROFESSOR RICHARD PORSON. Edited by Dr. H. R. LUARD. 1867. 8vo. 4s. 6d. net.
- MEMOIR OF REV. CALEB PARNHAM, B.D., OF ST JOHN'S COLLEGE. By J. R. LUNN. 1884. 8vo. 2s. net.

36 CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

- THE PLACE-NAMES OF CAMBRIDGESHIRE. By Prof. WALTER W. SKEAT. 1901. Second Edition. 1911. 5s. net.
- ANCIENT CAMBRIDGESHIRE. By C. C. BABINGTON. Second Edition, enlarged. Map and Illustrations in the Text. 1883. 8vo. 5s. net.
- ROMAN ROADS INTO CAMBRIDGE. With 2 Maps : Roman Roads in Britain and Roman Roads in Cambridgeshire. By F. G. WALKER. The Ford and Bridge of Cambridge. By ARTHUR GRAY. Proceedings, No. LVI. 1910. 7s. 6d. net.
- A SHORT CALENDAR OF THE FEET OF FINES. From 7 Ric I. to end Ric III. By W. RYE. 1891. 8vo. 5s. net.
- COINS, TOKENS AND MEDALS OF THE TOWN, County and University. By W. G. SEARLE. 1871. 8vo. 2s. net.
- BOTTISHAM AND ANGLESEY PRIORY. History and Antiquities. By E. HAILSTONE. With 7 Plates. 1873—1888. 8vo. 13s.
- HORNINGSEY. History. By W. K. CLAY. 1865. 8vo. 2s. 6d. net.
- LANDBEACH. History. By W. K. CLAY. With 1 Plate. 1861. 8vo. 4s. 6d. net.
- MILTON. History. By W. K. CLAY. 1869. 8vo. 3s. net.
- WATERBEACH. History. By W. K. CLAY. With 3 Plates. 1859. 8vo. 5s. net.

LF
114
M3

THE LIBRARY
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA
Santa Barbara

STACK COLLECTION

THIS BOOK IS DUE ON THE LAST DATE STAMPED BELOW.

UC SOUTHERN REGIONAL LIBRARY FACILITY

AA 000 053 560 9

